ON The Eastside

By CHARLOTTE W. DOWNIE

The parents' auxiliary of the East Baltimore Kadet Unit 18-32 will present 'Fashions just for you,' on Sunday, Oct. 2.

Featured as guest models will be the Jay Dee Sweethearts of Fashions and Escorts of Philadelphia.

Scene of this benefit will be the Lafayette Courts Auditorium, located at 201 Aisquith St.

Officers and members working like mad to make it a success include: Mrs. Gladys Duncan, president, Mrs. Pauline Towns, secretary; Mesdames Gladys Duncan, Margaret Hardy, Lorena Lashley, Connie Blackwell, Louise Huff, Mildred Berry and Lucille Jeffers.

Mesdames Maybelle Richardson, Mattie Wilder, Elsie Harelson, Ida Pettaway, Alice Rose, Margret Johnson, Lula Harper, Alice Knight and Alma Hopkins.

Clyde Jeffers, Alexander Bostick, George Wilson and Samuel Madison.

HAPPY BIRTHDAY to Anderson Jones of 419 E. Lafayette Ave.

Those livewire members of the Royal Moonbeams Social and Savings Club, held their first meeting of the fall season last week.

The club met at the lovely home of member, Dorothy Boulware of 2736 E. Chase St.

The girls all made the evening an enjoyable one by telling of their experiences during vacations this summer. Dorothy served a 'boss' repast featuring seafood specials.

Having a good time were: Viola Jones, president; I d a Petty, recording secretary; Bertha Weels, financial secretary; Sarah Scott, treasurer; Elsie Knight, corresponding secretary, and Marie Smallwood, business manager.

Neighbors, these civic minded young women aid many charities during the year.

MAKE THIS a must on your list neighbors — to attend the extravaganza to be presented by the Myra Grand Chapter and subordinates OES-PHA.

The presentation will be held in the auditorium of School 130, Lafayette and McCulloh, Friday, Sept. 30 at 8:30 p.m.

Mrs. Lillie Butler, directress; Mrs. Margaret Dyer, coordinator; Mrs. Olivia Bates, grand worthy matron, and Thomas Cooper, grand worthy patron.

See ya there.

THE MEN'S Chorus of Zion Baptist Church celebrated their anniversary last Sunday. Joining them to help make it a memorable occasion were over 15 choirs and choruses from in and around the city. Master of ceremonies was Henry Solomon. Much credit went to program chairman, Roger Edmonds.

David Burgess is the dynamic president of the Men's Chorus of Zion. Among those participating on the program were: Mrs. Yvonne Sollomon, Clarence Cummings and Bruce Stills.

Closing remarks were by the pastor, the Rev. Moses Williams.

• • •

NOW HEAR THIS . . . the Gospel Chorus of Zion Baptist Church will celebrate another anniversary this Sept. 26 at 8 p.m.

Officers of the Gospel Chorus are Mrs. Eleanor Foster, president; Mrs. Annie Trafton, vice president; Woolridge Moore, secretary, and Mrs. Nannie Evans, chaplain. The Rev. Moses Williams is pastor.

This is the last appeal, neighbor. If you have not registered so that you can vote in November, do it today. Monday Sept. 26 is the dead line. Check details in this issue of your AFRO, or call LA. 3-8503 or just go to the office of the Supervisors of Elections and register.

If you need transportation call the office of the NAACP, LA. 3-8503 . . . Remember, do it at once.

Another must, neighbors . . . Now is the time to join your NAACP.

The annual membership drive has begun. Workers are needed. It will be good to have your club take out a member. Help (all members). Do it, neighbor, you need the NAACP and the NAACP needs your support. Join Today. Dr. Lillie M. Jackson is president. Phillip Savage is campaign director.

OUR GOOD NEIGHBOR of the week is handsome Lawrence Milton Parker, 2608 E. Beryle St.

Lawrence is the 20 - year - old son of Mrs. Lucille Parker. He has four brothers, Henry, George, Donald and Sheldon, and two sisters, Delores and Sharon.

Our Good Neighbor and his family are active members of Fountain Baptist Church, the Rev. Dennis Barrow, pastor.

He is a graduate of Dunbar Junior - Senior High School. While a student at Dunbar he was president of the Drama-tic Club, school band, the choir and a member of the Hi-Y Club.

He is now a junior at Morgan State College and is majoring in biology (pre-medical). Among the many organizations that he participates in at Morgan are the Civic Interest Group and the Biology Club, of which he is president.

