

Our new President

We are glad John Fitzgerald Kennedy won Tuesday's presidential election.

In our front-page editorial on Oct. 29th, we urged our readers to elect Mr. Kennedy. Figures published in this edition show that the cast their ballots overwhelmingly in his favor.

We are happy on another score. AFRO polls over a four-week period showed voters preferred Kennedy over Nixon. 74 per cent to 26 percent. Tuesday's results prove the AFRO predictions correct.

And, we are tickled pink that the 1960's will see at the head of this great government a young, vigorous, intelligent leader who has already stated he recognizes the necessity of insuring the rights of all people here at home, if we, the U.S., would retain its prestige as a world leader.

At age 43, Mr. Kennedy goes into the White House in January, as the youngest man ever elected President, and the first Roman Catholic.

To him, and to the voters who elected him, we offer congratulations.

Now is the time to forget party differences, and close ranks. There will be, as President-elect Kennedy put it, 'difficult and challenging' years ahead, and there is need for all citizens to make 'a supreme national effort to move this country to safety through the 1960's.'"

as we see it

NIXON BLUNDERS

Dick Nixon, in his campaign for the presidency, made at least three mistakes:

(1) He agreed to appear face to face with the lesser known Jack Kennedy in three television debates.

(2) He put wise old Val Washington, long-time assistant to the chairman of the GOP National Committee, in a corner and paid little attention to the colored vote. His new and unseasoned advisors stated publicly he would use but sparingly advertising in colored newspapers.

(3) He leaned too heavily on the supposed popularity of President Eisenhower, who had in eight years dissipated the respect of the colored people.

Thruston Morton, chairman of the Republican National Committee, admitted the first two of these mistakes in a press conference Wednesday.

In fact, he advanced these arguments himself, and added that Nixon's inattention to the colored vote was more "fatal" than his loss of the TV debates.

We agree with Mr. Morton about the first two blunders and only threw in the third one for good measure.

After all, when a man sticks a knife in his own heart, it matters little what other minor wounds he inflicts himself.'

JACK KENNEDY SMART COOKIE

We said Jack Kennedy was a smart cookie when he won the Democractic nomination on the first ballot, and put through a strong civil rights platform without a filibuster.

Now he has done it again

Concentrating on the industrial states with big electoral votes, he has carried N.Y., N.J., Penna., Ill., Minn., and Texas, to win the Democratic nomination for the presidency.

He even caused weeping in the Nixon family, when he snatched California, with 32 juicy electoral votes, right from under Mr. Nixon's home state nose.

He allowed Nixon to carry all the little states while he carried the big ones.

Nothing infuriated Ike and Dick more than to carry a majority of the states and still lose the election and the South, for love of whom they deserted us.

Kennedy won some state primaries by promoting registration of new voters. After the nomination, he went on registering new voters.

Jack worked through the political bosses in the cities, but also with individuals when the bosses sat on their hands.

their personal followers.

The President - elect surrounded himself with capable colored advisors. Their suggestion that he make a strong pronouncement of civil rights and send a message of sympathy to Dr. Martin Luther King, brought him votes.

He relied on Congressman William L. Dawson, vice chairman of the Democratic National Committee, as well as upon younger leaders whom he selected himself.

Jack Kennedy didn't make serious mistakes in this campaign.

So he is the next President; and merits the victory he earned.

Edgar W. Douglass

In every Baltimore community, and in fact all over the country, there are individuals who spend their lives helping to make things better in the neighborhoods in which they live.

They are the persons to whom others come with problems of irregular trash collection, a dirty alley, poor street lighting, lack of police protection, discrimination in employment.

And, these individuals give a sympathetic ear to the problems of the little people, and 'do something about it.'

Such a man was Edgar William Douglass, 57, who died unexpectedly on Tuesday.

In the crowded West Baltimore area where he lived, Mr. Douglass was the watchdog. Hardly a week passed in the last 20 years that he did not visit the AFRO City Desk to ask for help—not for himself, but for others.

He bombarded the mayor's office and other public officials with letters of complaints when things went wrong. He sent them letters of thanks when conditions were corrected.

The West Balimore Citizens' League, which he organized in 1941, was in the forefront of the campaign for additional colored policemen.

It was Mr. Douglass' group which exposed jim crow restrooms in Lexington Market, and exacted a promise from the then Mayor D'Alesandro that they'd be eliminated in the new market.

No complaint was insignificant to Mr. Douglass.

His record as an earnest, indefatigible worker on his job, as a layman in Morning Star Baptist Church, where he held many offices; and as a servant of the little people, is the heritage Edward W. Douglass leaves behind.

