WILLIAM TAYLOR KILLED IN ACCIDENT

2 fired, 1 quits at Crownsville

Two of the three Crownsville State Hospital employees found guilty of contributing to the delinquency of minor girl patients at the institution have been discharged and the third has resigned.

Samuel Althoff, assistant superintendent at Crownsville, said Thursday that two other men found not guilty have been returned to their jobs.

The discharged employees are:

Emmitt Tydings, white farm superintendent with a seven-year employment record, who entered a guilty plea, and drew a $100 fine and suspended six months House of Correction sentence.

Wilbur L. Harris, attendant, convicted and fined $150 with a suspended one-year sentence.

The employee who resigned is James C. Robinson, white attendant, who entered a guilty plea and was fined $150, with a suspended three to six months sentence.

DISMISSED in hearings before Judge Benjamin Michaelson in Anne Arundel County Juvenile Court in Annapolis last Friday were:

Walter Randall Jr. and Paul Hunter, both attendants.

Five other employees facing similar charges prayed a jury trial last Friday through their attorney, Michael F. Freedman, and their cases are still pending.

They are:

Edward C. Thomas, occupational therapist; Ralph H. Jones and Clarence Mason, attendants; Mesdames Marie A. Price and Irene Roberts, practical nurses.

No trial date had been set at AFRO press time.

* * *

WITH C. OSBORNE Duvall, State's attorney prosecuting, girl patients ranging in ages from 13 to 17 years, gave hesitant testimony at the hearings last Friday.

They appeared in court neatly dressed and coherent in speech, but apparently reluctant to testify against the accused men.

Those who did offer such testimony under the prodding of Mr. Duvall and Judge Michaelson said the men found guilty had merely touched them improperly at times.

One 15-year-old girl, however denied that one of the freed attendants had made improper advances to her.

She testified the charge had been forced from her on the threat of a jail sentence from Sgt. James W. Moorehand, Anne Arundel County policeman.

Sgt. Mooreland later denied this.

New taxes, pay raises to Council

By MAX JOHNSON

The Board of Estimates has recommended to the City Council three new taxes to help the city meet its expenses for next year.

The proposal to hike the existing $3.60 property tax rate has been dropped.

Also dropped were previously announced plans to tax restaurant meals costing over 50 cents.

The recommended new taxes are:

1. One percent on real estate transfers;
2. Five percent on residential telephones;
3. Five percent on amusements, such as movies, etc.

* * *

IF THESE taxes are allowed to stand by the City Council:

1. A person buying a $10,000 home will pay $100 more in settlement fees, unless the transfer levy is absorbed by the seller.
2. A $10 home telephone bill will be hiked to $10.50, and others proportionately.
3. The price of a 50-cent movie ticket will rise to 53 cents, a $1 ticket to $1.05, etc.

Charles L. Benton, city budget director, estimates these new taxes will yield $2,300,000 for 1961.

The recommended city budget for next year totals $292,624,985.

This is an increase of $38,989,353 over this year's budget of $253,635,632.

* * *

TO BALANCE this year's budget, the city will get $1,144,000 the last six months of the coming year from the State.

This will be possible because Gov. J. Millard Tawes has approved recommendations of the State Commission on Taxation and Fiscal Matters which would allow the city financial aid through adjustments in the State's Education and Public Welfare programs.

This committee is known as the James Committee, also.

Nurses aide shot; county suspect held

Following a two-day search by City and County police, a 48-year-old man wanted for questioning about the shooting of a nurses aide was taken into custody Thursday morning.

Dundalk police identified the suspect as John W. Horsey of the 200 block Morton Ct., Turner Station.

THE VICTIM, Mrs. Dorsie C. Horsey, 42, same address, was shot in the left side and back Monday night after she had left a bus.

Mrs. Horsey told police she was walking home when a man jumped from ambush, said "I've got you this time," and fired two shots.

Police said the man then fled from the scene in a stolen car armed with a 12-gauge shotgun, a 30-30 rifle and two cans of lye.

WHAT'S THEIR LINE?—Do these charming ladies look like school teachers to you, or maybe social workers, or could they be entertainers? Maybe you'll recognize the names (from left): Miss Faith Nicholson, Mrs. Carolyn Robinson and Miss Jeanne Randall. If you still can't figure their line you'll just have to turn to Page 17 where there is a feature all about the new building where they work. Hope you aren't surprised.

13 held in series of burglaries

"It's lucky thing we caught this gang before the holiday season.

"There's no telling how far they would have gone".

Those were the comments of a Western District officer Thursday morning when 12 teenagers and an adult were implicated in a series of armed robberies, burglaries, and assaults.

