May 3, 1956, the Board of Supervisors, at a public meeting, received a petition signed by about 4,000 white citizens of the county stating that they preferred the public schools to be closed rather than to be desegregated.

The board adopted a resolution declaring it to be their policy that no county tax should be levied for the operation of desegregated public schools.

May 3, 1959, the United States Court of Appeals reversed an order of the District Court of Aug. 4, 1958, and ordered the Prince Edward County public schools to be desegregated at the beginning of the 1959 fall term.

MAY 26, 1959, the Prince Edward School Foundation was incorporated to operate elementary and high schools for white children only.

May 29, 1959, the State Corporation Commission of Virginia issued a certificate of incorporation to the foundation.

June 2, 1959, the Board of Supervisors adopted a resolution to levy no taxes for the operation of public schools in the county for the 1959-60 school year, and is now employing 59 of the 70 white teachers who had been employed by the County School Board and who had taught in the public schools.

April 22, 1960, the District Court ordered the County School Board and the division superintendent to plan and consider applications for the admission of pupils in the grade schools without regard to color at the earliest practical day.

IN JUNE, 1960, the Board of Supervisors approved a county budget for fiscal 1960-61 providing $270,000 for education, but not providing funds for the operation of the public school.

The supervisors also adopted a resolution providing for grants of county funds to parents of children between the ages of six and 20 years in the county, who enrolled in private non-sectarian private school in the county.

The supervisors also adopted a resolution providing for grants of county funds to parents of children between the ages of six and 20 years, in the county, who enrolled in private non-sectarian grade or high schools within the county, or in public schools within Virginia.

this action to protect the integrity of the judicial process of the United States.

Since public schools were closed, about 1,400 white children have attended private schools financed by the State of Virginia, the county, and contributions from private citizens in lieu of taxes, the motion said.

Prior to June, 1959, Prince Edward County operated segregated public schools for about 3,100 pupils — 1,700 colored and 1,400 white.

THE ONLY private, nonsectarian grade or high schools in Prince Edward County are those operated by the Prince Edward School Foundation for white children.

Taxpayers of the county have, since the closing of the schools, claimed $38,806 in tax credits on account of contributions to the Foundation.

The Foundation is financing its schools for the 1960-61 school year by charging tuition in the amount of $240 for each child enrolled in the grade schools, and $265 for each child enrolled in high school, as well as by contributions.

THE JUSTICE Department states that the county is reimbursing the parent $100 of the $240 paid to the Foundation for each grade school pupil, and the State is reimbursing $125.

The county also reimburses the parent of each high school student $100, and the State reimburses the parent $150.

The school board receives and processes the applications for reimbursement of tuition.

Dec. 6, 1960, a number of colored residents of the county presented a petition to the Supervisors asking that the public schools be reopened. The petition was rejected.

The Justice Department asked the court to enjoin county and state officials "from failing or refusing to maintain in Prince Edward County a system of public free schools."

Injunctions also are sought against public support of the private schools in the county and against public support of any public schools in the state until public schools are reopened in the county.

The colored plaintiffs were granted permission Monday by the District Court to file an amended supplemental complaint asking that public schools be reopened.

This is the first school desegregation case in which the Justice Department has sought to intervene as a plaintiff, Attorney General Kennedy said.

—Postal unit

pervisors to the local union can hardly be fairmainded in recommending promotions and other things, and Mr. White voiced this sentiment again this week.

Postmaster Laukaitis termed the position of the local "a little odd" but said he is powerless to intervene.

Marshall Santiago, assistant general superintendent of mails and president of the local, said a majority of the members fear that if colored supervisors are admitted its social activities would have to be curtailed.

MEANWHILE, Mr. White noted that NAPE had formed a supervisors committee which is headed by Raymond Young.

Mr. White rapped the policy of the supervisors local as "negative and unenlightened" and in "contrast with trends in the country and world."

He praised Postmaster Laukaitis for a personal "enlightened personnel program" but said many of his co-workers do not agree with him.

NAPE argues that the rejection by Local 42 discredits the standing of the colored supervisors and hurts the morale of all 1,600 colored postal employees who are aware of the fact that supervisors "are not treated as equal.

"I will appreciate your personal influence and public office being brought to bear to insure that proper hospitality is extended to our foreign visitors.

"This will be of immeasurable help to me, to the Department of State and to the country. The facilities of the government are available to be of every possible assistance in this matter."

GOV. TAWES wrote, in part, as a reply:

"I concur entirely with the utmost importance to your proposition that it is of our nation and to the cause of international understanding that we extend to these people our hospitality, and I assure you it will be a pleasure for me to cooperate with you in any way that I can to achieve this purpose.

"I am aware that Maryland, because of its proximity to the capital, has a rather more than ordinary responsibility in this, and you may be sure that I will assist in any way that I can in carrying out your wishes.

"I would appreciate any particular suggestions you may have from time to time as to how we in Maryland can be of help to you in this matter."

TWO WEEKS AGO an African diplomat and his driver were denied service at a Howard Johnson restaurant on Route 40 near Hagerstown.

