Senators' Tan Trio talk to AFRO about ball, future, youngsters

By DON HAREWOOD
WASHINGTON

Baseball swings into summer gear this month with a 6th-place Washington Senators' team determined to enjoy some first division fresh air.

Helping the Senators make their bid for higher status are three tan players who joined the team at the season's start.

They are: Bennie Daniels Jr., Charles E. Hinton Jr., and Willie Tasby.

A fourth player, R. C. Stevens, was recently sold to Toronto of the American Association.

We sauntered over to Griffith Stadium last week to chat with the "big three" of the Senators about the club's chances of moving up.

"How do you think Washington is going to shape up eventually," we asked Bennie Daniels Jr.?

"I think that we are going to shape up much better than had been expected," replied Bennie.

"The way that we are going now, I would think that we will finish much higher than it was predicted."

Bennie is one of the Senators' first line pitchers and has a 3-3 record for the year plus a 3.40 earned run average.

He hails from Compton, California where he attended Compton High School and Compton Junior College.

After leaving school he went to Great Falls, Mont., where he played Class "C" ball with the Great Falls' Electrics of the Pirates Organization.

During 1953 and 1954 he was a member of the military service and after his discharge entered Class "C" ball in Billings, Mont.

In 1956 he played with Lincoln, Neb. and later joined the Pittsburgh Pirates, pitching the last game of the 1957 season in Ebbets Field against the then Brooklyn Dodgers.

"I got beat 2-0 in a five hitter, and I pitched a five hitter," he said.

"I was traded to Washington," he continued, "last winter which was a real big break."

"How do you like playing ball in Washington," we asked?

"It's a very nice town, and the people are very nice," he said with a grin.

"Most of all I'm getting a chance to pitch regularly from the starting line."

During the off-season Bennie usually works, but he was a bit apprehensive when asked, "What are you going to do in Washington?"

"I don't know," he said, "I've had a couple of offers, but I am not sure that I want to stay during the winter. Boy, it's cold here, and I don't like cold weather!"

We next asked what would he advise youngsters who aspire to become ballplayers?

He said, "Keep your legs in shape and stay off those curve balls, do a lot of running and protect that arm while you're young."

Later we found Chuck Hinton, Senator left - fielder leaning over a bat near the sidelines and asked if he would tell the fans in Washington something about himself.

"Sure," he said, "first of all, my full name is Charles Everett Hinton Jr., and I was born in Rocky Mount, N.C., an attended Booker T. Washington High School there.

"Upon graduation, I attended Shaw University in Raleigh, N.C., for a couple of years and after leaving I played for State in Class "C" ball for about two months before being inducted into the services.

"After leaving the service I played with Aberdeen, S.D., of the Baltimore Organization. This was Class "C" ball also."

Chuck was obtained through the American League player draft last year when the Los Angeles Angels and the Washington Senators chose seven players each from a player pool at a cost of $75,000 each.

"Have you had any exciting experiences since joining the Senators," I asked?

"Yes," he said beaming. "My first home run, which I hit in Los Angeles."

We asked him if he liked playing with the Senators?

"It's wonderful, this is the major leagues and the fellows, they've been around quite awhile and there is no friction . . . it's strictly big league," he replied.

"What do you do during the off-season," we asked?

"Well I have been playing ball for the last two seasons.

"I was in Florida one year and Arizona the next. This year though, I plan to go out of the country to either Puerto Rico or Venezuela," Chuck said.

• • •

FOR YOUNGSTERS who aspire to become ballplayers Chuck advises: "Keep at it, listen to your coaches and work hard, also stay out of trouble.

Chuck is married to the former Irma Mackin of Rocky Mount, N.C.

WE MANAGED to trap the fleet - footed center - fielder of the Washington Senators, Willie Tasby as he whisked by.

Willie also came to Washington as the result of the player pool, but in talking to him he told an interesting story of how he started in baseball.

"When I was discovered," he said, "they were really after a buddy of mine, but there was a fellow who was familiar with all of us, what you call a bird-dog for the scouts.

"Anyway, he insisted that they take me or else he wouldn't go out of his way to talk this other kid into signing, so they did.

"Now," he said, "this other fellow isn't playing anymore, while I stuck it out and got lucky, so here I am."

Last year, Willie saw service with Baltimore and Boston.

He was released on a waiver from Boston and he was subsequently included in the player pool.

"How do you think the club will eventually shape up," we asked?

"I don't think that a fellow on this club will play any different in October then he does now.

"By that I mean that everybody on our team is as good as the next guy and they feel that they can go as high as anybody . . . that's a player's natural instinct."

Willie is originally from Oakland, Calif., but now resides in Plant City, Fla.