We need more dedicated public servants like him.

Walters Art Gallery

Walters Art Gallery lost a second referendum to secure a city bond issue for expansion.

One handicap was the exceedingly large number of bond issues and constitutional changes on Tuesday's ballot.

Some voters required two minutes to pull down levers correctly on the voting machines. It was difficult to do in less than 30 seconds even when voters had previously prepared listings of their preferences.

Here was a national election of great importance with 20 to 60 persons in line at polling booths impatient to vote for Kennedy or Nixon, waiting while someone read Amendment J or Bond Issue 14.

It seems to us a silly thing to have to decide these questions on presidential election day.

The Walters Art Gallery loan did not have a fair chance.

In this respect, we differ mildly with Mayor Grady, who would consider the matter settled.

No worthy cause, like Walters, should fail because of two rebuffs. We would like to see Walters try again.

LETTERS — Our Readers Say — OPINION

Readers are invited to submit letters to the AFRO for publication. All letters must be signed but signatures will be omitted if requested. Letters should be no more than 300 words in length. Address them "Our Readers Say," AFRO-AMERICAN, 628 N. Eutaw St., Baltimore 1, Md.

Rushed at Polls

Dear AFRO:

An official at the polls at Hilton St. and Windsor Ave., St. Cecelia"s Catholic Church, on Tuesday rushed voters saying "You can't take all day to vote."

I showed her the story in Tuesday's AFRO which said voters were allowed seven minutes to vote.

However, a 1960 Election Rules book, the official had, stated that voters were allowed four minutes to vote.

Later, I found the AFRO was correct.

When there are Constitutional amendments on the ballot, a total of seven minutes is allowed according to law.

Thanks to the AFRO for being correct and for being alert to tell us not only of our rights but of all our rights.

MRS. E. O. A.

Ed. Note—Officials at he Board of Election Supervisors told the AFRO that when constitutional questions are on the ballot, a person has SEVEN minutes to vote, instead of the usual four.)

Honor Roll

Dear AFRO:

Thanks very much for the AFRO Honor Roll plaque. It was very thoughtful of you, and is very much appreciated.

CARROLL ROSENBLOOM
Baltimore Colts

Dear AFRO:

I wish to acknowledge with thanks the beautiful AFRO Honor Roll plaque. This is to express my deep appreciation for being included on the 1959 Honor Roll, and to commend the AFRO for the annual honor roll project.

This recognition of citizens from year to year encourages all of us to make whatever contributions we can to the betterment of our community.

DR. MARTIN D. JENKINS
President, Morgan State College

Dear AFRO:

Thank you from the bottom of my heart for selecting me on the AFRO Honor Roll last spring.

Since my picture was in the AFRO, friends I hadn't heard from, or seen in 30 years or more, have been writing me, visiting me and calling on the phone.

I never realized that I was even noticed going about my little job of helping others. I am most grateful.

MRS. ESTELLE WYCHE

Dear AFRO:

Thank you for the beautiful AFRO Honor Roll plaque. I am now working in Prince Edward County, Va., for the American Friends Service Committee, attempting to build a few bridges between the races and to assist in keeping community morale in tact in this tragic episode.

Please come to the Prince Edward community to meet and help inspire this valiant Citizenry ... HELEN BAKER

(EDITO'R NOTE: Mrs. Baker, wife of a Morgan State College professor, was cited on the AFRO 1959 Honor Roll for her personal and courageous battle against cancer.)

Dear AFRO:

You can not imagine how much I appreciate the beautiful Honor Roll plaque. I had never expected such recognition.—C. C. JACKSON Jr. District supervisor, Dept. of Recreation and Parks.

Wants a bridge

Dear AFRO:

I sincerely hope that the State of Maryland will erect a foot-bridge of some kind connecting the campuses of Morgan State College across Cold Spring Lane. This would indeed make for greater safety for the students, faculty, and the public.

Quite recently when Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt visited the college, I narrowly escaped with my life crossing the heavily traveled Cold Spring Lane.

I am also aware that the students hurrying from class to class, to the armory, assemblies, and to the refectory, have to fight this very dangerous crossing daily. It is extremely hazardous in sleety and snowy weather.

It appears to me that a small foot bridge could be constructed at a modest financial outlay. It would certainly benefit the college and the citizens of Maryland.

EARL KOGER SR.

Dear AFRO:

Did Louisiana State Legislature act imprudently by passing a bill into law designed to disqualify dependent children of unmarried mothers from obtaining welfare assistance? Such innocent children are not responsible for the errors that might have been made by their parents nor the State Government. But the government becomes responsible when and if the parents are unable to provide the necessary relief.