The restaurant has since changed its policy, and the mayor of Hagerstown, Winslow Burhans, has apologized to Dr. William Fitzjohn, charge d'affaires for Sierra Leone, the diplomat involved.

Mayor Burhans has invited the African diplomat to be guest of honor at an affair to be held later.

Two held in flim-flam operations

Two "Jamaican seamen," one of whom allegedly flimflammed Mrs. Viola Lindsey, 24, of the 1700 block N. Smallwood St. out of $520 were held for action of the grand jury on $10,000 total bail Tuesday in Western Police Court.

Elmore Gee of the 2100 block Mt. Royal Terrace pleaded innocent to larceny by trick of the $520 from Mrs. Lindsey.

Mr. Gee, along with John Satterfield of the 1700 block Ensor St. was also accused of attempted larceny by trick of an unknown amount of money from McKinley Brown of the 900 block W. Mulberry St. on Monday.

Gee and Satterfield were arrested after three officers observed them "acting suspicious" at Baltimore St. and Carrollton Ave.

The defendants were arrested following a chase in the 1400 block of W. Baltimore St.

Sergeant Thomas McGuire and Patrolmen Donald Sutton and Raymond Ratcliff reported that a "Michigan bankroll" was also recovered in a vestibule.

A "Michigan bankroll" consists of a few dollar bills folded around a wad of cutup newspaper.

POLICE WERE advised to be on the lookout for two men after Mrs. Lindsey reported the loss in the Northwestern District.

She reported that a man who identified himself as a "Jamaican seaman" approached her in a shopping center at 12:55 p.m. Friday and asked her about obtaining a room.

The man is reported to have displayed a large roll of money as he talked.

Mrs. Lindsey said a second man approached then and advised the seaman to put his money in a bank.

Mrs. Lindsey was asked to show the man how to open a bank account.

Police were told the seaman offered her $100, and the other man $25 for this aid, and they all went to a bank in the 3200 block W. North Ave. — where Mrs. Lindsey reportedly withdrew $520 from her account.

THE SEAMAN is said to have put his roll of money in that of Mrs. Lindsey's, and gave the roll wrapped up in a handkerchief to her, suggesting that she place it in her blouse for safety.

She put the handkerchief, allegedly containing the money, in her purse, however, as the three entered the bank to open an account for the seaman.

Once inside, the seaman said he would have to call his captain first, and asked the other man to go along with him.

When the two men failed to return, Mrs. Lindsey told police she looked in the handkerchief and discovered that it contained part of a newspaper cut in the shape of currency bills.

Houston High gets AFRO award

An award in recognition of its excellence in newspaper art and photography was presented to the "Houston Broadcaster," student newspaper of the Charles H. Houston Junior High School at an assembly program today (Friday).

The silver trophy, donated by the Baltimore AFRO-AMERICAN, was won in the annual COLLEGIAN junior high school newspaper competition, supervised by Baltimore City College.

Present to make the award were James D. Williams, assistant managing editor, of the AFRO and Richard Rubin, editor of the COLLEGIAN.

Baltimore County sets up new clinic for indigent patients

A new improved venereal disease program was inaugurated by the Baltimore County Department of Health recently.

This program provides for a clinic in Towson where individuals with venereal disease or suspected of having venereal disease, and who cannot afford care through a private physician, may receive diagnosis and treatment.

In addition, diagnostic and treatment services for the venereal diseases will be offered by the Department of Health to individuals confined in the County Jail.

Maurice Sorrell was the same guy Wednesday except for one thing . . .

WASHINGTON The news room of the Washington AFRO-AMERICAN was its usual moderately quiet self until our photographer, Maurice Sorrell walked in.

Typewriters ceased pounding, the murmur of several conversations trailed off.

MR. SORRELL

"Good morning, Mr. White House.

"Have you checked in with President Kennedy yet?

"Tell us, Sorrell, how does it feel to be a 'first'? Aren't you a little old to be pioneering?"

Shrugging off the good-natured banter, Sorrell walked straight into the editor's office, laid a batch of pictures on his desk and asked: "which one of these do you want?"

For a guy who had just become the first colored photographer to become a member of the White House News Photographers Association, Sorrell seemed singularly unimpressed by the whole thing.

"This is just another working day," said Sorrell refusing to smile.

But to 48 - year - old Maurice Sorrell, one of the real pros in this competitive game, it was a richly deserved honor.

Well - liked by his fellow photographers who scramble daily to cover the frenzied activity of the White House, Sorrell has been the AFRO-AMERICAN newspapers photographer for years. While he covers all activities primarily for the Washington AFRO-AMERICAN, he is used often on assignments for all of the AFRO newspapers.

There are few people in Washington, D.C. who do not know "Sorrell" as he is popularly known. Given an assignment and told to "get a good picture," Sorrell always replies: "if a picture can be gotten, I'll get it." He usually does.

Sorrell is married to the former Beatrice Wyms of Columbus, Ohio. She is a public health nurse for the district government. They live at 5700 New Hampshire Ave, NE. They have no children.

Wednesday was another Wednesday to Sorrell, but he had made history by photographing the hundreds of other colored Americans who have helped to make America an integrated and honestly democratic society.
