Ashburton Child Study group hosts at elegant luncheon

with Lula Jones Garrett

The Ashburton Child Study Association entertained at its first annual luncheon on Saturday.

Since I've had a struggle trying to decide which was the more of a beauty pageant, the setting for the affair or the bevy of chic young matrons who make up the organization, and the friends they invited.

The association chose the Red Room of the Belvedere. had the tables draped in pale pink and centered with flowers. had cocktails poured in an adjourning room.

They dined on a choice of fowl or seafoods as the main items, and heard an informative talk by Miss Barbara Ashenden, psychiatrist, and afterwards participated in a lively discussion.

And all the time they knocked your eyes out in their smart little suits, their chic frocks, their flossy hats and their elegant furs.

On the program, Shirley H. Hargrove added a delightful touch with poetry, ere she introduced the president, Robbie Chissell. Ardelle J. Jeudy introduced Miss Ashenden, and the invocation and benediction were given by Edith Smith and Mary S. Harris, respectively.

Seretha Greene was the clever chairman who had marshalled the plans.

Hostesses included:

Joycelyn Braxton, Helen Burwell, Miriam Brown, Gloria Carpenter, Vashti Christmas, Robbie Chissell, Edith Davidson, Seretha Greene, Mildred Hall.

Also Shirley Hargrove, Mary S. Harris, Ardelle Jeudy, Doris Moore, Helen Lee, Peggy Jones, Lillian Jones, Senora Reckling, Grace Scott, Joan Scott and Edith Smith.

Invited to lunch with them were:

Miss Ashenden, Minna Schulman, president of the Central Chapter Child Study Association; Daniel Nicholas, Ada Weaver, Julia Jones, Thurber Jackson.

Kay Carter, Gladyce B. Jones, Louise Robinson, Bonnie Carr, Jacqueline Watts, Anne Boone, Lula Patterson, Ethel Day, Mary A. Pitts, Joyce Neal, Mary K. McPherson, Jimmie LaForest, Mable Grant, Marilyn French, Ivy Harris, Juanita Harris.

Anabel Rawlings, Blanche Beckham, Audrey Thomas and Carolyn French.

BETTYE SHELTON, who was chairman of the committee that planned and executed that gala spring dance given by Lambda Kappa Mu sorors a Thursday night ago entertained at an equally gala cocktail party in connection with the dance.

She in a gold satin strapless short formal frock and gold accessories, she held forth for:

Ellen and Glendi Johns, Ann and Earl Warner, Dorris and Lester Wallace, Barbara Tabb, Ruth Payne, Irving Jones, Sadie and Armstead Jenkins, Berteal Leake;

Also Agnes and J. C. Reaves, Royal White, Melvin Bassett, Phyllis and Samuel Harcum, Mary and William Bevans, Alice and Wesley Shelton, Bertha and Harvey Seay;

And Middy Shelton, Doris and Earl Williams, Marjorie Shelton, Chester McFarland, Ruth and David Jones, Wilfred Shelton and Marian Christian.

WHEN ALICE NIXON and Mary Jones hosted members of the Chit-Chat Club, Saturday, their luncheon was strictly on the gourmet level.

And their card prizes took the unusual form of engraved trophies for top scores . . . which, incidentally, went to Audrey Williamson, first; Mary Holmes, second; Cora Meredith, third, and Beatrice Brown, fourth.

Also playing were Lendora Houston, Bonnie McCray, Iola Minson, Elaine Taylor, Dorothy Thigman, Emma Jones and Marie Murphy.

The Baltimore Alumnae Chapter of Delta Sigma Theta Sorority had an evening of fun and relaxation at the Kappa House, Saturday, instead of their regular monthly business session.

Soror Thelma Cox and her committee, Sorors Miriam Winborne, Gwendolyn Lamont, Frances Gaines, Eva Jones, and Joan Cole had prepared, along with Pokeno, Scrabble, Pinochle, Bridge, etc., a group of unusual games for prizes and group fun.

