had found $2,000 and turned it over to their employer.

He was willing to give the $2,000 to anyone who produced a $20 bill with a serial number corresponding to the one he had in his possession, the women said.

Mrs. Foster was persuaded to withdraw the money in $20 bills from the bank and turn it over to the women who disappeared, police said.

Mrs. Foster told the AFRO the money represented her husband's life savings. Her husband, Richard Foster has been employed in the Sparrows Point steel mill 34 years.

He answered briefly, "That is not my concern" when asked how he felt about the loss of the life savings.

DUNDALK POLICE reports said Mrs. Foster met two women, whom she did not know, in a five and ten cent store in Dundalk when they claimed they worked for the Internal Revenue Service and found a bag containing $2,000.

They told her if she had a $20 bill with the serial number on it, that matched the one held by their boss, she would get the $2,000, police said.

Mrs. Foster agreed, saying she would have to go home and get her bank book and took them home with her, police said.

At her home, one of the women said, "Give me the money you have in the house," and Mrs. Foster turned over $800 before going to her bank, it was reported.

At the bank, Mrs. Foster did not take the manager's advice to either take a check or come back for the money the next day, police said.

The bank manager told police the matron was given the $8,000 in four packs of $2,000 each in $20 bills.

He said he put the money in a bag for her, and she left with another woman.

POLICE SAID the second woman waited outside while Mrs. Foster withdrew the money and both drove away together in a taxicab after directing Mrs. Foster to wait on the second floor of the Internal Revenue Office for a man in a blue suit, who never came.

Police said Mrs. Foster described one of the women as being about 23 - 25 years old, five feet, six inches tall, 135-140 pounds with short, dark hair and medium brown skin. This woman reportedly wore a blue jacket, pink blouse, brown skirt and white scarf.

The other woman was described as being 35-40 years old, five feet, two inches tall, and 150 pounds, police said.

She wore her black hair in a roll, was brownskinned and wore a heavy, long, yellow coat, blue hat and had a bad cough, police said.

Looby's home hit by bomb

NASHVILLE, Tenn. — The home of Z. Alexander Looby, Nashville civil rights attorney and former City Council member was partly wrecked early Tuesday morning by a bomb blast which completely destroyed one side of an adjacent home, also owned by Mr. Looby.

The blast, which was heard five miles away, also shattered all of the windows in the Meharry cafeteria, located across the street from the Looby home, as well as those of a men's dormitory approximately 30 feet away.

There were no injuries, although Mr. Looby, who has been ill for sometime, had to be assisted from his home.

POLICE CHIEF Douglas Hosse said the explosive apparently was thrown at the window of the dining room but missed it by a few feet.

"If it had hit the window, it would have affected everybody in the neighborhood," Hosse said. "They meant to blow this up. We're looking for a killer."

Looby has helped defend scores of college students in the recent series of sit-ins lunch room demonstrations here.

The explosion rocked the college neighborhood where Looby lives. Several windows were shattered at Meharry Medical College across the street, and buildings were shaken at nearby Fisk University. Houses on either side of the Looby home were damaged.

Looby, 66, a life member of the NAACP, has been a member of City Council for several years. He said the explosion would not intimidate or cause him to withdraw as a lawyer for the college students arrested in sitdown demonstrations.

"It won't have any effect on my activities so far as defending them is concerned," Looby said. His wife agreed.

"As long as he is able I want him to continue," Mrs. Looby said. "That's his life."

The explosion blew out windows of the Looby home, tore a chunk out of a corner of the brick-veneer structure, loosened bricks and tilted porch pillars.

Chief Hosse assigned a demolition expert to the investigation and police started sifting through the debris piece by piece for clues.

ON MONDAY Mr. Looby was successful in obtaining the release of a white University of Minnesota student on a charge of reckless driving after the student had been arrested by Nashville police.

Through Mr. Looby's efforts, charges against the student were reduced from reckless driving to driving through a red light.

The student was one of a group of his white and two foreign exchange students from the University of Minnesota who arrived in Nashville in a "Motorcade for Civil Rights" on Saturday.

self and my entire staff. I say that they are lies."

Judge Bryan made no comment and Williams then said, "I stand on my statement," and proceeded with his summation.

ROBESON'S TURN came on Wednesday. In his summation he said Congressman Powell was a perjurer who "contrived, fabricated and concocted, to save his own skin and cheated millions of other Americans who paid their taxes honestly when he dropped on his income tax return.

At one point Robeson said "He lied to you and he lied to the Government."

"I say when he filed a tax return for himself and wife showing a $900 tax due on a gross income of almost $70,000, it was false and fraudulent."

If convicted Congressman Powell could draw up to five years' imprisonment.

In his instructions to the jury Judge Bryan directed the jurors to accept many of the deductions which Mr. Powell claimed in the disputed return.

