Mrs. Logan, 'member of a passing generation'

Funeral services were held Wednesday at 1 p.m. at the Madison Avenue Presbyterian Church for Mrs. Sallie Catherine Logan, 86, formerly of 1622 Druid Hill Ave., who died Friday at a home for the Aged in Philadelphia.

The Rev. Reginald Daniels, pastor of the Madison Avenue Church, presided.

In the eulogy, the Rev. Mr. Daniels recalled Mrs. Logan's roll as a social, civic and church leader in the community in her younger days.

HE SAID: "Her passing bring to our minds the coming to an end of a fine generation of women, born shortly after the Civil War, who gave culture, quality and a fingness to the church and the community.

"They set the pace and gave the early organizations of the church members, they held the church together in its ups and downs.

"Those, like our member who has passed, helped, others to find friends, a place in the church and the community.

"Although her death marks the coming to an end of her generation, we find that she and others left a great heritage in the culture, the refinement and the good we find in present generations and generations to come."

The Rev. Mr. Daniels was assisted by the Rev. Robert T. Newbold, pastor of the Grace Presbyterian Church.

MRS. LOGAN was born Nov. 26, 1874 in Central Point Caroline County, Va., daughter of the late William and Catherine McCue.

She and her husband, Amos Logan, were married in Philadelphia, Pa. in 1893. They met in the Pennsylvania city where she had gone to live with her parents at the age of 11 years.

After the Logans moved to Baltimore, Mr. Logan opened an antique shop on Pennsylvania Ave. Later, Mrs. Logan opened a dress and hat shop at her residence at 1622 Druid Hill Ave. to become a pioneer among members of her race in the field.

Mr. Logan died in October, 1953.

Mrs. Logan was well-known for her work at the Madison Avenue church where she was one of the organizers of the Penny Club and interested in all areas of church work.

SPIRITED AND energetic, she also took vital interest in civic and social affairs and was fondly called "Miss Sally". Her cultured and refined manner, her ability to be pleasant and cooperative, made her outstanding in all her associations.

She resided in her Druid Hill Ave. home throughout her later years.

She became ill in 1955 and in April, 1959 decided to make her home at the Stephen Smith Home for the Aged in Philadelphia where she had friends and acquaintences.

She became increasingly ill in the later summer and early fall this year and suffered a stroke a week before she died on Friday, at 6:25 a.m.

According to her request, Mrs. Logan was buried in white. Her casket was mahogany.

PALLBEARERS were John J. Oliver, George Lottier Jr., and George Lottier Sr., George Taliaferro, Gant Hall, and Leon Williams.

Survivors include nieces, Mrs. Catherine Boyd, Washington; Mrs. Jose Scott, Mrs. Eva Hawkins, Mrs. Helen White, Baltimore; Mrs. Mary Jackson, Camden, N.J., a nephew George Jackson, Boston.

Other relatives and friends in cars to the burial were Mr. and Mrs. D. Arnett Murphy, Mr. and Mrs. Howard Murphy; Mrs. Albert Smith, Mrs. Mae Dyson, Mrs. Marie Payne, Mrs. Lillian Jones, Mrs. Pearl Winston, Mrs. Sarah Diggs, Mrs. Margaret Bryan, Mr. and Mrs. Jon Love, Miss Sadie Lottier, Mrs. Mary Oliver, Mrs. Gladys Prestwidge, George Winston and Warren Mathews.

FUNERAL SERVICES for Mrs. Sallie C. Logan on Wednesday were not halted by the snow. Shown entering the Madison Avenue Presbyterian Church are close friends, Mr. and Mrs. D. Arnett Murphy; a niece, Mrs. James Scott; a nephew, George Jackson.

He was born June 15, 1891 in Godwin, N. C. and came to Baltimore in 1910.

He and his wife, the former Miss Eleanor Campbell of Baltimore, were married Sept. 22, 1932, a total of 28 years.

Mrs. Grace T. Parker, lifetime Methodist

Funeral services will be held today (Friday) at 2 p.m., at an Arlington Ave. funeral home for Mrs. Grace T. Parker, 70, 913 N. Gilmor St.

Mrs. Parker died on Tuesday morning at her home after a long illness.

The Rev. Frank Williams, pastor of Metropolitan Methodist Church, of which Mrs. Parker was a lifetime member, will officiate. Burial will be in Arbutus.

Mrs. Parker was the daughter of the late George and Mary Tilghman of Calvert County. She was the last surviving member of her family.

ACTIVE IN a number of church and civic groups, Mrs Parker served on the board of the N. M. Carroll Home for Aged; worked with the Red Cross, the Home Nursing Council and the United Women of Maryland. She was a vice president of the Fannie E. Gilles Flower Circle, which is affiliated with the latter group.

Her husband, John Parker, retired department store employee survives. They celebrated their 41st wedding anniversary on Sept. 17, 1960.

Also surviving are two sisters, Mrs. Louise Griffin and Mrs. Bernice Richardson, both of whom resided at the Parker home.

workers is a depression for colored workers. . . . there's plenty of trouble ahead for the colored worker.

"When I think of the changes (automation and need for skilled workers) and the position of the colored worker, I become definitely alarmed about the future. It is frightful."

Mr. Randolph painted the picture as this: Most colored workers fall in the unskilled classification for which there will be few openings by 1970; trade unions and employers discriminate against colored workers as to training, hiring and promotional opportunities;

Further, school counselors and others guide colored students from "these technical and scientific jobs of the future" because there are no openings for them now and colored students steer away from them for the same reasons.

BECAUSE THERE are few colored workers in trade unions, where a journeyman takes on but a specified number of apprentices (for example there is not one colored plummer in a New York union, Mr. Randolph said) it is urgent that training steps and openings be made immediately, he said.

Mr. Randolph said the colored worker is 100 years behind in the trade unions and "three - fourths of them can't do anything specific."

"The racial institutions which close the doors don't move voluntarily, they've got to be cracked open," he said.

The position paper to be released after the Washington, D.C. meeting will make clear the call for action does not mean opposition to technical progress. "We're not opposed to the march of science," the speaker said.

"THIS COUNTRY cannot keep pace with Russia and deny one - tenth of the population to fully participate" in its growth, he warned.

During the meeting with the ministers, the Rev. Robert T. Newbold, pastor of the Grace Presbyterian Church, accepted chairmanship of the group which will mobilize the attendance of local citizens at the meeting in Washington.

cause they haul more when steel is moving.

ONE VIEW of the severity of the steel unemployment picture comes from Edwin Abbott, legislative representative of district steelworkers, who told the AFRO:

"As a result of a survey we made in the last two or three weeks, approximately 7,500 are laid off from Bethlehem and about 19,000 are working no more than four days.

"This is the worst since 1933."

He estimated that only about 750 of the steelworkers at Armco are on the job. He estimated the normal force there at 1,650.

Mr. Abbott said he expects no pickups "until Kennedy launches a public works program. He blamed a shift in defense equipment (from ships, etc.) automation and the use of plastic, aluminum and rubber, etc., containers instead of steel.