After their palates had been delighted with cooling refreshment, the sorors were in for a delight of the eye. Mrs. Cox had arranged a showing of spring and summer hats by her mother, Mrs. Ida Mae Banks, a milliner from Philadelphia. The show included models from cloches and toques to whimseys and pillboxes.

The sorors who modeled the hats were Delores Adams, Joan Cole, Joyce Neal, Mary Irvine, Mary Poole, and Frances Lucas, whose pale orchid suit was a perfect match for the green tulle and orchid confection she modeled.

Other sorors in attendance were:

Doris Adams, Hazel Barrett, Dorothy Barrick, Evelyn Bass, Louise Berry.

Bernice Brandon, Shirley Beard, Louella Cane, Dorothy Briscoe, Lavinia Brown, Rebecca Carroll, Florence Carter.

Helen Chamberlain, Nancie Gregory, Rubye Couch, Delores Faulkner, Kathryn Prisby, Rubye Gill.

Mary Goode, Frances Finney, Martha Bradford, Catherine Green, Ellen Howard.

don't produce as much electric power as you and other Americans have at your fingertips.

This electric "muscle" is a big reason for our nation's leadership. It makes possible our high standard of living, our industrial progress, and our defense of the Free World.

In this country, most of our electric power comes from investor-owned electric light and power companies, who make it from coal, oil, gas, falling water and atomic energy.

These companies—more than 300 companies like yours—welcome the full responsibility of making sure America is always the strongest electric nation in the world.

GUESTS FROM THREE CITIES attended a reception in Baltimore, Sunday, given by Dr. and Mrs. James M. Pair in honor of their daughter, Andrea. Miss Pair made her debut at the cotillion given by the Me - De - So Club the Friday before. She is a freshman at Howard University.

Reception honors Miss Andrea Pair

Guests from New York, Washington and this city interminglied Sunday afternoon in the Garrison Boulevard home of Dr. and Mrs. James M. Pair who gave a reception for their debutante daughter, Miss Andrea Mary Pair.

Miss Pair, a 1960 graduate of Western High School was second in her class at the all-girl school.

DURING HIGH SCHOOL years, Miss Pair served on the staff of the school paper, was school reporter to the AFRO-AMERICAN, and active in other school organizations.

During her senior year she was awarded a scholarship to Vassar College and a four-year achievement scholarship she is now enrolled in the honors program.

FOR THE RECEPTION on Sunday, she wore a silk print of roses and violets on a white background. Made with a soft blouse and skirt which fell in soft folds, the dress was belted in green. Her accessories included green shoes and deep purple orchid corsage.

She carried a bouquet of pink roses and purple tinted carnations.

Mrs. Pair chose a frock of sapphire blue satin with blue sequin girdle.

ALSO IN THE receiving line were Dr. Pair, Mrs. Pauline Watts, who wore a pale blue silk sheath with narrow beaded midriff.

Mrs. Thomas Sheppard of New York, godmother of the debutante, who wore a black peau de soie sheath with side pouf and portrait neckline.

Mrs. Peter Ridley of Washington, aunt, who selected a green flowered print two - piece silk frock with chiffon top.

Mrs. Lois Turner Sr., aunt, also of Washington, whose dress was of champagne taffeta;

Mrs. Hubert Pair of Washington, aunt, who wore a lavender silk sheath; Mrs. Clarence Pair of Mt. Vernon, N.Y., also an aunt, who was gowned in an imported Indian print sheath in gold tones; and Miss Myrtle Jackson, who wore a blue flowered print in silk organza and taffeta.

HOSTESSES INCLUDED Mrs. Vivian Bundy, Mrs. Reuben Jones, Mrs. I. Bradshaw Higgins, Miss Shirley Watkins, Mrs. Arne Wayne and Miss Marilyn Moore.

Dr. and Mrs. Pair used a red and white color motif for the reception, filling their lovely rooms with white gladiolas, red carnations, white sweet peas and red roses.

