For A Safe, Sane Fourth

Gov. J. Millard Tawes has proclaimed the period, June 30 through July 4, a "Holiday From Traffic Accidents." He has appealed to all citizens to observe the 45-mile-an-hour safe speed whenever practicable, and urged them in no case to exceed the speed limits established by law.

The governor's action is commendable and should be taken seriously by all motorists. During the last Fourth of July holiday period, 371 persons were killed or injured in highway accidents in Maryland.

Moreover, reports show that 129 of the 371 deaths or injuries were caused by motorists driving at excessive speed.

In view of the fact that highway traffic will be heavy during the holiday period, Governor Tawes has recommended the 45-mile-an-hour maximum speed.

We trust all Maryland motorists will take the tip from Tawes and observe the recommended speed limit. If this is done, we may very well make this a safe and sane Fourth of July.

Desegregate Or Disband

The Grand Jurors Association claims it is working for the elimination of injustice in the community but at the same time it draws a rigid color line within its own ranks.

Since charity begins at home, the association might well eliminate injustice to potential members by basing its acceptance on characteristics other than race.

Critics have called the association "a social group, trading off the prestige of the Supreme Bench." They contend that the jurors organization has failed to make a single contribution in the past ten years.

Mrs. Helen C. Janne, president of the association, says it does "quite a few things" but she agrees that this activity includes staging numerous banquets, dinners, outings and other social affairs while conceding the association never has made a major suggestion aimed at eliminating injustices.

Supreme Bench judges cannot remember any recommendations the Grand Jurors Association has submitted to the Bench.

Criminal Court Judge Joseph L. Carter recently resigned his honorary membership in the organization after it rejected membership applications submitted by Dr. James M. Fox and Earl Koger Sr., insurance executive. All the judges are expected to resign.

In commenting on his action, Judge Carter said: "I've had enough."

On this matter, Judge Carter has accurately expressed our sentiments.

The Grand Jurors Association has been posing as a quasi-official organization, dedicated to the high principle of justice. Whatever prestige it had is fast waning as a result of its stubborn fight to maintain racial segregation. Its service to the community, as a segregated unit, is dubious.

The Grand Jurors Association should desegregate or disband.

Still A Long Way To Go

The Baltimore Police Department has taken a step in the direction of equal employment opportunity. It is only a baby step, but the admission of non-white officers to its traffic division training course is a move in the right direction.

The police department should no doubt be mildly commended for taking this action. But, like the man from St. Louis, the department still has a long way to go.

While democracy is fighting for survival, the police department still has 32 divisions that are lily-white.

We hope that the lowering of color bars in the traffic division is an indication of a trend, and that job vacancies in all divisions will be filled on the basis of merit, rather than color.

Open Season On Officers?

It is not often that a person who admits kicking a police officer is set free by the court. But it happened last Saturday in Eastern District Municipal Court.

Judge Mary Arabian acquitted a 16-year-old girl of disorderly conduct and of kicking a policewoman who was performing her duty. The policewoman was placed under medical care and lost three days from work.

The girl was arrested June 19 and charged with being disorderly on an Erdman Ave. playground. At Eastern District station house, the policewoman was called by the desk sergeant to search the girl. The policewoman was kicked while escorting the girl to the lockup immediately after the search.

The girl was then charged with kicking the policewoman.

In court June 24, the girl admitted kicking the police officer who was in the performance of her duties, but nevertheless, Judge Arabian found the girl not guilty on both charges.

There is no way to know what goes on in the judicial mind, and perhaps Judge Arabian had some facts in the case not known to the press. Quite a few police officers are unhappy about the ruling.

It is difficult to see how a judge can consider kicking a police officer to fall within the realm of proper conduct. If all courts adopt this attitude it will be the same as declaring open season on guardians of the law.

Democrats Committing Suicide

The City Council's rejection of Edward F. Borgerding, nominated by the mayor to the Board of Municipal and Zoning Appeal, isn't greatly significant in itself.

But this, together with other dissensions in Democratic ranks is important.

Mayor Grady, City Council President Goodman and Comptroller Graham, the "Three G's," who successfully put together a victory in the last city election, are thoroughly disunited.

The mayor has a laudable ambition to accept a federal judgeship if it is offered to him. If the mayor should accept this promotion, Mr. Goodman would become mayor.

Dr. Graham has notified all concerned he will do all he can to prevent the mayor from becoming a Federal judge and Mr. Goodman from becoming mayor.

