Civic Betterment is goal of FACTS

Collective information and methods of bringing about civic betterment is the goal of Facts and Civic Techniques Seminar, Mrs. Robbie Chissell said, here, last week.

Speaking at a luncheon of the new organization held in the Baltimore Sheraton Inn, on Saturday, the president said:

"In these times of change all of us have felt moved by the activities of individuals and groups which have been directed toward translating the ideals of democracy and Christianity into reality.

"A small group of us wondered in what manner we might serve to help our community achieve this objective. It was for the purpose of obtaining actual facts relating to community needs, and by studying techniques with which to meet the needs, that the organization was formed."

• • •

MRS. CHISSELL said that Dr. Furman L. Templeton and David L. Glenn, both of the Urban League at their time of organization, advised and cooperated in the organization.

Their studies, at present, will be in the areas of job opportunities, voting privileges, public accommodations, housing and those which affect the welfare and human dignity of the non-white citizens.

• • •

DURING THIS first year FACTS laid ground work for activities by having city officials talk on their work, by visiting City Council meetings and with work on the Dixon bill.

The organization investigated problems arising from alleged bias within the Baltimore Police Department, Urban Renewal activities; relocation of families for slum clearance, guidance needs of school children and voting actions of the National Association of Postal Supervisors.

• • •

MEMBERS ALSO projected themselves by serving on the City Welfare Board, the Adult Assistance Committee, the Civic Interest Group, the membership drive committee of the Baltimore Urban League and the Citizens Committee for Provident Hospital.

For the coming year they plan a three-point program on Urban Living, Education and Public Relations.

• • •

OFFICERS, other than Mrs. Chissell, of FACTS are Mrs. Etta Phifer, vice president; Mrs. Louise Robinson, recording secretary; Mrs. Gloria Fisher, corresponding secretary; and Mrs. Elsworth Rhetta, treasurer.

Other members are: Mesdames Lillian Berry, James LaForest, Ivy Harris, Mary Redd, Olivia Dixon, Mae Adams, Norma Dillard, Tillie Pair, Kathleen Carter, Mesdames Tommy White, Miriam Brown, Naomi Jones, Edith Smith, Lillian Jones, Senora Reckling, Veronica Carr, Jacquelyn Watts, Mesdames Celonia Walden, Carolyn Chissell, Margaret Proctor, Madelyn Murphy, Maxel Gee, Florence Bailey and Wilhelmina Garner; and Miss Miriam Hughes.

The family of physicist Charles E. Harrington. All the Harrington children were Carnation babies. "My doctor recommended Carnation," Mrs. Harrington explains. "This milk in the red-and-white can is the world's leader for infant feeding."

Five little Harringtons—and how they do grow!
(Their doctor recommended Carnation)

Daddy is a government physicist. Mother is active in PTA, church and community projects. "And I'm busiest of all at home," Mrs. Harrington admits, "with five little Harringtons. They all got started on a Carnation formula."

Eight out of 10 mothers who feed their babies a Carnation formula say: "My doctor recommended it." Carnation is the safest, most nourishing and digestible form of milk for baby's bottle. Ask your doctor about Carnation—the milk every doctor knows.

This milk that's best for babies is best for coffee, cereals and cooking, too! Carnation is the milk you can use like cream—with ½ the fat calories; and at ½ the cost of cream. Try Bunburger recipe, shown at right.

RECIPE:
(Makes 6 servings)

CARNATION'S stay-moist BUNBURGERS

½ cup (small can) undiluted CARNATION EVAPORATED MILK
1 egg
1½ pounds ground beef
½ cup fine cracker crumbs
1½ teaspoons salt
¼ teaspoon pepper
1 teaspoon dry mustard
¼ cup finely chopped onion
½ cup finely chopped green pepper
American process cheese slices

Blend ingredients. Form meat mixture into 12 thin patties. Place each patty on hamburger bun half, covering completely. Broil about 5 minutes (6 to 7 inches from heat). Top each Bunburger with a cheese slice. Broil until cheese bubbles.

