MUSICAL MOMENTS

Handel's 'Messiah' maintains its magical beauty, appeal

By ADAH K. JENKINS

"A thing of beauty is a joy forever" may be applied with significance to Handel's "Messiah." Even with many repetitions of the Christmas portion of this great oratorio each season by choirs and choruses, large and small, amateur and professional, its lustre and magnificance never seem to lose a magical appeal and beauty.

Although many are familiar with "Messiah" from hearing it on the air, on recording and at live performances, it should not be forgotten that it is a monumental work, even for experienced singers. Its elaborate style of the Baroque 17th century music is full of difficulties and volunteer choirs are to be congratulated for studying and presenting it.

Among the several local performances this year the writer heard the excerpts done by the combined choirs of Douglas Memorial Community Church on Sunday afternoon and by the Senior Choir of Pennsylvania Ave. AME Zion Church later in the evening.

• • •

UNDER THE firm conductorship of James Hammond, minister of music at Douglas, the choirs gave a stirring rendition. Their vocal production as a whole displayed a marked development since their Christmas concert of last year. Several of the soprano themes were quite lovely, with light, yet resonant tone quality.

There was no attempt to force the altos, yet they were heard to advantage without harsh or strident tones. Fortunately, Mr. Hammond is well supplied with male singers of competence, which was valuable in securing a number of well-built climaxes.

The arias were handled in a highly creditable manner by Ester McCready, soprano, Princie Hawkins, contralto, and Earl Booker, tenor. Under the skilled hands of Donald King, organist at Memorial Presbyterian Church, the rich score (originally written for orchestra) was admirably played on the handsome Douglas Memorial instrument.

Following the offertory, the choirs did several holy day anthems by modern composers. At the invitation of the Rev. Marion C. Bascomb, the minister, the congregation joined the singers at a coffee hour hosted by Baltimore Fellowship, for whose benefit the church donated the Christmas concert offering.

Miss Ruth Fegley, director of Fellowship and Mrs. John Swanson, chairman of the concert committee, headed the hostesses.

• • •

WITH A group of 25 singers the Pennsylvania Avenue Zion choir presented a very worthwhile performance of nine recitatives and arias and five choruses from the Christmas portion of "Messiah." This service, which was directed by Florence C. Carter, choir mistress, was accompanied by her at the organ.

Since this was their first performance, Mrs. Carter and her choir are planning, and wisely so, to use choruses and arias from the oratorio at appropriate services during the year. The singing last Sunday gave ample evidence of well-guided study and, with the number of promising voices in the ensemble, increased familiarity with "Messiah" should produce excellent results in the not too distant future.

The choral "Seventfold Amen" by the choir and benediction by the pastor, the Rev. Clinton R. Coleman, concluded the service.

Reports have been heard of the excellent annual performance of "Messiah" by the Handel Choir, conducted by James Winship Lewis, which unfortunately, we missed for the first time in several years.

RENALDO REYES, artist diploma graduate of Peabody last June, will make his debut this week at Town Hall in New York. This gifted pianist, who is a native of the Philippine Islands, has made numerous appearances here and at musical conventions in various parts of the country.

• • •

CALENDAR: Saturday, Jan. 13 at 11 a.m. in the Baltimore Museum Auditorium, Frans Reynders, mimos, will present pantomimes to a musical background, under the auspices of Young Musicians Series. His performance includes such favorites as Park Bench, Blind Man, The Bird, Marionette, The Tree, Noah's Ark, Boxing Samson and the Lion, Boxing Match and The Party.

Tickets may be purchased at the door or through Mrs. Rose Gerringer, executive director of YMS, Green Spring Ave., Lutherville, Md., VAlley 5-2175.

Sunday, Jan. 29 at 4 p.m. at Douglas Memorial Community Church, Madison and Lafayette Aves., Claire Coico, woman organist in the fourth recital of Fine Arts Series, James Hammond, minister of music; the Rev. Marion C. Bascom, minister.

Sunday, Jan. 29 at 5 p.m. in the auditorium of Carver Vocational Technical High School, Pressman and Bentalou Sts., Veronica Tyler, soprano in concert, presented by the Interdenomination al Ministers Wives Alliance of Baltimore and vicinity. Patron's and general admission tickets may be obtained through Mrs. Mary E. Harrington, president; Mrs. Estella Dobson, chairman, and Mrs. Phenola Carroll, co-chairman.

Monday, Jan. 30 at 8:30 p.m. in the auditorium of the Lenox String Quartet in concert and Ben Weber—contemporary composer as speaker. This is the fourth concert in the annual series by the Chamber Music Society of Baltimore.

Rowe-Beard married in Christmas Eve rites

By FELICIA ADAMS

A lovely Christmas Eve wedding was held at the E. Preston St. parsonage of the Rev. and Mrs. James E. Adams.

Miss Kathryn Beard, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Beard Jr. of Brunswick, Md., became the bride of Lawrence Rowe of Washington.

Miss Shirley Beard sister of the bride, was the maid of honor. Ernest Colvin was the best man. Witnessing the ceremony was the bride's mother, Mrs. Henry Beard Jr.

The bride is a graduate of Morgan State College and a teacher at the Essex County High School in Tappahannock, Va. The bridegroom is a chemist and is employed in Washington.

THE CHURCH SCHOOL of Metropolitan Methodist Church held its Christmas exercises after morning service on Sunday. Music was by the Holy Bells.