* * *

DR. GRAHAM, who praised his colleagues highly from every platform he could reach two years ago, uses the language of the Republicans in denouncing them now.

If this Kilkinney cat fight continues, the Democratic party which maintained a high degree of unity and efficiency in the presidential and gubernatorial elections two years ago, will find itself facing formidable Republican opposition in the coming election.

Baltimore City is registered 4 to 1 Democratic. Republicans never have any real chance of victory except when the Democrats engage in this kind of civil war.

We should remind Dr. Graham that party unity is more important than any individual.

We look to Governor Tawes, who has a longtime reputation as a unifying force in the Democratic party, to use this influence now in bringing about harmony.

Wanted: Fair, Warmer Weather

There's nothing we can do about the weather. When it rains, we must do as they do in Finland — let it rain. But — we can talk about it. Weather determines our well - being. It affects our coming and going.

After a long, bitter winter, we were looking forward to a fine, balmy spring, but April and May disappointed us with chilly, rainy days below normal in temperature.

June, our favorite for good weather, has been below normal throughout. On June 21 when summer arrived, torrential rains came and the evening was in the low 50's. The lowest June day showed 54 on the thermometer on June 16. The highest was 95 on June 2.

With July 4th in sight, the holiday weekend is forecast as "Fair and Warm," the "warm" meaning temperature in the high 80's and possibly 90. This is what we want — the kind of weather in which we can bask out of doors without sweaters and blankets.

AFRO Credo

A newspaper succeeds because its management believes in itself, in God and in the present generation. It must always ask itself—

Whether it has kept the faith with the common people.

Whether it has no other goal except to see that their liberties are preserved and their future assured.

Whether it is fighting to get rid of slums, to provide jobs for everybody.

Whether it stays out of politics except to expose corruption and condemn injustice, race prejudice or compromise.

Lauds Mayor Burbans

Dear AFRO:

We have nothing but praise for Mayor Burbans of Hagerstown, Md. for attempting to erase the blot upon the fair name of his city and indeed of the State of Maryland as a result of the recent insult to Ambassador Fitzjohn of Sierra Leone at a Hagerstown restaurant.

However, we must not forget the high price we can be called upon to pay in international relations today because of incidents of this kind.

Race discrimination in public accommodations must be speedily outlawed in America both North and South, or we daily risk insult to diplomats of African, Asian and Latin American countries which can destroy the good relations our State Department at great costs is trying to cultivate around the world.

This incident demonstrates anew the need for a Baltimore City Ordinance outlawing discrimination in public accommodations because of race rights here in our city. We can ill afford to wait for some such incident to embarrass us before the world. If we will not pass such legislation because it is just and right, then let us pass it because it is internationally necessary and expedient.

JOHN L. BERRY

A Welcome Change

Dear AFRO:

I am mighty happy to see the police department admit colored men to its traffic division. Let me take this opportunity to thank you for your series of articles, and editorials, which no doubt, played a part in bringing about this change.

I hope the new police commissioner will be more democratic in the assignment of personnel than the former commissioner. In this enlightened day, we still do not have colored policemen working in radio patrol cars; or as turnkeys at the station house lock-ups.

The policy of race discrimination in the police department is so ridiculous that the top police officials will not even try to defend or justify it. They simply insist that it doesn't exist, which in itself is a ridiculous position to take since even a casual observer can see that it does.

Baltimoreans of both races can be thankful for the AFRO which wages a continual fight against discrimination in all areas and calls a spade a spade. Many other papers take the easier course of looking the other way and pretending that everything is peaches and cream.

CALVIN E. JAMESON

A Timely Warning

Dear AFRO:

The sad case of the four - year - old boy who died after eating rat poison should launch a clean-up campaign in our city.

It is tragic that in these days of plenty, when we are giving away billions of dollars to foreign countries, that children right in our midst are eating out of garbage cans.

It was gratifying to read that the health department has ordered a crackdown on unsanitary conditions in the area where the boy lived.

Perhaps, all over the city, we should launch a clean-up campaign to rid our neighborhoods of hazards to children.

Whenever we feel that our high living standards and long, shiny cars make us superior, we should remember that right here in our city little children are going to bed hungry at night.

Before we spend all of our federal money on undeveloped nations, we should make some improvements in the underdeveloped areas of our own cities.

MRS. CHARLOTTE WINSTON

Hidden Stop Sign

DEAR AFRO:

At Mosher St. and Linden Ave., there is a stop sign that is completely hidden by leaves from a nearby tree. A visitor to our city, not seeing the hidden sign, could very easily drive right through the intersection causing a serious, and perhaps, fatal accident.