We asked him how he liked Washington.

"I think Washington is a real nice city, and an aggressive city. I like it," said Willie.

"What do you think about the members of your team," we asked next?

"All of them are swell guys," he said, "there is nothing but harmony on this club.

"There is no conflict whatsoever and I think that is one of the reasons for the success of the club."

Willie is married to the former Catherine Hart of Plant City, Fla., and they have four children: Ricky, 10; Lester, 9; Cary, 8; and Leander 7.

For youngsters who wish to pursue baseball as a profession Willie advises: "The little league is a mighty fine program although you will get a few debates on this from oldtimers, saying that it is not good for kids, particularly when he is starting out trying to pitch, but the majority of the so-called baseball experts say now that it's about the best bet starting out."

"Of course as they progress in this game they will learn that for themselves.

"My advice is to keep plugging and you've got to love the game to make it."

And with that he was off like the wind.

HE MADE IT, THOUGH — Undignified pose is struck by John Thomas after he clears the high-jump bar in NCAA track and field championship meet at Philadelphia Saturday. Boston University star made it, just the same: 7 feet, 2 inches for new collegiate record.

Elston Howard sets hot pace in Yankees' drive

NEW YORK (ANP) — As the New York Yankees were making their move, one of the players quietly helping in the drive was Elston Howard, who apparently has taken over as the Bombers' first string catcher.

Ellie, who has played the outfield and first base since coming to the Yankees in 1955, appears to be headed for his best season.

Going into the second week of June, Howard was batting at a clip of .326. Strangely enough he has failed to connect for a home run.

• • •

NORMALLY, Howard isn't considered a slugger, but in 1959 (his previous best season in the majors) he collected 18. Last season, he hit only six as his average declined to .245.

Generally, Howard has alternated with Yogi Berra behind the bat and was one of the catchers who started the season with the Yankees. Rookie Jesse Gonder has been sent back to Richmond in the International League.

"He'll be in there as long as he keeps that hot bat," says Manager Ralph Houk.

• • •

HOWARD WAS much sought - after during the winter trading season. Many clubs offered as trading bait a starting pitcher which the Yankees sorely needed. But Roy Hamey, Yankee general manager, refused to trade him. He was backed by Houk.

"There really is no mystery to it," said Howard. "I don't swing as hard as I used to. Another thing, I am using a heavier bat — 36 ounces instead of 30. The other bat was so light I whipped it around too fast.

"Ralph just wants me to hit it down the middle and that is what I am doing. If I don't hit a home run all year, it will be all right with me."

Former Liston sparmate in trouble with police

SEATTLE, Wash. —(ANP) — Elmer Hardy, an ex-sparring partner of heavyweight contender Sonny Liston, remained in serious condition at King County Hospital here late last week after he was shot in a gun fight with police a few days earlier.

Hardy was shot in the head, legs and arm when he was caught fleeing a department store where allegedly he had shot to death the manager, Ark Ying Chin, 44.

• • •

POLICE SAID they spotted Hardy hurrying down the street about five blocks from Chin's store and called to him to halt. But instead of surrendering, he wheeled and fired at them.

Police returned the fire and Hardy fell.

ACCORDING TO the reports, Hardy was angered when Chin accused him of shoplifting. An argument followed and Hardy stepped inside and fired two shots at Chin, without warning.

Mrs. Joan Allen, a clerk in the store who witnessed the shooting, said Hardy fled out a side door. Chin was pronounced dead on arrival at the Hospital.

Hardy's boxing license was restored only recently. He was suspended temporarily several months ago after reports were received that he was acting strangely.

DOWNING, Pa.—Only one student, John T. Stewart Jr. of Philadelphia, qualified for the second semester honor roll at Downingtown Industrial and Agricultural School. He also was the lone graduate to receive an accredited academic diploma.

4 African clerics to serve in US

NEW YORK — Four African ministers will share the pulpits and other pastoral responsibilities with regularly assigned ministers in Methodist churches across the nation.

The African theologians from Southern Rhodesia and Mozambique are among 15 on similar missions in the United States from other Asian and South American countries.

The program of bringing outstanding national pastors from overseas to the U.S. for special seminary study and pastoral internships in American churches is a project of the Division of World Missions.

Table tennis kids invited for meet

The Baltimore Table Tennis Club this week announced an under - 18 tournament for young players of Baltimore, to be held July 29, in club facilities at the American Auto Association building.

Morris Radom, tournament chairman, discloses that play will be conducted for youngsters in three divisions: under 13 years, 13 - 15 years, and 16 - 18 years.

