Showdown—Date'ine: New Orleans

Of such is the Kingdom of Heaven

Wise men believe bad taste springs from lack of knowledge.

Others think the cause is a defect in judgment.

Common sense would dictate that serious individuals find no levity in the wrongs inflicted upon innocent children.

Even a clown, who must provoke laughter every day, can not expect us to applaud, when he mutilates a dog, burns a cat, or caricatures a disaster.

So, when the Morning Sun makes light of the four 6 - year - old children required by court order to pass through hostile crowds in order to attend New-Orleans public schools, and when they represent them as black-faced Aunt Jemima dolls, that is not funny.

In fact, Wednesday morning's Yardley cartoon on the Sun's editorial page is more than bad taste.

It misrepresents the New Orleans school riots completely.

Louisiana's defiance of the law, and its mob outbreaks are not the work of the ignorant, jug-swilling Confederate "grand pappies".

The ringleaders are the governor, the majority of a rabid and ranting legislature, some members of the minor judiciary, women and young people.

Many of these are supposedly the best people in Louisiana. They mocked the integration school law for the entire six years since the Supreme Court proclaimed it.

But most of all, it seems to us, the Sun lacks compassion when it exaggerates and debases the likenesses of innocent children in their extremity.

Of the three major virtues, Faith, Hope, and Charity, the greatest of these is said to be "Charity" (Christian love).

We quote from a Book with which both Yardley and the Sun might become more familiar.

That Book says, in effect, keep a special place in your heart for children, "for of such is the Kingdom of Heaven".

To Mr. Pollack:

Dear Mr. Pollack:

The city can be proud of the 203,000 votes given President - elect Kennedy last Tuesday.

It enabled the Kennedy ticket to go into the counties with such a commanding lead of 88,277 votes that the 23 counties could not overcome it.

Election eve, you took to the television modestly to claim credit for the Kennedy showing in the 4th District.

However, as President - Elect Kennedy said so often during the campaign, "We have done well, but we can do better."

* * *

WE COULD have done better, if the 4th District organization had not opposed mobile registration in the 4th District during the NAACP Non-Partisan Register and Vote Campaign.

Mr. Kennedy and the NAACP repeatedly asked for two days at Lafayette Market, two at Cherry Hill, and one in East or South Baltimore.

They grudgingly received 2 p.m. to 9:30 p.m. registration one day at Lafayette Market, one day at Cherry Hill and none in other areas.

With more mobile registration days in the 4th District, Mr. Pollack, the Kennedy vote would have been larger.

* * *

THE KENNEDY vote would have been larger if 4th District funds had been provided the workers needed in the precincts to check the list of persons as they voted at the polls, and then to go out and bring in those who had not yet voted.

Mr. Kennedy knew the value of getting out the vote. You do, too, Mr. Pollack.

Except for extra funds provided at the last minute by private individuals, the Fourth District Kennedy total would have been lower still.

AFRO figures show a full 4 per cent increase in those precincts where Kennedy friends provided help on election day.

This election shows how important a one per cent increase of the vote is.

But here, Mr. Pollack, was an extra 4 per cent for which your organization was not responsible.

* * *

THERE IS enough glory in the Kennedy victory for all who worked and voted for it.

Your organization, in its way, had its share of it, share in it.

But to quote Mr. Kennedy again:

"We can do better."

Mr. Pollack, you too, could have done better.

Set fine example

President-elect John F. Kennedy took the initiative in calling a conference with the man he defeated in the Nov. 8 election.

Kennedy and Vice President Nixon conferred in Florida at Nixon's hotel for an hour.

What went on at the conference is easily imagined.

Two strong men had been engaged in a battle for votes. Kennedy won by a whisker. He respects his opponent.

Each man, in the heat of the campaign, said harsh things about the other.

Now it's over.

Each wanted to say to the other, "No hard feelings. Let's be friends again."

This is a pretty good example for the rest of the nation.

Republicans and Democrats, who have fought through a bitter political campaign, might well follow the party leaders.

Time to shake hands, and be friends again.

Ho-hum!

Time was when the wedding of Sammy Davis to Swedish actress Mai Britt, would have created a sensation.

