Rev. Mr. Wood protests tavern license transfer

"We are determined to fight your coming into our community. I don't intend to move from the neighborhood but to strive to build it up."

These are statements made by the Rev. Marcus G. Wood, pastor of Providence Baptist Church, in protest to the transfer of a liquor business license to a location near his church.

The owner, Jessie Del Arciprete, who is asking the move from 509 N. Fremont Ave., to 524 N. Fremont Ave., is scheduled to appear before the liquor Board for a hearing on the transfer on Dec. 21 at 4 p.m.

The Rev. Mr. Wood says his church members have to travel past the corner of Fremont and Edmondson going to and from church and there are already two liquor outlets in the half-block.

HE WRITES in his letter to Mr. Arciprete:

"We do not want your business in our community. We are trying to develop the community. Recently the city planted trees in this area. We will never keep it up like it should be if we are flooded with liquor outlets.

"Many of the neighbors are strongly against your coming to the neighborhood. They are constantly calling me and other community leaders objecting to another outlet in this community."

arrests or court trials in which the likeable Tony was not included.

Mr. Adona was solely responsible for integrating the student movement.

He brought in students from Johns Hopkins University, his alma mater; Goucher and the city's high schools.

COLLECTING FUNDS to operate the movement also fell in Tony's lap.

At the time of his death, he was conducting a raffle and distributing cans to business firms to help keep CIG in operation.

Speaking for the student group, Clarence Logan, co-leader said:

"Tony exemplified everything a sitdowner holds dear.

"His devotion, courage, and determination made him the type of person we all want to be."

MISS CATHERINE O'HARA, speaking for Goucher sitdowners, said:

"It was the most distressing news I've ever been required to give. He was such a truly good person."

The Rev. Marion C. Bascom, pastor, Douglas Memorial Community Church, who heads a group of adults aiding sitdowners, said:

"In Tony, the city has lost a valiant spirit. All who knew, loved and admired him have suffered a tremendous loss.

"Maybe he now will join the big sitdown."

Mrs. Juanita Mitchell, NAACP legal redress attorney who has served as advisor to student demonstrators, said:

"Tony's death is not for us to question, but it is awfully hard. He was a dedicated and brilliant young man and you seldom find both of these qualities in one person.

"He gave unselfishly of himself for the cause of freedom. In spite of the fact that his arrests might endanger his right to practice, he allowed himself to be arrested three time in order to test the constitutional right of colored people to enter public restaurants and lunch rooms. . . ."

DR. LILLIE M. JACKSON, president of the Baltimore NAACP:

"This hurts. Tony was to graduate in June. He told me he was going to practice civil rights law. He was arrested three times for his sitdown efforts doorbells, to urge people to register, and to transport them to the registration center so they could qualify to vote.

The tragedy of Tony Adona's unexpected death, this week, is that he had to use his energies and time to fight for the equal rights guaranteed him under our constitution, when he should have been free to continue his studies at the University of Maryland Law School where he was marked as a promising student.

Tony Adona's name will go down in history as one who gave his life to the cause of freedom. He is in good company with men like NAACP lawyers Charles Houston and Andy Ransome, who also died before their Supreme Court cases to end public school segregation were decided.

If Baltimore becomes a truly civilized town — when all public places open their doors willingly and graciously to all customers regardless of color—it will be because Tony Adona passed this way.—B. M. PHILLIPS that snow, he was working to distribute cans around the city to get funds to help the students. He went to school on Tuesday.

"He was a mighty fine, dedicated young man. His death won't be in vain."

MR. ADONA, a native New Yorker, was the son of Mr. and Mrs. Anthony (Isabelle) Adona, of Washington and New York, respectively.

Tony was raised by his grandmother, Mrs. Julia Barclay, Salisbury, Md.

An honor graduate of the Salisbury high school, he won an engineering scholarship to Johns Hopkins University in 1953.

He moved to Baltimore after enrolling at JHU.

In 1955, he changed his major and took a degree in political science in 1958.

Mr. Adona entered law school in the fall of '58, where he was enrolled when he died.

