From the AFRO to You — A Very Merry Christmas

What's new in the Christmas message

Peace on earth, good will to men.

Peace comes to earth only when there is good will among men.

Unless there is good will among all men, there will never be peace on earth.

• • •

HERE IS the Christmas message stated in three ways, and no matter which way you put it, the meaning is the same.

What's new in it?

Jesus Christ lived only centuries ago. His theory that peace is desirable among men is not original.

Another religion, the Buddhist, as 2,000 years older

Buddha said it this way:

"True happiness comes to those who live at peace with all men."

• • •

THE CHINESE who wrote their Book of History 2,300 years before Christ had Confucius say:

"Peace and love should reign throughout the world."

• • •

YOUNGEST OF the great religions is Mohammedanism. It dates from the seventh century.

The Koran reads: "God will guide men to peace."

Christianity sprang from Judaism which is 1,300 years older.

The Jewish Old Testament says, "The peaceful life offers the best opportunity for happiness."

• • •

ALL THE great religions, therefore, recognize peace on earth as desirable and a source of happiness, but it remained for the founder of Christianity to tie peace to good will and then carry good will to the farthest point:—

Good will even to the enemy—those who hate and despise you, and would kill you.

• • •

THE DESIRABILITY of peace, as a source of happiness stated in the sacred writings of all the great religions, has not been strong enough to bring about good will among men.

The religion of the Jews, Christians and Mohammedans all originated on the edge of a desert a few hundred miles from each other. Each has so much in common with the others that the wonder is that they hate each other so thoroughly.

• • •

LAST WEEK, in Los Angeles, spokesmen for Methodists, Presbyterians and Episcopalians expressed the need for unity among Christian churches based on good will.

How can there be peace in the world without good will toward all great world religions?

How can there be peace at home unless there is good will among all Christian denominations?

• • •

THE ANSWER is that it can not.

But the hope lies in the teachings of a Jew born in the squalor of a stable.

His people lived in an exposed crossroads of the world.

They began as "sand scramblers," and desert wanderers. They never amassed great wealth or a mighty empire.

They went from independence to extended slavery so often that the miracle is they survived the captivities into Egypt, Babylon, Assyria, and near extermination by the Greeks, Romans, Arabs, and Crusaders.

Everything they sought to build was torn down almost as soon as it was constructed.

Even Solomon's Temple, their mightiest structure, stood only 20 years.

The most they possessed was a capacity for suffering, a stubborn refusal to accept final defeat and a tremendous faith that God meant to save the world through the good will of all men rather than by the violence and power of the mighty.

So, the Christmas message today is repeated in the 20th century with all of the power and vitality with which it was announced after the birth of Christ.

• • •

PEACE ON earth depends upon good will to all men.

It is a simple message all can understand.

Its effectiveness begins with the individual.

The hope is that the power it generates can be made effective around the world, not only for Christmas, but for every day in the year.

Continual Christmas

Let no pleasure tempt thee, no profit allure thee, no ambition corrupt thee, to do anything which thou knowest to be evil; so shalt thou always live jollily: for a good conscience is a continual Christmas.

BENJAMIN FRANKLIN

The First Christmas

The biography of Jesus, the story of his life, was written by four men, Matthew, Mark, Luke and John.

Matthew and Luke record it as a miraculous virgin birth. The two others do not.

Only Luke mentioned the presence of an angelic host singing. Only Matthew told about the star in the East, the wise men and the flight into Egypt.

If Luke and John could have foreseen how hungry the world would grow for a star of hope and the music of angels, they too, would have tried to remember all they had heard about the first Christmas.

No longer important

It's now official. John Fitzgerald Kennedy is President of the United States with 300 electoral votes to Nixon's 219.

He needed only 269 to win. His popular vote plurality is also now official at 111,957.

President Eisenhower defeated Adlai Stevenson four years ago 35,585,316 to 26,031,322. Ike picked up 457 electoral votes to Stevenson's 74.

But if Mr. Kennedy had won by only one vote in the electoral college, he would still be the President-elect with all the tremendous powers and prestige that goes with that office.

In this connection, President Eisenhower now officially becomes a lame duck President of the United States.

From now until Jan. 20 he will gradually recede in importance and significance as the head of this nation.

The other week 60 pickets gathered in a demonstration outside the Augusta, Ga., golf course to protest the President's silence on the school integration disturbances in New Orleans.

Even if Ike said anything now it would be too little and too late. He's allowed too many golden opportunities to escape him during the past eight years.

Whatever he says or does now is unimportant.

Wait until next year

On Monday afternoon, a strange sight will hold forth in Franklin Field, Philadelphia. Two teams will be playing for the National Football League championship and Baltimore will not be one of them.