The judge added also:

"The fact is, Mr. Powell's gross income was overstated rather than understated."

3 children abandoned in DPW

Warren Jr., Russell and Gail are abandoned children.

On April 1, they were left by an unidentified woman thought to be their mother in the waiting room of the Department of Public Welfare.

The three, bright-eyed and lively youngsters have presented a puzzle to Welfare workers.

Since the day they were left, the only information concerning themselves and their parents they have been able to give is their names, their mother's first name and their father's name.

Welfare workers came to the conclusion Warren, the oldest child, whispered, "My name is Warren Lathan Jr.," when asked his name.

WHEN ASKED about their parents, Warren whispered, "Mommy is Arlene. Daddy is Fatty."

Neither of the children knows where his family lives.

Spokesman of the group, Warren, says he is five years old, Russell is four and Gail is three.

According to Mrs. Maude Williams, a welfare supervisor, the children have been placed in a foster home since April 4.

Mrs. Williams said the children had been left alone in the waiting room some time before anyone noticed they had been abandoned.

"IN THE waiting room, each person who wants to be waited on takes a number, and holds it until his number is called. This is why none of the receptionists remembers what she looks like or knows her name," Mrs. Williams added.

Other persons in the waiting room reported the children were playing and no adult was with them.

The mother will be charged with abandonment when and if she is found.

colored swimmers. He is also a member of a colored citizens' group asking the desegregation of the public beach.

In Savannah, Ga., police charged Mrs. Mamie Hamilton Bryant, white, with assaulting Benjamin B. White when he sat at a lunch counter. Police also arrested White and charged him with disorderly conduct.

Fifteen white students from the University of Michigan were arrested for distributing leaflets while picketing in sympathy with the sitdown movement. Fifty students have been picketing downtown for the past month.

IN BATON ROUGE, La., 16 students from Southern University face trial next Wednesday on charges of disturbing the peace. They were arrested while staging a sitdown at a local lunch counter. Nine of the 16 stayed in jail rather than post $1,500 bond. Local observers said this bond was very high for this type of case.

IN RALEIGH, N. C., an all-white, all-male jury found two Shaw University students guilty of trespassing in connection with a sitdown staged at McLellan's variety store down town. They were James Fox, Washington, and Albert Sampson, Everett, Mass.

Superior Court Judge Jack Hooks of Smithfield postponed sentencing. These cases, like the cases of 41 others, were on appeal from city court. Four of the 41 students were arrested in front of Woolworths store in the Cameron Village shopping center.

George Greene, attorney for the 41 students, said the four cases are being tried separately. If convicted, he said, "we will run the gamut of appeals all the way to the Supreme Court." He said the other 37 cases would be held until disposition of this four.

IN NEW YORK, former President Harry S. Truman said he was misquoted as having said he "wouldn't be surprised" if communists were connected with the sitdowns. Two news reporters, however, said they had a tape recording of his remark.

In Chapel Hill, N.C., the Student Committee for Racial Equality said that instead of picketing, it would pass out leaflets urging the end of segregation. Mrs. Marian Davis is spokesman for the biracial group.

In Little Rock, Ark., Mrs. L. C. Bates, state NAACP president, said that picketing against segregated eating facilities will continue. She introduced a new term for picketing, however, she calls it "placard walking."

IN PETERSBURG, Va., picketing continued as college students and local citizens picketed Woolworths store. The sitdown movement here was first in the form of a public library sitdown; this was the first demonstration against a store.

In New York, the Church Committee on Woolworth Policies, in cooperation with CORE, picketed the store at Fifth Ave. and 39th St. The demonstration was in cooperation with the Congress of Racial Equality. On the picket line and handing out leaflets were colored and white ministers.

In Miami, Fla. colored citizens postponed a boycott ultimatum they had issued. The Committee on Human Dignity decided to await promised action by the City Commission.

In New Orleans, Dr. Raymond B. Floyd of Xavier University headed up the Consumer League staged a march protesting unfair hiring policies by local merchants.

IN SOUTH HADLEY, Mass., female students at Mount Holyoke College collected more than $700 for the defense of students arrested or suspended from school in connection with sitdowns.

In Fredericksburg, Va., colored citizens signed a resolution supporting and encouraging "those who have been and are seeking to secure their constitutional rights through peaceful and dignified demonstrations." The resolution also pledged support to the NAACP and vowed a local attack on segregation.

In Brooklyn, N.Y., the Rev. R. G. Williams will speak for a rally raising funds for student demonstrators. One of the leaders of the Petersburg, Va., movement, he will speak at Bethlehem Baptist Church, 327 Powell St.

and Robert N. C. Nix of Pennsylvania.

Reps. Adam Clayton Powell of New York, who is on trial in New York City, and Charles C. Diggs of Michigan were absent.

