Autograph seeker thrills autographer

FORT STORY, Va. — Fourth graders who recently toured this post were so impressed and elated that they asked their military escort for the day, Pfc. Michael D. Scott Jr., for his autograph.

As he was engrossed in signing, one of the tykes shoved a scrap of paper into Scott's hand, saying: "I thought you might like MINE."

It was "Hank Foiles Jr.," son of the Baltimore Orioles catcher.

Clowns take on Royals and top N.C. nine at Westport

The crack Winston - Salem Pond City Giants, top ranking North Carolina team, will make one of its rare Baltimore visits Sunday when the Tarheels meet the Indianapolis Clowns at 2 o'clock at Westport Stadium.

This special Sabbath Day treat will follow tonight's (Friday) encounter between the Clowns and the touring New York Royals at Westport at 8:15 o'clock, with the Clowns' famous funshow as an added attraction.

The funshow, featuring Natureboy Williams, flashy firstbaseman; The Great Yogi, contortionist; Two-Way Greene, ambidextrous pitcher, and the Flying Nesbits, acrobats, also will highlight tonight's entertainment.

SUNDAY'S AFFAIR will mark the first time the North Carolina aggregation has played in Baltimore and also marked the first time since the old Baltimore Elite Giants that the Clowns have met a club here other than their touring rival.

The Winston - Salem outfit, piloted by the veteran Spencer Davis, is currently in a first place tie with High Point for the leadership in the Negro American Association League. In addition to Winston - Salem and High Point, the league has clubs from Greensboro, Durham, Fayetteville, N.C., and Roanoke, Va., competing for the championship.

Babe Davis and Herman Taylor, coach, have gathered a strong aggregation for the loop play. Among the Carolina standouts, listed for Sunday's lineup, are Bill Wright, second baseman; Taylor, shortstop; T. Ford, third baseman, and Joe Lane third baseman, and Joe Lane first base, with Jim Wilson, catcher.

The outfield will include Willie Richardson, Joe Gaffney and Bill Young, with Bill Feaster, Joe Jenkins, Tom Hairston, and George Harris, pitchers.

• • •

THE CLOWNS, fresh from Kansas City where they attracted 7,500 in a night game, will unveil their new catcher, 19 - year - old Pablo Casanova, who will be behind the plate in both tonight's (Friday) and Sunday's games.

Casanova joined the club after Joe (Iron - Man) Cherry was sold to the Chicago White Sox last week. Casanova is 6 feet, 4 inches tall and tips 190 pounds, but is speedy and shifty behind the plate.

Field pilot Carl Forney is enthusiastic about Pablo. He declared after watching him work three days last week "I don't wish to be overly enthused early, but I think he has great potential and will do the job Cherry was doing for us."

In addition to the topline action on the field, fans in both games will thrill to the funshow including the antics of Natureboy, the Flying Nesbits' acrobatics and Togi's sensational stunts.

3 listed for Publinx golf

Three colored golfers — two from Washington, D.C., and one from Baltimore — are scheduled to compete in the qualifying round leading to the National Public Links championship tourney.

The three — Charles Howard and Sam McIlwain of Washington, and Murphy Street of Baltimore — tee off Monday at Mount Pleasant.

Howard is the first of the trio to get started. He commences play at 8:35 a.m. Street reports for a 9 a.m. start, and McIlwain leaves the first tee at 9:15 o'clock.

• • •

THE 36-HOLE qualifying test is designed to place the top three in the championship tournament, which is to be held in Detroit, Mich., July 10-15.

Last year, Street was one of the qualifiers from the Washington - Baltimore area and made the trip to Hawaii for the playoff.

Two years ago, Bill Wright of Seattle, Wash., became the first tan publinx champion in history.

Jackie, Jesse Owens clash on boycott of Texas meet

HOUSTON, Tex. — (ANP) — Two of America's greatest athletes clashed head-on over the issue of racial segregation last week.

Jackie Robinson, the former great Dodger star and the first colored person to enter organized baseball, and Jesse Owens, the former Olympic sprint and broad jump champion, expressed widely different views on whether colored athletes should boycott a major track meet here because of segregated seating.

• • •

ROBINSON told the athletes they had a serious obligation both as citizens and athletes not to lend support to the continuance of segregation.

Other college students, notably the "Freedom Riders," were risking their lives combating racial segregation and advancing the cause of democracy, Robinson said.