It has been three years since they were able to play for the world title without having to contend with our Colts. The king is dead. Long live the new king, after Green Bay and Philadelphia determine whom it shall be.

While they reigned, the Colts provided us with many supreme thrills: sudden-death triumphs, last-second victories, John Unitas, Lenny Moore, Dixie and the Gay Troubadour.

The memory will be long. At least until next year.

Oh well.

LETTERS — Our Readers Say — OPINION

Readers are invited to submit letters to the AFRO for publication. All letters must be signed but signatures will be omitted if requested. Letters should be no more than 300 words in length. Address them "Our Readers Say," AFRO-AMERICAN, 628 N. Eutaw St., Baltimore 1, Md.

Van Sant writes

Dear AFRO:

Please express my best wishes for the season to your readers, and my lasting appreciation to the AFRO staff for the nice comments made in your editorial when I left Baltimore.

I am as proud of these statements as I am of any experience I have had.

—THOMAS A. VAN SANT,
Brooklyn, N.Y.

(EDITOR'S NOTE: Mr. Van Sant, former assistant superintendent of Baltimore schools, resigned in October to take a new job in the New York school system.)

Yule message

Dear AFRO:

This hospital is quite dependent upon the goodwill and cooperation of its many friends throughout the community and the State.

Each day of the year, I am aware of this and attempt to show my appreciation and gratefulness.

However, at the Christmas season there is an unusual feeling of thankfulness as I reflect upon the many who work with us and for this reason, I write this letter.

As Superintendent of Crownsville State Hospital and as spokesman for its employees and patients, it is with warmth and sincere appreciation that I wish the friends of the hospital, the utmost joy at Christmastime and a New Year full of hope and prosperity.

CHARLES S. WARD, M.D.

Crownsville State Hospital

Tribute to Adona

Dear AFRO:

I was very sorry to read in the AFRO of the death of one of the leaders of the Jim Crow Movement, Tony Adona.

In expressing condolences to his family and associates, permit me also to express my admiration and thanks to the young people who are fighting so well for the rights guaranteed them by our Constitution.

Baltimore a better city for all of us, colored and white. Mr. Adona died having the people of Baltimore in debt to him.

They are truly making Baltimore in debt to him. May this debt be quickly repaid by the elimination of discrimination from the life of the community.

GEORGE A. MEYERS

Credits the GOP

Dear AFRO:

The news item in the AFRO of Dec. 13, 1960, captioned "Highest vote turnout in Cherry Hill precinct," was not exactly accurate.

I agree that the large turnout of voters was the result of united efforts by all of Cherry Hill's civic groups.

However, the next to the last paragraph in that release gave the major share of credit for the fine showing of voters on Nov. 8 to the Cherry Hill Democratic Club and the Original Women's Democratic Club.

You failed to mention the Republican Club spearheaded by Harry Oglesby, which initiated and did most of the work in the get - out - the - vote - drive.

This organization paid most of the bills and did the major share of the work connected with the drive, since this drive was conducted on a non-partisan basis.

It is only fair and proper that credit should be given those that merit it.

WATER A. BAKER

(ED. Note— The AFRO story in question stated that Sheppard St. Norte Jr. head of the Cherry Hill Coordinating Council, credited the two Democratic organizations with getting out the record vote. The AFRO made no statement as to what organization was responsible.)

SIGHTSEEING

By JAMES D. WILLIAMS

There's a certain something about Christmas that eventually gets to you, no matter how hard you fight it; no matter how loudly you proclaim to yourself, and anyone else who will listen, that Christmas is for the birds.

Maybe it's the constant blaring of Christmas carols and the ersatz modern Yuletide ditties, that finally get to you.

Maybe it's the lights that decorate homes and business centers, that make you admit there's something different about this time of the year.

• • •

MAYBE IT'S the sight of downtown streets and shopping centers, bulging at the seams with people in a hurry, their arms loaded down with packages, that cause this strange emotion.

But then maybe it's because when you strip away the veneer of sophistication and the air of toughness we deliberately cultivate to insulate ourselves against a cruel world, most of us at heart are sentimentalists.

Normally, we shy away from sentimentality as if it were the Black Plague, or even worse.

We're afraid to admit, to even ourselves, that we can be reached by emotion.

So used are we to living in a materialistic world, that almost always do we mistrust sentimentality.

• • •

THE EXCEPTION comes at Christmas when people begin to act like civilized humans.

Soon, and all too soon, the spirit of friendliness brought on by Christmas fades away.

Gone for another year is the time when people take time to think of other people, the time when selfishness is forgotten, the time when a wonderful spirit is aboard in the land.

It is expecting too much to ever imagine that this spirit will last over a few days . . . So don't worry about it, enjoy it while it lasts . . . Merry Christmas.

