Off duty cop takes suspect

An alert detective on his way home from work at Central headquarters, captured one of the most wanted men in Baltimore Wednesday night.

Detective James Watkins got his man but not without the help of a group of Southern District officers.

It took Det. Watkins and five officers to subdue the man.

The suspect is identified as Alexander Coleman of the unit block S. Schroeder St.

Two of the men, Patrolmen James Nelson Jr., and Jerome Buccalo were injured in the struggle.

They were treated at Mercy Hospital.

The 29 - year - old prisoner was shot in the legs twice while resisting arrest in the 100 block of W. Cross St.

ACCORDING to police this is what transpired:

Detective Watkins, in plain-clothes, spotted the suspect in the first block of W. Cross St., at 10:30 p.m.

He recognized the suspect from pictures posted on bulletin boards around the various station houses.

The officer pulled his pistol, made the arrest, and then ordered the suspect to accompany him to a police call box.

When Watkins ordered the man to lean against a fence so that he could apply handcuffs the suspect turned on the officer.

The detective warned the man not to touch a gun stuck in his waist.

When the suspect reached for the weapon, Watkins fired two shots.

IN RESPONSE to calls from neighbors that a man had pulled a gun on another, Sgt. Frank A. Akomom and Patrolmen Nelson and Leonard Shollo rushed to the scene.

Sgt. Akomom reported that when he and the officers arrived, they found two men facing each other.

One of the men had been shot in the leg. The other was holding a pistol.

When Det. Watkins identified himself, the officers removed the pistol from the suspect's waist.

At about the same time, two other officers, Patrolmen Buccolo and Wilbur Schillenberg arrived.

A fight broke out as they were about to take the wounded man to the hospital and the two officers were injured.

A WANTED poster giving a description of an Alexander Coleman has been on the bulletin board at Western for almost a year.

The poster described Coleman as "very dangerous" and warns police to use caution" in arresting him.

Nine warrants against Coleman are on file at Western, according to police.

The charges involve assault by shooting, shooting with intent to kill, assault and robbery, burglary and deadly weapon charges.

CHERRY HILL NOTES

Group urges adults to further education

BY ELMA OGLESBY
EL. 5-4413

Dr. and Mrs. Charles A. Ward, Bookert Drive have just returned from Newport News and Hampton, Va.

Dr. Ward preached the 68th anniversary sermon at the Calvary Presbyterian Church in Newport News where he was pastor from 1915 to 1925.

My son James and I were also in Hampton for five days, visiting my parents, Mr. and Mrs. James Prescott.

I had a very pleasant surprise while there when my oldest brother, Lawrence, who is making the army his career, came home from Azore Island, hadn't seen him in almost five years.

Mr., Mrs. Sydes greet 200 at reception

with Lula Jones Garrett

Two hundred guests passed down a receiving line headed by Mr. and Mrs. George Sydes of Towson who celebrated their golden wedding anniversary, Thursday evening.

The reception was held in the Garden Room of Wilson's Restaurant and followed a renewal of vows ceremony performed by the Rev. Walter Weaver, during which the couple exchanged wedding rings.

Mr. and Mrs. Sydes was attended by one of the principals in their original ceremony, Oscar Simmons, best man.

Serving as flower girls were Robinet Chaney, Sheila Chester, Deborah Chaney and Paula Chester. Alexander Chester was ring bearer.

Miss Anna Davis, Mrs. Lillian Carr, Dr. Louis A. Johnson, brother of Mrs. Sydes, Mrs. Grace Chester, Charles Sydes;

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Cooper, Mrs. Ella Dorsey, Mr. Sydes, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Chaney, Mrs. Hattie Hill, George Logan;

Mrs. Mazy Roberts, Herman Chester, Mrs. Lydia Frazier, Louis Thompson, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Foster.

Mrs. Helen Lewis served as mistress of ceremonies and Mesdames Louis Johnson and Oscar Simons were hostesses.

THE PERFECT WEATHER on Sunday was reason enough for a long drive through autumn painted scenery . . . but the Charles Hicks' dinner party was further incentive.

So to Frederick we motored for a session of the dinner club group.

The Hicks' exquisite rancher couldn't have been lovelier in its decor for the season . . . multi-colored fall flowers in profusion, a high flower filled pumpkin and fat orange colored candles as the center motif for the buffet which held an equal profusion of succulent dishes.

Tiny pumpkins, flowers and candles decorating the smaller tables to which guests took their loaded plates.

Mr. and Mrs. Hicks had as special guests, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Jordan of Washington, Dr. and Mrs. Ted Pilfer and Mr. and Mrs. Hiram Butler of Baltimore, in addition to the club group: Messrs. and Mesdames James H. Murphy, Rudy Wheeler and Medford Reynolds; and Lula Patterson.

