Gadabouting In Baltimore

Variety is theme on town folks' holiday

with Lula Jones Garrett

There has been no prettier picture than the assembly of Gay Northeasterners as they were presented, chapter by chapter, to Baltimoreans at their formal dance, Saturday night.

They are a handsome bunch, and needless to say their chic frocks added no end of yes appeal to the picture.

That was the beautiful baritone voice of Andred Ennis (accompanied at the piano by Julius Tilghman) that introduced in song the groups from Boston, from Philadelphia, from Pittsburgh, from New York, from Washington, from Detroit, and of course, the Baltimoreans.

That was King Draper and his orchestra that provided the music for dancing.

But while Gays and their guests danced, table hopped, or stayed put and nibbled hors d'oeuvres and fancy sandwiches, or sipped cocktails or punch, National President Alene Briggs Brown of New York had a few other things on her mind. She wanted, said she, a broader and more civic-minded program for the organization, one, probably, that will turn the membership's attention to youth needs.

But, as I chatted around, I found that the Gays, many of whom now have a sprinkling of silver in their locks, have long ago modified the program of the gay young things of a score or more years ago who had only a "gay" time on their minds.

The Baltimore chapter, for instance, dug up $150 for Provident Hospital last week . . . another $150 to give Fellowship House a lift. And while local chapters spice their doings with serious purposes, the general organization clings to the format of strictly a social club.

But here in Baltimore last week, the "social" was strictly special, right up to Sunday afternoon, when they called it a day and limped home from the brunch at the Dundalk home of Dr. and Mrs. Joseph Thomas.

There they had brunch as well as drinks on the grounds. The Waters company did the catering . . . Rivers Chambers' trio the serenading. Dr. Thomas manned his yacht for a couple of trips down the bay . . . and the convention came to an end. Dr. Ruth Hayre of Philadelphia summed the whole weekend up in a couple of words. "Simply fabulous," said she.

And if you are wondering what those Gaylords (the men in the Gays' life) did while the girls were busying up Saturday: they were entertained in the club room of the home of Dr. and Mrs. Ralph Reckling where the local chairman, Judge E. Everett Lane, had provided a baseball movie . . . they dined off of Maryland crab cakes and the viands that go along with them . . . they played cards, etc . . . or otherwise sat about and swapped 'em. And then they had a standing vote to have the Gays hold the convention in Baltimore next year!

THAT WAS the most delightful of parties that Mattie Conner had on Tuesday.

The bride - luncheon, held in Hotel Stafford, was primarily the regular meeting of the G. G. Club. In addition the hostess had members of her other club, the Bon Tons, and other guests.

Mattie, as suave as could be in a hot pink linen frock, matching shoes and a hot pink straw swathed in the same color maline, received guests at one for cocktails, seated them an hour later at luncheon . . . and then cleared the deck for bridge.

Coming up with prizes were Mesdames Sadie Murphy, first; Louise Perrin, second; Mae Adams, third; Fannie Kenkins, fourth and Elmer Dean of Washington, fifth.

The club prizes went to Dukye Woode now of Cincinnati, but back for the week, first; and Catherine Adams, second.

Other guests were:

Mesdames Louis Jenkins of Washington, Xavera McDonald, Phylis McKinney, Blanche McRae, Sara Nix, Lula Patterson, Ethel Payne, Mary Pitts;

Mesdames Ella Ray, Sarah Ayers, Eliza Robinson, Mildred Seaborne, Alma Thomas, Anita Thomas, Flavia Thomas, Rubye Walker, Vergie W. Waters, Frances White;

Mesdames Ethel B. Wright, Florence Bailey, Lillian Berry, Sue Branson, Audrey Brown, Agnese Browne, Helen Crosby, Estelle Brosby, Ethel Day;

Mesdames Essie M. Dorsey of Philadelphia, Alma Gray, Florence Gloster, Virginia Gunn, Frances Hill, Glynia Hill, Fannie Howard, Elsie Hunt, Dora Hutchinson and Elizabeth Jenkins.

The G. G.'s are Catherine Adams, Mae Campbell, Gussie Chissell, Marion Johnson, Harriet Jones, Vivian Pendleton, Berdie West and Dukye Woode.

THEN THERE was that intimate and cozy dinner party which men of Chi Psi Sigma Fraternity held annually for their wives and girl friends.

Sunday evening, they held forth at Wilson's Restaurant for dinner. Went on to the Winchester Street Armory for dancing.

During the dinner hour the group named as member of the year, Leonard W. Thompson . . . and gave their cash award to Dunbar High School. Vernon A. Kelly served as toastmaster.

Attending were:

Messrs. and Mesdames Kelly, William S. Lyles, Ulysses G. Perry Jr., Arlington S. Phillips, Alonzo White, Grayson Williams;

Messrs. and Mesdames Aaron Ellis Sr., Vincent Dodson, Albert B. Brooks, Clarence B. Briscoe, Wallace E. Blackwell, James E. Barnes, Raymond J. Ayers;

Mrs. Catherine Lyons, Misses Janie Morgan and Margaret Johnson; Jesse Peaker, Augustus Yerrell and William W. Freeman.

DR. AND MRS. Frank A. DeCosta had as their weekend guests, her brother, Major (Dr.) and Mrs. Willis J. Hubert and children.