In driving about the city, I have noticed other signs that are invisible to the motorist, now that leaves are on the trees again.

Sometimes they cause accidents, and then the city takes action. The traffic division will photograph the scene, pictures will be presented in court as evidence, and in due course, a city work crew will cut down the branches blocking the sign. On their way to the scene, they will pass a half-dozen other signs, equally obscured, but they will drive on.

It seems to me, Baltimore policemen should be alerted for such traffic hazards and should report them as part of their routine duties.

Then, the condition could be corrected before an accident rather than after it. We always seem to put the cart before the horse when correcting health and traffic hazards. Nothing is ever done until the accident has occurred, then we go overboard trying to close the stable door after the horse is out.

MRS. MARY I. FELTON

Hits Church Dispute

DEAR AFRO:

Your story last week on the Concord Baptist Church dispute shows what happens when we let our emotions overcome our common sense.

It is disgraceful for intelligent persons, who profess to be Christians, to be in police court making charges and counter charges. If either or both sides of these factions had followed the Christian code, this spectacle could have been avoided.

How can Christians who believe in returning good for evil, and turning the other cheek, seek vengeance by having each other summoned into court.

As it turned out, the court hassle failed to settle anything. The judge told the two factions that the court lacked jurisdiction in the matter as Baptist Church organizations are autonomous. A court may not interfere in the internal matters of a church.

The Freedom Riders and the student sit-down demonstrators have given shining examples of fighting hate with love, of loving thy neighbor even when he offends you or strikes you. These youngsters are living as Christians much more than some of our so-called leaders, who revert to non-Christian action as soon as their thin veneer of civilization is scratch-scratched.

Praises New Policy

Dear AFRO:

I was indeed happy to read your story that the Sunpapers will no longer use racial designations on news stories.

Long ago, I stopped reading the Sun because of this unfair practice. By refusing to use complimentary news about colored persons, except on rare occasions, and always identifying colored persons in the crime stories, which they carried every day, the Sun was creating a false impression.

Laundry Detergents Make Greener Lawns

By ROBERT W. MATTHEWS

Went browsing through a London paper and came across the startling news that ordinary laundry detergent will help you have greener lawns.

According to the item, if patches of grass turn brown through dryness, a teaspoonful of any household detergent mixed with a gallon of water and poured on the patches will act as a wetting agent.

Then, if followed immediately by clear water, this will soak in and the brown patches will soon turn green.

Thought came to mind—just think of how clean the grass will be.

OVER IN Washington, D.C. story is going the around about the senator who received an angry letter from a constituent who complained that Washington was overrun with creeping socialism.

"I stand on my own two feet, don't ask any favors from Washington," the writer stated.

The senator did a bit of checking on the rugged individualist and found the man had enjoyed the federal school lunch program in grammar school, received his higher education under the GI Bill;

Bought his farm with an FHA loan, participated in the soil bank program and used crop price supports. In addition, both of his parents drew Social Security checks.

IF YOU haven't visited Friendship Airport recently, you'd be amazed at how much air traffic is moving through Baltimore these days.

In the space of 30 minutes, counted six jet planes taking off. Seems nowadays the airlines are really going all out to give service. Passengers leaving for foreign shores have a special international waiting room.

'Twas raining pretty hard on the day ol' Hodge went to visit. Watched a flight from New York arrive, and noticed one uniformed man dragging an aluminum cart toward the unloading ramp.

You'd never guess what his job was. That cart contained umbrellas, and the man's function was to stand on the ramp and hand each alighting passenger an umbrella to use as he walked to the terminal building.

Hagerstown Query

'Will We Profit From Operation Fitzjohn?'

By DAVID COTTINGHAM
(Reprinted from the Daily Mail, Hagerstown, of June 23, 1961)

This evening's testimonial dinner for Dr. William Fitzjohn, the African diplomat whose recent snubbing at a local restaurant precipitated a minor international crisis, could become a milestone in our community's struggle against the demoralizing influence of segregation.

It could—but only if our citizens resolve now to match impressive words with even more impressive action. And it will take action, on the part of average citizens, to tear down the barriers of bigotry and discrimination that exist in this city and county.

The dinner honoring Dr. Fitzjohn is an admirable gesture on the part of the city officials who conceived it, and on the part of those whose promised attendance virtually assures its success. The dinner itself, however, cannot change automatically the many factors that contributed to the incident which has made the name "Fitzjohn" familiar to every local resident, and to much of the world at large.