Following the House action, the bill was sent to the White House where the President is expected to sign it within the next 10 days.

AS FINALLY passed, the major provisions of the bill are as follows:

1. Makes it a Federal offense to use threats to impede the enforcement of any Federal court orders for school desegregation, including those issued in labor disputes.

2. Makes it a Federal crime to cross state lines to avoid prosecution for damaging or attempting to damage by fire or explosion any building or structure.

This section also makes it a Federal crime to aid or abet the interstate movement of explosives for use in illegal bombing and authorizes penalties up to death if the bombing has fatal results.

3. REQUIRES STATE and local election officials to preserve for 22 months all election records, and to make the documents available to the Attorney General.

4. Authorizes members of the U.S. Civil Rights Commission to administer oaths and take statements from witnesses under affirmation.

5. Authorizes the U.S. Commissioner of Education to provide for the education of children of members of the armed forces who live off base as well as on base in areas where schools are closed to avoid desegregation.

6. Provides for the appointment of Federal voting referees by U.S. District courts in areas where persons are denied the right to register and vote on a basis of race and color.

TWO OTHER Universities now seeking presidents are Hampton Institute and Lincoln University, Pa.

The presidency of Lincoln has been vacant since the resignation of Horace Mann Bond two years ago, and Hampton presidence has been vacant since the resignation of Dr. Alonzo Moron last year.

A third college presidency will be vacant in June when Dr. Samuel D. Proctor of Virginia Union University, a private school, resigns to accept the presidency of A. and T. College.

Howard, 93 years old, has had 24 presidents and acting presidents. The average length of stay has been four years.

Lincoln, 107 years old, has had six presidents with an average stay of 17 years.

Hampton has had eight presidents in its 92 years with an average stay of 11 years.

'Consider appointment an honor,' says new Pratt Library director

Special to the AFRO

LONG BEACH, Calif. — "I look forward eagerly to service in the great Enoch Pratt Library and consider the appointment an honor.

"I hope to work for continuing excellent library service to all citizens of Baltimore."

Edwin Castagna, newly appointed director of Baltimore's Enoch Pratt Library, was speaking to the AFRO on Friday.

Mr. Castagna was named last week to succeed the late Arthur H. Parsons Jr.

Robert Ake is acting director until July 1 when Mr. Castagna takes over his new duties.

AT PRESENT, Mr. Castagna (pronounced Cass - tog - gna), heads the library system of Long Branch, which is a suburb of Los Angeles.

Pratt's new library director is 51-year-old, and a native of Petaluma, Calif. He holds a B.A. degree from the University of California, class of 1935, and a certificate in librarianship issued in 1936 from the same university.

He has taken public administration courses at the University of Nevada and public personnel administration at Glendale College, Glendale, Calif.

BEFORE HEADING the Long Beach library system, Mr. Castagna served as librarian in charge or assistant at the Alameda County Library, Oakland, Calif., Ukiah, Calif., Washoe County Library in Reno, Nev., and at Glendale, Calif.

Here in Long beach, where he has headed the city library system for the past ten years, Mr. Castagna reorganized the city library system, supervised construction of six new branches and formulated plans for a proposed new main library building.

During World War II, Mr. Castagna was commander of the 771st Tank Battalion which saw service in Europe. He is the author of two brooks, "The History of the 771st Tank Battalion," and "Nevada State Library Law."

CITY'S NEW LIBRARIAN — Edwin Castagna, Long Beach, Calif. librarian, who has been named to head Baltimore's Enoch Pratt Public Library. In the accompanying story, he tells AFRO readers what he thinks of his new appointment.

Five injured in traffic accidents

Five persons were injured in separate traffic accidents last Saturday.

Three were injured when an automobile and a taxicab collided at Baker and Gilmor Sts.

They were Joseph Singleton, 27, of 3121 Chelsea Ter.; Miss Ada Moody, 27, of 228 N. Hilton St.; and Elverson Jackson, 36, of 2518 McCollum St.

The injured were taken to Provident Hospital where Mr. Singleton was treated for a back injury and Miss Moody for an injury of the left side. Mr. Jackson, operator of the second car suffered a hand injury.

Mr. Singleton and Miss Moody were passengers in a cab driven by Chester Weis, 46, of 12 Cross Rd. Mr. Weis, who was charged with failure to obey a stop sign, was not injured.

In a second accident 30 minutes later at Fremont Ave. and Lemmon St., Herbert S. Hines, 49, of 1031 N. Mount St., and Miss Juanita Sherrelle, 31, of 652 Smithson St., suffered back injuries when the Hines car crashed into a pole. They were taken to University Hospital.

'Easter Monday' caper traps Park Police

The annual "Easter Monday" demonstration staged by teenagers in Druid Hill Park caught authorities off base this week.