Years ago, any public interracial marriage would have gotten front page notice, and long wordage.

Today, such marriages are all too commonplace.

What interests readers now is to note that Frank Sinatra was best man, and wedding guests included Milton Berle, Jack (Maverick) Kelly, Barbara Rush, Janet Rush, Peter (Lawman) Brown, the sister of President-Elect Kennedy, and other stars from Hollywood's movie colony.

Nor is there anything new about the fact that Sammy Davis and wife embraced the Jewish faith and were married by a rabbi.

Our brethren who are members of the Church of God and Saints of Christ took that step years ago, and with their children, observe all practices of reverent Jews.

In fact, our Church of God and Saints of Christ are more strict in their observance of Saturday as sabbath than some.

All in all, the Sammy Davises' marriage was just another wedding. Ho-hum.

Stolen ballots

Chicago Republicans may seek a recount of the vote in some Illinois districts.

One claim is that Democratic political machines stole 100,000 votes in Tuesday's election.

The 100,000 figure is too high. We suspect Republicans were cheated out of some votes in Democratic wards, and Republicans in turn swiped some Democratic ballots through fraud or "inadvertence."

However, whatever stealing there was by either party is no different from what it was four years ago when Ike won, or twelve years ago when Truman won.

We would have much more respect for the post - election squealers, if they had raised the question of a "fair election" before election day.

Then it would have been a simple matter to put adequate watchers in the polling booths.

Crying fraud after the election, is like locking the stable door after the donkey has escaped.

OPINION

Readers are invited to submit letters to the AFRO for publication. All letters must be signed but signatures will be omitted if requested. Letters should be no more than 300 words in length. Address them "Our Readers Say," AFRO-AMERICAN, 628 N. Eutaw St., Baltimore 1, Md.

Leakin Park

Dear AFRO:

Mrs. Elizabeth M. Oliver should certainly be congratulated on her ability to paint such a vivid work picture.

I could actually see the beauties of Leakin Park. We are going out there this weekend.

I hope a few flurries of snow will fall. That would be beautiful among those colorful leaves.

MRS. WHITBY

(Editor's Note: The writer refers to an article appearing in the AFRO last week. It detailed, in words and pictures, the beauties to be found on a walk through Leakin Park.)

Questions vote

Dear AFRO:

It was the Republican party under Lincoln that established the freedom of man. It was the Republican party under Eisenhower that established the complete equality of man.

My question is, why do colored people vote Democratic? Do the colored people in the South vote Democratic?

JULIUS WOLFF

Praise for company

Dear AFRO:

I sincerely hope this letter will be seen by the employers of Food Machinery and Chemical Co. and your readers.

Enough cannot be said about the fine group of men who work for this company. Whenever a co - worker becomes ill or in trouble they are there to assist them in any way they can, financially or otherwise.

If death occurs they are very kind to the family. I wish it were possible to erect a monument to such fine Christian men.

MRS. LORAINE GARRETT

From Peabody

Dear AFRO:

This letter is written in appreciation of the excellent article on our current exhibition at the Peabody Institute Library, "The Cardboard Court: Playing Cards Through History," written by Miss Elizabeth M. Oliver and printed on page 17 of your November 12 1960 issue as a special feature.

It is gratifying to find that our show is the subject of a feature story in this way. I am especially pleased that Miss Oliver has presented the exhibition so fully and completely.

Her account is the best outline of the show that has appeared to date and will surely result in bringing in a great many visitors to see it. This is what we want.

Thank you, and a salute to Miss Oliver, for the space and attention given our show. We hope to deserve similar treatment again if we can produce an exhibition of equal interest.

SIGHTSEEING

By JAMES D. WILLIAMS

No matter what you might have heard, no matter what you might think, there is absolutely no discrimination within the ranks of the Baltimore City Police Department.

Our fearless men in blue operate under a truly democratic system, in which the color of a man's skin counts as nothing — it's what he can do that cuts the cookie.

To any blase heckler who might say nuts, I point with reverence to the fact that these momentous statements came from no less a personage than our own beloved Police Commissioner James M. Hepbron.

* * *

IT WAS he who told a delegation from the NAACP that the charges they had been hearing about discrimination in the Police Department, were untrue.