COOKING IS FUN

Mikedy's Memos

BY HELEN HALE

By HELEN HALE
PERK UP THOSE FOODS

Sponge cake takes on a party look when you frost it with whipped cream into which have been lightly mixed a few spoonsful of well-drained fruit cocktail.

This makes a good dip or sandwich spread: combine softened cream cheese with chopped roasted almonds and minced sweet pickle; season with chili powder and and celery salt.

Shape your next meat loaf in ring mold pan and when baked serve with the center filled with canned apricots which have been simmered in cloves and cinnamon for spicing.

Canned green beans can be folded into a tangy gelatin mixture with chopped cabbage and celery for an interesting combination.

Blend prepared mustard with soured cream, add some slivered almonds and serve over green beans, cauliflower or broccoli.

Make your next sundaes sumptuous with several different kinds of berries. Top with toasted coconut.

Muffins take on glamor if they're topped (just before they finish baking) with some evaporated milk, slivered almonds, maraschino cherries and coconut.

HELEN'S FAVORITE:

Broiler Quickie
(Serves 4)

1 pound pork sausage links
1 small can green peas
Butter
4 drained peach halves
Brown sugar

Empty peas into broiler pan; dot with butter. Place pork sausages over peas with peach halves, sprinkled with brown sugar. Broil 3 inches from heat, turning sausages, and brown on both sides.

V. I. H. needs energy-giving meals during summer months

Your very important husband needs energy-giving meals during the hot summer months

Whether he turns gardener or sportsman, or just smokes a pipe after dinner, his meals should be lighter than they have been all winter, though just as nourishing.

Men are not apt to take to jellied salads and a lot of cold dishes, nor are frequent meals of this type wise, in view of the energy-demands of the average man. On the other hand, heavy meals may leave him feeling logy, and can tax the digestive system.

• • •

THE SUMMERTIME answer to delightful meals with excellent food value is seafood. High in protein, rich with iodine and muscle building calcium and phosphorus, fresh seafood should appear frequently on your family dinner table.

That doesn't mean that you have to "wrassle" a lobster, or that you can serve only seafood in season.

One of the finest seafoods in the world, fresh Alaska King crab, is available, frozen, at your corner grocery all year round. Particularly rich in minerals, and calcium, fresh Alaska King crab meat actually compares favorably with milk.

And while the mineral content is similar to that of beef, the iodine content is even greater. As for the calorie count, Alaska crab ranks with the leanest of the lean, and is therefore greatly desirable.

There are many dishes both simple and elegant that can be prepared with crab meat. But to please your V.I.H. we suggest trying for instance, Alaska King Crab Au Gratin.

• • •

CRAB AU GRATIN is made with two packages (6 oz.) frozen Alaska King Crab Meat, 2 cups medium white sauce, 2 eggs, well beaten, ½ tsp. salt, 1 tbsp. grated Cheddar cheese, and paprika.

Defrost crab meat and drain thoroughly. Flake the crab meat. Add hot white sauce to beaten eggs, add salt and crab meat. Pour mixture into a buttered casserole sprinkled with grated paprika.

Bake in preheated oven at 400 degrees F. for 10 minutes. Services 4-5.

• • •

MORNING, NOON OR NIGHT, Buttermilk - Pecan Pancakes will tease, delight and finally satisfy hearty appetites.

Chopped pecans add crunchy texture and a rich, nutty flavor of these light buttermilk pancakes. Spoon sweet, yet tangy peach sauce over the golden brown pancakes. You'll have a combination that's tops at breakfast, lunch or suppertime.

Pancakes are ready in a hurry when you use enriched self-rising flour for the batter. Measuring and sifting time are cut considerably because self-rising flour already contains just the right amount of baking powder and salt.

The calcium, food iron and three essential B-vitamins in enriched self-rising flour give your family a bonus of good nutrition, too.

