DINA MERRILL, as the wife of an assistant district attorney (Burt Lancaster) who is investigating the teen-gang slaying of a blind Puerto Rican boy, is terrorized in the elevator of their apartment building by knife - wielding juvenile delinquents, in "The Young Savages," held over at the Met Theatre.

'JACKS' HELD OVER AT REGENT THEATRE

"One - Eyed Jacks" is one of the most unusual film titles in years, but the meaning is explained in a line of dialogue spoken by director - star Marlon Brando to his co - star, Karl Malden.

Confronting Malden with accusations of treachery, Brando says: "Y'ain't a one-eyed jack, but I've seen the other side of your face," referring to the fact that some men always hide a part of their personalities from the world.

The Technicolor - Vista-Vision romantic adventure drama, a Paramount release co-starring Katy Jurado and introducing Pina Pellicer, now in its third week at the Regent.

'FRIENDLY PERSUASION' RETURNS TO ALBERT

Some pictures become classics in time, and such a picture is "Friendly Persuasion," produced by Allied Artists.

The producer and director of the film, William Wyler, has since made his name very famous with his fine direction of "Ben-Hur."

Critics have frequently raved about this very fine picture which seems to have something in it for everyone!

It won a Gold Medal Award from Parents Magazine, and Hedda Hopper, after seeing the film, said, "He (William Wyler) proves all over again that to make an excellent picture all you need is a good director and good actors. This film has heart, comedy, spiritual beauty and the finest acting I've ever witnessed!"

The picture, which is a masterful blend of high comedy, breath - taking action and intense drama, tells the story of a gay, happy Quaker family in 1862 that finds its happiness and security threatened with the Civil War.

Much interest in the picture centers around Anthony Perkins, a brilliant young actor who is currently the rage with most people because of his recent performance as the star of "Psycho." The picture is now at the New Albert Theatre!

'YOUNG SAVAGES' HELD OVER AT MET

Burt Lancaster's portrayal of a dynamic prosecuting attorney in "The Young Savages," held at the Met Theatre, through United Artists release, is his first role since winning the Academy Award for Best Actor.

Co - starring another Oscar winner, Shelley Winters, and Dina Merrill, this hard-hitting filmization of Evan C'Black-board Jungle") Hunter's novel concerns the conflict between rival gangs in New York's "Spanish Harlem," where the picture was partly photographed.

In this role it is Lancaster's distressing assignment to seek the death penalty for the young hoodlum son of his former sweetheart, played by Miss Winters.

As her wayward son, newcomer Stanley Kristien is particularly type - cast, for he is actually one of the once-tough, troublesome and truculent young savages who have been taken under the wing of an equally tough bird . . . The Rev. Ben Moring.

At 28, this colored minister has successfully cooled off some of the hot - headed hoodlums who run— and rumble—New York's East Side Jungle.

MUSICAL MOMENTS

West Indies show called one of most stimulating

By ADAM K. JENKINS

"Sun Over the West Indies," at Morgan State College last Sunday, was one of the most vital and stimulating performances of West Indian dances and songs witnessed hereabouts.

The sophisticated audience that filled the Murphy Auditorium was thrilled and excited to laughter, tears and clapping to the infectious rhythm of the "Bruckus" (festival) that brought the afternoon to a brilliant conclusion.

During the three - hour program there was a broad coverage of Caribbean folk dance and music, depicting the African, French, Spanish and English influences. There was also an unusual variety, ranging from the story - telling episodes, like "Village Scene" and "Once Upon a Time," to close harmony of the Frate Quintet and the eerie "poco" cult religious scene.

• • •

FLASHES OF delightful humor shot thru with down-to-earth philosophy made Louise Bennett's appearances a vivid contrast to the serious drama of "Rat Passage," which depicted life of the Caribbean transported to England.

Her original songs and poems aroused gales of laughter, especially the one about the West Indian emigrants to Britian, who are "colonizing England in reverse."

Stage setting and costumes were very effective, the latter displaying brilliant color and design. A 10 - piece orchestra added much to the coordination of the entire program, under the direction of Malcoff Pouelle.

Gifted principals and the excellent ballet displayed polish and finish of experienced performers.

The Jamaican Company is conducted by Noel Vax and Red Nettleford, with choreography by Ivy Baxter, Eyrick Darby and Eddy Thomas.

Responsible for bringing the ballet was the Faculty Trustee Wives Club of Morgan State College under the chairmanship of Mrs. Beryl Wittbeck. Funds from the event are for the Holmes Memorial Scholarship Fund.

THREE VOCAL students and two organ pupils of Bruce G. Benet were featured in concert at Mt. Vernon Place Methodist Church.

Becomingly attired, the three sopranos, acquitted themselves most creditably. Miriam Paisley, who is a member of the Mt. Vernon Place Choir, sang two early Italian arias. The area of German leider, from Franz and Bohm, was selected by Marie Bryant, who conducts the Christ Lutheran Church Junior Choir.

Elizabeth Hall, who has considerable experience as a soloist and member of several local choirs, sang a Bach chorale and a French art song by Faure.

The audience then went from the Mt. Vernon Room to the main auditorium for the organ portion of the program, with Gary Steiner and Edward Weaver. Mr. Steiner, who is connected with the music department of the Church of the Good Shepherd, gave a well coordinated rendition of a Prelude" by Carnall.

"A Bach "Prelude and Fugue" were given with marked clarity by Mr. Weaver.

A highlight of the evening was Mr. Benet's interpretation of two modern French works for organ. "Cataline" by Langlaise was an exquisite tone picture, while the rushing vitality and motion of Alaine's "Litanie" made a striking contrast.

Mrs. Benet was hostess at the informal reception which followed the recital.

MAKING A highly favorable impression at his Bachelor of Music degree candidate recital, Maurice Murphy was enthusiastically applauded by the number of teachers, students and friends who filled the North Hall at Peabody Conservatory.

His clean cut technic was heard to excellent advantage in the Bach "Concerto in the Italian Style" and in the "Sonata in D major K. 576," by Mozart. Mr. Murphy maintained a sparkling clarity and well modulated contrasts of tone. He has a fine feeling for climax in brilliant playing.

One might have wished for more poetry in the Ravel "Sonatine," with its French impressionistic passages and more intimate expression in the slower movements of the other works.

The concert concluded with a well - unified playing of Chopin's "Scherzo in B minor." Mr. Murphy, who will receive his degree at the Peabody Conservatory graduation exercises Sunday, is a piano pupil of Mr. Ericourt. He is a native of Washington, D.C. and organist and choir master at Metropolitan Methodist Church, Baltimore.

At the recent annual election of officers of the Student Council at Peabody Conservatory William (Billy) Myers was unanimously chosen as vice president. During the ensuing year he will also be in charge of the Cultural Exchange Program which he launched successfully this semester.

Scholarship awards were given 12 students who performed at the annual recital sponsored by the Baltimore Music Guild, held this year at Coppin State Teachers College.

The young pianists, all students of Guild teachers included: Bona Lee, Donnell Johnson, Yvonne Jennings, Edna Ghee, Maxine Gregory and Lelia Merritt, who performed a duet; Janice Blackwell, Christine Giles, Clifford Pugh, May-Jane Newkirk, Cecily E. Black, Rebekah Wilkins, Nadine Epps and Mary O. Adams.
