Sees Sit-in drive as moral revolution

Mathew Ahmann, executive director of the National Catholic Conference for Interracial Justice, speaking at the 13th annual communion breakfast of the Baltimore Council Sunday morning at the Southern Hotel, cited the "sit-in movement" as a moral revolution.

With a sense of dignity, justice and a commitment to the values Christ holds out for all of us, the young people of our county have led us to see that social change need not wait on interminable political arrangements and on endless committee meetings.

The student sit-in action teaches us that the assumption of individual responsibility contributes vitally to collective responsibility.

THE BIGGEST field for our interracial effort, he stated, is in that of housing and neighborhood life. This problem must be met as cities become increasingly non-white in population. With 43 million Catholics to reach, problems in the areas of voting and civil rights, employment opportunities and education must be faced.

Councils need to support and encourage, witr ever increasing competence, the integration of all Catholic schools and organizations, the participation of the laity in efforts toward desegregation in the fields of medical care, employment, civil rights and education according to the needs of each particular community he told the group.

FOR A WHITE child to grow up in a community today without knowing a non-white is to grow up with a disability in adult life. With two-thirds of the world non-white such a situation not only raises personal liabilities but harms the future of the nation, he said.

The speaker cited the Vatterott Scholarships, established at Fordham University by a St. Louis CIC board member, as a means of training professional workers for jobs in councils and similar groups. He pointed out that a new administration, which seems to be approaching national affairs with candor, vigor and imagination, is encouraging.

MISS ANITA Williams, president, introduced officers and special guests. Fr. Joseph Connelly, moderator of the Council, introduced the speaker.

Among the guests were: Msgr. Quarter, supervisor of Catholic Charities, Fr. Vincent Warren, vicar general of the Society of St. Joseph, Fr. Wm. Phillips, editor of the Josephite Harvest, Fr. Henry Offers, pastor of St. Peter Claver Church, Fr. John Quirk of Immaculate Conception Church and Fr. Herbert Singleton, S.V.D. of Bay St. Louis, Miss.

The mass preceding the breakfast at the Southern Hotel was celebrated at the Cathedral of Mary Our Queen by the moderator, Fr. Connelly.

The sermon was preached by the Rev. Fr. Green, M. M. WHO DESCRIBED THE O who described the work of the Maryknoll missions and made a plea for their support.

School board acts on new tuition law

The School Board meeting was "snowed out" on Thursday for the lack of a quorum.

Only four members showed up when at least five are required to take any official action.

Members present were Mrs. Elizabeth M. Phillips, Mrs. M. Richmond Ferring, Eli Frank and Dr. Roger Howell.

Absent due to the heavy snowstorm and other reasons were John N. Curlett, president of the Board; Samuel Epstein, Henry P. Irr, Dr. William D. McElroy, and John Sherwood.

Although no official business could be transacted, the Board members heard two reports and noted an increase in teachers' salaries.

MRS. ANNA WILLIAMS, an elementary school supervisor, told the Board of a new experiment they were using in order to teach foreign languages in elementary schools.

She said that this was being done by means of television. Mrs. Williams added that they present two 15-minute programs per week and are amazed with the results.

Otto K. Schmeid, supervisor of foreign languages in secondary schools, told the board that instead of teaching the high school pupil two years each of two different languages, they are trying to persuade the pupil to concentrate on four years of a single language.

He added that Baltimore compares favorably with other cities in this experimentation.

MANUEL Q. GOLDSTEIN, president of the Principals' Association, reported to the Board that his organization along with the Teachers' Union and the Teachers' Association, had made a survey to determine the ten problems of most concern to the teachers.

He said replies were received from 155 schools, representing more than 5,000 teachers.

He listed them in the order of frequency of mention in this manner:

1. Clerical load; 2. Disruptions caused by problem pupils; 3. Non-teaching responsibilities; 4. Classes too large in size; 5. Pressure created by lack of a "break" in elementary school teachers' school day;

6. Shortage and inadequacy of equipment and supplies; 7. Excessively wide range of pupil abilities in same class; 8. Need for more adequate curriculum guides; 9. Inadequate school plant; 10. Classroom interruptions.

