Miss Cook 's latest AFRO winner

Miss May Cook, 1200 block H Court, is the winner of this week's AFRO lucky picture award.

Her picture was taken as a member of the Chick Webb Recreation Sewing Club.

"This was the first time my picture ever appeared in the paper and I was so shocked that I put the paper down when I saw the ring around it," she said.

Miss Cook said she didn't know what the ring meant but a friend told her.

In each edition of the AFRO is a picture of a person with a ring around his or her head. That person can collect $5 if they appear at the AFRO office before noon of the next publication date.

When asked what she was going to do with the money, Miss Cook, the latest winner said, "I'm going to get myself a present. I don't have anything in mind as yet."

A native of Virginia, Miss Cook has been here for three years.

She is a member of St. Paul Baptist Church, and assistant secretary of the Missionary Society of that church.

ADOPTION SUPERVISOR of the Family and Children's Society since Oct. 1949, was Miss Marjorie Embry, left, who retired recently. She was succeeded by Mrs. Ellen P. Manser, right.

Miss Marjory Embry cited on retirement

"Working with Miss Embry for ten years has been a rewarding experience and I take over her responsibilities with enthusiasm, feeling that I have been well prepared because of her guidance. . . ."

Thus spoke Mrs. Ellen P. Manser as she succeeded Miss Marjory Embry as adoption supervisor in the Family and Children's Society. Miss Embry, adoption supervisor since October, 1949, retired last February.

* * *

A NATIVE of Kentucky, Miss Embry is a graduate of New York School of Social Work and has been in child welfare services for 40 years in Louisville, New York City, Houston, Chicago and Baltimore.

Clark L. Mock, executive director of the Family and Children's Society, said the agency board of managers has elected Miss Embry to life membership in the Society for her outstanding services as supervisor of the adoption department.

During the 11½ years she served, 899 children were placed in adoptive homes.

Mr. Mock continued:

"Under Miss Embry's leadership the adoption service has had a sound and continuous growth. She endeared herself not only to the staff and board, but to hundreds of couples whose lives have been enriched by adopting children."

Mrs. Manser, a native of New Jersey, is a graduate of the Bryn Mawr School of Social Work and has been in child welfare for 20 years.

ANNAPOLIS DOINGS

BY ELOISE RICHARDSON

The women of First Baptist Church will terminate their spring financial drive at their annual "Women's Day" services on Sunday, May 21.

Morning speaker will be the Rev. Mrs. Maude Coleman, associate pastor of Gillis Memorial Church of Baltimore.

The Rev. Mrs. Coleman, who attended the Maryland Baptist Center and School of Religion in Baltimore, is presently matriculating at Coppin State Teachers College.

She is president of the United Women Ministers' Conference of Maryland and treasurer of the Gold Shepherd Charity Society. The Rev. Mrs. Coleman, the wife of Thomas Coleman, is the mother of three daughters.

THE YOUTH ORGANIZATION of the church will be in charge of the afternoon service, when Miss Barbara Thomas, "Miss First Baptist," will preside. The Youth Choir, under the direction of Mrs. Travis Crutchfield, will sing.

* * *

ANNAPOLIS WOMEN are invited to the annual political tea of the Colored Women's Democratic Campaign Committee of Maryland on Sunday, May 21 from 4 to 6 p.m. The tea is a benefit to enable the organization to promote more political activity among women, and will serve as a stimulus to inspire women from other areas to become interested in politics.

The tea will be held in 3103 Carlisle Ave. Mrs. Geneva Griffin is tea chairman, and Mrs. Victorine Adams is chairman of the committee.

Psi Iota Chapter of Omega Phi Fraternity of Dover, Del., was host to a delightful spring formal on last Friday evening.

Highlight of the event was the crowning of Mrs. Arthur Faunleroy (Lucinda) Queen of the Ball for 1961. Last year's queen was Mrs. Preston E. Mitchell II, (Dale)

Seen about the harmony, where the group gathered were many acquaintances and friends, and the William H. Richardsons of Annapolis were there as guests of Dr. James Jeter.

Horatio and Omega Jones of Princess Anne, the Hardcastles, Lucille Woodfolk, the Marcellus Blackburns (Blanche), and the William Laws (Ruth) were all there.