Noteworthy

By Herbert Mangrum

As a youngster back in Texas I wanted to live in a climate where there was plenty of snow.

What a dope I was.

My first winter in Baltimore convinced me that I was wrong.

In a way, I didn't know how well off I was basking in the warm sunshine of the great Southwest.

• • •

ON MY arrival in Baltimore almost 10 years ago I was struck by the fact that:

When it snows here practically everything slows to a crawl or stops altogether. The sanitation department fails to operate properly.

The city takes too long to clear the streets of snow.

That when you clear a path in front of your home for your car, someone else pulls in.

The schools close. Now I know that Baltimore and Maryland are filled with tradition, but this is taking tradition too far.

• • •

I HAVE BEEN brainwashed to the extent that I would not exchange Maryland for Texas although there are people around like:

The man who broke into the Goodwill warehouse on Gay St., the other day and made off with among other things, a bicycle.

Police found him trying to ride through the snow with his loot.

He attracted their attention when he kept falling off the bike.

• • •

DID YOU know that when that fire aboard the Constellation was brought under control the other day, the government had already estimated that the repair job would cost each taxpayer 78 cents?

• • •

STOP ME if you heard this one:

A man in a Pennsylvania Ave., theatre was surprised the other day to find himself sitting behind a woman and a great dane dog.

The man was even more surprised when the dog laughed in the right places during the movie.

Bursting with suspense the guy told the woman: "Gee Miss, I have never seen anything like this. Your dog enjoys the movie."

"Yes I know" the sweet young thing replied, "But he hated the book."

I'm packing.

POET'S CORNER

Could we?

(A Christmas Poem)

Could we just for Christmas
Share with Him a space
Then keep it in our action
Forgetting creed and race?
Could we just for Christmas
Initiate plans for peace,
Helping where we're needed
With love that'll never cease?
Could we just for Christmas
Be friendly to everyone
Share the giving spirit
Like God's only begotten son?
Could we just for Christmas
Keep Christ within our heart
Give and forgive others,
Preventing hate to start.
Could we just for Christmas
Plant seeds of love to grow
To cultivate and keep alive
Without boast or outward show?
Could we just for Christmas
Make Him our guiding star
And live by His examples
As we travel near or far.
Could we just for Christmas?

THE AFRO'S CREDO

A newspaper succeeds because its management believes in itself, in God and in the present generation. It must always ask itself:

Whether it has kept the faith with the common people;

Whether it has no other goal except to see that their liberties are preserved and their future assured;

Whether it is fighting to get rid of slums, to provide jobs for every body;

Whether it stays out of politics except to expose corruption and condemn injustices, race prejudice or compromise

JOHN H. MURPHY, SR., 1936

If You Ask Me

By B. M. Phillips

At Christmas time remember ill, shut-ins

Christmas is a time for children—a time for adults and children alike to give thanks for their blessings—a time to make things better for a lonely neighbor or a needy family.

And, Christmas is a time to remember the shut-ins. Look around you— take time to visit a hospital or home, send a gift, a message of cheer.

Maybe it is hard to understand how a sick person or shut-in feels, but it wouldn't be hard to understand if you put yourself in the place of one who can not get out in the sunshine.

Sooop, this holiday season, take a minute to let someone less fortunate know that you care. It doesn't require a lot of money, just a little thoughtfulness.

Orchids and more orchids to you and you and you—dozens of you—who caught the Christmas spirit early and kept the AFRO City Desk room filled with gifts of toys, clothes and money and food so our Mrs. Santa Claus could help some of the hundreds of deserving families who appealed to her for aid.

• • •

Glad - you're - out -and-better cards to Dr. Ada Lee, the chiropodist. She was in with ticker trouble a week back.

Cheer to Leonard Reed, longtime Brooks Price employee. He was rushed to Sinai Hospital, will be in for Christmas.

And, sunshine to A. Preston Shaw Jr., who is still in Ft. Howard Hospital.

• • •

The Lloyal Randolphs' daughter, Lisa, who was in Provident for tonsilectomy, is home now.

But do address cards of cheer to Provident Hospital to.

Mrs. Yvonne Harris, 1333 Kenhill Ave., who entered on Monday; to Louis Tibbs, the musician 2305 Carlisle Ave., who has been in since last Saturday. He's in Room 308.

Mrs. Lottie Guy, 810 N. Fremont Ave., is in Room 218, and has been since Dec. 8, when she entered for an operation.

Mrs. Rosa B. Dixon, a Provident nurse, was injured Tuesday evening. She slipped on the ice, has a back injury.

• • •

Also in the hospital for Christmas: Gail Floyd, 10, 1023 W. Lanvale St. She suffered burns on Dec. 12, and is much improved, but you know how it is on a youngster to be in a hospital for Christmas, so do cheer her up. She's in Provident.