The meet will be open to all. Entries should be obtained from Mr. Radom by writing him at 4728 Three Oaks Rd., or calling MU. 5-7880 or OL. 5-3611.

Objection to school site ends

The city's Real Estate Department is proceeding with negotiations to acquire properties in the school site area bounded by Presbury, Payson, Baker and Pulaski Sts.

An ordinance, introduced a week ago, to repeal the City Council's recent authorization of this site, was withdrawn Monday evening from the council.

The repealer ordinance was pulled out by Charles P. Howard Jr., attorney for some protesting residents, when it was evident that many other homeowners in the area favored the building of a school there.

An elementary school is to be erected on this site.

It is designed to relieve overcrowding at the Robert W. Colemen Elementary School No. 142, at Walbrook Ave. and Brookwood St.

• • •

IN ASKING for this site, department of education officials stated that this school is so crowded it has been on double shifts for the past five years.

They said the school has a capacity of 806 students, but there is an attendance of 1,456.

Of these students, 595 live above North Ave. in the area of the school, and 861 reside below North Ave. in the sector where the new school is to built, the officials stated.

Baker sees tan manager for big league baseball

ELMIRA, N.Y. — "This could be the beginning of a brand new era in baseball.

"I only hope that I can do the job that is expected of me; it can mean so much to all concerned."

That is the way Gene Baker reacted to his appointment as manager of the Batavia farm club of the world champion Pittsburgh Pirates this week.

The 36 - year-old former infielder of the Chicago Cubs and Pirates took over Monday night as bench pilot of the Buccaneers' farm team in the Class D New York-Pennsylvania League.

It was the first time a big league club had fingered a colored man to manage in its system. Several years ago Nate Moreland managed the Caledonia Club in the Arizona-Mexico League, but his was not a major league assignment since the Caledonia team was privately owned.

BAKER TALKED to the AFRO on his third day on the job. He and his team were here for a series with the Elmira Indians. The club lost its initial game under him, 6-1, on Monday, but was rained out Tuesday and Wednesday.

"This is a wonderful opportunity," Gene said. "Not only for me but for other fellows more deserving than I. If I can only deliver for them, it will mean so much to the colored player and to baseball in general.

• • •

"THE RECEPTION I got Monday night was heartwarming," Baker continued. "Fans and players alike wished me well and pledged their full cooperation. Nothing like it has ever happened to me before.

"The Pittsburgh organization is tremendous. It has given me every opportunity to progress.

"With God's help, I hope to vindicate their judgment. And if I do, I'm sure there'll be other teams to follow suit—just as they have done in other respects.

• • •

BAKER HAS BEEN with the Pirates since May 1, 1957. He was traded by the Cubs, for whom he had teamed with Ernie Banks in the first big league keystone combination for four years.

He suffered a serious knee injury in late 1958 and was forced to undergo surgery the following winter. Out the entire 1959 season, Gene was assigned to the Pirate farm system as a scout and roving instructor.

In this capacity, Baker toured the country giving instruction to young Pittsburgh players, covering the whole farm structure from rookie classification to Triple-A.

• • •

NOTIFIED late last week of his appointment to the Batavia post, Baker learned that he had inherited a seventh - place team in an 8-club league. But he was not visibly disturbed.

"That part doesn't worry me," the affable pilot said. "We're only four games out of the first division, and there are some good ball players on the club — youngsters with great potential.

"Once they're settled down, I think we can make it to the first four. Sunday night, I watched them from the stands and saw them score nine runs. The next night, we didn't get but one. A little change here and there may provide the level of consistency we need." — SAM LACY.

Liston called on carpet by boxing commission

PHILADELPHIA

No date has been set for the hearing in which Sonny Liston, heavyweight contender, must appear before the State Athletic Commissioner to explain, under oath, his recent arrests.

Commission Chairman James H. Crowley, of Scranton, fixed the hearing, which will be preceded by a state police investigation.

The action came after Magistrate Phillip Freed postponed until July 1 a hearing that Liston faces on charges of impersonating an officer, conspiracy, resisting arrest and driving an auto without lights on June 12.

On May 18 Liston was arrested for loitering in front of a West Philadelphia store.

Liston and a companion, Isaac Cooper, were arrested in Fairmont Park after they had stopped a woman's car.

They then fled from police at 80 miles per hour.

Liston's manager, George Katz, gained the delay after telling Magistrate Freed that their attorney, I. Finklestein, is in California.

Attorney Alfred M. Klein of Philadelphia, a commission member, notified Liston and Katz that they must appear before the State Athletic Commission.

Klein said, "State boxing licenses are granted on the premise that a man conforms to certain standards. If he does not, the commission has the right to call him in and make a decision as to whether he will continue to hold the license."