The law which is enforced by the State of Louisiana that provides no aid to children born out of wedlock by colored mothers who are the last to be hired, and the first to be fired, and when working receive the lowest pay. The denial of aid resulting from the present law, doubtless was influenced by the White Citizens Council, State's Right Democrats, and the KKK, and other similar organizations.

DAVIS W. BOARD

SIGHTSEEING

By JAMES D. WILLIAMS

One of the sagest observations made on the election comes from our own political writer, Max Johnson, who notes, on another page that it's high time the Republicans stop riding the ghost of Abraham Lincoln and get themselves a new hero — that is if they ever hope to recapture the colored vote.

"There was a time when just calling the name of the late Abe was enough to stir up the loyalty of the colored voter, who would then proceed to happily vote Republican, just because old Abe had freed his grandpappy.

If there were any dissidents among the voters, they could be whipped into line with a snappy rendition of the "Battle Hymn of the Republic," and a recitation of the Emancipation Proclamation.

Fortunately, those days have gone forever. After all, how long can you go on being grateful for past favors.

At some point, you've got to stop saying thank you and begin looking out for your own best interest, and the sooner the Republicans recognize this basic truism, the sooner they can start to collect more of the colored votes.

DURING THE RECENT campaign, one of Mr. Nixon's greatest drawbacks was his own personality.

No one can doubt Mr. Nixons intelligence and executive ability, but there was a certain absence of warmth on his part, which was reflected in the often heard statement:

"There's just something about him that rubs me the wrong way."

That "something" was hard to define, but in retrospect it appears that it was the coolness of the Vice-President, the tortured way he smiled, and the forced emotions, that created this impression.

NIXON HAD the opportunity to correct this attitude but he blew his chance sky high.

When Martin Luther King was imprisoned, Nixon could have 'expressed some concern. Instead, he remained silent, thus creating the impression, regardless of whether it was true or not, that he really didn't care.

Just a simple phone call to the King family would have indicated a certain presence of "heart" on the part of the GOP hopeful. But that call was never made and the opportunity slipped through his fingers.

MR. NIXON WAS also at a disadvantage when faced with the dynamic personality of Mr. Kennedy, which made him appear pale in comparison.

But then, the GOP has been handicapped for years by the lack of dynamic leaders in its top echelons.

For some reason, the politicians with strong personalities and the ability to stir the emotions of the people, seem to gravitate to the Democratic side of the ledger.

By contrast, the Republicans seem to attract the "corporation type" of person who while he might be highly efficient, has a very cold-eriess personality.

I'll admit that the Republican Party has produced some colorful leaders, such as McKeldin and Rockefeller, but these men are the exception rather than the rule.

WHEN THE Republicans pick a man to run for President, they fit on a Dewey, Eisenhower and the latest one, Nixon, a trio highly unlikely to arouse any real warmth on the part of the voters.

Perhaps, one of these days, the Republican standard bearer will be a colorful figure, which is what they are going to need to get back in the White House.

They could capitalize on the popularity of Eisenhower as a winning general to give them two terms in office, but with Eisenhower out of the picture, they'll just have to come up with a strong and personable candidate if they hope to return in 1964.

Noteworthy

BY HERBERT MANGRUM

The shouting is over, but I wonder what the outcome of the election would have been had:

Lodge and Kennedy been on the same ticket.

The Kennedy clan had not shown concern about the plight of Dr. King in Georgia.

If Nixon had made that telephone call to Georgia instead.

If the loners had pushed their campaign harder in the big city areas.

I ALWAYS heard that politicians were double talkers — Now I believe it.

A case in point?

At 3:15 a.m. Wednesday while staring defeat in the face on TV, Vice - President Nixon would not concede the election.

Neither did he predict that he would win.

The veep came down the middle with this statement:

"If the present trend continues, Senator Kennedy will be the next President.

"Once the decision is made we will unite behind the man who is elected.'

"I want you all to know that certainly if this trend continues, he will have my whole - hearted support."

Not once did Mr. Nixon say: "I give up."

" AT THE END of his statement one NBC newscaster turned to another and asked: "Is that a concession"?

His partner replied: " I don't know."

The only thing positive about the election up until Wednesday was the fact that the Army, Navy, man would be in the White House on January 20.

HEZEKIAH WILLIAMSON

Congratulations to Hezekiah Williamson Jr., 4405 Wakefield Rd. He has just been promoted assistant vice president of the Manning-Shaw Realty Co.