Mrs. Mary Gillans, 2204 McCulloh St., has been hospitalized since Nov. 30. Address cards to her in Room 218 in Provident.

Hampton Carter, 1026 Appleton, would also enjoy holiday and get-well cards. He's been in Room 118 since Nov. 11, when he was struck by a hit-run motorist.

Remember, also Mrs. Isabelle Clark, who has been confined since July. She's in Montebello Hospital.

• • •

Sunshine to: Daniel Perry, 220 N. Fulton, longtime sugar refinery worker, entered Lutheran on Thursday for an operation, may be in for Christmas.

Also, remember the Rev. Wayman Norris, 8714 Church Lane, Randallstown. He suffered a stroke on Tuesday, is confined at home. He's an AME elder.

Cheer also to his neighbor, Mrs. Mary Dorsey, 8702 Church Lane. She suffered a stroke last Saturday.

Remember also: Kenneth Ford and his wife, Mrs. Ruth Ford, who are both confined to their home, 8716 Church Lane.

Mr. Ford lost his sight years ago, and has been ailing recently. Mrs. Ford has been in and out for a couple of weeks.

Cards to Mrs. Ellamae Ritchie, Featherbed Lane, Owings Mills. She has been sick for three weeks. Her sister, Mrs. Mary Dutton, with whom she is making her home, has also been in for the past two weeks.

Christmas babies

It is a six pound, 12½ ounce girl for Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Williams (Williamea), 2223 Mt. Holly St. Baby was born Sunday at Provident.

It is also a girl (7 pounds 14 ounces) for the John Torbits' (Maggie), 1536 W. Lanvale St., also on Sunday.

The Raymond Parkers (Agnes), 1500 N. Pulaski St., have a boy (6 pounds, 5½ ounces) as of Dec. 15.

On Monday, Elnora and Robert Wardlon, 1603 E. North Ave., welcomed a boy, also at Provident. Weight, 6 pounds, ¾ ounces.

Another pre - Christmas baby to Mr. and Mrs. Robert Jenkins (Mary), 504 N. Fulton. It's an 8-pound boy, born Monday.

• • •

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas L. Cousins, 3903 Mondawmin Ave., have a boy (6 pounds 1 ounce) as of Monday.

• • •

More Christmas season babies born at Lutheran Hospital on Tuesday (Dec. 20):

Father goes to bat for son; pays $25

Joe Bullock, 17, of the 200 block N. Farrish St., was placed on probation for one year Friday on a disorderly conduct charge.

His father, John Bullock, 43, was not as lucky.

Because he voiced loud disagreement with testimony concerning his son's arrest, Mr. Bullock was fined $25 and costs.

Western District Magistrate Calvin A. Douglass found the father guilty of disorderly conduct in the courtroom.

David Mason explains Jail Board absentees

A newspaper article charged recently that six of the seven members of the Jail Board had infrequent attendance records at Board meetings.

The article stated that five members missed four of the past nine meetings, and another missed five.

Harry D. Kaufman, Board president, was the only member credited with no absences.

David T. Mason, a Board member charged with such absenteeism, told the AFRO:

"I might have been absent four times over a year. I don't dispute that.

"Some may have been through illness, and others through pressing business."

79 paroled from prisons in time for Christmas

Roland Hugh (Buttercup) Taylor, who was one on four convicts in a daring 1954 liquor store holdup, was among 79 persons paroled recently from Maryland correctional institutions, in time for Christmas.

Mr. Taylor, then 30, and residing in the 1300 block N. Carey St., was sentenced to 20 years in Nov. 1954, by Judge Warnken.

He and three other men who received long terms, were jailed in connection with the Sept. 1954, robbery of a liquor store in the 2300 block Frederick Ave. Police said the robbers escaped with $41.

Mr. Taylor is a World War 2 veteran, who saw service in the Navy. He has been paroled to work with a construction firm.

Is Roma Sherry as good as a $10 Sherry?

NO. A $10 bottle of wine is more than just a bottle of wine. It's a splurge. Great for the anniversary ball but a bit too much for "every day." You can spend a lot more money and get a lot less wine than Roma offers, and you will if you're just label conscious. But if you buy your wine the way the wine experts do you'll really like Roma. .78 a.s.o.

Busy mother keeps tab on phone calls

Diary shows phone saved days of time, 156 miles of travel and $11.70 in two weeks

Mrs. Harris of La Vale, Maryland, talks over Choral Society plans with a friend—while 4-year-old Carolyn keeps tabs on Mother.

Mrs. Harris is the mother of two small boys, ages 6 and 8, and a pre-school daughter. Her husband is a teacher. With youngsters this age, and a husband whose profession calls for continual contact with parents, a phone often seems like a necess