Total bail for the 13 defendants was set at $134,500, by Magistrate Calvin A. Douglass.

WITH THE exception of a 15 year-old youth, the men were held for action of the grand jury.

The 15-year-old-boy, was held on $500 bail for juvenile authorities in connection with one robbery.

Among those arrested were:

Ronald White, 18, of the 2200 block McCulloh St., who was charged on 14 counts.

Total bail for White was set at $60,500.

Also, Richard Wrice, 17, of the 1800 block N. Pulaski St., two charges of assault and robbery, bail $2,500; Louis F. Bacon, 18, 2100 block Presstman St., one charge, $2,500 bail; Walter Bruce, 17, 2400 block Calhoy Ave., four charges, $15,000 bail, and Vernon A. Carroll, 17, of the 600 block W. Mosher St., bail $10,000 on 12 charges.

Others were, Ronald Raymond, 18, Lexington Terrace, $7,500 bail on one charge; James W. Murphy Jr., 18, 100 block N. Fremont Ave., $7,500 bail on one charge; Clarence Workman, 17, 2200 block Westwood Ave., $7,500 bail on one charge;

Also, Lazzer Whitfield, 35, of the 1800 block W. Lexington St., who was held on $500 bail for allegedly receiving stolen goods; Eugene Martin, 19, 1100 block N. Mount St., $7,500 bail on one charge; James H. Burton, 19, 1500 block N. Pulaski St., $2,500 bail, one charge; and Lawrence T. Brown, 16, of the 1600 block N. Fulton Ave., who was held on $7,500 bail in connection with one robbery.

* * *

THREE WESTERN District officers who worked around the clock hours were credited with breaking the case.

They were Sgt. Bernard Coll and Patrolmen Stephen Tabeling and Charles Scroggs.

Police said they worked in pairs, sometimes with different companions, and now and then alone.

THE FIRST break occurred with the arrest of White police said.

Patrolmen Tabeling and Scroggs arrested White following a check on a pool room.

The officers said that when they asked the youth to identify himself, he came up with two identification cards, neither of which belonged to him.

Originally the 13 men were charged on Monday before Magistrate Douglass.

The cases were postponed until Thursday to give police time to conduct a further investigation.

* * *

LOSSES ATTRIBUTED to the gang were reported by:

Julius Naiditch, Joseph Pastorius Edward Wiseman, Samuel Jones, Mr. Mary Tully of the unit block Kossuth St.

Also, Mrs. Blanch Rankin of the 500 block Retreat St.; Benjamin Herman of the 2900 block Barrington Rd., Mrs. Bertha Zemel; Samuel Sherman, Mrs. Mazie Barper of the 1500 block N. Payson St., and a food market in the 2900 block of Walbrook Ave.

Other losses were reported by Mrs. Laura Merritt of the 1900 block W. Fayette St., and William Polk of the 1500 block N. Pulaski St., and Bernard Schener of the 5700 block Gist Ave.

Police said a sawed off shot gun was used in some of the robberies.

Uniform 6-cent tax on cigarettes asked

A State-wide six cents per pack tax on cigarettes is proposed in a bill to be submitted to the coming session of the body's Legislative Council.

There is presently a three cents per pack tax, and a number of political subdivisions have additional local taxes usually in the amount of three cents.

This bill would make the State tax uniform at six cents per pack, and repeal all local taxes.

It would then provide for paying half of the net proceeds to the State, and the other half to the political subdivisions, such as Baltimore City, Anne Arundel, Kent and Counties, etc.

Dr. Brain discusses Bible reading rule

Dr. George Brain, superintendent of schools, this week answered questions concerning the revised Bible reading regulation in the public schools.

Questions asked were those which have come to the AFRO's attention from interested readers.

Q—Does the new order mean children may no longer read the Bible during opening exercises. Are teachers the only ones to read the Bible at that time?

A—No. There is no change in the practice as relates to who reads the Bible.

Actually, the only change is that parents who do not want their children to be present at the reading of the Bible may ask to have them excused.

Q—Does the revised regulation mean that there will be no pictures displayed of the Christ child and the Virgin Mary at this holiday season as in the past?

A—No. There is nothing changed as to the observance of the holiday in the school room. Parents who wish their children to be excused from the observance may request it.

Q—Does the regulation mean there will be no discussion of the Jewish holidays now forthcoming or of the religious significance of Christmas?

A—No. This may continue as usual but parents who wish their children excused from such exercises may make the request.

* * *

THE REVISION in the Bible reading regulation came after Mrs. Madalyn E. Murray, withdrew her 14-year-old son, William J. Murray III, from his ninth grade classes at Woodbourne Junior High School in protest against Bible reading during the brief devotion hours.