They are returning from Rhein, Germany, where Major Hubert was director of Administrative Services, 7210th Air Base Wing.

Recently Major Hubert was in the States to attend the dedication of the John W. Hubert Elementary - Junior High School (named for their father) in Savannah, Ga., and to receive his Ph.D. degree in Safety Education from New York University.

He is now enroute to A and T College, Greensboro, N.C. where he will serve as professor of Air Science.

Mrs. Robert Phillips heads the group.

POT-POURRI: Invitations are in the mails for the wedding of charming Ruth Helen Brooks and Edward Ostend Hunt Jr.

The ceremony will take place in the Douglas Memorial Community Church on the 24th at high noon.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles A. Holes of Fairview Avenue.

Thelma Marie Jones and Melvin C. Watts will exchange vows in St. Peter Claver Catholic Church on June 17th at 12:30. Their wedding will be followed by a reception at the Madison Avenue branch of the YWCA.

This weekend, Guardsmen and their contingent will be speeding to Connecticut for a few days of gaiety...and to be sure they shed responsibility to take full advantage of the gaiety, will party up and back by bus.

On the 19th, Baltimore Moles will be off to Detroit and the national convention.

Miss Sylvia Julian honoree of parents

Dr. and Mrs. James S. Julian Jr., entertained at a reception in honor of their debutante daughter, Miss Sylvia Marie Julian, on Saturday evening, May 27, 1961 at their home in Randallstown, Maryland.

Miss Julian is a 1960 graduate of Forest Park High School. She is completing her first year at Morgan State College.

During this year she served as vice president of theb freshman class, and has been elected vice president of the sophomore class for the coming school year.

Miss Julian is active on the staff of the student publication of Morgan State College.

She is a member of Grace Presbyterian Church and the Westminster Fellowship.

IN THE RECEIVING line, in addition to the debutante and her parents, were her godmother, Mrs. Charles Watts, her aunt and uncle, Mr. and Mrs. John W. White; and her aunt from Washington, D.C., Mrs. Walter H. Primas.

Greatly missed on the receiving line were Mrs. J. S. Julian Sr., grandmother of the honoree; and her aunt and uncle, Dr. and Mrs. E. R. Julian, who were absent on account of the illness of Mrs. J. S. Julian Sr.

Mrs. Albert Laforest, attired in a white raw silk sheath whose bodice was enhanced with floral appliques on chiffon, graciously introduced the guests to the members of the receiving line.

FOR THE reception, the debutante wore a pink satin sheath over which she wore a beige lace full-skirted over dress with wrist-length sleeves. The dress was caught in at the waist by a beige satin belt which ended in a bow in the back. Miss Julian wore matching beige accessories and a corsage of pink and white carnations which carried out the color scheme of the party.

Mrs. J. S. Julian Jr., the debutante's mother, chose a dress of blue lace with accordian-pleated tulle insertions in the skirt. Mrs. White wore a light blue, embroidered organza exquisitely studded with pearls and rhinestones.

Mrs. Primas selected for the occasion a gray lace sheath lined with pink satin. Mrs. Watts was beautifully attired in an orchid lace sheath during which was intricately embroidered with sequins.

Mrs. Russell, whose white sheath had blue lace over dress with a French - cut neckline, and Mrs. Burwell, wearing a black and white plaid organza sheath dress with a full black organdy coat, greeted the guests at the door, and conducted them to the receiving line after they had signed the guest book.

AFTER GREETING the debutante and the other members of the receiving line, the guests went to the adjoining dining room for refreshments.

Assisting as hosts and hostesses were Miss Julian's brothers, James S. Julian 3rd, and Emile L. Julian, together with Miss Margaret Wiley who was dressed in a floral taffeta frock, and beige accessories, and Miss Elizabeth Wood, who was wearing a royal blue eyelet embroidered dress which was lined with satin of the same shade.

The honoree's young cousins from Washington, D.C., the Misses Elizabeth and Evelyn Primas also enjoyed acting as junior hostesses.

Among the guests present who came from Baltimore, Washington, Philadelphia and Randallstown were:

Drs. and Mesdames B. H. Christmas, John Braxton, Louis A. Johnson, C. Dudley Lee, James M. Pair, A. C. Burwell, Joseph B. Mason, Albert A. Smith;

Drs. and Mesdames Nathaniel Proctor, J. Douglass Shepherd, F. K. Adams, Theodore Phifer, Gilbert Caldwell;

Messrs. and Mesdames Richard Roberts, Melvin E. Smith, C. H. Covington, Jr., W. C. Champion, Hubert Pair, E. Jerome Todd, Charles Hopson, Peter S. Ridley of Washington;

Messrs. and Mesdames John Hall, William Russell, Gettys Gilmore, H. Russell Frisby, Herbert M. Frisby, John Davis, Waters Turpin, I. Henry Phillips, J. W. Huguley of Washington;

Messrs. and Mesdames Reuben F. Jones, Charles J. King, G. Albert Wright, Charles Weaver of Washington, Robert J. Young, E. Gaines Lassiter;

Messrs. and Mesdames Earl Bundara, T. R. Brown, John J. Oliver, Cephas Rawlings, W. Breckenridge, Raymond. Pinderhughes, Byron Jones, William Spencer;