Mr. Goldberg added that committees will be set up to study each of these problems and then will return to the Board to make recommendations.

THE SCHOOL BOARD noted that a million dollars had been allocated to increase teachers' salaries for 1961.

Dr. Edwin Stein, deputy superintendent of schools, quoted figures to show that almost all the salaries in the pay scale will be increased by about $200.

The next scheduled meeting will be on Feb. 2.

Farm worker held in union hall slaying

Theodore R. (Eat Head) Arrington, 43, of the 1400 block N. Bond St., was denied bail in Homicide Court at Central Tuesday.

Mr. Arrington, an unemployed farm worker, pleaded innocent to charges of shooting Benjamin (Stackhouse) Singleton, 50.

Mr. Arrington was ordered held for action of the grand jury.

Mr. Singleton was shot in the head and neck on Dec. 23 while playing cards in a union hall in the 1700 block S. Clinton St.

Magistrate T. Barton Harrington was told that Arrington gave police a statement after declaring: "There is nothing else to do but tell the truth."

IN HIS statement Mr. Arrington declared that after purchasing a rifle for a friend living in North Carolina, he drove another friend to Canton.

The defendant said two men took his money while he was in the rest room at the union hall.

"When I asked Stack for my money Arrington declared," he told me to go to hell."

The last I saw of Stack he was leaning over a table and the other boys were starting to run."

Police said Arrington was arrested in Newport News, Va.

Towson slums under study

"Until we get a housing authority, plans and proposals mean nothing."

Ashley G. Ogden Jr., chairman, Greater Towson Urban Renewal Committee, made that statement to the AFRO, this week.

He was commenting on a meeting held in Towson, Tuesday where methods of ridding the city of slums were discussed.

One such area is an all-colored community of 12-square blocks east of York Road.

Mr. Ogden said no definite plans were developed in the preliminary meeting, but others are scheduled to follow.

THE MERIT of such meetings depends on whether the Baltimore County seat gets a housing agency, he said.

A bill creating such agency is now before the General Assembly, Mr. Ogden said.

Matters such as finance, enforcement of fire and health regulations were discussed at the Tuesday's gathering in the Penn Hotel.

Since a great number of those affected by urban renewal in the area are colored, Mr. Ogden said his committee was anxious to determine how they felt about the matter.

Colored home owners reportedly are in agreement with the plan, if they are assured they will not be prevented from returning to housing developments by high rents and restricted agreements.

The chairman said advance planning will be designed to guarantee their return.

"The project would make no sense if they can't return to their former homes. We want to keep our citizens in Towson," he emphasized.

IT WAS generally agreed that the problem can be solved by the combination of public and private housing developments.

Mr. Ogden said public housing would present no discrimination problem because Federal monies will be involved. But such housing has limitations because it will be reserved for low income groups.

Towson needs housing for both low and middle income families, he said. To bridge this gap, the committee proposed that private developers join public housing agencies in rehabilitating the area.

To precent colored residents from being excluded from private developments, developers must be compelled to agree to a policy of open occupancy, Mr. Ogden stated.

Future meetings with Baltimore Urban Renewal director Richard L. Steiner and officer Malcolm H. Dill, are scheduled.

Howard Murphy cited at ADA testimonial

Howard H. Murphy, chairman of the Baltimore Chapter of Americans for Democratic Action from 1957 to 1960, was the guest of honor at a testimonial dinner held by the Executive Board of ADA at Wilson's Restaurant last Thursday.

Sidney Hollander, the master of ceremonies, expressed the appreciation of the Baltimore Chapter for Mr. Murphy's energetic and able leadership of the group for the past three years.

He presented Mr. and Mrs. Murphy with a Lazy Susan as a gift of appreciation from the Chapter.