The son returned to school after being out two weeks but on Wednesday Mrs. Murray, a professed atheist, asked her son, filed a petition in Superior Court asking that the School Board be required to halt Bible reading in the classroom.

The School Board on Nov. 17 revised its regulation to make it possible for a parent who desires, to have his child excused from the classroom during the Bible reading.

A regulation in effect since 1905 states that its class shall read the Bible or the Lord's prayer or both, without comment, at the start of each day.

Two named to January grand jury

With colored residents comprising one-third of the city's population, the Supreme Bench of Baltimore City has selected only two to serve on the latest 23-membebr grand jury.

Announcement of the January term jury was made on Thursday, and followed the traditional pattern of selecting two colored membebrs, which gives colored residents less than a ten per cent representation.

It has been pointed out, time after time, that this representation should be increased, but the Supreme Bench has continued to appoint only two persons.

The new membbers of the jury are Dr. James M. Pair, 2802 Garrison Blvd., physician and the Rev. Thomas P. Fraser, 3200 Walbrook Ave., pastor of Walbrook Trinity Presbyterian Church.

They will serve for the next four months.

Accident victim was Miss McDowell

One paragraph of an AFRO story on Tuesday which reported the death of Miss Mary McDowell, 17, 717 N. Smallwood St., in a car accident, mistakenly used the name of a "Miss Hope" as being dead.

No "Miss Hope" was involved in the accident and the AFRO regrets the error and that certain friends of Mrs. Rosa Hope, 4006 Bruce Dr., thought Mrs. Hope was dead.

Miss McDowell was a passenger in a car driven by Willie Hope, 30, 4000 block Spruce Dr.

Funeral rites set for Monday

Funeral services will be held Monday at 1 p.m. at the Elkridge Baptist Church, Elkridge, Md., for William Edward Taylor, 41, 5448 Race Rd., Elkridge, Md., popular real estate salesman.

He was killed instantly in an automobile accident early Thursday morning.

At the time of his death, Mr. Taylor was salesmanager at the Manning Shaw real estate firm. He was former assistant sales manager at the Supreme Liberty Life and Mutual Benefit Society.

State police report that the accident occurred at 3:30 a.m. on US Route 1, Baltimore Co., at Halethorpe.

Mr. Taylor was alone, driving South in a 1958 Mercury sedan when he crashed into a tractor trailer which was attempting to make a U-turn.

Police said Clyde William Engle, Carlisle, Pa., driver of the truck was taken to the Waterloo State Police Barracks and charged with manslaughter and improper turn and released on bond.

* * *

RELATIVES SAY Mr. Taylor was on the way home from Baltimore.

He was pronounced dead on arrival at St. Agnes Hospital at 4:08 a.m.

Mr. Taylor was born Aug. 18, 1919, in Elkridge, son of Mrs. Nora Taylor and the late Charles Augustus Taylor who died in 1950.

He was a lifelong member of the Elkridge Baptist Church and a 1941 graduate of Douglass High School.

He was an Army sergeant in World War II and served in the South Pacific.

He and his wife, Mrs. Anita Taylor, had been married 19 years.

The Taylor children, two daughters, are Miss Shirley Taylor, a Morgan State College freshmen and 1960 Douglass graduate, and Miss Nora Taylor, a Lemmel Junior High School pupil.

* * *

WARREN SHAW, president of the Manning Shaw firm where Taylor was employed at the time of his death, announced Thursday that a Morgan State College scholarship in business administration would be given in Mr. Taylor's name.

His wife and Mrs. Elizabeth Murphy Phillips, AFRO assistant to the president, are named to the scholarship board, Mr. Shaw said.

In commenting on the death of Mr. Taylor, Mr. Shaw said, "He showed courage, ability and salesmanship to be greatly admired. We have indeed lost a good citizen and faithful worker for the cause of our race."

In addition to his wife, his mother and daughters, Mr. Taylor is survived by a sister Mrs. Marie Foster, and a brother, Benjamin Taylor, both of Baltimore.

Burial is in the Baltimore National Cemetery.

EEOC and CMEA reach agreement

Baltimore's Equal Employment Opportunity Commission Board announced Wednesday that it had reached a satisfactory agreement with the Classified Municipal Employees' Association on the matter of admitt in geolored city workers as members.

Dr. Mildred Otenasek, EEOC Board chairman, issued this statement, following an executive session of the Board Wednesday afternoon:

"Due to recent developments, EEOC has cancelled the hearing for CMEA scheduled for Dec. 14.