• • •

OWENS, on the other hand, said he did not think it was fair to "... condemn two boys (Ralph Boston and John Thomas) for a social thing that has been going on for years."

He made his comment in a press interview in reply to a blast by an NAACP official. The official had termed Boston and Thomas "insults to the race" when they showed reluctance to pull out of the sixth annual Houston track meet because of the segregated seating.

• • •

"IT'S A PRETTY silly thing," said Owens, "to withdraw young athletes, college students... because of a social structure. Why, competition in athletics has broken down more barriers than almost any other thing."

However, from his statements, Owens appeared to have missed the point completely. He also indicated he did not know too much about the segregated seating arrangements and may have spoken hastily.

Far West poses threat to East in NCAA track meek

PHILADELPHIA

The Pacific Coast and Pacific Northwest track and field athletes definitely dominate the field for the 40th annual NCAA track and field championships at Franklin Field, Friday and Saturday.

Among the nation's top 173 track and field standouts, the Pacific Coast and Pacific Northwest supplied 30 superstars in the track events and 31 in the field events.

AMONG THE outstanding performers, three champions from the West coast are expected to defend their titles, including shotputter Dallas Long, Southern California; Luther Hayes, also of Southern California, in the hop, step and jump; and Oregon's sub-four minute miler, Dyrol Burleson.

Jim Johnson, 1960 winner in the high hurdles has been bothered with a leg injury and coach Ducky Drake of UCLA has indicated the younger brother of Rafer Johnson, 1960 Olympic decathlon king, will be unable to compete.

A year ago San Jose State's Charlie Clark captured the 3000-meter steeplechase. Clark has switched to the three - mile run for this year's competion.

• • •

IN ADDITON to three defending champions the West coast is contributing six men with the best marks of the year, including Dennis Johnson, San Jose State (9.4 for 100), Harry Jerome, Oregon (9.3 for the 100), Rex Crawley, Southern California (46.2 for 440, 49.9 for the 440 hurdles), Bob Pierce, Southern California (13.8 for the high hurdles), Burleson in the half-mile as well as the mile, and broadjumper Darrell Horn, Oregon State (25-9 3/4).

If Burleson doesn't try for a "double" in the 880 and one-mile, UCLA's Andy Dunkell becomes the prime candidate for 880 honors on the basis of his 1:48.9 half, earlier in the year.

• • •

WITH THIS meet being held in the East for the first time, the Eastern contingent is heavier than usual and the quality is unusually high with 35 ranking among the nation's best.

John Thomas, Boston University defends his high jump honors. Thomas in the high jump and Harvard's Stan Dolen, hammer throw, are the nation in their specialties. Frank Budd, brilliant Villanova junior sprinter, is tied with the nation's best at 9.3 for the century and has covered the 220 faster than any one else at 20.2 seconds.

• • •

THE MID-WEST and South have no one among the defending champions or among the best performers in the 17 events on the program.

Al Lawrence, Houston's distance runner from Australia, defends the 3 - mile title while J. D. Martin, Oklahoma, is the reigning king in the pole vault.

However, the top performers from the Southwest include George Davies, Oklahoma State in the pole with a 15-10¼ performance; John Lawler, Abilene Christian (tied with Billy Hayward of Kansas) in the steeplechase, 9:14.2 and John Macy, Houston whose 13-54.9 clocking is tops among the three-milers.

Smart golfers nurture touch

BY
Walter (Dynamite) Taylor

Many golfers want to learn golf, but not nearly as many want to be taught the game.

Developing touch and control is one of the most important factors in improving one's game. Full shots are by no means advisable every time an iron is used. There are times when a one-quarter backswing is applicable and there are other times when a three - quarter backswing is proper.

• • •

THE SMART golfer practices incessantly in order to learn when and where these strokes fit into his game.

An example is the case where a full 8-iron shot is called for, but a strong wind is against the player. That is when the 6-iron should be played with a half backswing, or a 7-iron with a three - quarter swing.

The more time that is spent on these "soft" shots, the quicker the knack of touch and control comes.

HAMPTON, VA. — A junior at Hampton Institute, Maron E. Higgins of Miami, has been awarded a second prize of $200 for his short story, "The Green Hut," entered in the Reader's Digest-United Negro College Fund Creative Writing Contest.
