I AM THE WAY — BACK TO CHURCH

ON THE Eastside

BY CHARLOTTE DOWNIE

The officers and members of the Federal Improvement Association continue to make the Eastside community a beautiful section.

Led by their dynamic leader, Joseph Chester, the more than 200 members are in the process of helping with their annual Christmas project of giving aid to the less fortunate.

This year among the families to be helped are several to be chosen from the AFRO's Mrs. Santa's List. (Thanks neighbors).

AMONG THE officers of the organization are Mr. Chester, president; Jack Marable, vice president; Mrs. Barbara Marable, recording secretary; Miss Jean Hughes, assistant secretary, and Mrs. Sarah Trent, corresponding secretary.

Mrs. Evelyn Hawkins, assistant secretary; and Mrs. Alice Spencer, assistant secretary; William L. Wilon, finance committee chairman, and finance committee members Arthur Cartwright and Mattie Wilder; William Pitts, chairman business, and Wadsworth Robinson and Mrs. Jessie Ford assistant.

Mr. Gladys Austin is membership chairman and Mrs. Pearl Chester and Miss Gertrude Keene assistants. Mrs. James Robinson is sanitation division chairman, assisted by Landis Hale, Floyd Hartley, William Jackson and Isiah Johnson.

James Aikens and Melton are sergeant-at-arms.

The Christmas committee members are Mrs. Sarah Trent, chairman; Mesdames Pearl Chester, Evelyn Hawkins and Gladys Austin . . . Good work, Neighbors . . .

THIS SUNDAY members of the Sunbeam Assembly No. 13 OES will present the Calvin Brooks Gospel Concertists in a recital. The group will be accompanied by William Glascoe. The affair will be held at Little Ark Baptist Church, 1263 E. North Ave.

Sponsors of the 5 p.m. affair are Mrs. June D. Cooper, mother advisor; Ruby Gibbs, junior advisor, and Muriel Squirewell, junior scribe.

NEIGHBORS a must on your list is to attend the presentation of the Chancel Choir of Bethel Temple S.D.A. church in a pre - Christmas recital.

The recital will be held on Sunday, Dec. 1 at Douglass High School and is being sponsored by the PTA of School No. 61. Mrs. June D. Cooper is chairman, John B. Graybill, president, and Mrs. Edna McGuire, Kenneth M. Dean is choir director.

The commercial class of the Dunbar Evening School, Miss Anna Bennett, teacher, is planning a Christmas program to be given Dec. 14.

Henry Horney is principal and William Russell and William Hayes vice principals.

Neighbors, it is good to hear that our friend, Mrs. Cora White is much improved. Mrs. White comes home from the hospital every week end to be with her family . . . Neighbors, give her a call sometimes it will cheer her much.

Do remember our Real Good Neighbor. Her phone number is EA. 7 - 1090.

INVITATIONS ARE in the mail for the first Unique Holiday Open House Cosmetic Party to be held at the YMCA, located at 1619 Druid Hill Ave.

Sponsors of the affair are Messrs. and Mesdames Leslie Wood and Emerson Branch and Mesdames Bessie Moore and Thaxton. The party will be held from noon to 10 on this Saturday, Dec. 10 and will be highlighted by a surprise demonstration . . . Moving picture will also be featured and a delicious meal will be served. See ya there . . .

Neighbors, remember to select a needy family from the AFRO's Mrs. Santa's list and help them have a Merry Christmas this year . . . Call MU. 5-6015 and ask for Mrs. Santa.

ANNAPOLIS DOINGS

BY ELOISE RICHARDSON

The annual masquerade ball, given each year in Annapolis by the Alumnae Chapter of Delta Sigma Theta Sorority, was a highlight of the social season at the National Armory on Saturday.

Costumes were varied and many were unique and most attractive as one observed the overall picture.

A feature of the ball is the awarding of prizes to those who qualify in the three areas, the funniest costume, the most unique, and the prettiest.

Josey B Boothe received the prize for the funniest costume. The trousers of his costume were covered with figures and he wore a top hat.

The prize for the prettiest costume went to Mrs. Ruth Brooks of Glen Burnie. Her costume depicted a pretty peasant girl of Korea.

Mrs. Juanita Bailey received the prize for the most unique costume. She was costumed as a French maid from Gay Paree.

