ELECTIONS IN AUGUST

GEORGETOWN, British Guinea (ANP) — Three political parties will contest in the elections to be held throughout British Guiana in August. For the elections, the country had been divided into 35 constituencies. The political groups arrayed against each other are the People's Progressive party, headed by Dr. Cheedi Jagan; People's National Congress, Forbes Burnham; and the newly-formed United Force, led by Peter D. Aguiar.

COMPULSORY MILITARY TRAINING

MONROVIA — (ANP) President William V. S. Tubman has proposed that all able-bodied male citizens be required to enter into military services, to implement the government's desire to reorganize the military defense and security set-up of the country. Previously, Liberian youth have been given a choice in so far as military duties were concerned, but as Tubman said, "there has never been a more urgent need as now to strengthen the Armed Forces for internal security and safety."