And why, dear reader, were they untrue?

Because the commissioner and his top assistants said they weren't true.

And anytime a group of men in an agency tell you that there is nothing wrong inside their organization, who can be so suspicious as to doubt their word?

Remember friends, in this world you need faith . . . brother you need a whole lot of faith.

* * *

HERE IN Baltimore, no colored officer has ever risen above the rank of sergeant, but I suppose you couldn't call that discrimination, could you?

Raise the point to the boys downtown, and they will quickly answer that no colored officer has ever passed the examination with high enough marks, to qualify for such a promotion.

Now I know several police lieutenants and captains who impress me as having just enough mental ability to come in out of the rain, and that's about all.

Unfortunately, once out of the rain, they don't know what to do next, but then you can't have everything, can you?

On the other hand, I know a number of colored officers who are mental giants when compared to these fellows.

So what do these colored officers do?

They pound the pavements while their mental abilities go to waste.

But this isn't discrimination dear friends and gentle hearts, because the Police Department believes, etc. etc. etc.

* * *

WHEN IT was pointed out there aren't any colored officers in radio cars, the commissioner was quick to point out that this is not accurate . . . there are colored officers in radio cars.

Technically, the commissioner is right.

In one area in Cherry Hill and in one in Northwest Baltimore, the brass has put a colored officer in a car, with a radio, and told him to patrol that area, and that area alone.

White officers ride two to a car and can go all over the city, if the case demands.

The area patrolled by the lone colored officer has a population of just about 100 per cent-colored. The white officers do all areas.

Sure both cars have radios, but that's about the only thing they have in common, except four tires.

But this isn't discrimination. No sir, not by a long shot. Didn't you hear what the commissioners said?

* * *

NO COLORED officers belong to the Police Association; no colored officer sticks his face in the doorway of the Police Department's American Legion post; no colored officer rides a motorcycle or serves in the Traffic Division, or the Crime Lab. or 26 other different departments.

Let's be proud men and women, because our Police Department operates in a truly democratic fashion, and we know, because we've been told so.

Now friends, who wants to hear the one about Goldilocks and The Three Bears?

Noteworthy

By HERBERT MANGRUM

The Navy, the Marine Corps, the Air Force and the Army in particular has gone or is going soft.

It was bound to happen.

I knew when the services ordered the non-coms to stop cussing out the recruits things would go to pot.

A cussing army has always been a fighting army.

THERE WAS a time when a kid just out of high school could enter the Army a mouse and come out a lion.

The way things are shaping up now those days are gone forever.

The Infantry training school at Fort Benning added the crowning touch last week when it announced there will be no more push - ups, sit - ups and pull - ups in its physical training program.

The brass claims the old calisthenics were 'monotonous and repetitive'.

In its place the Army intends to substitute 'combat orientation'.

Under this setup mama's little darlings will be invited to crawl 40 - yards and shape up on the one - minute horizontal ladder swing; the dodge, run and jump obstacle course; the grenade throw; and the one - mile run.

* * *

EVEN THE symbolic Army mule is apt to hang his head in shame because soldiers are not allowed to shoot from the three familiar firing positions anymore.

With the new natural firing position concept, a GI must fire from a natural and comfortable position.

* * *

THE AIR FORCE refuses to call the "mess hall" mess anymore. It's the dining area now.

The fly boys have done away with KP completely.

The Marine Corps has been told to get rid of their swagger sticks or else.

* * *

AT THIS vote I predict no soldier will die violently in the next war.

Soldiers the world over will just beat each other to kingdom come with powder puffs.

THE AFRO'S CREDO

A newspaper succeeds because its management believes in itself, in God and in the present generation. It must always ask itself—

Whether it has kept the faith with the common people;

Whether it has no other goal except to see that their liberties are preserved and their future assured;

Whether it is fighting to get rid of slums, to provide jobs for everybody;

Whether it stays out of politics except to expose corruption and condemn injustice, race prejudice or compromise.