Following the reception they entertained at a buffet supper for members of the out-of-town guests.

Education seen in revolution

"What impresses me as a real revolution is that man is going on inside of education."

This was Dr. Arthur W. Foshay, executive officer, Horace Mann-Lincoln Institute of School Experimentation, Teachers College, Columbia University, who spoke to more than 500 educators at the Maryland Conference on Elementary Education.

The conference was a two-day affair held at the Emerson Hotel Thursday and Friday.

Dr. Foshay said elementary teaching today is done in outline instead of in depth as in the past.

HE CHARGED that emotions are not allowed to enter into the classroom today.

He suggested to the educators that they should be allowed to approach a subject "with the same discipline a historian uses in his approach to history or, a scientist, in his field."

Dr. Foshay said the worst violated subject is literature.

He complained that educators deny all emotion in the teaching of literature when the purpose of literature is to try and understand the human condition.

Funeral services for Mrs. Nolley

THIS WEEK we are continuing a check list of what each member of the Bridal Party should do. In previous issues we have covered the Bride's Check List, and the Groom's Check List. This week we will cover what the Groom's parents should do. Coming: tips on a second wedding.

THE BEST MAN SHOULD:

( ) Take charge of the ushers

and brief them on special seating arrangements at the wedding rehearsal.

( ) Get the wedding ring

and guard it with his life the day of the wedding. Some best men carry a dime-store "spare" — just in case. If there's a ring-bearer, the best man sees that he carries out his instructions.

( ) Obtain the marriage license and the minister's fee from the groom the day of the wedding.

( ) Help the groom

get ready for the wedding, making sure that the groom's bags are packed. The best man will usually take the luggage of both bride and groom to the checkroom or the car they are to use, and the groom's going-away clothes to the reception place.

( ) Call for and accompany the groom to the church and wait with him in the vestry. The best man should have the groom at the church at least 15 minutes before the ceremony begins. The best man may choose to present the minister's fee during this waiting time instead of after the ceremony. He will be sure the groom's hat and coat are taken around to the vestibule of the church with his own before the ceremony. After, he sees that leaves of the wedding party leave in the proper cars.

( ) Be prepared to be toastmaster and timekeeper at the bride's table during the reception. He should propose a toast to the bride (sometimes to the bride and groom) and should respond to a toast to the brides-maids. He sees that the guest book is signed, has the car sent around at the proper time, assists the couple in getting away and sees them off.

Next Week: "The Groom's Parents Should"...

THE PLANS, as well as the lovely prizes, were already wrapped up for the Lawyers' Wives card party when they met at Marcella Compton's attractive home, Tuesday.

When their guests play at Morgan's' Refectory on the 29th, they will also enjoy Ruth Jay's beguiling hats, formerly in her shop. Models were such whistle-bait the male guests forgot it was a hat show.

The card party was all fun, but it helps the wives with their annual project of substantially aiding a worthy student and supporting a civic or charitable cause.

Voting to aid Provident Hospital this year were:

Shirley Pinkett, efficient president of the Lawyer's Wives; Bernice Buckner and Dorothy Young, co-hostesses with Marcella; Clarice Parrish, Catherine Green;

Margaret Koger, Thelma Foreman, Zaidee Koger, Ann McAllister, Lorraine Hayes, Edith Carruth, Jacqueline Watts, Anna Williams, Rosa Murray, Daisy Josey, Georgia Howard, Sadie Woolford, Florence Bailey and Adele Foreman.

ALPHA ALPHA SIGMA chapter of the Sigma Gamma Rho Sorority, highlighted its celebration of Sigma Week with a public meeting and a delightful luncheon.

The observance was initiated with an annual public meeting at the Madison Avenue Branch of the YWCA on Friday.

The group heard an address by the grand basileus, Dr. Lorraine Williams, who spoke on the subject "Training Youth for Community Leadership."