Among the guests at the dinner were Mrs. Sidney Hollander, Dr. August Meier, present chairman of the Baltimore Chapter of ADA, Dr. and Mrs. Frank Furstenburg, Leon Rubinstein, Jack Levin, and Oliver Singleton.

After the dinner, Dr. Meier led a short meeting of the Executive Board at which Plans for the annual Roosevelt Day Dinner were discussed.

The noted historian, Arthur M. Schlesinger, Jr., will be the featured speaker at the dinner, which will be held on Feb. 28 at the Sheraton Belvedere Hotel.

MR. MURPHY, is chairman of the Roosevelt Day Dinner. Other features of ADA's program, including a luncheon for congressmen, were also discussed.

Other members of the Executive Board present were Harry Colebaugh, the Rev. Edward G. Carroll of the Sharp Street Methodist Church, Miss Elsbeth Levy, Herbert Fedder, Ivor Kraft, Miss Barbara K. Waller, Robert B. Watts, and Mr. and Mrs. Henry Waskow.

Mrs. Walter L. Rosenthal, Mrs. Charles Bardoff, Mrs. Giles Brown, Miss Una Corbett, and Mrs. E. R. Weiner were also present.

Two on trial in North Ave. slaying

Two men, charged in the Feb. 16, 1960 slaying of a 72-year-old man, went to trial Wednesday in Criminal Court.

Facing possible death sentences are Albert Boley, 40, 1509 block Ashland Ave., and Frederick E. Lydy, 26, whose address was not given.

The case was interrupted Thursday and Friday because of a judicial conference and is scheduled to resume on Monday.

THE MEN are charged in the slaying of Joseph Luffman, 2800 block W. North Ave.

Prosecutors Howard Reamer and James W. Murphy are alleging that the men, in an attempt to rob Mr. Luffman, pounced on him as he was coming out of a tavern.

"Indeed, it is alleged that they came up behind him and struck him a fatal blow on the head.

Also named in the case was a Cognelius Ross, 1900 block E. Eager St. who was killed last Aug. 3 by police after he attempted to escape from the custody of a House of Correction guard.

Ross was serving a term in the House of Correction for a narcotics violation, and was brought to Baltimore for questioning in connection with the Luffman murder.

He overpowered a guard, who had been attempted to make a getaway before police cornered him in an East Baltimore Street and shot him.

Autopsy pending in death of two women in apt.

Two women who may have consumed canned heat died in an apartment at 702 W. Mulberry St., Tuesday.

An autopsy report on the cause of death of Miss Mary Forks, 40, and Miss Ada Fillmore, 38, is still pending.

Police said both women complained of blindness and were frothing at the mouth before their deaths.

WESTERN DISTRICT Police were first summoned to the home by James Anderson, Jr., a resident when Miss Fillmore became ill.

The officers were admitted to the house which was without windows or light, by Miss Forks.

Miss Fillmore was pronounced dead on arrival at University Hospital at 1:07 a.m.

Around 5 a.m. police were again called by Mr. Anderson.

Miss Forks was then taken to University where she was pronounced dead on arrival at 5:45 a.m.

More than 50 empty cans of canned heat and a number of wind bottles were found in the home police said.

Mayor J. Harold Grady has ordered a complete investigation of the deaths.

Suggest station house be used for boys club

Northeastern Police Station at Ashland Ave. and Durham St., into a police boys club or a city sponsored recreation center for teenagers and adults.

The request came from the Mayor in a letter signed by the president, Oscar Arter.

In support of its request, the group cited the case of an East Baltimore woman who died in a shooting incident several weeks ago.

"The case history of this young woman shows that most of her leisure time was spent in and around beer, wine and liquor taverns in East Baltimore," the letter said.

IT CONTINUED:

"This section of our beloved city is sadly lacking in cultural and social institutions. We have no Y.M. and Y.M.C.As, we have no Boys Clubs; we have no Urban Leagues, and we have no bowling alleys.

"No wonder many of our boys and girls look forward to the day when they will become of age, and be able to sit at a bar, a saloon, and in a tavern.