FUNERAL SERVICES will be held at Walbrook-Trinity Presbyterian Church, Walbrook Ave., and Ellamont St., 3 p.m. Saturday.

The Rev. Thomas P. Fraser 3rd, pastor, will officiate.

Burial will follow at the Mt. Calvary Cemetery.

The Herbert Nutter Funeral Home, 3031 W. North Ave., is in charge of arrangements.

Public viewing will be 9 a.m. to 10 p.m. today (Friday).

Other survivors are:

Bernard Adona, stationed at Fort Bragg, N.C., brother; two sisters, Mrs. Isabelle Gregory, Annapolis, and Miss Irene Adona, a Forest Park High School student.

Also Mrs. Julia Seward, aunt, NYC; two uncles, Daniel Elsey and Noah Barclay, Salisbury and Tipton, Md.

'Very shocking,' CIG chairman

Levlin West, chairman of the CIG group, said: "I am sure I voice the sentiments of the whole body, that the loss of Tony is very shocking and words cannot express our feelings.

"Tony gave his all to the movement, as the chairman of the Planning Committee. Without his dynamic drive, his depths of feeling, his enthusiasm, the movement could not have been as effective as it was."

Human relations council names Ruth D. Bates

Mrs. Ruth Delaney Bates, former area sales manager for a cosmetics firm, is the new director of research and education for the Commissioners' Council on Human Relations.

She succeeds Mrs. Alma S. Scurlock, who recently accepted an appointment to the Office of Urban Renewal.

Mrs. Bates is a former staff member of the Washington Urban League. Other previous positions include five years as executive secretary to the vice president of a cigaret firm and administrative assistant to the president of Alcorn A. and M. College.

SHE IS vice president of the Washington Urbanites and a member of the board of the D.C. Chamber of Commerce.

Mrs. Bates is a graduate of Florida A. and M. College and holds a master's degree from New York University in business and personnel management.

Aaron Goldman, chairman of the council, said Mrs. Bates "will bring to this position valuable experience and skills."

She will assume her duties on or about Jan. 1, the council said.

giving up a great deal to go in the cabinet."

THE SPOKESMAN scotched published reports that Cong. Dawson's age, and a recent illness, motivated his decision.

"No, his recent illness had nothing to do with it and his age, no! He is a very active man and one who doesn't look back.

"He just enjoys his work, and felt he could do a more effective job in the Congress."

There was no word at AFRO press time as to whether President-elect Kennedy would offer the Postmaster General job to another colored person.

However, reports persist that Dr. Ralph Bunche, now U.N. undersecretary, will be offered a spot as assistant secretary of state.

In 1950 Dr. Bunch turned down a similar job offer because of segregated living facilities in Washington at that time.

Mr. Kennedy expressed "regrets" Thursday that Mr. Dawson would not be in his cabinet, but said he would call on the Congressman from time to time for advice.

The President-elect also stated that no selection has yet been made to fill the post.

EVERY SINCE Mr. Kennedy and his Vice President-elect Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas reportedly considered naming a colored person to the cabinet the nation's press speculated that Dawson would be the first of his race to serve in the capacity.

Newsmen speculated that Dawson would be the choice because he was the first of his race to head a Congressional Committee, is conservative, gets along well with his colleagues and has a brilliant academic record.

When contacted by the AFRO last week, and asked whether or not he had been offered the post, Congressman Dawson replied:

"I don't know any more about it than you do. . . I have never in my life accepted something that's never been offered."

Hundreds work to save trapped man

HOLLY SPRINGS, Miss.—Racial differences dissolved here Wednesday as white and colored rescuers worked 20 hours to snatch a tenant farmer trapped by a cistern cave-in from the jaws of death.

Harry Miller, 44, spent most of that time buried to the chin, surrounded by sandy walls so treacherous a careless touch could have set off dangerous slides.

At one point during the long night, Miller was completely buried for 35 minutes. An oxygen tube lowered down the 20-foot deep cistern earlier saved his life.

The rescue workers risked being buried alive by crumbling sand that defied the make - shift timber shoring along the walls. Three times they almost freed Miller, only to be balked by fresh cave - ins.