A GORGEOUS FALL table beautifully prepared was the highlight when Dorothy Brown entertained the Firesiders Saturday night at her beautiful new Ellamont Road home. Officers were re-elected for the year. Ida Smith, president; Bea Nixon, vice-president; Eula Watkins, secretary; and Frances Ashby, treasurer. A committee was formed to plan the club's annual round - robin Christmas Party.

Guests included Ella Edemy, Chita Shipley, Kay Carter, Ruth Jennifer, Norma Dillard, Lorraine Dugger;

Club members included were Evelyn West, Irma Dancy, Ada Brown, Ella Milburn Brown, Helen Cothorn, Inez Reed, Lillian Ross.

DR. JULIETTE SIMMONS, psychiatrist at Crownsville State Hospital was guest speaker at the October meeting of the Wondawmin Child Study Group. Speaking on the topic, "How Problems in Marriage Affect Our Children," Dr. Simmons gave some practical advice to the more than thirty people present.

And the wives pulled a switch on this one. Instead of reserving the choice words of the speaker for their entertainment alone, the girls declared it "Hubby Night" and brought their mates along.

The husbands are still talking about the way Dr. Simmons championed their cause.

During the discussion period that followed the talk, the men came right out and admitted that they don't like to wash dishes and do other chores that traditionally fall within the province of the wife. Dr. Simmons suggested that this and many other problems might be solved by frequent and earnest discussion between partners.

Following the meeting, Vivan and Harry Bruce were showered with gifts for their new home, while the hostess, Bernice Robinson, served a tasty repast.

Those present were:

Bettina and Glascoe Baker, Ruby and Flan Couch, Alease and Robert Leckley, Gladys and McNeil Brockington, Magdalene and Charles Rice, Vivian and Harry Bruce, Gwendolyn and Lonnie LaMount; Dot and Liston George, Forrest Higginbotham, Carolyn Boston, Leona Carpenter, Virginia Coleman, Jacquelyn Williams, Thelma Greene, Joyce Neal, Mae Woods, and Nahkeah Gregory.

Magadlene Rice is president of the group.

THE FALCON ROD and Gun Club and guests celebrated Hallowe'en with a party on their club grounds on Saturday October 29, 1960.

Festive decorations surrounded costumed partiers who ate hotdogs and drank cider along with other delicacies and danced to tape recorded music.

Neat beatnick Betty Frye was the first to arrive of the expresso group. She was very noticeable with her two-foot-long cigarette holder which matched the rest of her black outfit save the white super long overshirt.

Others in this group were M. Francis Mackey, who was wearing comic cat eyeglasses; Mary and Henry Wise, Earl and Barbara Hayes, Ellen and Glendi John, Mary Bell and Charlotte Mayfield. Adding the formal touch to the expressos was the beatnick formal worn by Brown Hardy.

From the Bohemian and Arty set colony were Dr. Lucius Deeper and Elaine Hardy. The roving gypsies with the dangling earrings and colorful skirts were Della Macer, Dorothy Ross and Necil Sydnor.

From the early American scene was Pilgrim Miriam Winborne. Emerging from the West was squaw Alice Ford and Mrs. Edith Saunders dressed as Annie Oakley. And Nola Leeper was wearing a gay costume of the covered wagon days.

From the Orient with a shining gold brocaded costume of Confucius and wife were Mr. and Mrs. Chapin. Dr. Delores Hunt was a charming Japanese girl.

The other Hallowe'eners were:

Joseph Johnson, as a knickered English gentleman; Frances Johnson, as the old fashioned bathing girl; Mrs. Louis Sheppard, Edith Smith, Guy Bailey, Nancy Gaskins, Carrie Scott, Richard Frye, John Jetter.

Carl and Ruth White, Charles Proctef, President Harry Maeer, Dr. Richard Hunt, Ronald and Sarah Rayne, Harold Sydnor, Dr. Frank Sykes, John Watters and Rebecca Watters, Mildred Williams and mother, Mrs. Lella Williams, Gramville Winborne, Mr. Frazier from Washington and Cliff Mackay.

Next on the Falcon's fall schedule are Turkey Shoots on Sundays, November 6th and 20th.

MAHALIA BELIEVES IN KENNEDY — "Senator Kennedy's the one," says Mahalia Jackson, "who can put a little more sun and a little more hope in people's lives. The Democrats always try to help people get along by giving them a fair chance to earn their bread and have a home for their children and some hope for the future. I'm going to vote for Senator John Kennedy because he'll be a good president for you and for Mahalia Jackson. You vote for him, too."
