Plans are shaping up for the fourth annual Maryland Debutante Ball which will be held November 26 at the Continental Hotel in Washington, D.C.

Twenty - four high school seniors from Maryland communities and the District will become debs this year, and will be readied in a Charm School, which will have its program centered around the theme "Broader Concepts of Space Age Living."

The charm school program, to be held in Washington, is under the direction of Mrs. Clarice Davis, director of the Voguette Models in Washington, D.C.

Mrs. Davis is a professional model herself and has appeared throughout the Eastern Seaboard.

* * *

SHE HAS trained winners for "Miss Capital Classic" and "Miss Shriner" and has conducted a number of Charm Clinics in and around Washington. She will instruct during the first two sessions of the Charm School on October 15 and 22, giving the basic rudiments of the short training course at the YWCA Annex.

An interesting feature of the session to be conducted on Howard University campus on November 13, will be the appearance of Mrs. Rendella Lucas of Philadelphia, president of the National Baptist Ministers' Wives, who will be the main speaker. Other foreign personalities will also participate on the program.

The program will be in Baldwin Hall from 1 to 5 p.m. through the courtesy of the staff of the dean of women.

The sessions on November 13 and 19 will be under the direction of Antonio Teixeira of Boston, a recreational director of Washington, and dance instructor for private clubs, who will give instruction specifically for the ball. This will be held at the YMCA.

THE MARYLAND Debutante Ball is sponsored by Dr. and Mrs. Henry Wise Jr., of Lanham, Md. They feel that this project will aid in the development and stimulation of the cultural aspects of life for enrichment in the lives of the girls.

They also believe that it encourages and promotes the importance of education and aids in the prevention of school drop-outs, especially among young girls of high school age.

The sponsors also had in mind, in taking on such a project, to aid in widening the horizons of the thinking of the girls in the preparation of life. They feel, after they have been exposed to outstanding personalities, the girls will realize their potentialities in an unlimited world of opportunity in many fields of endeavor for which they can prepare themselves.

The program lends itself greatly to girls who live in Maryland areas where such opportunities are lacking of limited.

Mrs. Wise stated that during the past three years, since the birth of this project, 90 per cent of the girls who have participated have gone on to college.

Along with the Charm School training, the girls work toward scholarships for themselves by helping in the sales of tickets for the ball. Last year after expenses were taken out, three scholarships, of $300, $200 and $175 were awarded.

* * *

EACH YEAR Dr. and Mrs. Wise entertain at a reception prior to the Charm School for the debs and their parents, at which time they meet each other and are given the ideas as to what the debutante ball can mean to them.

This year the reception was held at the Hotel Statler Hilton and topped all others. Each girl received a pompom corsage, which matched the beautiful centerpiece of the large table, which was laden with large silver platters of finger sandwiches and hot canapes and coffee served from a lovely silver service.

Also in the center of the room Delicious punch flowed from a fountain. Small tables, placed around the room, made it possible for everyone to get acquainted after being served.

GIRLS TO BE presented this year are as follows:

Misses Lois Sharps, Elaine Randall, Mary Brooks, Marilyn Thompson, Pearl Brown and Constance Mc Clure, all of Annapolis; Misses Alice Lucas, Orton Hill; Shirley Young, Landover;

Also Misses Melissa Young, Glenarden; Velda Toye, Prince Frederick; Joanne Randall, Hyattsville; Denise Clinton, Lanham; Carole Lewis, Huntsville; Patricia Carroll, Glen Burnie; Gwendolyn Smith, Clinton;

Also Misses Sharon Williams, Huntsville; Carolyn Ellis, Glenarden; Joanne Evans, Chapel Oaks; Michele Williams, Chapel Oaks; Nona Greene, Glen Burnie; Gwendolyn Mizell, Chapel Oaks; Evelyn Hall, Glen Burnie; Diana Nix, Shadyside; Darlene Thompson, Shadyside.

Thomas H. Kerr Jr. launches Fine Arts Series at Douglas

By ADAH K. JENKINS

Along with the opening of one of the most stimulating musical seasons Baltimore has seen in years was the first recital of the Fine Arts Series at Douglas Memorial Community Church, with Thomas H. Kerr Jr., as guest organist.

Mr. Kerr, who is on the faculty of the Howard University School of Music, is a highly gifted and capable musician in organ, piano and composition.

His musicianship was displayed at its best on the superb organ which was installed in the church last year.

Always a scholarly performer who takes infinite pains with every detail, at this recital Thomas Kerr displayed additional qualities of warmth and imagination.

* * *

THE LARGE audience was appreciative especially of his compositions — "Concert Variations on a Happy Festal Tune" and an "Offertory" dedicated to the Plymouth Congregational Church, where the organist has presided at the console for a number of years.

It is to be hoped that Mr. Kerr will give another recital here in the near future so that one may have the opportunity of hearing the "Religious Chint" by the African writer, Soyombo, which was omitted Sunday.

Three generations of the Kerr family were present, including the artist's parents, Dr. and Mrs. Thomas Hodgson Kerr and his son, who was page-turner.

* * *

AT THE intermission the Rev. Marion S. Bascom, Sr., pastor of Douglas Memorial, announced the next concert in the series, which will take place Sunday, Oct. 30 at 4 p.m. when St. Luke's Choir of Washington, D.C. will be presented. James S. Hammond, minister of music at Douglas, has arranged the fine arts series.

Among the Washingtonians who attended the recital last Sunday was Dr. Fenderson, son of the late Dr. and Mrs. Fenderson who lived in Baltimore some years ago. He collaborates with Mr. Kerr in writing the lyrics for songs.

An informal reception in the church parlors followed the Sunday recital.

* * *

CALENDAR: Saturday, Oct. 8 at 11 a.m. at the Baltimore Museum of Art, the first concert in the Young Musicians annual series, with the Rodin String Quartet. Tickets at a nominal fee are obtainable at the museum before the concert.

At a recent executive board meeting of YMS the report of last season's activities disclosed that more than 90 concerts had been given, including 36 for underprivileged and public schools and at children's hospitals. This year YMS series will operate in the public schools in close cooperation with the Department of Music of which Emile Serpos is director.

Sunday, Oct. 9 at 5 p.m. at Grace AME Church, Catonsville, Weldon J. Irvine will give a concert on 10 various instruments of the band and orchestra. Bertie Valentine will accompany him at the piano.

Sunday, Oct. 16 at 4 p.m. the world premiere of a concerto for violin, cello, winds and percussion by Leon Kirchner will be played at the Baltimore Museum of Art, under the auspices of the Chamber Music Society of Baltimore, which commissioned the work. Mr. Kirchner will conduct the concert that was written in celebration of the 10th anniversary of the society. Subscriptions for the entire season of four concerts that the Chamber Music Society has planned, may be obtained from the Center.

Music Centre Concerts Bureau, 1123 N. Charles St. Single tickets are available at the Museum just before each concert.

BIG DADDY LIKES KENNEDY — "Kennedy's got courage," says Gene "Big Daddy" Lipscomb, star lineman for the Baltimore Colts. "He takes a stand and he speaks out for sit-in demonstrations — school integration — FEPC and voting rights, some pretty touchy issues in many parts of the country. Kennedy's like FDR — a real leader — Not afraid to tackle tough problems. And that's why I'm voting for Senator John Kennedy for President on a straight Democratic ticket. You should too."