IF YOU Ask Me

By B. M. Phillips

Married 74 years

MR. POWELL MRS. POWELL MRS. JONES MRS. MATTHEWS

Best wishes - orchids - congratulations to a wonderful couple—Mr. and Mrs. William H. Powell, Daisy, Md., who mark their 74th wedding anniversary on Friday, Nov. 25th. They are now living at 3303 Holmes Ave.

They were married Nov. 25, 1886. Mrs. Powell, her first name is Ida, was 90 in March. He was 91 in February.

Twelve of their 22 children are living. There are 53 grandchildren; 122 great-grandchildren, and 23 great-great-grandchildren. Two of the great-grandchildren were born this year.

The Powells formerly lived in a comfortable farm home in Daisy, Calvert County, Md., but now are living on Holmes Ave., here in Baltimore.

How did they stay together so long?

"We had our trials and tribulations, but we loved each other, so we got along. If you don't love each other, don't get married," is their sage advice.

* * *

THANKSGIVING DAY wedding anniversary hellos—their fourth— to Mr. and Mrs. Matthew Johnson (Blanche), 2401 Mondawmin Ave.

Happy wedding anniversary cards to Mr. and Mrs. Mayon Matthews (Alice R.), of 2411 W. Mosher St. They were married 34 years ago on Sunday, Nov. 20.

Mrs. Matthews is a city teacher, grand officer in the Order of Eastern Star, vice chairman of the Christian Education Board at Enon Baptist Church.

In 1957, she won honorable mention in the AFRO's Ideal Mother contest. Remember?

Mr. Matthews, also a member of Enon, is employed by Maryland Drydock. There will be a family dinner to mark the occasion.

* * *

More wedding anniversaries: Nov. 23—Dr. and Mrs. Raymond Hunt (Elise), 2302 Roslyn Ave., their eleventh, and it is the first time since 1949, it has come on Thanksgiving Eve, the day they were married.

Nov. 24— Mr. and Mrs. Reuben Jones, Detective and Mrs. J. Hiram Butler.

New citizens

It is a boy for Mr. and Mrs. James Spencer Hammond (Constance). Baby was born Wednesday morning at University Hospital.

Dad had just completed an hour-long concert at Morgan State College, when the call came to notify him of the baby's arrival.

Baby is No. 2 for them. No. 1 is three-year-old Carol Elaine.

Mr. Hammond is part-time lecturer and instructor in piano and organ at Morgan, and minister of music at Douglas Memorial Church.

Congrats to them at 2315 W. Lafayette Ave.

* * *

The John Glosters love a baby boy, weighed 7 pounds 15¾ ounces when he arrived on Nov. 14 at Provident.

Mom is the former Augustine Brown, a teacher, and he's assistant to Morgan President Martin Jenkins. Cards to them at 1317 Myrtle Ave.

Other new Provident babies: Vernon Robinsons (Jessie) of 507 W. Hoffman St., have a 5 pound, 6 ounce girl.

Mr. and Mrs. Booker T. Flemmons, 2128 W. North Ave., have a boy, 7 pounds, 14 ounces, born Wednesday.

Send greetings

Glad you're better cards to Harold F. Folkes, the school principal, (Fairmount Junior High No. 453).

He is doing nicely following an operation last Friday, should be at his Morgan Park home before too many days. He's on Thayer 2 at Hopkins Hospital.

Glad you're better cards to two-year-old Raynor Carroll, son of Mr. and Mrs. Osborne Carroll of 1804 N. Appleton St. He was in Provident.

Cheer to Mrs. Jacqueline Washington, 1921 Riggs Ave. She is in room 214 at Provident.

In Room 215 at Provident: Miss Lula Johnson, 2136 Mt. Royal Terr.

* * *

And, sunshine to A. Preston Shaw Jr., who is a patient at Ft. Howard Veterans Hospital. Doctors say he will have to remain in at least until after Easter, so let him know you're thinking of him.

Do send cheerful birthday cards by Nov. 20 to Mrs. Isabelle Clark, who is confined to Montebello State Hospital.

Elmer Burgess, retired teacher, entered Johns Hopkins Hospital this morning (Friday), for an operation.

More people and things

At the St. James PE Church woman's day affair which followed corporate communion for women and girls on Sunday, speaker was Mrs. A. E. Culley, member of the Ascension Church, and secretary of education for women of the diocese.