• • •

LAWRENCE IS also a member of the federation of presidents, assistant dean of pledgees of Alpha Iota Chapter of Kappa Alpha Psi Fraternity and during the summer he worked in the NAACP Register and Vote Campaign with other students.

Our Good Neighbor plans to attend Indiana University Medical School for post graduate work upon graduating from Morgan.

His hobbies include collecting records, playing chess and playing musical instruments (which he does excellently).

At present he is helping with the membership campaign of the NAACP.

"Quickie" Spaghetti Dinner
Tossed Green Salad
Frozen Berries with Cream
Oatmeal Cookies
Coffee • Tea • Milk

You're going to love me for this quick, quick way to do spaghetti. And your family is going to love you for serving it. One big secret of its success: It's made with Mueller's Spaghetti or Thin Spaghetti. Mueller's, remember, is made from a blend — not just one kind of wheat, but two. Semolina plus easy-to-digest farina. That brings to your table the most tender, most flavorsome spaghetti ever!

QUICKIE SPAGHETTI SAUCE

1-8 oz. pkg. Mueller's Spaghetti or Thin Spaghetti
1. to 2 cups leftover beef or veal, lemon juice, chopped parsley, onion, seasoning to taste
1 can tomato soup (condensed)
Grated Parmesan or Cheddar cheese

Prepare sauce while spaghetti is cooking. Cook spaghetti according to package directions. Chop leftover meat, add to soup, heat, season to taste, pour on the well-drained spaghetti and serve with grated cheese. Use freshly ground hamburger if you have no leftovers. But brown the meat before adding it to the soup. Great meal for 4.

P.S. Don't think you'll get the same mouth-watering results with just any spaghetti. It must be Mueller's. Always "Tops for Taste" and so digestible, too. Tonight, win praise with a Mueller spaghetti dinner!

John Wesley women report shows $1,400

By FELICIA ADAMS

Happy were the ladies of the John Wesley Methodist Church on Sunday when some $1,400 was raised during their annual Women's Day.

Among participants were the Rev. Mrs. Laura Edwards and her choir from Halls church.

In the afternoon, Mrs. Royten Nicholson of Washington, was speaker.

Her Youth Gospel Choir of the Union Wesley AME Zion Church of Washington sang. There was a special solo by Miss Lillian Wimbish of Washington.

• • •

MRS. HELEN BROWN, principal of the Pumphrey Elementary School, responded to the welcome. Mrs. M. Richard Farring brought greetings from the Brooklyn Methodist Church.

Other churches represented were St. Johns, Hall, Magothy, Metropolitan, Andover and St. Marks. Mrs. Lola Hines is WSCS president. The Rev. S. J. Mack is pastor.

The choir and the pastor of the Metropolitan Church cited the Hopkins Methodist Church in Highland on Sunday. The Rev. James E. Adams was guest speaker.

The WSCS of the church sponsored the Homecoming program. The Rev. L. S. Davis is pastor and Mrs. Wilson is WSCS president.

The James E. Adams chorus will be featured in a recital at the St. Marks Methodist Church, Sunday, Sept. 25 at 6 p.m. The Rev. W. C. Scarborough is pastor.

The women of Magothy Methodist Church will have their annual Woman's Day Sunday, Sept. 25. The Rev. Lester Dyson is pastor.

• • •

THE MINISTERS, Ministers Wives, Local Preachers and lay leaders will meet Saturday, Sept. 24 at Mt. Zion Methodist Church, Magothy, at 11 a.m.

The Rev. and Mrs. Lester Dyson will host the session.

Mrs. Irene Johnson and Mrs. WSCS Workshop held recently at the Eastport Methodist Church in Annapolis. Mrs. Thelma Carter is district president and the Rev. Davis is pastor.

Thought for Today — There is still need for those Christians who can pray in public.

After 78 schools, he will build a house, says Mr. Lehr

After 28 years in the Baltimore school system, William E. Lehr (pronounced Layher), 63, who has directed the building of 78 public schools in the city, announces he will build himself a house when he retires.

Mr. Lehr's retirement will become effective Jan. 1, 1961, and he also plans to do some more traveling about the world.

Since 1955 when he became assistant superintendent, new schools, additions and other improvements have totaled $113,300,000.

These included 33 new elementary schools, eight secondary schools, 21 additions to elementary schools and 16 additions to secondary schools.