In her address Dr. Williams stressed that "this decade of decisions" has produced colored youth who want to be first class citizens. She emphasized that the colored American has developed a sincere interest in true democratic practices will strive for the best and will accept only promotes which are worthwhile; that colored youth needs more support from adults; and that colored youth feel a keen sense of public duty and their actions are gradually turning from "thoughtlessness" to thoughtfulness.

"Education," said Dr. Williams, "is the key to improving ourselves and to help us solve our problems in the community. Youth of America and other parts of the world realize that unity of purpose and actions will help them reach their goals."

Miss Joan Hemphill, soprano of Dunbar High School, sang several selections.

The Douglass High School Boys' Choir, under the direction of Norman E. Ross, inspired the group with their "Song of Joy" by Grelchaninoff.

Miss Rose Kinney, basileus of the local chapter presided at the meeting.

The sorority climaxed its celebration of Sigma Week with a delightful luncheon at the home of Miss Rose Kinney.

Mrs. Catherine Royston takes the laurels for the planning of the party. She was chairman of the luncheon.

Recognizing the importance of the work of the American Council on Human Rights, the sorority had as its guest speaker, Mrs. Emma Carter, senior representative from the Sigma Gamma Rho Sorority to the American Council of Human Rights.

Honors were bestowed on Mrs. Aray Laws and Mrs. Ida Washington who have worked diligently to promote the slogan of the sorority, "Greater service, Greater progress." Gifts were presented to them by Mrs. Reba Brailsford.

POT - POURRI: Snarkiest invitations in the mails, this week, are the gold and white bids from the Baltimore chapter of the National Smart Set to its party (black tie) on May 6th.

Item drawing the most town comment is that anent Miriam Hughes, town teacher, daughter of the W. A. C. Hughes and one of the most popular of local belles, breaking her engagement to Arnold Hayes, Juvenile Court employee from Trenton, N. J.

Mrs. Mary P. Bacote, of Dolphin St., has moved into her recently renovated place on Ferndale Ave. Mrs. Bacote is the widow of Dr. Albert Bacote and hails from Tennessee. She's a city schoolmarm, member of the Monumental Medical Society's auxiliary, a past national officer of Iota Phi Lambda Sorority, the Quettes and "The Organization".

And thanks for thinking of me to that tipster anent another "lovely widow" . . . but I never disclose the source, neither do I use news items sent by those who do not sign their names.

Most delightfully surprised honoree on the home front, Saturday, was Margaret Gassaway, for whom Mary Jenkins sprang a surprise luncheon.

Margaret, who was to stop by for a chat at the latter's home, had no suspicions at all until a number of friends also dropped by . . . including Frances Vessels, Marian Love, Alarissa Matthews and Betty Graves. Luncheon was the format.

Pi Chapter of Tau Gamma Delta will host the Eastern Regional Conference of the sorority on the 29th.

Social affair will be a dance at the Stafford Hotel on that night.

The chapter held forth in Kappa House Sunday, inducted six new sorors, last week, including Dolores Handy, Romaine Ball, Ann Larkins, Lizzie Miller, Bernice Walker and Dolores Brooks. Following initiation in the home of Miss Larkins, a banquet was held in the Garrison Lounge in honor of the neophytes.

Morgan College Faculty-Trustee Wives have completed plans for sponsoring Caribbeiana's presentation of the Jamaican son and dance group of the University College of the West Indies on May 21 in the Murphy Fine Arts Center at Morgan. Proceeds will benefit their scholarship fund. Mrs. Beryl Williams is president of the "Wives" and chairman of the project.

Service Council of Emmanuel C. C. Church sponsored a benefit talent show to raise funds to send under - privileged children to camp.

The show was in the Carver Vocational Technical High School, Friday night, and featured local talent including Meredith Birche and his Latin American Combo and the Coppin Teachers College Dancers under direction of Mrs. Manuel Kelson Fisher was master of ceremonies.
