Fashions and talent spark Sharon Church anniversary

An elaborate talent and fashion show was the final activity in a series which commemorated the 75th anniversary of the Sharon Baptist Church, Friday evening.

The celebration also marked the 15th anniversary of the minister, the Rev. James L. Moore.

In addition to the outstanding talent and the latest fashions, the evening was highlighted by a demonstration of cosmetics by Mrs. Bernice Monroe; a showing of hats to fit by the Sa - Char Hat Shop; and a demonstration of hair styles, by Mrs. Mahalia Ann Blair.

THE EPICUREANS, holding forth with Gladys Daniels on Friday evening, inducted one new member, Sadie Jenkins.

As is the custom having a national officer to participate in the initiation of a neophyte, the Baltimore chapter had to merely reach out and garner a national past president, Phyllis Diggs, from its own group. Mrs. Diggs was assisted by the chapter president, Merita Stokes.

At the session were Barbara Bennett, Dorothy Johnston, Clara Parker, Frances Wood, Doris Waller, Elsie Scott, Shirley Wood, Elva Matthews, Sylvia Henry, and Bernadine Harrison.

Following the succulent supper, the group had Mr. Ford in for lessons in Latin American dances.

Next day the chapter members went off to Oyster Harbor for their fall picnic at the place of Mrs. Stokes . . . along of course, with their interests.

So, at that affair were Mr. and Mrs. Charles Wood, Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Daniels, Mr. and Mrs. Armstead Jenkins, Frances Wood, John E. Stokes and Mr. and Mrs. Miles Harrison.

• • •

A MOST beautiful fall decor sparked the table at which Deloris Adams served Les Amies in her home on Saturday night.

Members heard final reports from the cabaret party which they recently had.

Attending the meeting were Pearl Moulton, Annabelle Ruffin, Delia Saunders, Frances Gardner, Octavia Jones, Deloris Purlyear, Jeanne Tyler, Josephine Brown, Natalie Bundey, Evelyn Gail and Catherine Coleman.

• • •

DORETHEA FOSTER did a bang up job in the arrangements of the Martiniques' party on Friday night and those superb decorations were from the talent of Serena Forehand.

The latter took a United Nations note for the "Around the World" theme and a fashion-able note for the colorful colored gowns the hostesses wore.

Hosting the affair were Myrtle Thompson, Hester Greenway, Susie Moore, Irene Cooper Harris, Victorine Adams, Justina Chandler, Ruth Payson, Mamie Widgeon, Esther Harris and Alma Lyle Beatrice Smith is the current president.

A NEW NOTE in the club area is the addition of a Baltimore chapter of the Omnibia Bona Sorority, organized here recently. Other chapters are in Roanoke, Va., Richmond, Va., Washington and Philadelphia.

Ina Bryant entertained the chapter in her home in Cherry Hill, Friday evening. Officers named were:

Vivian Wilkins, president; Dorothy Richardson, vice president; Janice Tribble, recording secretary; Roberta Carter, corresponding secretary;

Also Gloria Spriggs, treasurer; Jackie Taliaferro, business manager; and Valerie Turner, publicity director.

Members also include Anne Addison, Dorothy Jackson and Delores Ray.

POT-POURRI: Mr. and Mrs. William Britt had as weekend guests, Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Beckford from Long Island, N.Y.

Mrs. Beckford, you will remember, is the former Juanita Backers who formerly taught at Douglass High School, here. Mr. Beckford recently resigned his position as claims adjuster with a New York traction company and has started his own business of legal photography.

With the Beckfords was their three-year-old Kenneth. They expect their second visit from the stork in March.

H. Jerome Briscoe, retired school principal, is recovering from an illness, but is still confined to Johns Hopkins Hospital.

IN LINE with their present program of "Educating Youth for Democracy" the Baltimore chapter of the Women's Auxiliary Imperials, a boys' club, in the latter's project to raise funds for the NAACP, last week.

The club had a skating party at the Coliseum, Saturday, which was attended by 600 children. . . and this we, as well as they, say was a successful affair.

The club is headed by Jimmie Gilliam, and has as members John Oliver Jr., Albert Burwell Jr., Reginald Daniels Jr., Ralph Cole, Claude Young, John Howard, Paul Scott Jr., Ronald Watts, Lance Walker, Ronald Saunders, Anthony Hawkins, Rickie Bruce.

Florence Gloster is local chairman of the youth - aid project. The chapter, of which Beatrice Butler is president, is doing a fine job in this area. . . at present providing a cultural assist, via taking children to ballet performances, plays, etc., and by aiding other agencies which aid children.

They recently gave $100 to American Friends, which is providing scholarships for the children of Prince Edward County, Va., where schools have been closed rather than integrated.