Mr. Williamson, a native of Baltimore, was educated in the public schools and Morgan State College. He has been with Manning-Shaw four years.

His wife, is the former Imogene Allen. They have four school-aged children. His dad is the Rev. Hezekiah Williamson Sr., pastor of New Mt. Carmel Baptist Church.

Youngest looking grandmother we've met in many a day is Mrs. James W. Moore (Della) of 1716 N. Ellamont St. She is just 37, looks 27.

She has two sons, Charles and Kervery McCaskill, who are 20 and 18; twin daughters are Mary McCaskill and Mary Martha Smith, 21, and both now residing in N.Y. Grandson is child of daughter, Martha, and her hubby, Pvt. Oliver Smith.

Mrs. Moore is a practical nurse and an active member of Payne Memorial AME Church where she is president of the nurses' unit, and a member of the nurses and trustee boards.

She is also an active NAACP worker, and was in the process of soliciting memberships in her block when we met. Flowers in her garden are her hobby. She belongs to the Central Savings Club. Mr. Moore is a sugar refinery worker.

If you have know-how, you can transform an otherwise drab place into a thing of beauty.

Look in on the Bannoker School No. 113 at Greenmount Ave. and Federal St., and see for yourself.

True, the building needs a good paint job. True, the children deserve a central meeting room and cafeteria. They have neither.

Even with these handicaps, what could be ugly surroundings have been made attractive. Cheerful cards and signs welcome a visitor. There are flowers and other decorations to break the monotony of peeling paint.

The kindergarten rooms, where Mrs. Marie Dowell and Mrs. Doris Williams preside, show imagination, and what imagination!

In the absence of an auditorium, American Education Week programs at the school were held in a second floor hallway, but this did not detract from the excellent singing of "Battle Hymn of Republic," directed by Mrs. Holtzclaw or the poise of 11 - year - old Betty Oglesby, who presided at the Wednesday program.

Mrs. Alfreda Pinkney is the energetic principal here. You'll recall she initiated the 400 Club in the area surrounding the school.

Parents, teachers, and young people meet weekly, map plans to improve the neighborhood, organize proper play activities, etc.

Result: This school has little or no vandalism.

Other pleasant persons met: Pleasant John Datcher, 5th grade teacher, and Mrs. Marie Fraser, 4th grade. Her pupils gave greetings in French.

Election Day babies

Mr. and Mrs. Willie Coley (Inez), 1809 Braddish Ave. are parents of a 7-pound, 7-ounce baby girl, born Nov. 8 (Election Day) at Provident Hospital.

It is No. 3 for them. Daughter, Diana, is 4; and son, Willie Jr., 15 months old. Mr. Coley is a longshoreman. The family attends Christian Memorial Church, where Mrs. Coley once sang on the choir.

Birthdays are such nice things. Ask Dr. Madge B. Hibler, the Morgan State College speech professor of 2210 Ashburton St.

She and Mrs. Maurice Adams (Catherine) marked their birthdays on last Thursday (Nov. 3). Dr. Adams honored them both at a dinner party . . . they've been doing this since 1952 — just the three of them.

And, with her birthday gifts, Dr. Hibbler can now count a total of 70 lovely presents she has received since she picked up her doctorate in California two months back.

Happy birthday cards to Dr. D. O. W. Holmes, our beloved first citizen. He is 83 on Nov. 15, not Nov. 8, as we said last week. His address: 2355 W. North Ave.

Nov. 12th cards to Mrs. Mamie Todd, 2714 N. Longwood St., Nov. 14, send birthday cheer to Mrs. Martin Jenkins, Morgan State College.

Wedding anniversary hellos by Nov. 14 to Dr. and Mrs. Louis E. Harmon (Marjorite), 2224 Madison Ave. It's their 25th.

Sympathy cards to Mrs. Roy Hamilton (Brucye), 5413 Denmore Ave. She is in Florida to bury her brother.

About this and that

The Baltimore Cossacks Inc., have set their eighth anniversary banquet for Sunday (Nov. 13) at the Sheraton's Red Room. Affair is set for 6 p.m.

Opening Monday evening at Sharp St. Methodist Church, a first annual Woman's Week celebration, with many treats in store.

Week - long observance culminates with Sunday morning worship service (Nov. 20) when Mrs. Vivian Carter Mason will speak.

Cherry Hill Elementary School No. 163 student body, principal, Mrs. Elizabeth Henderson, and faculty had as guests on Election Day, Tuesday, several foreign dignitaries and a member of President Eisenhower's staff.