* * *

AND AMONG those from Delaware State College came Ruth Williams, the Preston Mitchells, Harriet Jones, the Ernest Talbots (Dorothy), the Benny Georges (Dorothy), he's coach, and the Richard Wynders (she's music prof), among the more than 300 guests.

After the ball, Dr. Jeter breakfasted the Laws, the Richardsons, Eleanor Johnson (Candy) and Charles Adkins at the home of his parents, the Richardsons, Mr. and Mrs. James Jeter, Sr.

"Welcome Sweet Springtime, We Greet Thee with Song" was just exactly what the Parole Elementary School Chorus did for its large audience on Wednesday evening in its annual performance in song.

Springtime was in the air in spite of a dreary outside world, for the 106 elementary pupils made a fine cultural contribution to the community in their program which they called "Spring Awakes in Music and Art."

Soloists were Millicent Luck, Shirley Ragan, Betty Coleman and Queenie Herbert. They performed with dignity and reverence.

Other than the work of Miss Kearse, a great deal more music, works of other great composers, Mendelssohn, Rubinstein and Liszt were also used.

The music instructor, Mrs. Irene Richardson, a new addition to the faculty of the Parole School, is a music major of Howard University, where she earned her Bachelor, of Music Education degree. Before coming to Annapolis in September, she had worked in North Carolina, at Mare Island and Kinston.

In an interview Mrs. Richardson pointed out that singing is a form of musical expression possible for all children, but choral groups are organized to allow interested pupils the opportunity to explore the uplifting power and message of beauty that can be found in harmonious blending of the voices.

She also said that learning to sing beautifully, with fine tone qualities and sensitive interpretation is the ultimate aim of such a group.

"This is a most gratifying means of self-expression because the voice is actually part of one's self and vocal expression comes from within, giving each child an important contribution to make to the group," Mrs. Richardson said.

* * *

ART WORK of pupils of the school was also a major attraction on the program, and the categories were beautifully distributed by Cynthia Luck, sixth grade pupil.

Projects on display on Wednesday evening covered five areas of expression—oil or media, two and three-dimensional construction, printing processes, creative crafts and friezes.

It is without a doubt that surely Mrs. Delores Queen, art chairman and their teacher, feel this way about their pupils.

Mrs. Queen, a graduate of Maryland State Teachers College, has done further study at the University of Maryland and New York University.

She says that art is a means of communication which enables every child to express himself in a way which is organic and unique.

Mrs. Queen said that "in art, the total personality of the child is developed by providing him with the opportunity to participate in experiences which enable him to grow intellectually, socially and emotionally.

Coppin crowns queen in coronation

Miss Annie Phillips, a member of the senior class, was around, "Miss Coppin" of 1961, at the annual coronation held Friday, in the Pullen Gymnasium of Coppin State Teachers College, as the climax to "Coppin Week!"

Coppin Week, is celebrated in honor of Fannie Jackson Coppin, for whom the college was named. Activities included the Parent - Student Reception, held Tuesday evening, at which time all members of the senior class presented their parents and guardians with roses. A reception followed the program.

At the coronation, Miss Phillips was crowned by Mrs. Parlett Moore, wife of the college president.

Dressed in a gown of bride's mist white, Miss Coppin was escorted to the throne by George Jones, a member of the senior class.

Attendants for Miss Coppin were, Eleanor Bell, Joan Glen, Mable Burton, Eugenia Bell, Constance Gatalifalse, Ruth Trechette, Cunningham, Barbara Butler, Eugenia Bell, Constance Bell, Hazel Hyman, Ella Cook, Alaine Smalls, Helen Holland, Jeanette Jones, Lillian Street, Minnie Ridgers, Barbara Coleman, Lizzie Cain, Charlette Whitehead, and Bettye Jackson.

Tributes to "Miss Coppin" were given by members of the various classes. Members of the music department and the Coppin Dancers gave presentations in honor of "Miss Coppin." Each class and various clubs of the college presented Miss Coppin with a gift for the occasion.

The final activity of the week was the annual presentation of the A Cappela Choir, under the direction of Henry N. Freeman.