Mrs. Sandra Bowyer is chairman of the Commission on Education. The Rev. Irving Richardson is church superintendent. The Rev. James E. Adams is pastor.

Holiday cheer in the form of six baskets was given by the Severn Improvement Association, Inc. Donald Queen president; Mrs. Corine Hall Sr., secretary. On the arrangements committee were Mesdames Sandra Bowyer, Louise Aulton and Artenius Sewell.

Home from college for the holidays were Misses Romane Kess from Bowie, and Miss Lena Truxon from Morgan State.

The Church School of John Wesley, Glen Burnie, held its Christmas exercises last Friday, George Crawford is church school superintendent. The Rev. S. J. Mack is pastor.

Home from the hospital is John Queen of Quarterfield Rd.

Mr. and Mrs. James A. Johnson of Furnace Branch had as their dinner guests, Mrs. Martha Aulton, mother of Mrs. Johnson, the Abraham Russells and their daughter, Cheryl of Baltimore.

Having in their family also, were the Rev. and Mrs. James Adams. Present were the Rev. Mr. Adams' mother, Mrs. Lillie Mae Adams; her sister, Mrs. Sevella Forrest, the Adams children, Arno Andre and James Jr.; the Rev. and Mrs. Charles Bagley, and son, Charles Jr.

STUDENT RECOGNITION DAY will be held at Metropolitan Methodist on Sunday, Jan. 1 at the 11 a.m. service. Music will be by the Holy Bells, Mrs. Sandra Boyer, chairman of the commission of education.

Friends and neighbors are offering sympathy to the family of the late, Theodore Matthews of Harmons, Md. He was the husband of Mrs. Helen Matthews.

Rites were held at St. Marks Methodist Church, the Rev. S. W. Scarborough, pastor.

He is survived by four sons, four daughters, and 15 grandchildren. Guest ministers at the service were the Rev. V. F. Key, Louis Conway, Walter Sewell and Mr. Simms.

The Golden Cross Society and the WSCS of John Wesley Methodist, presented six baskets to the needy last week. Mrs. Louvenia Hall, president of the Golden Cross. Mrs. Lola Hine, president of the WSCS.

Thought for today:

As the New Year enters, let God enter into your heart with a deeper meaning.

Chick Webb billiard winners

The first inter-center billiard tournament of the winter was held recently at the Chick Webb Center. These were the standings in the 15 and under group.

Joseph Smith, Jasper Vines, Leonard Logan, Jasper Chase, Joseph Lane, Jackson Brown, Ray Mays and Thomas Biggers.

These were the winners in the 16 and older group: Michael Jones, Herman Butler, James Simmons.

Court of Appeals judge sworn in Circuit Judge Charles C. Marbury, of Prince George's County, was sworn in Thursday as Maryland's sixth Court of Appeals judge.

The ceremony was held at 11 a.m. in Annapolis.

C. Ferdinand Sybert, attorney general, will take oath of office as the seventh Court of Appeals judge at 12:30 p.m. Jan. 11.

Gov. J. Millard Tawes appointed the two new judges, after Maryland voters favored a constitutional amendment in the Nov. 8 general election to add two judgeships to the five on the Court of Appeals.

Both must run for election to regular terms in 1962.

BALTIMORE AFTER DARK

On The Town

WITH THE PUB CRAWLERS

As the Zero Hour—High Midnight Saturday—approaches, all around the nightlife circuit, gay throngs are poised to cut loose with swinging celebrations.

Lavish entertainment, exotic foods and drinks, and boundless gaiety will reign when the old hour rings out the old and brings in the new.

When the old tick tock signals that 1960 has had it, and the new babe, '61, blasts upon the scene, strains of 'Auld Lang Syne" will filter from a fabulous array of nightclubs around the town.

• • •

AS HAS been the custom in the past, the 2 a.m. shutdown will be waived and unbridled celebrations will ramble into the wee hours of the morning.

Because of space limitations, it is impossible to list the individual clubs' programs.

However, that information can be grabbed if readers just cop a glance at these pages.

Instead, the Crawlers feel a greater service can be rendered if locations of the various clubs are emphasized.

So for the benefit of the conservatives who keep their visits at a minimum, but who will be on the town New Year's Eve, and for the regular gang, who'll probably need a little direction after getting into the spirit (s), take note.

These spots will be throwing "Happy New Year" shindigs:

The Lucky Number, Poplar Grove St. near Lafayette Ave.; Carnival Lounge, Poplar Grove and Belmont Ave.; Hi-Ball Cafe, 403 N. Gay;

Gene's Lounge, 2559 Frederick Rd.; Red Fox, Pennsylvania and Fulton Aves.; Vilma's, Pennsylvania Ave. at Bloom; Chicks, Baltimore and Greene Sts.; Phil's, Mount and Mosher;

Club Sara, Fayette and Wolfe, (Eastside); Silver Dollar, Fremont Ave. and Laurens St.; Blue Room, 121 Orleans St.; Avenue, Alhambra, Comedy, and Spot, all in the heart of the Main Stem, Pennsylvania Ave.;

North End Lounge, Gay and North (Eastside; Uptown, Monroe St. and Edmondson; Jones Cocktail Lounge, Lanvale near Fulton; Astoria, Edmondson Ave. near Calhoun; Knotty Pine, Linden near North, and Dotsons, Furnace Branch Road, Glen Burnie.
