'DAWN STRANGLER' TO DIE IN MARCH

AT DOUGLASS HIGH SCHOOL, Al Lockhart, representative of Daggett and Ramsdell, Inc., explains to Calvin R. Roach, chairman of the counseling committee, how the firm's offer of 50,000 jobs to young people in senior high school and college will aid in higher education and help relieve the national unemployment picture.

Jobs for 50,000 offered by firm

M. A. Lockhart, widely known in public relations circles as Al Lockhart, is in Baltimore on a mission which will result in unlimited job opportunities, a project destined to relieve unemployment by 50,000 jobs.

Mr. Lockhart who is vice president of the Louis, Rowe, Lockhart Agency of New York, is on assignment for the National Council of Women, Daggett and Ramsdell, Inc., and the American Emancipation Centennial Authority, Inc.

He comes to Maryland from other Eastern cities where he has assigned more than 1,500 persons to immediate paying jobs in connection with the combined efforts of the NCNW and Daggett and Ramsdell.

* * *

ON THURSDAY Mr. Lockhart told the AFRO that he expects to recruit the 50,000 employees from every major city in the country before Jan. 1, 1963 when the year-long celebration of the 100th anniversary of the Emancipation Proclamation begins.

Baltimore represents a pilot city where Mr. Lockhart has established headquarters at the Sheraton Inn, Broadway at Orleans St., Suite 200.

Well known in Baltimore, Mr. Lockhart is a former AFRO advertising representative.

As director of The Student Research Council, he keeps abreast of job opportunities in industry and in turn advises various industries of the exceptional talent of colored students in schools of commerce and communications.

HE ANNOUNCED that the Sheraton Inn headquarters will be open daily for appointments for those seeking the type of employment he offers.

A gigantic meeting is set for Friday, Jan. 27 at 7:30 p.m. at the Sheraton Belvedere Hotel Jubilee Room: Charles and Chase Sts.

At that time Miss E. Alleyne Perkins, regional manager of Daggett and Ramsdell's Washington, Virginia, North Carolina and Maryland areas, will speak.

The occasion represents the first monthly meeting of Baltimore area representatives who have been assigned during the time Mr. Lockhart has been in the city.

Also present will be the president of Daggett and Ramsdell, A. J. Weiglein and other company officials and Mrs. Dorothy Height, president of NCNW.

* * *

HIGHLIGHTING the event will be Mr. Lockhart's announcement of the Miss Emancipation Centennial contest also to be held in 1963.

At that time a young woman between the ages of 18 and 21 years will be crowned queen and will receive a trip around the world as a good will ambassador.

Mr. Lockhart will also announce the Jan. 1, 1963 nation-wide celebration which begins with the unveiling of the Mary McLeod Bethune Memorial and Educational Center in Washington.

The Chicago celebration will begin with the opening of the archives and monument to American colored citizens. The site for the archives has been given by the city of Chicago. The building will house volumes of history on colored people and various other items showing the milestones and highlights of 100 years of progress.

Mr. Lockhart is a representative of Mrs. Dorothy I. Height, president of the National Council of Colored Women and affiliated organizations and Arthur A. J. Weiglein, Sr., president of Daggett and Ramsdell.

Committee seeks more job chances for salesmen

A group of some 50 persons, headed by Theodore Carver and James H. Edwards has set up a "Special Coordinating Committee," designed to increase job opportunities for colored salesmen in the liquor industry.

The committee has pointed out that of 18 wholesalers in the Baltimore area, two employ such salesmen.

Spokesmen for the group have announced that further details on the program will be announced at a later date.

Welfare rulings

BY MAX JOHNSON

ANNAPOLIS — There is at least one bill before the General Assembly that the lawmakers won't look too hard at.

Senator Louis N. Phipps (D., Anne Arundel) came in last Thursday with a little bill aimed at the Department of Public Welfare's aid to dependent children program.

The Senator's bill asks that public assistance be denied any dependent child living with the mother — if that mother has given birth to an illegitimate child while receiving welfare benefits.