Let's face the facts. Dr. Fitzjohn was not the first person of colored skin ever to be refused service in a local restaurant. Most public eating places in this area, inside and outside Hagerstown's city limits, traditionally have refused to serve colored, except at take-out counters or back doors. Whether local residents or tourists, entertainers, educators, clergymen, if their skin has been dark they have been directed to establishments serving their "own kind."

Admittedly, a number of local restaurants recently have announced, directly or indirectly, that they changed their policies and will no longer bar persons of the colored races. This is one concrete accomplishment of "Operation Fitzjohn" to date, but unfortunately it is just a starting point.

You see, the restaurant owners and managers were not to blame for the policies in effect in their own places of business. Those policies evolved from attitudes and viewpoints long held and "justified" by the majority of our populace. Individual restaurateurs may have preferred personally to serve all without discrimination, but their role in the matter was limited to enforcing the policies made mandatory by so-called gentlemen's agreements.

Segregation in restaurants, unfortunate as it has been, nevertheless, has been only symptomatic of the racial problem in our community. In fact, it has been a minor symptom, compared to some. The crowded housing conditions forced upon colored citizens here, chiefly because of unwritten laws that make it impossible for them to rent, buy or build houses where they choose, is a symptom that almost sums up the nature of the disease. Colored people traditionally, have been confined to the "Bowery" here in symbolic enforcement of the white man's edict that they "stay in their place."

Ironical, isn't it, that Dr. Fitzjohn is being honored here during this particular week, when a man named Eichmann is being tried half - way around the globe for his complicity in the Nazi scheme to exterminate the Jewish population of Europe. How different is American persecution of its colored population segment, by denying it civil rights supposedly guaranteed by our Constitution, from the wartime persecution of Jews? The Nazis took the properties and even the lives of millions of Jews but were unable to extinguish their faith, their ideals and their self-respect as a people. American adaptation of the "master race" thesis robs the colored man of all BUT his property and life.

Let's just remember that this evening's testimonial for Dr. Fitzjohn is not a public rebuke to a local restaurant, even though it seems to have earmarks as such. Nor is it a community apology to a man who was treated unfairly by a local restaurant, since it would take an endless string of dinners to apologize to all who have been treated with similar unfairness.

No, the dinner in Dr. Fitzjohn's honor actually is an opportunity for all of us to take a good look at ourselves, with the Venetian blind of prejudice temporarily drawn aside. We all have some soul-searching to do, because it is we—the rank and file—who must decide whether "Hagerstown, Md." ever again shall be a dateline for a news story on racial discrimination.

We must decide whether the whim of our Creator, in giving different skin hues to the creatures which He created in His own image, should be the basis for social restrictions and economic limitations imposed upon those whose pigmentation differs from our own. If not, then we must decide whether the continuation of those restrictions and limitations locally should be tolerated.

Integration in our schools has been highly successful. It is up to the people of our community, not their elected officials, to make full integration a reality. Brotherhood cannot be legislated: it must start on a personal level.

Perhaps now is the time for the churches of our city and county to take an active part in the promotion of the brotherhood which they symbolize, at least in theory. Our clergymen could take the lead in integrating at the level where all of us could best accept and understand it—before the altar dedicated to the Son of God who died for all mankind, not just the white, the Gentile or the Catholic.

It's A Woman's World; Need We Be Reminded?

By HERB MANGRUM

Now and then something happens to remind me that we men are losing our grip on things.

More and more I'm inclined to believe that the little women are going to win out after all.

If and when they do, look out.

Look around. You will notice now days that we men can't out-think a woman, we can't out drink a woman, we can't even out steal a woman.

For instance:

* * *

IN NEW YORK Wednesday a woman gunman robbed a YMCA night manager blind.

The masked gal's weapon was a garden hose nozzle. She got away with $88.

Even the cops couldn't catch her when they surrounded the building.

They surmised that the fair young miss staged the holdup, and slipped back into bed before the posse arrived.

The thing that bugs me about the story is this:

Why would a woman be sleeping in the YMCA?

* * *

PROOF THAT WE can't out-drink them anymore?

In Western Municipal Court Tuesday, a buxom young woman was tried for being found drunk in the gutter.

Getting soused and falling into a gutter was once a man's choice. Right?

AS A TV ADDICT I'm sometimes amazed at some of the things that go on in the world of entertainment.

For instance:

It was once said that nothing or no one could knock off the Jack Paar show.

The new show P.M. East, PM West seems to be doing it every night now.

Watch the letters roll in about all those tan entertainers.
