MUSICAL MOMENTS

Social Security Chorus and Orchestra in top form

The handsome auditorium at Woodlawn Social Security Building was the scene of the annual concert by the Social Security Chorus and Orchestra Fifty - two strong, this interracial, interfaith ensemble offered an excellent performance under the direction of Norman McNeill.

There is no doubt that Mr. McNeill is a thorough, conscientious musician and a strick taskmaster, who knows what a group can do and is capable of setting them to give their best.

ALTHO THERE was some difficulty attendant to singing on a stage with wings and heavy curtains, most of the vocal effects were heard to good advantage.

Telling climaxes were achieved in the modern "The Lord Is My Shepherd" (Thomas Matthews), which is based on a pastoral (Shepherd) theme. Also enjoyable was di Lasso's "Echo Song," with the off - stage singers.

In addition to a well balanced choral group the choir boasts a number of capable soloists. Beatrice Burgess and Irma Davis, soprano, were well matched in an excerpt from the Synagogue service by Howard R. Thatcher, dean of Baltimore composers. In a solo from another Synagogue Service (Ruth Grumm) Moore Carson, well known baritone, gave his usual well integrated performance.

Gloria Tate and Donald Tarter were especially well received in a duet from "Porgy and Bess," while Miss Tate, who has an exceptionally well disciplined voice, sang effectively Kern's "Yesterday," with flute accompaniment.

In "Granada" Blanche Malinow displayed a telling sense of drama, which she contrasted by her humorous interpretation of the now famous Flower Girl's solo from "My Fair Lady."

Katherine Hynes, in a Spanish folk song and Mary Carwile, as soprano soloist for "Balm in Gilead" also garnered considerable approval from the sizable audience.

The male section of the choir was admirably represented by James Dickerson baritone and Alton Scott, basso profundo, in the solos portions of "Set Down Servant."

Scheidt's "Five - Part Suite for Orchestra" proved to be an interesting development in modern style of a bagpipe theme. The Baldwin grand piano upon which Paul Brent played his very musicianly accompaniments, is a memorial to Thomas A. McDonald, former Deputy Assistant Director at the Social Security Building.

The chorus and orchestra are sponsored by the Employees Activities Association, which also is responsible for the large exhibit of paintings and drawings by Social Security employees, which were displayed in the lobby.

The current season of band concerts sponsored by the Bureau of Music of the Department of Recreation and Parks, opened Sunday, June 4 with the Number 2 Municipal Concert Band, under the direction of Weldon J. Irvine Jr., at Lafayette Square.

According to reports, the event was well attended and thoroughly enjoyable, with a program neatly balanced between band, ensemble and solo performances. There was a refreshing appearance of comparatively new material for the entire ensemble, such as "Invercargill" and "Tenth Regiment" Marches, "A Beautiful Day Overture" and Cherry Pink and Apple Blossom White."

"Beguine" featured a saxophone sextet, with Messrs. H. Norris, Washington, Berry, Squire Williams, Irvine and Jones, in "Clarinet Escapade," the conductor joined with Messrs. Washington, Begley and Jones, while Mr. Sitt directed the band.

LIVELY educational pieces as well as a number of classic works were featured by piano students of Mrs. Gwendolyn E. Lassiter at her annual student recital last week at Coppin State Teachers College. The majority of the young musicians played two numbers, which gave them an opportunity to display varied talents.

Programmed were: Kevin and Keith Nock, Andre James, Esther Saunders, Collette Nock, Diane Dodd, Maria Broom, Joann Forbes, Carol Dunston, Estelle Gambrill, Julianne Carr, Marilyn Bevans, Greta Mots, Donald Covington, Sharon Smothers, Donald Harper, Deborah Edwards, Jacqueline Saunders, Marsha Henson, Carolyn Carr, Paula Brooks, Lafayette Singleton, Shiela Brooks, Orson Smith and Gertrude Hughes.

CALENDAR: Student Recitals: Saturday, June 17 at Coppin State Teachers College, at 8 p.m. Pupils of your writer: Olivia Copeland, guest soloist.

Sunday, June 18 at 4 p.m. in the auditorium of Coppin State Teachers College, piano, pupils of Barton E. Bond.

Sunday, June 18 at 4:15 p.m. in Sears Auditorium, North and Harford Avenues, annual recital by Margaret Rusk Franklin Studio. Admission — 50 cents adults, children, under 12 — no charge.

Sunday, June 18 3 p.m. at Bethel AME Church, Druid Hill Avenue and Lanvale Street, piano and organ students of Gladys W. Davis, presented by the Senior Choir of the church. Mary Robinson, director. Also appearing: The Teen Age Choir of Perkins Square Baptist Church, conducted by Aaron Powell; White Male Chorus, of which Mrs. Davis is director, with Harrison Bryant Jr., Oberlin Conservatory junior as guest conductor.

Tuesday, June 20 at 7:30 p.m. annual recital of Emma Poulson Studio, at Sears Community Building, North and Harford Avenues, featuring Sylvia Wright, pianist and Florine Lillian Poulson, vocalist.

Wednesday, at 8 p.m. in the hall of Payne Memorial AME Church, Madison Avenue and Laurens Street, pupils of Alma J. Thomas Caswell.

Monday, June 26 at 8:30 p.m. at Coppin State Teachers College, 2500 W. North Avenue.

'Destry' heads for tent at Owings Mills

When "Destry Rides Again" opens for a two week stand at the Painters Mill Music Fair in Owings Mills, Md. on June 30 - July 2, the Max Brand novel will be in its fifth incarnation.

Starring Broadway's Monique Voeren and rockabilly singer Jimmy Dean in his first legit stage role, "DESTRY Rides Again" has been made into three movies before becoming a Broadway musical.

THE SHOW tells the story of Tom Destry, a young sheriff who is called into the town of Bottleneck in the old days of the wild, wooley West in order to curb the activities of several local gambling gangsters.

Much to the towns consternation, however, Mr. Destry refuses to pack a pistol. Complications occur, not the least of which is the torrid temptress Frenchy, a hard-boiled saloon singer and owner of the Last Chance Saloon.
