Mrs. Connie Mapp, teacher, is buried

"She was sunshine all the way."

The Rev. Willard L. Clayton, pastor of Macedonia Baptist church, spoke the above words Thursday at funeral services for Mrs. Consuella (Connie) Bagwell Mapp, a lifelong member of the church.

Mrs. Mapp, a school teacher for 25 years, died suddenly on Monday at Provident Hospital. She was 46.

She was taken ill at her home, 2602 Longwood St. and rushed to Provident where she was admitted at 3:30 a.m. Monday.

She died at 4:55 a.m., an hour and 25 minutes later, of a stroke. She had not complained of being ill previous to Sunday night.

As he addressed the 500 church officials, members, school officials, teachers and members of the deceased woman's family, present for the services, the Rev. Mr. Clayton recalled circumstances of her sudden death.

"I CAN see her yet. I can't get the image out of my mind. She sat there in church Sunday morning, beautifully dressed, a picture in a fall outfit of autumn colors.

"She loved beautiful clothes. She loved the beautiful.

"She had just had communion. I'll always remember it.

"I did not get to shake her hand because her husband had come to take her home in the car.

"And, then, shortly before dawn, Monday morning, I was called. They called me just before daylight to tell me Connie had gone.

"I recall in February this year, her mother was buried from this church and she told me, 'I don't see how I can go on.'

"We worked with Connie and we tried to get it out of her mind.

"But, now she is gone."

* * *

THE MINISTER also recalled that Mrs. Mapp filled out her mother's unexpired term as treasurer of the church Missionary Society.

"She honored her church her family, her school," he said.

Also eulogizing Mrs. Mapp was a member of her school faculty.

She was a teacher at the Fannie L. Barbour Elementary School 161 at the time of her death.

The eulogy termed Mrs. Mapp as "one of God's great teachers" who deserved to "wear a crown," and described her as "a pleasant smile, a gentle presence, one with winning ways."

A resolution from the Ladies Guild lauded her as a "devoted member, a true Christian spirit."

The Missionary Society eulogy praised her for assuming her mother's duties and recalled she took communion a few hours before her death.

FUNERAL SERVICES were scheduled for 12 p.m. but later changed to 1 p.m.

The body lay in state at the church, where from 10 a.m. and until 1 p.m., school teachers, children, church members and friends filed past the body. An estimated 1,000 persons viewed the remains at the funeral home and at the church.

The bronze casket reposed at the foot of the altar surrounded by four dozen floral designs from school associates, her class, her church, neighborhood and friends.

For burial Mrs. Mapp was dressed in beige lace. At her waist was a large purple orchid. Her hair was arranged in a style with bangs, so familiar to those who knew her.

School officials, teachers, school children and parents whose children she taught, were seen weeping.

* * *

"WE TRAVEL with him all the time, and we've been going 11 years now," says the petite housewife.

"We've been to Texas, California, Louisiana, New York, among a few other places.

"Two of our children were born in Maryland, two in Texas and one in New York," she adds.

Louis Jr., 10, their oldest child, was an AFRO Clean Block Captain, while in Baltimore.

"He wanted to know if they had a 'Clean Block,' in Germany," his mother says.

163 persons treated for home mishaps

The District Red Cross Safety Services report that 163 persons were treated in local hospitals during the past week for injuries suffered as a result of accidents in the home.

Family needs help after pop's accident

In the second and third floor apartment of a store front building in the 2200 block Pennsylvania Ave., a father watches, unable to help, while his wife works two days a week as a domestic employee to support the family's five children.

The fater, Alfred Griffin, 42, was injured in a Labor Day accident on the Baltimore - Washington Expressway when a tire of the car he was driving blew out.

He careened into a post and was admitted to University Hospital with a broken jaw bone, broken hip, leg, arm and foot. He also fractured several ribs.

"I was driving about 40 miles an hour when the tire threw. I had to fight to keep it from hitting other cars and I crashed into a pole. That's all I remember," he says.

From that time until Tuesday, Mr. Griffin, a construction worker, was in a cast from his ribs to the tip of his left toe.

* * *

WEDNESDAY, Mr. Griffin lay in his bedroom, watching a television set a friend, Johnny Swinton, had loaned him so he could watch the World Series.

"We used to have a television set," says Mrs. Helen Griffin, "but the day we were supposed to get it out of hock was the day husband had the accident, and we haven't been able to get it yet," she added.

Natives of Virginia (Mrs. Griffin is from Emporia, her husband from Dimwitty), the Griffins have been married 15 years.

Since the accident, Mr. Griffin and his wife say, they have gotten along with the help of friends and a relative.

Mrs. Griffin says her brother has helped them with food for the children, but they are still having difficulty furnishing $11 a week rent, and providing other things the children need.

At present, the family's expenses include food, clothes, shoes for the children and money for rent.

"When I get back on my feet, we will do all right," the father says. "I have never had to ask anybody for anything in my life, but we need help now."

Normally the provider for his family, Mr. Griffin has been forced to let her support the family — and five children with healthy appetites.

Employed at the same construction company 13 years, Mr. Griffin says he did not receive insurance benefits from his job because he was not injured while carrying out his duties.

In their family are boys aged 13, seven and four. The girls are 14 and three.

THE PLIGHT of Mr. Griffin and his family came to the attention of the AFRO when well-meaning neighbors wrote a letter which said:

"We, his neighbors, would help, but we are of very meager means. If you can't find help for them, we will know you would if you could."

Will you help them?

The clothes your children have outgrown can be put to use. The toys your children have out-grown can still make a child happy.

The food you can spare will make it easier for a mother to feed her family, and make recuperating easier for the father who is concerned for his family in a time of stress.

JERSEY JOE JABS FOR JFK—"A president's like a fighter," says former champ Jersey Joe Walcott. "He's got to get into the thick of things and come out swinging. To me, John F. Kennedy's like that. When he and the Democrats say they're going to do something about integration and poll taxes and FEPC, they mean it. That's why I'm for Senator John Kennedy and the Democrats — all the way. They need your vote, too."

Kennedy vows action for rights

By STEVE DUNCAN

NEW YORK — Democratic presidential candidate John F. Kennedy promised Harlem's colored voters Tuesday that he would initiate a three - point program for the protection of civil rights if he is elected President.

Steps promised by Senator Kennedy include:

1. Calling of a series of civil rights conferences as President to promote school desegregation;

2. Issuance of executive orders to eliminate discrimination in federally - aided housing, and

3. Promotion of colored job opportunities on Federal contracts.

"I AM DELIGHTED to come to Harlem," said Senator Kennedy (D-Mass.) as he brought his bid for the presidency to 125th St. and 7th Ave. with a promise to make civil rights a major part of his "new frontiers."

Near the spot where Soviet Premier Khrushchev embraced Cuban Prime Minister Fidel Castro a few weeks ago, Senator Kennedy told Harlemites he stood fully behind the Democratic civil rights plank and if elected he would work to implement it.

A who's who of the liberal wing of the Democratic Party accompanied Senator Kennedy to the rally in front of Hotel Theresa.

They included Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt, Herbert H. Lehman, former New York governor and senator; W. Averell Harriman, former New York governor; Mayor Robert Wagner, Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey (D-Minn.) and Gov. G. Mennen Williams of Michigan.

THE RALLY, sponsored by the United Democratic Team of Harlem, followed a two - day National Conference on Constitutional Rights and American Freedom attended by 400 delegates from 42 states at the Sheraton Hotel.

Rep. Adam Clayton Powell was rally chairman.