Her full white apron and black dress had four crinolines underneath and the blouse was topped by a neat small white collar. She wore an attractive ruffled full size round white cap.

AMONG OTHERS who attracted much attention were: Mrs. Orvilla Taylor, in an Alaskan costume depicting the gay dancing and skating star in red jersey with leotards, trimmed in white bunny fur along with a bunny fur muff and tam;

Mrs. Rose Wiseman in a mad hatter outfit of read and white with a stove pipe hat three feet tall; J. Alexander Wiseman costumed as a Bavarian mountian climber;

Also Mrs. Willie Mae Barne in a Chinese coolie outfit of brocaded satin; Mr. and Mrs. John T. Chambers Jr., strutting about together as East Indian couple. The collar of Mrs. Chambers' blouse was handmade in India;

Also Miss Pearl Rose Holland, a student of the University of Maryland, dressed as a gypsy maiden; Mrs. Naomi Brown of Glen Burnie, a South Korean maid;

Also Mr. and Mrs. James McGee of Federalsburg, dressed as Beatniks; Mrs. Marguerite Hall, a South American peasant fruit girl; Mrs. Ethel Wilson as a Hindoo woman; Miss Eloise Duvall as a Canadian lady and Mrs. Mary Brown as a Spanish girl.

A NUMBER of out - of - town guests attended the dance Mrs. Matilda Harrison, president of the chapter, had as her guests for the weekend, Mr. and Mrs. James McGee of Federalsburg, Md.

Mr. and Mrs. Norwood Brown had as their weekend guest, Mrs. Brown's cousin, Miss Anna E. Brown of Frederick, Md. Mrs. Brown is recording secretary of her chapter.

Other officers and members are:

Sorors Mary Wiseman, corresponding secretary; Rose Wiseman, treasurer; Lillian Burrell, journalist; Sorors Eloise Duvall, Anne Goodwin, Muriel Holland, Orvilla Taylor, Lois Randall, Ethel Wilson, Marguerite Hall, Willie M. Barnes, Jean Sparrow, Anis Gazzaway and Nan Wright.

THE MARYLAND Congress of Parent - Teacher Associations held an executive meeting at Bates High School on Sunday.

The Maryland group has become Procedure Book conscious, a project which gives each PTA the opportunity to keep a vivid record of all PTA activities during the year in accord with the eight-point program.

Activities of the program are recorded through newspaper clippings, pictures, newsletters, programs and brochures and are mounted in the Procedure Book.

The Maryland Congress has been so Procedure Book conscious that five county councils participated in the activity during the past PTA year.

Out of eight of these books submitted for display at the 1960 state meeting, three received ratings: Howard County, Tubman High School; superior; Wicomico County, Cedar Lane School, excellent, and Dorchester County, Mace Lane School, good.

Honorable Mention was given Howard County, Port Tobacco and Malcolm Schools and Prince Georges County, Clinton Grove School.

The winning books, along with the state book of the Congress, were entered in the national exhibit at Columbia, S. C. and out of 40 books entered in the national, Maryland had three top ratings out of four books judged.

The three winning books are identified as follows:

Howard County, Tubman School, rated superior; State Maryland Congress rated excellent, and Dorchester County, Mace Lane School, rated good.

Mrs. Eliza S. McDaniel is president of the Maryland Congress, and Mrs. Aurora V. Bransford is executive secretary.

Pierians, Morgan sponsor art show

with Lula Jones Garrett

The Pierians, who wouldn't be caught dead under the labeling of a "social" club, are having to bow under the decision of their guests after Sunday night's event.

They, as you know, were hostesses at a second annual art show, which was not only a superb cultural affair, but also a top-drawer social event.

Held in the rotunda of the Murphy Fine Arts Building of Morgan State College, the club sponsored a premiere showing of the works of Morgan Alumni, which was arranged by the Morgan State College Art Department.

The Pierians, a group of women organized two years ago, grew out of the idea that many people in this community would welcome an opportunity to participate more fully in the cultural side of Baltimore. To this end they engage in activities which lend themselves to a greater appreciation and enjoyment of the various forms of artistic expression.

But no blue stockings they!

For the affair on Sunday evening had a top party flair (twas black tie) and no more chic a group of hostesses or guests have been assembled in a moon's age. . . and not an flossy a buffet has been set in that time.