She pictured the church as a place of worship where we go to meet the Lord and each other, as a fellowship, a community and a school where we learn to understand how to pray and read the Bible, and as a training ground for service, to prepare us to go out in the world and help others.

* * *

At the Metropolitan YWCA on Monday evening the annual electors' assembly, heard an interesting discussion of problems in South Africa by Miss Rosalie Oakes, who has spent two years there as a member of the Y's foreign division staff.

She said we can be sure the new spirit among young people in the U.S., is felt, and is no small factor in the move toward better relations in other places in the world.

Mrs. Carl Wheelock, president of the board of directors, received the AFRO Honor Roll plaque during the meeting.

This is the 93rd annual world fellowship week.

* * *

Years ago, Mrs. Wheelock noted, world fellowship aroused friendly, but vague feelings of responsibility.

"In this generation," she observed, "science has made the world so small, the world is our community," now . . . if any part of the world is underprivileged, it demands our concern, our action.

"No longer are God's people on the opposite side of the world, far removed from us. The farthest places are just six or eight hours away.

". . . therefore, our challenge as Christian citizens and as members of the YWCA is not only to be concerned about our own community, but also to be sure we do our part to help accomplish the great purpose of world fellowship—to answer God's call to serve all His people."

Baltimore Fellowship is in its new home at 3200 N. Hilton St. this weekend.

The monthly 'get acquainted' party will be held as usual on Saturday at 6, at the new headquarters.

Orchids to James Doby, elevator operator at the Riley Clothing Co., in the Butler Building.

He was on the eighth floor, when he heard screams, stopped his elevator on a dime, just in time to keep from beheading a 17-year-old white Mississippi youth who was leaning over the elevator shaft.

Employers gifted him with a watch on Thursday. The youngster escaped with minor cuts.

SOMETHING BEAUTIFUL, something refreshing has been added to Crownsville State Hospital in the atmosphere of the new Vashti T. Murphy Community Center, portions of which are shown above. Left is the Hugh Young Building where the shopping-center like area occupies the entire lower floor. Center photo shows the lounge just off the corridor which leads to beauty shop. Here patients may browse, wait for beauty appointments. Note handsome draperies, white wrought iron tables, chairs, adding cheerful modern touch. Right is the out-door patio, bright with painted stone floor done in blocks of red, yellow, white and blue.

AT CROWNSVILLE HOSPITAL

Vashti Murphy Center is beautiful and practical

Mrs. Gwendolyn Lee, director of Social Service at Crownsville State Hospital, will be main speaker at the dedication of the Vashti Turley Murphy Community Center on Saturday.

Dedication ceremonies, which begin at 6 p.m., will preceede open house and a coffee hour to which the public is invited.

The center, named for the first president of the Crownsville Women's Auxiliary, consists of 12 rooms located on the lower floor of the Hugh Young building.

Planned as a "shopping center," the area has newly decorated beauty and barber shops, canteen, out - door patio, recreation, TV, writing, music, reading rooms, library, a "nearly New Shop" and other multipurpose rooms for patients' enjoyment.

* * *

THE OPENING of the center marks an important milestone in the development of modern means of patient care during off hours.

The area will serve more than 1,000 patients and provide them with out-in-the world experiences such as shopping, buying, free association with relatives, visitors, friends, in beautiful, practical surroundings.

Noteworthy is the use of uplifting color tones on walls and in furnishings.

Other decorative features lend a note of charm and gaiety to aid spiritual well - being.

* * *

DEDICATORY CEREMONIES center around the life and contributions of Mrs. Murphy who initiated the hospital's auxiliary in 1954. She died in March, 1960.

Through her vision and the efforts of succeeding auxiliary officers and members, many innovations, including the center, have benefitted the patients.

Succeeding auxiliary presidents have been Mesdames Roy Hamilton, Simon Carter, Alfred Wooldridge and Mrs. William H. Richardson, Anapolis, present auxiliary president; Dr. Charles S. Ward is hospital superintendent.

Members of the auxiliary did the planning, furnished materials while the hospital provided furnishings.

Noteworthy is the use of uplifting color tones on walls and in furnishings.