The bill further asks that public aid to the dependent child would not be continued until:

"Proof has been presented which satisfied the local unit (Welfare Dept.) that the mother has ceased her illicit relationship;

"And is maintaining a suitable home for the child or children."

SENATOR PHIPPS' bill, of course, would impose a harsh penalty on the child in such cases — who really had nothing to do with the situation.

Hardly a sensible approach to the matter of welfare recipients bearing illegitimate children.

The Federal Government, however, has taken care of the Senator's bill — and the proposals of others in a similar vein.

Arthur S. Flemming, U.S. Secretary of Welfare, announced Tuesday new regulations would limit a State's power to cut off aid to needy children — if the State is to continue receiving Federal welfare funds.

THE NEW regulations are the result of a Louisiana law which cut 23,500 such children off the State's welfare rolls last July.

Louisiana's law holds that welfare aid to a mother would be halted if she bore an illegitimate child.

And the State could then declare the home unsuitable, and stop providing for the children in it.

Mr. Flemming said Louisiana can continue to collect Federal funds for its welfare program — but not under the State's adherence to this law.

The new regulations go in effect July 1.

Seven other States with this "suitable home" provision — and affected by the new regulations — are:

ARKANSAS, FLORIDA, Georgia, Michigan, Mississippi, Texas and Virginia.

So — it looks like Senator Phipps is stuck with a dud.

He can forget about his Senate Bill 183 — the Government has slammed the door on it.

14 varied charges net 30 years

"I don't know what's wrong with you except you're just plain onery.

"I have no other alternative but to take you out of society for a long time."

With these words, Criminal Court Judge Joseph L. Carter, on Tuesday, stuck a 30-year jail sentence on Alexander Coleman, 29, 800 block Hanover St.

Coleman was charged with practically everything on the books — from bastardy to armed robbery, a total of 14 charges.

He had been sought by police since 1958 when he jumped bail after being charged with armed robbery, the court was told.

Coleman was convicted of that charge on Wednesday.

* * *

FRANCIS GEE, 44, 100 block S. Willard St., the robbery victim, told the court that the holdup occurred in Sept. 1958 in a shoe shop in the 1100 block Winchester St.

Mr. Gee said the defendant entered the shop with a pistol in his hands and took $104.

He was arrested a year later when Mr. Gee saw him walking the streets and called police, according to testimony.

While awaiting trial, Coleman jumped bail and was not heard from again until his arrest last November.

* * *

ANOTHER MAJOR charge involved a shooting in which two persons were seriously injured.

Injured were Miss Naomi Moore, 1700 block N. Mount St., and Charles Smith, 1300 block N. Stockton St.

Miss Moore, a friend of Coleman's, told the court the shooting occurred on April 23, 1960, while she and Mr. Smith were walking in the 1300 block Stockton St.

Miss Moore was shot twice in the side, and Mr. Smith once in the abdomen.

Warrants were taken for Coleman's arrest but he was never located.

Included in other charges were assaults on policemen, resisting arrest, possession of a deadly weapon, and burglary.

Coleman was arrested as a result of what Judge Carter called "good policing" by Det. James Watkins of the Detective Division.

Det. Watkins testified that he was off duty, driving near Hamburg and Race Sts. when he recognized Coleman.

He said he recalled there were several warrants out for Coleman's arest.

The detective testified that while attempting to place Coleman under custody, the man kept walking away and continuously moved his hand toward his belt as if to draw a pistol.

After several warnings, the policeman said he shot Coleman in the legs.

* * *

OTHER POLICEMEN came to Det. Watkins' aid, and the defendant made a fruitless effort to free himself. He was subdued only after he had assaulted two of the officers.

Records were introduced into evidence by prosecutor John W. Sause to show that Coleman had an extensive record of assaults and deadly weapon convictions.

Home seekers urged to buy in all-white developments

"The white man is very weak in his control of prejudice and fear. I don't pretend to know any method to change his fears.

"But, in the past years some white people have begun to say, 'why should we run when a colored family enters the neighborhood'."

