Howard given edge in long series finale

WASHINGTON — Howard University and Lincoln University of Pennsylvania will meet for the 55th and final time at Howard Stadium Saturday as the oldest rivalry in Negro college football comes to an end. Game time is 1:30 p.m.

Lincoln officials have announced the discontinuance of varsity football after Saturday's contest. The Howard-Lincoln series started in 1894, and the teams have met 54 times since then. Lincoln leads in the rivalry with a 23 - 21 - 9 record. The 1959 game was declared "no contest" when fans at Philadelphia's Temple Stadium poured onto the field, halting play.

Lincoln, which is winless in Central Intercollegiate Athletic Association play to date, figures to be a 7 - point underdog against the Bisons, who are 4 - 4 on the season. Howard was an even stronger favorite last year, but ended up on the short end of a 12-8 score. Saturday will mark the end of three Howard players. They are quarterback Charlie Smith and end Bernie Quarterman, both starters, and halfback Johnny Ware, a member of the No. 2 backfield unit. Smith and Quarterman have made up the Bisons' top passing combination for the past three seasons, while Ware has accounted for Howard's longest run of the season, an 82-yard touchdown against Cape May Coast Guard.

Accompanying Smith in the starting backfield against Lincoln will be halfbacks Ted Hull and Howie Williams, and fullback Leon Armour. All are juniors.

Halas charge of pushing 'ridiculous' says Lenny

"How do you push a man who's trying to catch you?"

Lenny Moore posed tht question Thursday morning as effective rebuttal to charges by Chicago Bears coach George Halas that the Baltimore halfback fouled Chicago's J. C. Caroline before catching the touchdown pass that gave the Colts a 24-20 win over the Bears last Sunday afternoon at Wrigley Field.

"TWO GUYS are racing to reach a certain spot. One is to the left and behind the other. Unless you have time to stop, how do you push a man who's trying to catch you?"

Moore was asked for perhaps the umpteenth time by the AFRO, to comment on Halas' charges, which had been given wide newspaper publicity following the thrill-packed, last - second victory on the pass from John Unitas to his star halfback.

ACCORDING TO the Bears' owner - coach, Lenny made the fantastic end-one catch only because he had fouled Caroline.

Films, he said, showed clearly that Moore gave the Chicago defender a distinct shove; that a penalty for offensive pass interference should have resulted, and that the Colts should have been set back 15 yards instead of being allowed a touchdown.

"AS I SAID earlier, I felt something strike my leg as I neared the goal line," Lenny explained. "I learned later that Caroline had fallen.

"The charge by the Bears is ridiculous. Caroline had been pushing me all afternoon, but we didn't complain. They were doing it to all our guys—we didn't cry.

"ON THE play in question, I was running a brand new pattern — one we don't even have in the book. John (Unitas) had improvised it in our last huddle.

"He told me we'd try a variation of our 66 play. I was supposed to run out my regular pattern, one which caroline had been pretty successful at breaking up all through the game. After running it out, John said, I was to turn away and angle for the right corner.

"Since it was new even to me, it caught J. C. by surprise, I'm sure. He fell behind me and never did quite catch up. That's why I have to ask how do you push a man who's behind you and trying to catch you"

AN OFFICIAL of the Colts, standing nearby, suggested that the Halas weeping was, quite possibly, a cover for his own oversight.

"Any other team," he ventured, "holding a three-point lead with less than 20 seconds to play, would have had the goal line cluttered with halfbacks.

"ANY OTHER team, in such a situation, would have openly confessed that it wanted only to bottle up the obvious. A pass to Moore was the obvious. He is the fastest of the Colts receivers (Raymond Berry, Jim Mutscheller and Moore), so he has to be the obvious target.

"No other team in professional football, in such a position, would try to play Lenny Moore one on one, which is what the Bears did when they assigned Caroline to cover him all by himself."
