Couples' Club marks birthday with gay dinner-card session

with Lula Jones Garrett

Marking their second anniversary, members of the Couples Club held forth at a dinner party Saturday at the Ruxton Ave. residence of the William Stanfords.

With Edna Stanford playing the role of impecable hostess, it was indeed a gay affair.

The formal dinner by candlelight out of the way, the guests retired to the club cellar where the uninitiated were given free lessons by Mary Elizabeth Law and Mary Francis Mackay in the intricacies of the twist, the pony, the fishwalk and the slummy.

The more sedate remained upstairs and entertained themselves at bridge.

Enjoying the food and fun were James and Yvette Murphy, John and Ethel Rich, Tom and Delapaine Warrington, Medford and Vernice Reynolds, Rudolph and Doris Wheeler, Hiram and Beatrice Butler, Charles and Mary Elizabeth Law, William and Edna Stanford and Cliff and Mary Francis Mackay.