The above statements were made Tuesday at a meeting at the NAACP office attended by 38 citizens.

Speaking was Andrew Bristow, executive director of the Baltimore Neighborhoods, Inc. organization.

Mr. Bristow's remarks came as a prelude to the "pioneering adventure" program of the Baltimore Neighborhoods.

* * *

ONE OF THE group's purposes is to "prevent wholesale flight from existing neighborhoods."

Other purposes Mr. Bristow explained, are to increase the availability of housing, sale and rental, to all people in the community; to prevent the practice of "steering colored residents to and whites from residential areas known as changing neighborhoods."

Baltimore Neighborhoods is composed of representatives from real estate, civic, religious and neighborhood organizations, privately financed, he stated.

Also speaking for Baltimore Neighborhoods was Sydney Hollander Jr., who proposed that colored citizens go out into the counties where all - white developments are up for occupancy and "look, inquire and show their presence."

He said: "This is the only way we can see to keep the city from "a black city, with white counties."

* * *

HE EXPLAINED: "I as a white citizen have no influence with the Real Estate Board, the county commissioners.

"We can not begin with them because we do not have the power to act.

Saying he did not know any other way, Mr. Hollander offered three methods:

1. Begin with white people

Teenage toughs plague Douglass Hi students

A roving gang of teenage boys are roaming the Douglass High School area molesting students at lunch time, the AFRO learned this week.

Traveling in groups of undetermined numbers, the teenage toughs arrive at the school during lunch hour. While other students are going to the cafeteria, the intruders make their raids.

If students refuse to cooperate, they are mauled and beaten by the rowdy youths.

Mrs. Lillian M. Parrott, principal, said three such cases have occurred at the school within the past week.

She described the gangs as well - organized and made up of boys who have either dropped out of school, or been expelled or suspended.

TO COMBAT the menace, Mrs. Parrott said teachers and police have joined forces.

Three arrests have been made and others are pending, the principal reported.

"The police have been very cooperative," she said.

Capt. Robert Frank, commander, Northwestern District, said his men keep close watch on the school during the lunch hour.

When officers, already alerted by the faculty, see gangs members being chased from the premises by teachers, they grab them, the captain said.

He said he has both student officers and teachers as lookouts, out - of - school - youths can be quickly recognized when they enter the school, it was pointed out.

* * *

CAPTAIN FRANK said the teenagers arrested are charged with disorderly conduct. But when students who witness the acts testify, offenders will face the more serious charge of robbery, he said.

School officials said despite the raids, there have been no widespread complaints of such activity.

All students have been urged to report any such incidents immediately to teachers on duty, Mrs. Parrott emphasized, because quick action aids in identification and arrest of the culprits.

Dr. Vernon Varins, assistant superintendent, says the problem at Douglass seems to be general and has plagued the school for a number of years.

The problem is no greater now than it has been in the past, he said.

The cooperation between faculty members and the police and alert students will remedy the not - yet - serious problem, Dr. Varins said.

Park Board vetoes school site plans

A request to give up parts of two neighborhood parks for school sites has been turned down by the Park Board.

The Board voted unanimously Tuesday to hold onto Collington and Johnson Squares in E. Baltimore.

The Board declared that it did not care to eliminate any green spots in the city.

Both parks contain grass, trees and benches.

* * *

THE DEPARTMENT of Education had asked for half of each square to construct two elementary schools.

It was estimated that acquisition of the two sites would save the city almost one million dollars.

Collington Square is bounded by Preston, Chester, Hoffman Sts., and Patterson Park Ave.

Johnson Square is surrounded by Valley, Chase, Biddle Sts., and Homewood Ave.

BECAUSE OF the Park Board veto, the city may have to buy approximately 132 pieces of private property.

It would also displace about 160 families and an annual property tax loss of $30,000.

There is an ordinance before the City Council to condemn land for the two schools.

