BALTIMORE AFTER DARK

On The Town

WITH THE PUB CRAWLERS

The town's gay spots have been hit by the post - holiday lull. With but few exceptions, nightlifers are spending the evenings in small chit - chat over tail, cool ones.

Chief topics of conversation these moonlits are:

The one - man crusade against the sale of package goods by the after - dark retailers.

ANOTHER tongue - wagging tidbit is the silent war between a Main Drag club operator and the Racket Squad boys.

The owner, no slouch on policing himself, is gauled no end to the pounder's habit of running roughshod through his patrons, looking for "minors."

Also coming in for its share of small talk are the two guys, as wags put it, who smooth - talked one of the town's nicest gal singers into a heartbreaking situation during the holidays.

On the strength of promises, she ended housekeeping, cut loose her job and made ready to hit the Big Town.

Naturally, the charming chirper was shook no end by this bum - steer, but Crawlers are gassed no end that she's pulled out of it and is swinging in the grove again.

ON THE swing around the circuit, Crawlers found the Cocktail Lounge, Turners Station, still the object of oos and ahs.

According to bossman Adams and his boosters, it is how second to no funspot in the Free State. Go see, no doubt you'll agree.

This Baltimore County hideout swung into orbit last seven. Its policy of big sips and low tabs, plus entertainment by Al Brown and his Tune Toppers have been drawing hefty delegations.

Anne Arundel County's Stage Coach, three miles South of Glen Burnie, on Route 3, is the last word in plushiness.

Its glass partitioned lounge and beautifully decorated walnut panel interior, tag it nothing less than a country atmosphere house. Crawlers know you'll dig it. We did.

WHILE YET down Glen Burnie way, don't forget to drop in on the swingingest house in the hills.

This, natch, is Frank Reddish's Bill Dotson's, and it's swinging all the way.

Pat Wynn, chirper; the Madison Gentlemen, and Jack Perkins are heading up "Swinging Affairs of '61."

Back to the Burg, Count Lantz and Ruby Glover are the magnets for jazz lovers who are drawn to Red Fox.

In a setting of quiet, charming and easy listening, Big Man George invites you to relax in your slacks.

To the east side of the Big B the fashionable Miss Vi Clark said her goodbye to North End, the past seven.

But on the basis of exitement she created during a long run, it won't be for long.

STILL MANNING the fort, however, are Herman Hawkins and young Gary Bartz and his sons of the sounds Floyd, Irvin and Jimmy were gassed at the reception their "Blue Monday" shindig recieved Monday.

Look for a repeat.

Cornell Muldrow, his Bim Bam Boo Boys are still sending the Lucky Number crowds. Going over big are the spot's Sunday and Monday jam sessions.

At these sets, the town's wingingest cats sit in and dish out hot licks on their favorite instruments. And do they swing.

Keeping available fine foods is the job of personable Richard Dixon. Dick has renovated and modernized the kitchen. Finer fixings than those served up by the ex - Navy steward, can rarely be found elsewhere.

AT KNOTTY PINE, Linden near North, it's stomp time. Vowing to keep your feet happy are Earl Omaro and his Hi-Rollers.

Richard and his bevy of ladies behind the scene assure a swinging time will be had by all. Wanna dance, go Knotty Pine.

Flink Johnson, like "Old Man River," keeps rolling along at Baltimore and Greene. Mickey Fields' soundmen, and an army of twisters, are the objects of the spotlight. Now, as before, they are more than adequate.

FOR A vivid review of old-time Baltimore, stop in Vilma's. Following the lead of friendly Wendell, other old timers will soon volunteer choice bits of pleasant memories about the old town.

While listening, latch on to your choice of find foods and liquids, so much a part of this spot.

Thee Jones, Jitterbug and Lil are slaving like mad to get the Jones' Cocktail Lounge, in shape after the pre's holiday fire.

Although partially closed during the recent celebrations, the lounge was the scene of many happy gatherings, on the town for a night of living.

Herb Morris is your host at Herb's Melody Bar over 1823 Orleans St. This is the newest and friendliest neighborhood spot to burst on the scene lately.

Sample the tasty tidbits and sip a tall one here and you'll get that intimate and relaxed feeling.

That's it, . . . go swing!

If your income for 1960 was under $10,000 and you don't intend to itemize deductions, chances are you can file on the simple, 15 - line form 1040A.

Welcome Aboard, Earl

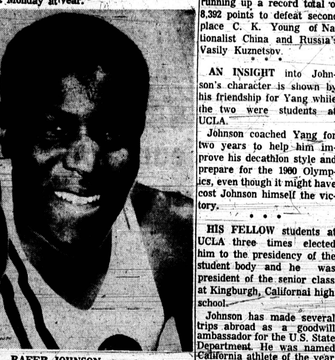
Rafer Johnson to receive 'greatest athlete' acclaim

BALTIMORE — Rafer Johnson, winner of the decathlon championship in the 1960 Olympics and recipient of the James E. Sullivan Memorial Award, will be honored by the Maryland Professional Baseball Players Association as the "World's Greatest All-Around Athlete" at the annual Tops in Sports banquet Monday at the Lord Baltimore Hotel.

Johnson was the overwhelming winner in balloting for the coveted Sullivan Award which is given each year by the Amateur Athletic Union to the athlete who "by performance, example and good influence did the most to advance the cause of good sportsmanship during the year."



RAFER JOHNSON

THE DECATHLON victory scored by Johnson in last summer's Olympics actually represented a come-back for the brilliant Californian since he suffered a serious leg injury in an auto accident in 1959.

This didn't stop him from running up a record total of 8,392 points to defeat second place C. K. Young of Nationalist China and Russia's Vasily Kuznetsov.