In addition, two new elementary schools are under construction, plans have been made for four new junior high schools and additions will be made to three elementary schools and two junior high schools.

• • •

NOW, MR. LEHR says, "I'm going to build myself a house."

Mr. Lehr and his wife, Mrs. Elmyra Lehr, live at 328 Broadnor Rd. Their new home will be in Delaney Valley.

They have been married 35 years.

Widely traveled, Mr. and Mrs. Lehr have been to Norway, Sweden, Denmark, Finland, Gemany, France Switzerland, Austria, Spain, Portugal, Italy, all of the United States, some of Mexico and most of the islands in the Pacific Ocean.

"I have hopes of returning to some of them," Mr. Lehr says. "I want to go to the Scandinavian countries again, Vienna, Austria, Rome and the Hawaiian Islands.

"This time, I want to go further, too — I'd like to take a trip around the world on a freighter. I've heard that's nice," he adds.

Mr. Lehr began his career in 1922 as a teacher at Edison Vocational School, then at Howard and Center Sts.

He later became special assistant at Garrison Junior High School No. 42, then principal at Hampden Elementary School No. 55.

Before going into the service, Mr. Lehr served for a short time in the central office as a special assistant.

He was honorably discharged from World War II, after he attained the rank of commander in the Navy.

When he returned to the Department of Education, he was associated with the business division as an administrative assistant.

He was also director of school facilities before his appointment as an assistant superintendent.

• • •

THE LATEST elementary school to be completed under his direction, was the Thomas G. Hayes Elementary School No. 106, at Monument St. and Central Ave.

That school opened Sept. 6 and will accommodate 1,100 pupils.

Other elementary schools under construction are the Franklin Square Elementary School No. 95, at Lexington and Stricker Sts., and the Bentalou Elementary School No. 156, at Bentalou and Saratoga Sts.

Junior high schools include Lombard Junior High School No. 82, at Lombard and Caroline Sts.; Calverton Junior High No. 75, at Lafayette and Whitmore Aves.;

Herring Run Junior High No. 77, at 5001 Sinclair Lane and Harlem Park Junior High No. 78, at Harlem Ave. and Gilmor St.

Additions will be made to Irvington Elementary School No. 21, at Old Frederick Rd. and Loudon Ave.; Cherry Hill Elementary No. 159, at 801 Bridgeview Rd.; and Cross Country Elementary No. 247, at Cross County Blvd. and Tansey Rd.

Additions and alterations will be made at Francis Scott Key Junior High School No. 76, at Fort Ave. and Decatur St. Fairmount Hill Junior High No. 453, at Fairmount Ave. and Ann St.

School health program changes to meet the need

By SHELIA SHIELDS

With enrollment in Baltimore's public and parochial schools soaring to an all-time high, health services in the schools have been altered to meet the needs of the growing school population.

The schools' health program is a coordinated service M the Department of Education and the Baltimore City Health Department.

A total of 43 city nurses, stationed in the various health district centers spend about 70 per cent of their time in the school health program.

No nurse is stationed full time in any school.

Prior to 1952, city nurses were used in the school system.

From 1952 to Jan. 1, 1960, the Department of Education employed its own nurses and scheduled them to be in different schools certain days of the week.

Jan. 1 of this year, the Department of Education once again began to use City nurses in their school health program, in an effort to decrease their budget.

Nurses formerly with the Department of Education were transferred to the Health Department with no change in status.

• • •

DR. DALE E. HARRO, director of nurses in the City Health Department, says school nurses will do - emphasize their role in administering first aid and concentrate on three major areas in the school health program in order to reach more pupils.

The three major areas for which school nurses and doctors are responsible, are outlined by Dr. Harro, are:

1. Control of communicable diseases.

2. Finding pupils with handicaps.

3. Providing health education.

"Keeping one child from catching another's disease is important," Dr. Harro said.

He added that a nurse's duty is to encourage parents to keep children home if they have communicable diseases — even a severe cold.

The second fact, finding pupils with handicaps, is necessary to help the school carry on its educational program more effectively, Dr. Harro said.

In elementary schools, nurses give routine visual, auditory and physical screening and advise teachers and parents whether or not a child is seeing or hearing as well as he should, he explained.

• • •

OUT OF 15,484 examinations in public and parochial schools last year, 1,283 abnormalities were found among elementary and high school pupils.

According to Health Department statistics, 550 of those pupils were advised tohave further eye tests as a result of physical screening done in schools.