"The recent developments are:

"1. CMEA reveals discovery of eight colored persons in its organization.

"2. The president of CMEA advises that CMEA's constitutional by-laws, as interpret by them, prohibits discrimination.

"3. We have been advised by the president of the organization that CMEA will accept all applications without discrimination, and will process them without regard to race, color or creed.

"As required by Section 14-C of the Ordinance as amended, the Commission will request that the agreement not to discriminate be reduced to writing."

* * *

DR. OTENASEK said that following the receipt of such an agreement from CMEA, EEOC would keep a watchful eye on the organization to determine if it was being followed.

The Ordinance she referred to was that establishing EEOC.

Section 14-C reads:

"If an agreement is reached for the elimination of such unfair practice (discrimination) as a result of such a conference, conciliation and persuasion, the agreement shall be reduced to writing and signed by the respondent, and an order shall be entered by the Commission setting forth the terms of said agreement.

"No order shall be entered by the Commission at this stage of the proceedings except upon such written agreement.

"If no such aagreement can be reached, a finding to that effect shall be made and reduced to writing, with a copy thereof furnished to the complainant and the respondent"

EEOC'S CASE AGINST CMEA has been developing for several months.

Mayor J. Harold Grady, at one point, announced that the organization was not a municipal agency, and was not under his control.

However, Harrison L. Winter, city solicitor, later ruled that CMEA was a labor organization, and subject to EEOC jurisdiction.

Student Sitdown Leader Dies Suddenly

TONY ADONA

Asthma attack is fatal

"He was truly a good person."

"He was small of stature, but big of heart."

"He was the very heart of the student sitdown movement (Civic Interest Group)."

"His courage, devotion and determination inspired all who knew him."

"He was not only a great leader, but a friend and brother . . . maybe he will now join the big sitdown . . ."

This is how community and student leaders spoke of the unexpected death of a brilliant, young student leader, this week.

Tony Adona, 26, 2005 Baker St., a University of Maryland Law School junior, died early Wednesday morning.

Relatives report that he suffered an asthma attack, with which he has been plagued all his life, shortly before midnight Tuesday.

He was rushed to Johns Hopkins Hospital and pronounced dead at 1:05 a.m. Wednesday.

* * *

HIS AUNT, Miss Varnetta Nutter, with whom he lived, said Mr. Adona showed no signs of illness prior to the fatal attack.

However, the attacks had been recurring more often in the past months, she stated.

She described him as being "perfectly relaxed" Tuesday.

Out of school, due to the snow storm, Tony spent the day playing records and making tape recordings, she said.

* * *

MR. ADONA gained national recognition for his leadership in the local sitdown movement.

Tony became a CIG leader last March. From then until his untimely death, he was a key figure in the student protest movement.

After the school day, he devoted all his time to the CIG, including summer vacation, weekends and holidays.

He was a prominent figure in all CIG activity and attended the national meeting of sitdown leaders in Atlanta.

He was also arrested here in Baltimore three times as a result of his CIG activities.

There were no demonstrations, negotiating sessions,

A tragedy

AN EDITORIAL

Twenty-six - year - old Tony Adona was a dedicated young man. He believed that freedom for himself and other young people in their day, would come if they pricked the conscience of those who opposed equal rights.

So it was that three years ago, Tony, then a Hopkins University graduate, was one of the Baltimore NAACP youth members who joined a nationwide youth march to Washington.

He was in the forefront of the student sitdown movement in the Baltimore area, and traveled to other sections wherever youngsters gathered to plan a nonviolent campaign.

Courteous, soft - spoken Tony took the sitdown movement seriously.

There was no braggadacio about him when a demonstration opened a restaurant or a store or a theatre. He was ready to go ahead to the next task. He was one of the first to volunteer for picket duty in all kinds of weather.

He experienced manhandling by police and business men. He knew what it was like inside a paddy wagon and a jail cell.

Tony, along with other sitdown leaders affiliated with the Civic Interest Group and the NAACP, gave up his vacation this summer to ring

Dawson rejects post in Cabinet

His age and recent illness had nothing to do with Cong. William Dawson's decision to turn down President-elect Kennedy's offer to become Postmaster General.

From his home in Chicago last night (Thursday), the 74-year-old Congressman explained:

"I have a very important job to do on the Government Operations Committee of which I am chairman.

"Yes, it would have been a great honor to have been the first colored man in a President's cabinet, but this committee work, is very important."

A SOURCE close to the Congressman added:

"He enjoys his Congressional work. Right now, as chairman of this committee, he's holding down one of the most vital posts in the country.