Instead of showing up on Monday, the youngsters converged on the park 4,000 strong on Tuesday.

Their delayed appearance caught an undermanned Park Police force flat - footed. Only two officers were on duty when reinforcements were summoned.

On Monday 36 officers and four K-9 dogs were on hand to handle the usually unruly crowd.

Cool weather from an early morning rain held attendance to a minimum however.

ACCORDING TO Dr. Arthur Watson, director of the Druid Hill Park Zoo, the crowd was just "A little unruly."

Only one arrest was made although two youths reported that they were attacked by a group of boys.

Larry W. Bass 18, of the 800 block Chauncey Ave., was arrested by Park Patrolman Charles Nicholas and was charged with carrying a deadly weapon.

In Northern District Police Court later Monday, Bass was released on $500 bail for a further hearing.

On Wednesday the youth pleaded guilty to charges of carrying a straight razor and was fined $25 and costs by Magistrate Milton Saul.

Trash schedules will be changed on Monday

A change in city trash collection schedules, effective in northeastern section of the city Monday, April 25, has been announced by Joseph H. McCarthy, Sanitary Engineer.

The change in collection schedules, according to Mr. McCarthy, is the result of an intensive departmental survey and is being made in an effort to provide better service and reduce operating costs.

It is estimated that the rescheduling of collection services in the entire city will be completed within six months.

As in the past, collection services will be supplied twice weekly to all sections of the city. Present routes, established in 1948 when mixed collections of trash and garbage were inaugurated, provide services on a Monday, Thursday, Tuesday, Friday and Wednesday, Saturday basis.

Under the new schedules, some areas formerly collected on Mondays and Thursday will be services on Tuesdays and Fridays and Wednesdays and Saturdays.

Householders affected by the change will receive notice in advance.

Suspect held in eastside slaying

Leo Counts Jr., 24, of the 900 block N. Durham St., was arraigned on a homicide charge Wednesday in Central Police Court.

Counts, who is charged with the shooting of Levi Davis, 29, of the 1700 block Orleans St., was ordered held without bail by Magistrate Ben Weintraub pending a further hearing.

The shooting occured shortly after 2 a.m. on Tuesday in the 700 block of N. Caroline St.

Eastern District Police reported that Davis was shot in the head with a .38 caliber revolver.

Davis was released from the Maryland House of Correction on January 18 after serving all but one year of a five year sentence for assault and robbery by yoking.

He is survived by his mother, Mrs. Martha Hart and a brother, Robert, both of Richmond.

Mother of two fined $500

A 31 - year-old mother of two children was fined $500 and costs Tuesday in Criminal Court by Judge Joseph Cullen after being convicted on a lottery charge.

Mrs. Mary Matthew of the 700 block N. Brice St., appearing in court without an attorney, pleaded guilty to taking numbers in her home, where she was arrested on March 5.

She testified she was the mother of two children, one 11 years old, the other 9. She is the wife of William Matthews, an employee at Woodstock College, Woodstock, Md.

POLITICS:

May 17 vote necessary

By MAX JOHNSON

The names of 85,000 citizens will be removed from the records of Baltimore's Supervisors of Elections as registered voters — if they fail to vote in the May 17 primary.

These are the persons who have not made clear to the Board of Supervisors of Elections — either during the January city - wide registration check or afterwards — whether they are still living, still reside at the same address or have moved.

There were 113,000 such persons after the January check by election judges.

The 85,000 names will be on supplemental lists at the proper polling places in accordance with their addresses.

WHEN ONE of these persons appears to vote, he must furnish satisfactory proof that he still resides at the recorded address.

If he has moved out of the precinct, but still within the city, he will be given a change of address card and permitted to vote.

If he does not show up at his recorded polling place to vote in the May 17 primary, he will be assumed to be either dead or moved from the city — and his name stricken from the registration records.

This means that such a person failing to vote in this May 17 primary — even though he may reside at the same address or has moved elsewhere in Baltimore — must register again to become eligible to vote.

And he must register again between May 28 and Sept. 26 to be eligible to vote in the Nov. 8 general election.

THE JANUARY city - wide registration check was the first in Baltimore since 1956.

E. Paul Mason Jr., chief clerk, Supervisors of Elections, said the 85,000 names yet to be confirmed will delay an accurate accounting of Baltimore's eligible voters until after the May 17 primary.

So — a big strong reminder: Just to be certain your name is not among those persons likely to be disfranchised May 18 — come out with your big strong vote May 17.

Art on display

A major showing of the works of sculptor Jacques Lipchitz will be the feature exhibition at the Baltimore Museum beginning Tuesday, April 26.

The full range of the American sculptor's career will be displayed by 42 representative works dating from 1913 to 1959.