Children whose parents cannot afford eye treatment are sent to Eastern Health District Center at Caroline and Monument Sts., or Western Health District Center, 700 block W. Lombard St.

Pupils are sometimes found to suffer from diseases or physical handicaps which prevent them from attending school in normal circumstances.

These are usually referred to schools where special provisions can be made for each pupil.

For those children who may have physical and emotional handicaps, the coordinated services between the schools, two local hospitals and the City Health Department have facilities to make total evaluations, Dr. Harro said.

Doctors at Johns Hopkins and Union Hospitals cooperate with a "Central Evaluation Clinic," and the parents who are available for a school conference can not afford medical help for their children.

Parents may apply for this service through the school nurse. They feel their children have handicaps which need attention.

At Central Evaluation Clinics, held at each of the two hospitals, children are given thorough physical and mental examinations, and their findings are reported to the parent and the school.

• • •

WHILE IT SHOULD be taken for granted children learn good health habits at school, the Department of Education depend upon this, so the school nurse does her bit to help.

In elementary and high schools, school nurses act as health counselors and direct programs aimed at teaching pupils good health habits.

These areas are of so much attention in schools that the nurse, who has other duties outside the school, cannot take her valuable time to administer first aid, except in emergencies, Dr. Harro said.

Many times, a parent will leave a wound undressed or put off medical attention for the child feeling that the "nurse in school will take care of it," he said.

With the rising school population, tax dollars will have to be stretched even further to give each pupil the maximum benefit.

At this point, officials in the school health program are trying to develop a system to help them find the greatest number of pupils with handicaps with the least amount of money, Dr. Harro says.

In most schools, parents depate their services to help nurses screen pupils in search of handicaps.

Dr. Harro says the success of a school health program depends upon the combined efforts of the parent, teacher, nurse, principal and pupil.

Mrs. Ada Veney is supervisor of nurses who participate in the school health program.

Morgan alumni to sponsor tea

The Morgan State College Alumni Association will hold a tea for graduates and former students of the college on Thursday, Oct. 13, during the Maryland State Teachers Association convention.

A special program and get-together will be held in the Student Activities Building, Cold Spring La., near Hillen Rd., from 5 to 9 p.m.

All graduates and former students of Morgan State College, who plan to attend the tea, are requested to contact Alumni Office, Morgan State College, Baltimore 12, by Sept. 30.

Jewish New Year

Members of the Jewish community will observe Rosh Hashanah this week.

This high holiday, which ushers in the year 5721, begins Wednesday, Sept. 21 at 6:45 p.m. and continues through on Thursday, Sept. 22, which is Rosh Hashanah, and Friday, Sept. 23.

Robert Treat adds three to faculty

NEWARK

Robert Treat Junior High School has ohree new teachers this year.

Pellegrine J. Ringi is not a new teacher in the sense that he has never taught before. Actually, Mr. Ringi has been teaching for 17 years, the last 3 of which has been spent at Cleveland, 18th Avenue, and Ann Street Schools.

Mr. Ringi is a physical education teacher. He lives in Bloomfield, New Jersey, is married, and has 5 children of his own. Mr. Ringi received a BS degree from Panzer College in 1944. During the last few summers he has worked with the recreation department in Newark.

Carver greets new pupils

New pupils at Carver Vocational - Technical High School were greeted in an assembly after the beginning of school and given an explanation of the educational program they will follow in the next four years.

Dr. Saul M. Perdue, principal, discussed his views on good citizenship and Miss Carrie Johnson, a vice principal, told how to have a successful semester.

Benjamin Whitten, also a vice principal, told why it is important to participate in extra-curricular activities and Miss Berry, a counselor, told how counselors help pupils.

THE FOLLOWING PUPILS gave resumes on extra-curricular activities:

Miss Phyllis McNair, president of Student Council; Miss Mary DeShields, captain of the cheerleaders; Miss Gloria Thomas, representing Future Business Leaders of America; Miss Phyllis Hendricks, representing Les Petite Dames and Mixed Choir; David Woods, Safety Patrol; Robert Chase; football team; Barbara Merritt, cheering squad.

In addition to new pupils, six teachers have been added to the faculty at Carver. They are:

Miss Anita McCalley, social studies; Mrs. Margaret Peterson, English; Edward Thomas, shop repairing;

Mrs. Flonnie Taylor, librarian; Mrs. Elizabeth Dyer, business education and Mrs. Margaret Washington, shop assistant in cosmetology.

Fashion show to be at Morgan
