Race victor in equality fight,

KIAMESHA LAKE, N.Y. —A Federal jurist said last week that racial disturbances in Alabama "cannot obscure the fact that the non-whites struggle for legal equality is over, and won."

At the same time, United States District Judge Sidney Sugarman of New York foresaw that "the skirmishes will continue to injure American international relations and prestige."

GLEN BURNIE ECHOES

Miss Barbara Wilson now Mrs. Galloway

By FELICIA ADAMS

Miss Barbara Jane Wilson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Aaron Spriggs, was married to Joyce Galloway, son of Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Galloway, Annapolis, on May 27 at 6 p.m. at Metropolitan Methodist Church, Glen Burnie.

The Rev. James E. Adams officiated. Miss Wilson was dressed in white organza lace and a half-veil. She carried white carnations and lilies of the valley.

MAID OF honor was Miss Betty Gross, Annapolis, who wore white chiffon with matching hat. James Galloway, brother of the groom, was best man.

The reception was held at the home of the bride's aunt and uncle, Mr. and Mrs. James Spriggs, 4414 Norfolk Ave., Baltimore.

Out of town guests were Mr. and Mrs. Dixie Turner, Miss Clementine Rogers and daughters, Miss Sharon and Connie Galloway, Miss Ina Ray Snell, Mrs. Josephine Grass, Briscoe Savoy, Charles Powell, Bobby Smith, all of Annapolis.

Also, Mrs. Beatrice Chase, Mrs. Purnell Oden, Brooklyn, N.Y.

Others present were Mr. and Mrs. Charles Gambrill, Miss Ruth Wilson and son, Mr. and Mrs. James Flemming and daughter, Mrs. Genetta Oden, Richard Ward, Mr. and Mrs. Agnes Jones, Miss Betty Collins, Mrs. Beatrice Spriggs, Miss Annie Hall, Mr. and Mrs. Aaron Springs, son and daughter; Mr. and Mrs. William Bouyer, Samuel Mason, Mr. and Mrs. Norman Thomas and son, Carlyn and Brenda Howard, Mrs. Joan Thompson and son and Raymond Queen.

and got the gun.

"If we had known she had a gun, we would have run," Mrs. Thompson said. The crowd didn't scatter until the angered woman started blazing away, Mrs. Thompson added.

George Knight, 15, 200 block Dallas Ct., who was playing basketball on the lot, gave this eyewitness account:

"They had been arguing a long time. A whole gang of people, including most of the children on the playground were crowded around.

"Then all of a sudden, there was a lot of screaming, running and confusion.

"I heard bullets zooming all around and I ran and ducked behind the building."

MISS BRUCE, who weighs 210 pounds, gave this description of the incident from her hospital bed:

"I was trying to help Mrs. Thompson to keep the woman from beating the child. While she was beating the little girl, her daughter was holding Mrs. Thompson at bay with an iron.

"When I tried to get her to stop, she ran upstairs and got the gun. I bet I didn't know she had it until she started shooting.

"She was aiming at my heart, but I was lucky."

Mother of the wounded girl, Mrs. Bessie Reid, said she was inside her apartment and didn't know her daughter was hot until she rushed outside after hearing screams.

Commenting on the incident, Lt. Cox said:

"It's bad enough as is. But look what could have happened. With all these children around. Many could have gotten hurt bad or possibly killed the way she was shooting."

Mrs. Matthews declared.

William Matthews Sr. said he ran to his son in his stocking feet when he heard the news.

"When I reached him he was alive but he couldn't talk," Mr. Matthews stated.

The youth was pronounced dead at Franklin Square Hospital at 2:50 p.m.

MR. AND MRS. Matthews said they looked upon the death of their son as an "unfortunate accident."

YOUNG MATTHEWS was a sixth grade pupil at St. Peter Claver.

He and his sister took their first Holy Communion last May.

Funeral arrangements for the boy were incomplete at AFRO press time.

Workman gambles life for shovel and loses

The odds were against Irving Huff who gambled his life to recover a shovel and lost, police reported Monday.

Warned of the danger, the workman nevertheless went to his death in a 51-foot manhole—a death trap of gaseous air and 125-degree heat.

AT THE TIME, Mr. Huff was one of eight laborers working for the Princemont Construction Co., Rockville. They were completing a District storm sewer from near Reservoir Road, NW, across an area of 600 yards to an athletic field between Georgetown Hospital and the Georgetown University campus.

Another worker, Louis Owens, 34, 1200 block Melion St., NE, told police Mr. Huff went down the manhole to pick up a shovel he left there several days before. When he told Mr. Huff not to go down, Mr. Huff replied that he would be gone only four or five minutes and would not be harmed, Mr. Owens reported. While Mr. Owens waited at the top, Mr. Huff descended into the opening. After about two minutes, Mr. Owens heard the other man fall, he said.

TWO FIREMEN of the Rescue Squad, who responded to the scene about four minutes after the incident was reported, almost suffocated in the rescue attempt. The firemen, Pvts. Hunter L. Vaughan and Walter Fernen, wearing oxygen masks, brought Mr. Huff to the surface 25 minutes after he collapsed.

Gulped the gaseous air each lapsed.

The squadmen, who gulped the gaseous air each time they removed their mouthpieces to shout instructions to rescuers above, were also near collapse when they reached the surface. Both men were treated with oxygen and recovered.

SURGEONS at Georgetown Hospital opened Mr. Huff's chest and massaged his heart. He died seven hours later.

Police said George Green, construction inspector for the District Department of Sanitary Engineering had warned the men last Friday about the gaseous air in the manholes in the area.

Two in Front Royal row over schools now grads

Two of the colored children who were ordered admitted to the Front Royal High School in 1958 by court order were graduated June 8. They are Frank Edward Grier and James. Menefee Kilby.