Slain Calif. businessman is former Baltimorean

PASADENA, Calif. — No trial date has been set for Robert Bradford, 31, accosted in the New Year's death of his best friend, socially prominent Robert Campbell, 30, 1980 Windsor St.

Baltimore - born Mr. Campbell, an Air Force veteran, owned and operated the Coast Disposal Company here.

Police report the two boyhood friends argued following a New Year's Eve party, and later Campbell staggered to the street with a gunshot wound in the heart.

The victim's wife is Mrs. Mary Lee Campbell, a Los Angeles teacher. There are three young children, Robert Jr., Leslie and Craig.

RELATIVES REPORT the accused man and his wife, Charlene Bradford, were godparents for one of the Campbells' children.

Mr. Campbell was born in Baltimore, attended the Argyle Ave. Elementary School before moving to California. His parents, Mr. and Mrs. Wilmer Campbell, formerly of Baltimoreans, live here at 226 Clinton St.

The slain man's grandmother is Mrs. Ella Butler, 1327 Argyle Ave. In Baltimore, she told the AFRO her grandson last visited there in 1953, when her husband, the late, Alexander Butler, was ailing.

Another Baltimore relative of the dead man is Mrs. Lillian Reid, city art specialist. Also surviving is a sister, Mrs. Lillian Osborne of Pasadena.

Killer of 3 Eastsiders is doomed

Unless a miracle prevents it, Nathaniel Lipscomb, dubbed "The Dawn Strangler," will be executed the week of March 6.

Lipscomb, 36, was convicted last Feb. 18 of the rape-murder of three Eastside women.

Judges James K. Cullen and Joseph L. Carter signed the death warrant Wednesday in Criminal Court.

The action came after the Maryland Court of Appeals last month threw out an insanity plea by Lipscomb and affirmed his conviction.

* * *

ALL THREE of the women were attacked and strangled to death in the general vicinity of Lipscomb's own home.

At the time of his arrest police said they found several pieces of women's undergarments in Lipscomb's pockets.

Formerly of Charlotte, N.C., Lipscomb told of having killed a woman in that city, but having been sent to a mental hospital instead of being tried.

Medical evidence produced in the Baltimore court showed that the man was mentally deficient, but sane according to Maryland law.

* * *

THE ONLY steps to halt the execution would be a stay either from the Governor or the Court.

Opinion is that such steps at this point are extremely remote.

Charles E. Moylan Jr. and Joseph G. Koutz, prosecuted the case. Robert B. Watts was Lipscomb's attorney.

Cost of haircuts to go up

Haircuts are going to cost more this summer.

The Journeymen Barbers Union (Local 765) have made it official.

Starting in June, the price of a haircut will be $1.50.

While the cost of children's haircuts will go up to one dollar, women will continue to pay $1.50.

A steady rise in the cost of living, plus an increase in the cost of operating shops were cited as the reason for raising prices.

One other reason given is that a barber who works up to 70 hours a week, creates an unhealthy condition for himself and his customer.

Under law, Local 765 could have raised prices last April when it was granted a charter.

Action was postponed however, to give the shops time to complete business arrangements.

* * *

AT A January 12 meeting, Local 795 also agreed on shorter work hours.

The new work hours will be from 8 a.m. to 7 p.m. Monday through Thursday, and from 8 a.m. to 8 p.m. on Friday and Saturday.

Each shop will choose its own closing day.

The union also agreed to give Journeymen barbers a higher percentage of the gross intake and vacations with pay.

IN SEEKING shorter working hours the union cited a recent survey which indicated that:

The average barber works 68 to 70 hours a week; and his weekly income is below that of any other skilled or professional worker who works only 40 hours a week.

According to the survey, the average barber works from 25 to 30 hours a week without compensation.

The survey also revealed that most barbers have little time to spend with their families.

Group Rejects Housing Proposal

(STORY IN COLUMN 1)

One Grave For 7

Housing proposal rejected

Baltimore Urban Renewal and Housing Agency's proposed "preference clause" suffered a new defeat this week.

