BALTIMORE AFTER DARK

On The Town

WITH THE PUB CRAWLERS

On the gayline circuit, it was life as usual, during the past seven. However, it was spiced with a variety of conversation. Touching on several topics, basically the chatter fell into three grooves.

Of number one consideration, of course, is the donnybrook shaping up at the Old Capitol on the Severn, Annapolis.

"Tasters" are shook no little over the efforts of the B'boys to put a bigger price tag on the liquids of joy.

This, as you no doubt know, deals with the proposed increase in liquor license fees designed to add a cool million to the city's cash sack.

If the proposed law makes it through the maze of backslapping, handshaking, bottle passing, and closet conferences— and some say it will — the initial outlay will fall on the shoulders of club owners.

However, sippers are no lames, they know who'll foot the bill in the bitter end. So they have their peepers popped on the carryings-on of the wheelers and dealers.

OWNERS ARE not silent witnesses. They are hep that a price increase in times when they are crying the blues, due to tuff times, is as desirable as the "Seven-Year Itch."

Hence the battle lines are drawn, and owners are ready to open with their heaviest artillery.

There's comical irony in the upcoming duel. For the first time in many moons, fighters will take on a technical hue.

The National Licensed Beverage Association, will be in there winging when the battle waxes hot. Ditto for the Maryland Licensed Beverage Association.

NNLBA local wheels, Floyd Bartz, president; Casper Pigott, secretary, and Jay McHae, counsel, vow to stick to the bitter end.

Question — Did somebody say something about "unity" in strength? Well . . . they be battling as separate units, ya know.

• • •

RACKET SQUAD RAIDERS again came under scading comment by lovers of sleeble, the past few brights and darks.

The story goes that when the "pounders" yanked that minor out of "The Old Folks Home," the other moon lit, it was as genuine as a $3 bill.

The Smart Set has it that a talkative rader had spilled the beans long before the 'minor' was hauled off to the hoosegow.

• • •

NATCH, THE third tidbit involves the inauguration. An inaugurating the gay times that will accompany the Harvard Man's oath-taking, clubowners are following suit.

Such gimmicks as "Inaugural Balls," coronations, and fiestas are on tap all round the town for the weekend.

At Comedy, Howard Dixon, will stage an inaugural shindig. It will feature stars from the show now at the Royal and emceed by Sonny Til.

No matter what's your groove, you'll find it over the weekend if you latch on to Crawlers advice and hit these spots, who are dishing out fine foods, fabulous entertainment, and tasty sips all in a real down atmosphere:

Phil's Cocktail Lounge, Mount and Mosher; Chick's, Baltimore and Green; Lucky Number, Poplar Grove at Lafayette; Jones cocktail Lounge, Lanvale at Bruce; Knotty Pine, Linden near North; Herb's Melody Bar, East side of the B. Orleans St. way; Adam's Cocktail Lounge, down where the livin' is easy in Turner Station; Dotson's, Glen Burnie's fing is easy in Turner Station—answer to the road house craze;

Red Fox, where Pennsylvania and Fulton Aves. get together; Fox Log Cabin, the merging point of Fulton Ave. and Laurens St.;

Vilma, where the Main Stem meets Gold; Sphinx, who doesn't know where this house sits; North End Gay and North; Stage Coach, place of pleasant living, Anne Arundel County; and Alhambra, Avenue of Fascination, where Tom says y'all come.

So go, Crawlers will meet you!!

Nigerian student wins $4,500 grant

Victor Chukwude Okwuosa, a graduate of Morgan State College, has been awarded a $4,500 Fellowship towards his doctor's degree at the New School for Social Research in New York City.

The 22 - year - old student from Onitsha, Nigeria, was a history major while at Morgan, but upon graduation had decided to go into the field of public administration.

Speaking Spanish fluently, Mr. Okwuosa made application to the University of Puerto Rico to study for his master's degree.

He was keenly interested in Puerto Rico because it was an under - developed country and would parallel his own African homeland, Nigeria.

He received his master's degree last month.

• • •

AS A pre-requisite for being accepted in the New School for Social Research, Mr. Okwuosa had to submit a projected subject for his dissertation.

He chose: "A Study of the Framework of the Organization of American States and Its Applicability to West African Countries."

About two years will be required, in research and travel, to complete the study. He will leave for West Africa in June.

The Nigerian scholar came to Morgan on an African Exchange Student grant and said that the contacts with Morgan faculty and their recommendations had helped him greatly.