Mrs. Carter, auxiliary president from 1958 - 1960, is dedication program chairman.

* * *

MRS. LEE will recall Mrs. Murphy's contributions in her talk entitled, "Mrs. Murphy As A Person." She was closely associated with Mrs. Murphy in the auxiliary, and as a neighbor in Morgan Park.

The Rev. Leroy Bowman, pastor of First Baptist Church, Annapolis, will give invocation.

The welcome address, by Mrs. Carter, Mrs. Richardson will preside and introduce the speaker and representatives of the organizations with which Mrs. Murphy was associated.

On the program are Dr. Ward, Mrs. Mae Wright Allen, president of the Philomathean; Mrs. Rosie Lee McQuire, president of the Maryland League of Women's Clubs; Mrs. Gerald Venture, the Alumni Chapter, Delta Sigma Theta Sorority.

The Rev. James A. Greene, Annapolis, will give benediction.

The Sanctuary Choir of the Baltimore Union Baptist Church, will sing.

Other auxiliary officials include Mrs. Ethel Johnson, recording secretary; Mrs. Carletter McGruder, treasurer; Mrs. Albert LaForest, parliamentarian.

Members of the board - at - large are Mesdames Irma Widgeon, Geneva Yarrell, Spencer Dobson, Norma Dillard, Kathleen Carter, Francis Mackay, all of Baltimore.

Committee chairmen are Mesdames Clarice Richardson, Margaret Diggs, Olivia Spriggs, Virginia Hayes, Geneva Hodges, Walter Jahreiss, Catherine Elizabeth Phillips, Marguerite Brown.

FINISHING TOUCHES for the newly designed Vashti Turley Murphy Community Center at Crownsville State Hospital were put on this week. Seated, left to right, are Mrs. Simon H. Carter, Baltimore, chairman of the program committee; Mrs. Eloise Richardson, center, president of the Crownsville Women's Auxiliary; and Mrs. Ethel C. Johnson, Baltimore, recording secretary. Standing, Mrs. Mearland Brown, Baltimore, Crownsville Tag Matthews chairman; and Dr. Charles S. Ward, hospital superintendent.

CIO stages series of sit-ins

Members of the Civic Interest Group staged a series of sit - in demonstrations over the weekend in the Park Heights Ave. area.

Including among the seven places visited was Paul's Restaurant, in the 5400 block Park Heights Ave., where the students reported they were served sandwiches for 95 cents and coffee for 20 cents.

According to the students, when they entered the restaurant the owner insisted upon waiting on them himself, and said that the only thing he had on the menu was a "New York Sandwich" and coffee.

"The New York sandwich," the students reported, turned out to be a corned beef sandwich for which some of them were charged 85 cents and others 85 cents.

They also reported they had to pay for the food before it was served them, they were served on paper plates and in paper cups, and were told to hurry up and finish their food so they could leave.

The students said that because of the type of treatment they received, they took the food outside with them and formed a picket line.

Tax exemption proposal made by Goodman

An ordinance providing an exemption from taxation on property belonging to persons physically unable to work, was introduced in the City Council Monday.

The ordinance proposes an exemption applicable to an assessed evaluation of $7,500.

It was introduced by the Council president, Philip H. Goodman at request of State Senator Aaron A. Baer.

The Council also accepted a resolution urging that a committee study the feasibility of hiring Meter Maids.

The Council will take up the budget at 2 p.m. Friday.

Paint co. worker stricken on job

A 29-year-old paint company employee, John Marks Jr., 1710 Montford Ave., was discovered unconscious on his job early Monday morning, and was pronounced dead on arrival at South Baltimore General Hospital.

The Medical Examiner's office had not established cause of death at AFRO press time.

Larry Borak, foreman at the Golden Paint Co., Hawkins Point Rd., told police he had talked with Mr. Marks shortly after 4 a.m., and returned later to find him unconsious.

Sgt. John J. Scales, Southern District police officer, reported that Mr. Marks was employed at the time in the plant's Digestion Building, and worked around sodium sulphide.

Mr. Marks had been employed by the company since April of last year, police reported, and was married. His wife is Mrs. Karole Marks.