"I never gave up hope," Miller mumbled before he finally sank into exhaustion and shock.

The rescue operation enmiles around. Hundreds, including Miller's wife and five children, stood in the flood-lit area in 22 degree cold through the long night. Bonfires roared.

Miller's wife wept hysterically and their children helped her toward home.

Working in relays, men shoveled cautiously at shifting red sand and rigged planks and timbers.

Hold nurse's aide in operation

A 25 - year - old Arlington County Hospital nurse's aide was arrested Saturday on a U.S. Commissioner's warrant for an abortion performed on another 25 - year - old woman Dec. 3, police reported.

The woman, Evelyn D. McKoy, of the 400 block G St., NE, was arrested by Homicide Squ. Joseph O'Brien and Sam Wallace at 1 p.m. Saturday.

ACCORDING to Sgt. Wallace the victim was taken to the D.C. General Hospital where her condition was listed as critical.

Wallace said the accused woman was formerly employed at the Casualty Hospital, also as a nurse's aide.

The homicide sergeant said the McKoy woman will be arraigned before the U.S. Commissioner Monday.

Alexandria man wins acquittal

Willie Young, 71-year-old Alexandria handyman, was acquitted of slaying Harry Boteler, 55, last August, when the Commonwealth failed to present evidence to prove the murder.

of the "King of Kings," as Selassie was known, remained in doubt. The bearded monarch boarded a plane Wednesday night at Sao Paulo, Brazil for the flight home. He refused to talk with newsmen at the airport.

Earlier in the day a spokesman had said that Selassie would stick to his schedule in Brazil while awaiting word from official sources in Addis Ababa.

The Emperor may have difficulty getting back into his country as his son has cancelled incoming and outgoing flights at the Addis Ababa airport.

The new regime has some of the earmarks of the nationalism and socialism prevalent in neighboring Egypt and Sudan.

CROWN PRINCE WASSEN, eldest son of the 68-year-old Emperor, said the new government is backed by the army and the police. He did not give the precise composition of the new regime, but said it would include himself, the army and "educated Ethiopians."

The change of government announcement was broadcast from Addis Ababa. It said that Parliament had been dissolved.

The radio quoted from a communique that set out aims of the new regime as raising the standard of living, advancing industry and training the nation's young men for responsible posts. It said foreign capital would remain untouched.

The Prince visited the United States and met President Eisenhower last year.

Much of the Prince's brief announcement was devoted to claims that Ethiopians were being held back from achieving prosperity.

"The people of Ethiopia have waited for a long time with patience in the hope that they will be free some day of oppression, poverty and ignorance," the Crown Prince said.

" But empty promises can no longer satisfy the people who want concrete action, aimed at improving their standard of living.

"Development plans have not been executed in practice and the long strides being made by the newly independent African states have made the people of Ethiopia realize that these new nations are advancing pretty fast, leaving the people of Ethiopia behind . . .

"The laws and regulations of the country have been abused to deprive the common people of their rights and privileges in order to boost up the riches of the favored few."

The Crown Prince declared:

"I have decided that from now on I will serve my country of Ethiopia, the people, in accordance with the constitution on a fixed salary, like any other Ethiopian."

Normal communications with Addis Ababa were impossible and first reports of the uprising came in coded dispatches from the United States, British and French Embassies, which said the imperial household guard of 6,000 elite troops had risen against the Emperor.

SELASSIE, who traces his ancestry back to King Solomon and the Queen of Sheba, has remained aloof from the rising tide of nationalism sweeping Africa. His country has been independent almost continuously since the 11th Century B.C. Its people are Coptic Christians and the Emperor's name is translated "Power of the Holy Trinity."

He ascended the throne in 1930, abolished slavery, gave his country a constitution and parliament but declared his own power indisputable.

In 1936, when Mussolini attacked Ethiopia, Selassie made one of his rare public appearances in an impassioned plea for assistance from the League of Nations.

Later, the Emperor was driven into exile by Mussolini's Fascist legions. He returned to power in 1941 with British aid.