A subcommittee of the Citizens Advisory Committee for the Mount Royal Fremont renewal area's Project 1

(See later Story Page 14)

voted against the clause at the Wednesday meeting.

Action by the subcommittee came two weeks after the advisory committee had voted against the "preference clause" language as too weak.

Next step will be a showdown vote by the advisory committee on Feb. 2.

THE PREFERENCE clause proposed for the contract which would cover Project 1 of the Mt. Royal - Fremont Area, would favor developers who bid on renewal contracts and promise not to practice racial discrimination.

Led by the NAACP, a large protesting group of leaders maintain that the "Preference clause" not only is an unnecessary provision to permit discrimination as in the past, but also invites discrimination.

The key argument made by the protestants is that discrimination should not be condoned in any way by the

Snow ends but cold to linger

For the third time in 45 days, Baltimore has gone through a snow storm.

The latest, which started shortly after noon Thursday, dumped six inches of new snow on that still left from the second snow of the season.

It was announced by 8:35 p.m. Thursday, that all public and parochial schools would be closed today.

The snow ended Thursday night but the Weatherman promised more cold and wind.

Last Thursday, the second storm of the season, driven by icy blasts of winds, left only three inches plus, but paralyzed the city.

Driven by gale force winds that storm caught motorists and pedestrians off-guard.

The season's first on December 11, called the third worst in recent history blanketed the city with 14.1 inches. It was three days before Baltimore returned to any semblance of normalcy.

Unlike the first two, the city was prepared for No. 3.

* * *

THE SNOW Emergency Plan went into effect at 5 p.m., but all traffic problems were solved long before then.

For the first time since its creation, Mayor Grady ordered the "Storm Center" of the Traffic and Transit Department to use the "Dispersal Plan."

William F. Zorzi, deputy commissioner, said the results were quite satisfactory.

The Dispersal Plan divides the city into 5 zones. Employers in the various zones are asked to dismiss workers early, at half hour intervals.

FOR INSTANCE:

At 2:30 when the plan was put into effect, firms in South Baltimore, west of Hanover Street sent employees home.

Then the plan moved to the central city, where industries north of Lexington and south of North Ave., released their employees at 3 p.m.

At 3:30, workers in the area north of North Ave. and East of Charles St. left for home. Those north of North Ave. and west of Charles St. were dismissed, and so on.

Mr. Zorzi said no traffic

'D-Day' Sunday for 'Tent City'

The Ministers Alliance is sending out last-minute appeals to all citizens to support "Operation Tent City."

The giant relief project for the 27,000 colored victims of vote reprisals in Haywood and Fayette counties Tennessee, ends Sunday.

"Operation Tent City" headed by local clergymen, is to collect food and money for the sharecroppers and tenant farmers, unable to buy because white merchants refuse to sell them.

When worshippers go to church Sunday, they are urged to carry canned foodstuffs and other offerings for the "mercy mission."

Fifty-three churches have been selected as collection centers for all donations.

MINISTERS FROM throughout the city are asked to deliver contributions from their congregations to these churches.

Although Monday was originally set as collection date, contributions will be picked up from the collection centers, Tuesday, instead.

The pick-up day was moved so that other churches will have ample time to deliver contributions to the collection centers.

The Rev. Marion C. Bascom, alliance president, said the project has created great enthusiasm and support.

MR. AND MRS. ERNEST GREEN 'Maybe with His help, we can bear it'

Largest mass rites in county

BY GEORGE COLLINS

"It has been terribly hard for a long time. I thought things couldn't get much worse.

"The children had barely enough to eat, they needed clothing, shoes and many things, but we just couldn't get them.

"Now this, Lord, I just don't know. I just don't know."

Mrs. Delores Green, tears rolling down her cheeks, hands clasped tight and resting in her lap, was talking to the AFRO Thursday.

Mrs. Green is the 28-year-old, Pasadena mother of the seven children burned to death in the worst fire in Anne Arundel County history.