The Owenses designed the buffet. . . a half - circle affair that curved two walls for some 20 - odd feet, broken at center by palm flowers, and fountain arrangement uron which played multi - colored lights; and filled with a variety of hors d'oeuvres (hot, highly - garlicked meat ones drew the fancy of Governor Millard Tawes) fancy sandwiches, tiny cakes, punch, etc . . . and at the table ends were tall beds of ice banked with fruits at the beginning. olives, pickles, etc. at the opposite end. There were also a coffee table and fine French pastries for diet - watchers.

It takes a lot of nerve to begin talking about clothes as seen at the showing. . . there was such a variety and such breath-taking frocks.

Mrs. William Gardner, tripped in in an ankle-length white brocaded sheath, the kelly green lining peeping from the front curved slit, and carrying an immense stole of the white, lined with green on her arm. Pierian Lynda Musenden wore one of her strikingly Sarifrocks . . . this in gold embroidered forest green silk . . . and Olivia Dixon's pale studded lace was enhanced with gold slippers with big bows at the instep.

Pierian Kay Carter was in red taffeta with flared panels at the back of the short skirt, and augmented with red satin shoes. Pink was becoming to Pierian Hilda Higgins, hers pale satin encrusted with seed pearls and tiny rhinestones.

TWO OF THE CLUB members, Vivian Washington and Louise Lamb were in beige... the former in an intricately bouffed shirt frock and the latter in a fitted number that featured a bow at the front side; and a third, Jewell Josefe, undaunted beige as with aqua satin.

Verda Welcome, also of the club wore deep rich blue lace, cut square across the neckline, and fitted otherwise. And Mercedes Douglass was handsome in dark lace. Annette Johnson perked white satin with intricate blue satin stole and blue satin slippers. . . while her sister, Charlotte Mebane chose a cloth -of-gold sheath with a petal topped bodice.

Audrey Butler chose black lace and chiffon, and two of those about who turned to red velvet included member, Gwendolyn Tarter, and guest, Vashti Christmas . . . the latter's frock having an exquisite deep lace collar.

Three of the Pierians went in for black. . all three wore sheaths with varied details. These were President Edith Smith, Ruth Welling and Lula Patterson. Mamie Todd, of the club chose red, a princess frock in quilted material. Member Catherine Wilson was refreshing in a spring toned green taffeta, and lady who headed the committee which arranged the affair, Hazel Fleming, used the unusual mode of topping a full white chiffon skirt with a black chiffon top for the occasion.

Among the guests were:

Messrs. and Mesdames Wilson Auld, W. Emerson Brown, Paul Chester, William R. Dixon, J. Bruce Edemy, George Egee, Charles Fletcher, Maurice P. Freelander, William Gardner;

Messrs. and Mesdames James Gilliam, John G. Gloster, Paul Henderson, Sidney Hollander, Robert McIver, Medford Reynolds, Lawrence Sykes, Reginald Watts, Edward Williams;

FRIDAY LAST will long be remembered by the girls who belong to the Mondawmin Child Study Group, for, without any help from the fairer sex, husbands of the members gave a "surprise" party for them at the Kappa Kastle.

Shortly after nine o'clock husbands and wives assembled for an evening of dancing, card playing, and the lost art of stimulating conversation. The climax of the evening came when each wife drew a number and was presented with a gift bearing the same number.

Although the men refused to divulge the name of the one who did the shopping, every one agreed that he had excellent taste. Scarves, handkerchiefs, toiletries, pocketbook flashlights and ashtrays, and many other gifts showed up after wrappings had been hastily discarded.

Having misgivings regarding their culinary aptitudes, the men engaged a caterer to serve a repast of cold ham, roast turkey, chef's salads, rolls, cookies, and coffee.

Enjoying the merriment were Bettina and Glascoe Baker, Carolyn and Joseph Boston, Gladys and McNeil Brockington, Vivian and Harry Bruce, Leona and Harry Carpenter, Ruby and Flan Couch, Dorothy and Liston George, Clarence and Nahktah Gregory;

Also Forrest and Gladys Higginbotham, Robert and LaMoyne Matthews, Joyce and Wendell Neal, Magdalene and Charles Rice, Bernice and Archie Robinson, Earl and Thelma Rogers, Alease and Robert Lockley, and Nathaniel and Mae Woods.

Jacquelyn Williams, whose husband, Lt. Col. Williams, is overseas, was special guest of the men.