• • •

AN INSIGHT into Johnson's character is shown by his friendship for Yang while the two were students at UCLA.

Johnson coached Yang for two years to help him improve his decathlon style and prepare for the 1960 Olympics, even though it might have cost Johnson himself the victory.

• • •

HIS FELLOW students at UCLA three times elected him to the presidency of the student body and he was president of the senior class at Kingburgh, California high school.

Johnson has made several trips abroad as a goodwill ambassador for the U.S. State Department. He was named California athlete of the year for 1958 and last summer he was chosen as the first of his race to carry the American flag in the Olympic opening ceremony.

• • •

THE APPEARANCE of Rafer Johnson at Tops in Sports marks the second same an Olympic champion has been honored by the Baltimore baseball group.

Triple gold medal winner Bobby Marrow of Texas was a head table guest at the 1957 banquet. Chairman Lou Gresnick points out.

Johnson's acceptance, gives "Tops in Sports" an outstanding lineup of guests including Brooks Robinson, Warren Spahn, Ernie Broglio, Phil Linz and Pete Runnels.

Pro basketers to play here

The National Basketball Association will have two of its teams on display here Saturday Feb. 4, when the Syracuse Nats and Detroit Pistons clash at the Coliseum.

Six tan players are expected to see action in the game, a regularly scheduled NBA contest.

The Nats will show off Hal Greer, one of the ten leading scorers in the league and the promising sophomore from Tennessee State University, Dick (Skull) Barnett. Syracuse also looks to freshman Joe Roberts, from last year's national championship Ohio State quint as a toprate future.

Detroit which boasts the only tan coach in the NBA, also has three colored players - the veteran Wally Dukes, Shellie McMillon and Willie Jones, the last a freshman prospect from Northwestern University.

Earl Lloyd, former Syracuse and Detroit star, is assistant coach with the Pistons. He is a Washington (D.C.) product whose wife is a native of Baltimore.

AMONG WEST'S BEST — Abe Woodson, ace defensive back of the San Francisco 49ers, who'll appear with West All Stars in the Pro Bowl game at Los Angeles Coliseum Sunday afternoon.

Bullets top draw

BALTIMORE — While Coach Buddy Jeannette worried about giant Bill Spivey's bout with the flu and the rest of the Bullets drilled at the Coliseum for Wilkes-Barres visit tonight (Friday) word drifted from Eastern League president Harry Rudolphs office that the Bullets are the best-road draw in the circuit.

Twice the Bullets have pulled in all - time record crowds and in their other two away games have drawn near capacity crowds, missing full houses, three, too, Rudolph reported only because of bad weather.

• • •

THE BULLETS played before standing - room only crowds in Allentown Dec. 17 and last Saturday at Sunbury.

Bill Toland, sports editor of the Sunbury Daily Item, reported, "We've had standing-room only crowds before, but I hadn't seen one like this since the Mercuries had championship teams ten years ago."

They performed before the season's largest houses at Wilkes - Barre Dec. 3 and Scranton New Year's night.

• • •

MEANWHILE, the Bullets had a new face in uniform. Charley Robinson, yanked off the reserve list to strengthen the rebounding corps, worked out of the corner in last night session at the Coliseum.

Emphasis was also placed on the backcourt, which has bogged down recently, and Jeannette hinted at possible changes, while alternating John Nacincik, Willie Jones, Herchel Turner and Kelly Coleman.

Wilkes - Barre lost at home to the Bullets, 109 - 107, and has the league's No. 2 scorer and rebounder, Alex "Boo" Ellis. The ex - NBA cager has tallied 371 points in 11 games.

All-star boxing card at Coliseum Jan. 23

Two ten-round features are listed on the all-star boxing card scheduled for the Coliseum, Monday night, Jan. 23.

Holly Mims of Washington, D.C., will meet Ike White of Philadelphia, in one of the two main events. In the other, Baltimorean Johnny Gilden will take on Eddie Wood, another promising youngster from Philadelphia.

Pro grid to draw curtain in L.A. Sunday

LOS ANGELES — The gradually lengthening professional football season draws its final breath here Sunday afternoon when the annual Pro Bowl Game of the NFL goes on at Memorial Coliseum.

The gridiron campaign, which normally draws curtain on New Year's Day with the various bowl contests, has been extended the last several years well into January by the pros. The latter finally reach the end of their 1960 season with a team of all stars from the Eastern Division encountering a select group from the Western conference.

• • •

NINE COLORED players are slated to appear in the nationally - televised Sabbath affair. The East, under Philadelphia coach Buck Shaw, will have five; the West, with Green Bay coach Vince Lombardi at the helm, will have four tansters.

It will be something of a novelty to see Roosevelt (Rosey) Brown of the New York Giants, playing on the same side with Jim Brown of the Cleveland Browns. The Giants and Browns are traditional rivals in the Eastern Division, but in this one Rosey will be displaying his blocking talents trying to clear the path for the pile - driving fullback, Jim.

• • •

ALONG WITH the two great Brown boys, the East lineup will include Cleveland's speedy halfback, Bob Mitchell; defensive star Jimm Hill of St. Louis; and the big defensive tackle of the Giants, Roosevelt Grier.

On the West side, Lenny Moore and Jim Parker of the former world champion Baltimore Colts will be teamed with a pair of the finest defensive backs in the country, Abe Woodson of the San Francisco 49ers, and Dick (Night Train) Lane, hero of the Detroit Lions' one - point victory over Cleveland in last Saturday's Playoff Bowl tilt at Miami.

YEAST FOR THE EAST — One of the big reasons the East All Stars will show strength against the West in Sunday's Pro Bowl football game is Bobby Mitchell, fleet halfback of the Cleveland Browns.