The guests were Ambassador W. M. Q. Halm, Ghana; Richard M. Akwei, Ghana consul; Haile Inku, Ethiopian first secretary, Brahim Hayder, secretary of the Tunisian Embassy, all of Washington.

Also in the party were Mr. and Mrs. Malcolm Moos, Washington, who is special assistant to President Eisenhower.

Also accompanying the group was Eugene A. Sekulow, member of the board of Supervisors of Elections of Baltimore City.

Escort from Washington was Sam Peter Claver, Ghana Embassy attache.

Gus Knox, South Baltimore Republican leader, was host to the group which made a tour of South Baltimore and Cherry Hill election polling places.

One of the community's polling places is located on the first floor of the school.

Mrs. Henderson stated that the visit was a complete surprise but one which will remain in the memory of the school as an historic event.

After a visit to the room where the election was in progress, members of the party were shown through the school, visited classes, had lunch in the cafeteria.

The school has 29 faculty members, 900 pupils. Vice principal is Walter Gantt.

Sammy Davis Jr., weds Swedish actress Sunday

LOS ANGELES, Cal. — Sammy Davis Jr., and blonde Mai Britt are pledged to make it "official" Sunday.

The internationally - famous entertainer and his Swedish bride-to-be obtained their marriage license at Los Angeles District Court on Wednesday. It will be the second matrimonial venture for both.

DAVIS, 34, was previously married to Loray White, a singer and model of Los Angeles. They gave it up after little more than a year.

Miss Britt, 26, had been the wife of actor Eddie Gregson until their divorce in Sept.

Newsmen seeking to question the couple about the details of their proposed marriage, were rebuffed by both Davis and Miss Britt. Except to say that it will be held Sunday, neither would disclose immediately where or at what time the ceremony will take place.

SPECULATION is that the wedding will be held at Sammy's home here, and that the reception at the Beverly Hilton Hotel will be confined to close friends.

Singer Frank Sinatra, an intimate friend of the groom, is expected to serve as best man.

DAVIS HAS a checkered romantic background. He was reported to have been sorely disappointed when model Cordie King of Chicago, broke with him and married an Indianapolis business man in December of 1956.

Shortly thereafter, his name was linked with that of blonde actress Mec Myles and later with Swedish screen star Kim Novak. This latter relationship caused a stir in Hollywood and allegedly drew threats of studio reprisals to both Sammy and Miss Novak.

The marriage to Loray White —with Harry Belafonte as best man — ended the climaxed fiore.

SHORTLY AFTER the Davis-White divorce in 1959, blonde Joan Stuart of Toronto, announced that she was "on Cloud 9" because she and Sammy were engaged to marry during the Christmas holiday season of that year.

The engagement was shortlived, however. Both parties agreed that "it wouldn't work," mainly because of the continued protests from Miss Stuart's Canadian parents.

DAVIS AND MAY became engaged last June.

Since that time the multi - talented entertainer has been the target of numerous demonstrations, the most publicized of which were those by British Fascists outside the Club Pigalle in London, and by the American Nazi Party in Washington, D.C., and Los Angeles.

Royal Arch Masons install new officers

The Mt. Moriah Chapter No. 1 of the Royal Arch Masons held an election Monday that wound up its annual Royal Arch Weekend Services.

Officers elected were:

James L. Mosley, excellent high priest; John W. Pinkney, king; Jesse J. Jackson, scribe; James Yarbo, captain of host; James Alston, principal sojourner; Joshua Williams, Royal Arch captain; Harmon Bobbitt, secretary; William L. Moore, financial secretary; Edward Mosley, treasurer.

The weekend began on Saturday with the annual Fatrer and Son banquet at which George Taliafero, former Colt football star, was the speaker.

Approximately 150 fathers and sons were present and heard Mr. Taliafero stress the need for fathers and sons to develop a closer relationship.

Mt. Taliafero was awarded a citizens award for this contribution to the children of the community.

John Throtnon, past high priest, presented him with a merit citation. James L. Mosley, excellent high priest, presented him with a gift from the Mt. Moriah Chapter.

THE CHAPTER held its annual divine services at the Mt. Hope Bantist Church, Reisterstown Rd. and Gwynn Falls Parkway, on Sunday. The Rev. A. D. Nance is pastor.

Appearing on tr eprogram were Harold I. Williams Jr., of Mt. Calvary Freewill Church and Ernest Prellow of the Christian Community Church of God, and the Nance Volunteers Gospel Chorus.

A eulogy was conducted for "deceased members." Ishame Johnson and John W. Sawyer.
