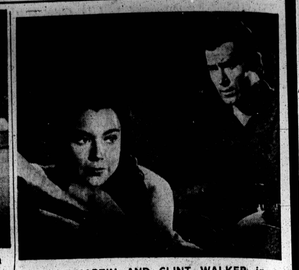
ELVIS PRESSLEY finds baby-sitting tougher than Army duty in his first return-to-civilian-life movie, the Hal Wallis Technicolor musical romance, "G.I. Blues," which is now at the Regent Theatre.



ANDRA MARTIN AND CLINT WALKER in a dramatic scene from Warner Bros.' Technicolor production, "Yellowstone Kelley," now playing at the Harlem Theatre. Film also stars popular TV personalities Edward ("Kookie") Byrnes and John ("Lawman") Russell.

FIRST RUN FILMS

'YELLOWSTONE KELLY' PLAYING AT HARLEM

Boasting the most unusual cast ever assembled, Warner Bros.' "Yellowstone Kelly," Technicolor production starring three top television personalities, is now playing at the Harlem Theatre.

The film brings together for the fist time in a motion picture Clint Walker, who has won a tremendous following as the star of Warner Bros.' "Cheyenne" TV series, Edward Byrnes, the "Kookie" of "77 Sunset Strip" and currently the sensation among America's teenagers, and John Russell, the popular Dan Troop of "Lawman."

To round out the top personality cast, Andra Martin portrays the Indian girl, around whom much of the drama and action revolves, and Ray Danton plays the role of Savapi, a minor Indian chief who holds a murderous hatred for all whites. Others include Rhodes Reason, Claude Akins, Gary Vinson and Warren Oates.

TWO SPACE THRILLERS OFFERED AT ROYAL

The first landing of Earthmen on the moon is almost a minor incident in "Battle in Outer Space," now at the Royal.

More important is their assignment — to halt, if they can, the attack of outlaw spacemen on the planet Earth.

A production filmed in Tohoscope and Eastman Color, the new science - fiction thriller reportedly a spectacular, eye-opening example of movie-making art.

After destroying the enemy spacemen's advance fortress on the moon, Earth's first space expedition returns to alert the world, giving it time to prepare for the film's climactic battle in outer space between Earth's fighter rockets and the outlaw spacemen's flying saucers.

"12 To The Moon," new science - fiction film adventure of the flight of the first astronauts to the moon, is the second thriller.

ELVIS IS BACK, THE REGENT HAS HIM

Elvis is back in a great, big and different way in "G.I. Blues," which is now at the Regent Theatre.

He's the same wonderfully-voiced singer, but has the added dimension of maturity plus a demonstrated flair for playing romantic comedy that stamps him another graduate from simply a singer of style to a singer - actor of considerable appeal.

In the Hal Wallis Technicolor production, a Paramount release, Presley's leading lady is Juliet Prowse, a knockout of a redhead, who is also a sensational dancer.

Fans will remember her as the leading dancer of "Can-Can." She goes a step farther—and a long step it is, too—as Elvis' romantic "target" in "G.I. Blues," a torrid cabaret dancer who has a reputation with the G.I.s of having a heart of ice.

Presley become involved when he is drafted by his buddies to break through her defense and win a $300 wager they have that it can be done by the G.I. who has the right tactical maneuvers. During the "maneuvers" Elvis and Juliet fall in love and there are amusing complications before the path of romance leads to a happy end.

BALTIMORE AFTER DARK
On The Town
WITH THE PUB CRAWLERS

Like hey now, all you pretty cool ones, and we do mean cool.

As you might suspect, there has been plenty of weeping, wailing and gnashing of teeth during the past seven brights and dims — especially among the club owners.

Seems like John Q. Public has been putting aside all his extra loot for the man in the red suit and white whiskers, so what happens when the weekend hits — Hawkins blasts in with all that snow.

Ye pub crawlers must confess, too, that the after - dark scene in the Big B was strictly on its own.

Must confess that when that white stuff hit the street, the Crawlers pulled a Yogi Bear and hibernated like crazy.

Yet — the word reached us that things are still swinging like crazy.

Now that the snow has made it, tis time to make it to the hot spots.

* * *

AFTER ALL, the stores close at 9, then you've just gotta relax somewhere, so why not trot on round and be entertained.

Like at the Club Sahara, Chicks, Herb's Melody Bar, or the Spot.

Naturally you can't overlook the Avenue which is swinging all the way and the snow hasn't stopped Dotson's from percolating.

Add to this Jones Cocktail Lounge, the Club Astoria, Lucky Number, Carnival Lounge Rally Club, Clover Club.

Also Red Fox, Vilma and Billies — there's just gotta be someplace there that appeals to you.

* * *

By the by — it's not too early to start making your plans for the gala New Year's celebration, cause in case you didn't remember, the bars are open all night that trip.

Keep watching the AFRO for all the details, and plan your New Year's Eve On the Town—the Pub Crawlers are.

Cummings loses Appeals Court try

Handsome Arbie Robert Cummings tried and lost this week.

The Court of Appeals said no to his motion for a new trial and affirmed the decision that he must spend the rest of his natural life behind the gray walls of the Maryland Penitentiary.

Cummings, a Chicagoan, was convicted last December of first degree murder in the Cherry Hill slaying of attractive Mrs. Inez White, his sweetheart.

The slaying occurred July 30 in the Cherry Hill Shopping Center before a horrified crowd of noon-day shoppers.

Cummings admitted on the witness stand that he had pumped seven bullets into the body of the beautiful Chicago socilite whom he said he loved.

He blamed the shooting on the heat and on the fact that his sweetheart made him wait for more than three hours before arriving at the site of their rendezvous.

* * *

AT THE TRIAL, it was disclosed that Mrs. White had come to Baltimore to visit her sisters, and that Cummings followed her later.

Arriving the night prior to the slaying, Cummings and Mrs. White made an appointment to meet the next day at the shopping center. It was there that the shooting took place and Cummings was immediately placed under arrest by a policeman who was in the area.

Both Cummings and Mrs. Whie were married.

With the Appeals Court turning down his plea, Cummings must now serve the sentence imposed on him.

While technically he is eligible for parole at any time, actually, persons serving life terms must usually spend a minimum of 18 years in prison.