"The TWA flight No. 242 had 42 passengers. There were no survivors. The United DC-8 had 83 passengers. Lone survivor was an 11-year-old boy who was pulled from the wreckage.

Two hours after the crash, Fire Department authorities said no bodies had been found in the debris.

The United DC-8 plane was overdue at Idlewild Airport en route from Chicago to New York.

The TWA constellation plane was arriving from Dayton, Ohio, to land at La-Guardia Airport.

Seventy-six passengers and a crew of seven were on the United Airlines; 37 passengers and a crew of five were on the TWA plane.

The Pillar of Fire Church in the Flatbush area, which has a colored congregation, is reported burning in the 7-alarm fire.

The Ethiopian Embassy here has received no word from the new government formed in Addis Ababa, a spokesman said Thursday.

Inku Haile, charge de affairs at the Embassy, said, "so far we have heard nothing. I am expecting to hear from them today. Right now we only know what we have read in the papers."

Emperor Haile Selassie's son seized control in a bloodless coup Wednesday while the Emperor was making a state visit to Brazil.

Crown Prince Asfa Wassen, the Emperor's 44-year-old son, proclaimed the new regime as a means to end "3,000 years of injustice," a period that would go back to pre - Christian times.

Seek court, and attorney appointments

The Baltimore branch NAACP urged this week the appointment of additional qualified colored attorneys in the State's attorney's office, and to a vacant position of master of chancery in Circuit Court.

In a telegram to Saul Harris, State's attorney, Dr. Lillie M. Jackson, NAACP president, stated.

"Baltimore branch NAACP is deeply disappointed over your continued failure to appoint additional qualified colored assistants in your department of our municipal government.

"We feel that the representation of qualified colored attorneys in your office is greatly disproportionate to our population in the city.

"This is to request an appointment on this matter at your earliest convenience."

ON THURSDAY afternoon, Mr. Harris told the AFRO there were no vacancies presently on his staff of 18 assistants and one deputy State's attorney.

He said further:

•FLASH• 2 Planes crash over New York

Some 124 persons were killed this morning (Friday) when two airplanes collided in midair over New York.

First reports said a TWA and United plane crashed, shortly after 11 a.m. One plane fell in the Staten Island region, and the other in Brooklyn, where ten apartment houses were set afire.

The collision was called the worst air crash in the history of aviation.

Wanted—kind hearts

The deadline has passed for Mrs. Santa to receive letters from AFRO readers. Her desk is completely snowed under with requests for help from nearly 1,000 needy families.

Now, what Mrs. Santa needs, more than anything else, is help to meet the needs of these deserving families who otherwise will have nothing for Christmas.

BLUE STREAK SPECIAL:

Are Welfare trials worth time, money?

By BILL SLATER

What has the recent rash of welfare fraud prosecutions accomplished?

According to some sources, nothing.

And there are others who say that the prosecutions resulted in a decrease in the number of persons defrauding the Department of Public Welfare.

Who is right and who is wrong is still up for discussion.

But about certain facts there can be no quibbling.

* * *

1. INCLUDING THE salaries of all required personnel, it costs anywhere from $300 to $400 to prosecute a single welfare case.

2. Of the 388 cases presented to the State's Attorney's office this year, only 13 persons were jailed.

3. Although some information was given, DPW officials are reluctant to release any figures concerning the total amount of money alleged defrauded for the year of 1960.

However, despite the attitude of the DPW, informed sources say the total amount of money lost through fraud falls far below costs of prosecuting the cases.

4. ALTHOUGH WELFARE officials claim they release full details to the State's Attorney's office when an over-

Hospital aides say youth was beaten

(See Photo Page 24)

"I had never seen such a thing in all my life. It was terrible . . . they were beating him."

Describing to the AFRO how a 20 - year-old youth was allegedly beaten by policemen, early Monday, was Mrs. Ruth Boddie, nurse-in-charge of the recovery room at Provident Hospital.

Mrs. Boddie said she saw the assault on Donald Price, 2400 block Huron St., at the emergency entrance to the hospital about 2:30 a.m. Monday.

Mr. Price was admitted to the hospital with a concussion, body bruises and a blackened right eye.

He was discharged this morning (Friday) and is being held at Central Police Station for investigation.

Capt. Joseph Mahrer told the AFRO Friday, Mr. Price would probably be given a hearing Saturday morning on charges of assault and disorderly conduct.

The NAACP asked Commissioner Hepbron for a prompt inquiry into the case.

MRS. BODDIE gave the following account:

"Mrs. Camelia Bruton (a nurse's aide at the hospital) and I were in the emergency room when we saw the light from the police wagon.