There were 1,044 children in Warren High School at Front Royal when 26 colored children were ordered to be entered. By Governor Almond's order based on the massive resistance laws, this was the first school in Virginia to close.

IN DECEMBER, 1958, resulting from a Committee of Friends in Washington and Virginia, $10,000 was raised to pay for the tuition of 20 children in the schools of the District of Columbia.

Then in February, 1959 Warren County High School was re-opened by court order and 22 colored children were entered. No whites attended until September, 1959, when several hundred children returned.

This year found 499 white children and 17 colored children attending Warren High School. Other white children still attend the make - shift private school in Front Royal.

One colored girl, Geraldine Rhodes, needed one more subject to complete her course and after summer school will be a graduate.

White Coffee Pot drops color line at Mondawmin

The White Coffee Pot Restaurant at Mondawmin Shopping center dropped its segregated service policy over the weekend.

The restaurant, target of Civic Interest Group protest demonstrations for more than a year, made the switch without announcement.

Miles Katz, who operates the 22-restaurant chain with his brother, Jerome, refused comment Monday.

The change grew out of an agreement between the owners and the Adult Advisory Committee to CIG, the AFRO learned.

Now two of the 14 White Coffee Pots in the city serve all. Earlier, the branch at North and Linden Aves. integrated.

It was also learned that Mondawmin officials had persuaded the Katzes to halt segregation at the restaurant. Pickets, protesting segregation there were also hurting other merchants in the shopping center, it was reported.

IN OTHER weekend activity, the Civic Interest Group composed of high school and college students, was presented an AFRO Honor Roll Plaque.

Mrs. Elizabeth M. Phillips, AFRO vice president, cited the students for "making Baltimore a better place to live."

The Rev. Thomas P. Fraser 3rd, pastor of Walbrook Trinity Presbyterian Church, where the award ceremony was held, was also presented an Honor Roll Plaque.

Mrs. Phillips lauded the young ministers "for going beyong the pulpit and entering the life of the committee."

The Rev. Mr. Fraser, currently serving on the Grand Jury, is an adviser to the CIG.

REGINALD ROBINSON, CIG delegate to the Student Non - Violent - Coordinating Committee meeting in Louisville, Ky., June 9 - 11, returned Sunday.

Charles McDow, South Carolina State College senior, presided over the two-day meeting where students from 17 southern and border states mapped plans for several civil rights project, he reported.

Following an address by the Rev. Fred Shuttlesworth, veteran integration leader, the SNCC considered methods to be used in integrating public recreation facilities.

"The Mississippi Project" was also put on the summer agenda, young Roberts reported. This program consists of soliciting students to participate in a giant registering and voting campaign in the Delta Belt.

All interested students are asked to contact CIG at Community House of Sharp St. Memorial Methodist Church, 1206 Etting St. or call LA. 3-6074.

A "Fall Action Program" was also planned. This will see students work for equal employment opportunities in utility companies. Specifically, students will strive to get telephone companies to employ more colored operators and linemen, it was reported.

CIG will host the next SNCC meeting here, July 4 - 6 and the national conference will be held in Nashville, Tenn., in October.

AFRO HONOR ROLL awards were presented at Sunday morning services to two winners who gave superior public service to their community during the year 1960. Clarence Logan, third from left, president of the Civic Interest Group, accepted the plaque for that group. The Rev. Thomas Fraser, extreme right, minister of the church and CIG advisor, also received an award. Presentations were made by the AFRO's Mrs. Elizabeth M. Phillips third from right. CIG members looking on are, left to right, Cornell Morton, Miss Dorothy Feldman, Herbert Chissell, Pamela Jones, and Miss Rosalie Cornis.

Fire damages School 453

A fire broke out in the roof of School 453 Thursday morning, burning a large hole in the roof, and completely destroying a vacumn cleaner and scrubbing machine, Harold Folkes, principal of the school, reported.

Mr. Folkes said when neighbors saw flames shooting from the roof, they summoned the fire department.

According to the fire department, Mr. Folkes said, the fire was started by a short in the wiring of the roof which started a fire that burned a 30 ft. hole in the roof of the home economics rooms on the fourth floor.

Two months ago, the building had been completely rewired.

He reported the fire destroyed a new vacumn cleaner and a new scrubbing machine still in boxes. They had been delivered Wednesday.

A SHAFT housing a ladder leading to the roof, was also completely destroyed, Mr. Folkes said.

Damage was estimated at $3,500 to $5,000.

The fire department, he said, instructed him not to allow anyone on the fourth floor because of the weakened walls and the possibility of falling plaster.

Band Concert Friday

The Bureau of Music will present another of its series of concerts by the Municipal and Park Concert Bands this Friday night, June 16 from 8 -10 p.m., by the Municipal Concert Band, Weldon J. Irvine conducting, at Public School 74, 22nd Street and Homewood Avenue.

AFRO staffers at MPA seminar

Five AFRO staffers attended the Spring Workshop of the Maryland Press Association in Easton, Sunday.

At a luncheon in the Tidewater Inn, MPA members heard Victor Leiker discuss "Offset—Beast or Blessing," Mr. Leiker, president of one of the country's largest offset newspaper operations in New Jersey, and a panel of three newspapermen answered questions concerning the use of the offset method of producing newspapers.

At the morning session, a panel discussion dealt with "Editorial - Advertising Pressures."

Philip S. Heisler, Baltimore Evening Sun, association president, presided at the luncheon.

James D. Williams and Moses J. Newson, editors; Freddie Howard, composing room supervisor; Herbert Mangrum, and George W. Collins, reporters, attended the seminar.