"Indoor recreational space in this section will help to keep our older boys and girls off the street, enable them to play off pent up energies, will freshen up their mentalities, and devotion in a manner [illegible] Boys Club, [illegible] would also be [illegible] value.

"You would not expect this to supplant the school, the church, nor the home, but indoor recreation space would be an adjunct to all of these institutions, measured in [illegible] saving those border line cases who have not yet become offenders of the law (2) would be a recreation shelter for those who have become affected unfavorably by their association with crime, and (3) would be a sort of foster home for those so called 'forgotten boys and girls of the street' who have become more or less delinquent, because they failed to stand firm under the pressure of the opinion stated further:

"We have found no decision holding that a policy of excluding certain limited kind or classes of people prevents an enterprise from being a place of public resort or amusement, and can see no reason why it should."

On the appellants argument that they were not disorderly, that neither the infringement of the rules of a private establishment, nor simple, polite trespass constitutes either a breach of the peace or disorderly conduct, the opinion had this to say:

"We find here more than either of these, enough to have permitted the trier (court) of fact to have determined as he did, that the conduct of appellants was disorderly.

TURNING TO the appellants' argument that the arrests by the Baltimore County police constituted state action to enforce a policy of segregation in violation of the equal protection and due process clauses of the 14th Amendment against state imposed racial discrimination.

The opinion quoted this finding in a Supreme Court case:

"The action inhibited by the first section of the 14th Amendment, is only such action as may fairly be said to be that of the state.

"That amendment erect no shield against merely private conduct, however discriminatory, or wrongful."

"The park had a legal right to maintain a business policy of excluding colored persons.

"This was a private policy which the state neither required nor assisted by legislation or administrative practice.

"The arrest of appellants was not because the state desired or intended to maintain the park as a segregated place of amusement.

"It was because the appellants were inciting the crowd by refusing to obey valid command to move from a place where they had no lawful right to be.

"Both white and colored people acted in a disorderly manner and the state, without discrimination, arrested and prosecuted all who were so acting."

High court upholds park decision

ANNAPOLIS — "It is our opinion that the arresting and convicting of appellants on warrants sworn out by the park for disorderly conduct, which resulted from the park enforcing its private, lawful policy of segregation, did not constitute such action as may fairly be said to be that of the state.

"It was at least one step removed from state enforcement of a policy of segregation and violated no constitutional right of appellants."

Maryland's Court of Appeals issued this opinion Wednesday in upholding the conviction of four persons, arrested during a disturbance at Gwynn Oak Amusement Park, last Sept. 6.

The quartet was convicted in Baltimore County at the appeal was based in their care.

THE FOUR, Dale Drews, Joseph C. Sheeman, Jurethal Joyner, and Helen W. Brown, were convicted on charges of disturbing the peace, "in a place of public resort or amusement," (Gwynn Oak) on All Nations' Day at the park.

The arrest of the four grew out of the park's policy of excluding colored citizens.

In a nine - page opinion, rendered by Judge Hall Hammond, attacked first was the appellants' claim that there was no evidence that the park is a place of public resort or amusement.

The opinion stated: "There is no direct statement in the records that the park is a place — of public resort or amusement, but we think the evidence clearly permitted the findings the trial court made that it is.

"We read the statue as including an amusement park in the category of a place of public resort or amusement.

"We find no substance in the somewhat 'bootstrap argument' that the regular exclusion of colored persons from the park kept it from being within the ambit of the statute."

ON THIS SAME subject, the opinion stated further:

"We have found no decision holding that a policy of excluding certain limited kind or classes of people prevents an enterprise from being a place of public resort or amusement, and can see no reason why it should."

On the appellants argument that they were not disorderly, that neither the infringement of the rules of a private establishment, nor simple, polite trespass constitutes either a breach of the peace or disorderly conduct, the opinion had this to say:

"We find here more than either of these, enough to have permitted the trier (court) of fact to have determined as he did, that the conduct of appellants was disorderly.