* * *

SHE WEPT bitterly as she recalled the tragedy that has stalked her in recent years. Sitting beside her husband, Ernest Green, 34, - between sobs, Mrs. Green whispered:

"My first husband was killed by a car in April, 1952. Early last year, my husband, Mr. Green, was laid off his job at Fort Meade. The family has been forced to live on $24 weekly unemployment compensation, now this." Her voice trailed off into uncontrolled sobbing.

With the minister, the Rev. L. A. Dyson officiating, her seven children, brother in-

Nab youth in campus atrocities

RICHMOND — Courageous Coolheaded, young girl, Good judgment.

These descriptions were applied this week to the 18-year-old Virginia Union co-ed who had the daring to make a repeat date with her gun-wielding attacker, thus enabling police to set a trap which nabbed a 19-year-old suspect accused of molesting two Union students within a week.

The spectacular arrest on the university campus Saturday evening was made by Officer L. O. Johnson and E. E. Bebbs, who, working in plainclothes, kept the date the girl had made with her attacker of the previous night.

ARRESTED IS Willie E. Rainey of the 1000 block N. First St. who is scheduled for a Police Court hearing on Friday on charges of raping one student and making indecent proposals to another.

An expectant father, the youth was originally released under $1,000 bail. But after court officials were made aware of the seriousness of the charges, Rainey was returned to court on Tuesday morning and the bail was substantially increased.

No more meal jim crow for city sanitation workers

"I feel we are all human beings, and should be treated alike.

"I can assure you this bureau does not condone at any time any segregation of employees. It is not a policy of this bureau.

"I shall immediately start negotiations with another restaurant chain. . . I'm terribly sorry, and I'm taking steps to see there are no further restrictions."

The speaker was G. Victor Walters, city highway engineer.

MR. WALTER'S comments came after the AFRO and City Councilman Walter Dixon (D-4th), advised that colored workers on snow removal duty complained they were given take-out service only at a White Coffee Pot restaurant at Edmondson Ave. and Monroe St. on Saturday evening.

Sanitation employees who work under adverse conditions to remove snow and trash at night are allowed 75 cents by the city for meals.

These subsidized meal tickets, are honored at White Coffee Pot, but at other than take-out service they are open all night. It added that the city has no contractural agreement.

Advised that other restaurant chains including the White Tower chain are open all night and serve all Mr. Walters commented: "My gracious. I didn't know that. I, we can change it with a flash of a finger.

"There has never been any thought or agreement so far as the men are concerned. We want to build public relations in this department.

JEROME KATZ, of the White Coffee Pot chain, told the AFRO on Thursday, "Our policy is the same as it has always been and I have no

League-leading Dunbar quintet forsees trouble in second half

Coach Bill (Sugar) Cain disclosed Thursday that he had learned his ace floor-setter, Rudy Peterson, will enter Morgan State College upon graduation from Dunbar High School next week.

Peterson will thus join his old teammate Charley Leach with the Bears. Coach Cain himself is an alumnus of Morgan.

"Now our troubles begin."

That was Bill Cain talking speaking after his Dunbar High School charges had taken over sole possession of first place in the MSAA Division 1, by whipping Carver, 61-60.

The game, played at Carver before a packed house, was a battle between the city's only unbeaten teams, and knocked the Cubs from a first place tie with Carver and his Poets.

* * *

FOR A man whose team had just won its 13th straight contest and moved one-and-a-half games ahead of its nearest competitor, the Dunbar coach seemed unexplainably gloomy.

"Not when you don't know where and when you'll win another game," Cain pointed out. "We lose almost the entire first team next week, in mid-term graduation. And after that, we're in real trouble.

* * *

"RUDY PETERSON goes. That's enough to kill us right there. This fellow has been our salvation with his rebounding. He's gotten the ball for us and, besides, he's kind of a big scorer.

In addition to Peterson, we lose Cal Kenon, Cliff Owens and Henry Morning. There go four of our five starters.

"You know what Kenon did for us in this (Carver) game. He has been our clutch player for two years. Even last year when (Charley) Leach was our big man, we could count on Cal to take up the slack when the other side started double-teaming Charley.