Klein emphasized that the commission has no first-hand knowledge of the arrest and acted only after it had read of them in newspapers.

"Sonny will be put under oath and allowed to tell his side of the story," Klein said.

"Meantime, the state police investigators assigned to the commission will conduct their own inquiry.

"Our decision will not necessarily be guided by what action the court takes on these charges."

Katz became Liston's manager in April, shortly after the fighter purchased his contract from Pep Barone, of Allentown.

Barone had been accused by a Senate investigating committee headed by Sen. Estes Kefauver of being a front for racketeering interests.

Heavyweight champion Floyd Patterson refused even to consider Liston for a fight as long as he continued his alleged association with such interests.

Haul in 64 fish in poor weather

On board the Mary Emily with Captain Tom Tribbett, a party of fishermen from Baltimore on Wednesday boated 40 bonitas and 24 blues.

The party was fishing out of a yacht basin, off the coast of Delaware, 24 miles out in the Atlantic Ocean.

In the party was Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Whittaker, Dr. Lewis A. Johnson, William C. March and Clifton Gross.

The weather was inappropriate for fishing, but nevertheless, they caught fish and were satisfied.

TOP BISON GRIDDER—Leon Armour of Baltimore, Md. (left), is congratulated by fellow athlete, Eddie Batten of Atlantic City, N.J., after former was presented Kenneth Washington Award at Howard U's all-sports banquet. Armour, fullback on the Bison eleven, was cited for "distinguished qualities on and off the athletic field."

DETROIT BOUND — Murphy Street, 25-year-old electrician's helper from Baltimore, led qualifiers from the Washington-Baltimore area for the 1961 National Public Links golf tournament, to be held at Detroit, July 10-15. His 147 for 36 holes was four strokes under the best scores at Street also qualified for the 1960 tourney in Hawaii.

Jackie back -for a day!

NEW YORK — Jackie Robinson will once again don his famous Brooklyn Dodgers' baseball uniform for the annual Old Timers Day Game, at Yankee Stadium, Saturday, July 29.

Robinson joined Chock Full O' Nuts as vice president in 1957 after playing 10 years with the Dodgers.

Bucs' bosses praise Baker

PITTSBURGH, Pa. —Pittsburgh General manager Joe L. Brown expressed high regard for Gene Baker in the course of his announcement Monday that the former infielder had been named manager of the Pirates' farm team at Batavia, N.Y.

"We are very pleased that we were able to find a place in our organization for Gene," he said. "He has been very valuable to us in the past as a player, an instructor and a scout. Baker is a fine gentleman and has outstanding baseball knowledge."

• • •

BATAVIA, N.Y. — "We welcome Gene Baker to our town and our club," declared Norris T. Dwyer, president and general manager of the Batavia Pirates, on Wednesday.

Dwyer assured the AFRO that "everything will be done to make him comfortable and to assist him in the job he's attempting to do. No one in this office doubts that a young man of his character and experience will succeed."

On the subject of his new manager's race, Dwyer said: "Gene is a baseball man. That's all we want here."

Barred from links, tan golfer sues

CHICAGO (ANP) — Claiming he was humiliated, inconvenienced and embarrassed when he was denied the use of the Hickory Hills Country Club's golf links last Wednesday, (June 14) because of his race, Negro golfer Charles W. Smith, Jr., of York Center, Dupage County, has filed a $3,000 damage suit against the club, located in suburban Oak Lawn.

He is suing the club, three of its employees and two Oak Lawn policemen, William Keeton and Joseph Lublock.

Smith charged that he telephoned the club and made reservations but was denied tickets to the golf area when he showed up to claim them.

Phils' Gonzalez has eye trouble

PHILADELPHIA (ANP)—The hospitalization last week of outfielder Tony Gonzalez of the Philadelphia Phillies because of a "deep - seated" eye infection came as a major blow to the Phillies, already wallowing in last place in the National League.

The leading Phillies hitter and one of the leading hitters in the NL, Gonzalez was batting .317 as of last Thursday. He was expected to be out of the lineup for at least a week.

Gonzalez entered the University of Pennsylvania hospital for treatment of the eye infection.

COUGHS Due to COLDS
If you have a wheezing and your chest feels raw, get a bottle of ROBINSON'S EXPECTORANT. It loosens the Phlegm and takes away that chilly achy feeling. Sold with a money back guarantee at ROBINSON'S CUT RATE DRUG STORE, 2139 Pennsylvania Ave.

Notice To Television Owners
Did you know that when your television needs repairing, eighty per cent of the time the repairs can be made right in your own home at prices ranging from five to ten dollars one hour after you have placed your call to the television service division of Atlantic Business Corporation.