• • •

MAKE BUTTERMILK PECAN PANCAKES with 1½ cups sifted enriched self-rising flour, 2 tablespoons sugar, 1 egg, beaten, 2 cups buttermilk, 3 tablespoons melted butter or margarine, 1/3 cup chopped pecans, and peach sauce.

Sift together flour and sugar. Combine egg, buttermilk and butter or margarine. Add to flour mixture, stirring until mixture is smooth. Stir in pecans. Bake pancakes on hot griddle. Serve warm with peach Sauce. Makes 4-6 servings.

For spicy pecan sauce use 1 teaspoon cinnamon, ½ teaspoon nutmeg, ¾ cup sugar, 2 tablespoon cornstarch, 2 ½ cups cold water, 1 tablespoon lemon juice, and 2 cups sliced fresh peaches.

Combine spices, sugar and cornstarch in saucepan. Stir in cold water. Bring mixture to boil. Cook over medium heat, stirring occasionally, until clear and thickened. Add lemon juice and peaches.

Serve warm over pancakes.

• • •

TAKE ADVANTAGE of plentiful chicken and serve Cereal Crisp Fried Chicken with Spicy Peace Sauce. Crushed oven-toasted rice cereal and melted butter or margarine give the chicken its crisp coasting. The spicy peach sauce adds an unusual zip to the chicken.

This is but one use of versatile, economical, breakfast cereals as a recipe ingredient. Breakfast cereals make contributions to protein, important B vitamins, essential minerals and food energy. Use them often to improve the nutritive value of your cooking.

Cereal Crisp Fried Chicken with spicy peach sauce, 2 cups oven-toasted rice cereal, crushed to make 1 cup crumbs, 1 teaspoon salt, ½ teaspoon paprika, 1/3 to 3½-pound frying chicken, cut into serving pieces, 1/3 cup melted butter or margarine.

Combine cereal crumbs, salt and paprika. Dip chicken in butter or margarine then in crumb - mixture. Place pieces in shallow 2-quart baking dish, attractive side up.

Drizzle any remaining butter or margarine over chicken. Cover with foil and crimp edges of foil onto edge of dish. Bake in moderate oven (350 degrees F) 25 minutes.

Remove foil and bake until chicken is browned and tender, 35 to 40 minutes longer.

Use peach sauce given above.

Zest keeps marriage out of the mediocre

Zestful living prevents marriage from slipping into the mediocre, routine state of semi or complete unhappiness.

If couples work on keeping lines of communication open and companionship mutually enjoyable, marriage fulfills a high purpose, stated Dr. Hugo A. Bourdeau, instructor in the Sociology Department, University of Maryland.

Dr. Bourdeau outlined the family life cycle to emphasize early and late periods of marriage when couples are dependent upon each other for companionship.

He reminded homemakers that effective courtship methods are often abandoned after children arrive in the family. Husbands and wives lose their ability to communicate with each other and companionship suffers with lack of understanding.

• • •

A DANGER point occurs when the last child leaves home, if husband and wife have failed to make their marriage zestful and radiant. He said that parents rationalize that they don't go out for the sake of children; for the sake of children they should go out to keep marriage alive, happy and wholesome.

Many persons find difficulty in verbal self expression because of barriers imposed by custom and tradition within a family or our culture.

"Its a shame to waste time in mediocre marriages when companionship and communications could elevate its state," he said.

• • •

TODAY'S MARRIAGE places emphasis on the value of companionship rather than its utilitarian purpose of our early history. With the increased span of life, it's regrettable that couples don't work toward better understanding through effective communication.

Beware black widow spider

The black widow spider has a bad reputation because its bite will make a person very sick.

It is, in fact, a poisonous spider and should always be killed, warns Ted L. Bissell, entomology department, University of Maryland, College of Agriculture. The spiders are usually found out - of - doors in rock piles, baskets and boxes, holes in the ground, around foundations, and in trash.

• • •

THIS SPIDER may be recognized by the shiny round body with a red "X", or hour-glass mark on the underside. Young spiders and males, which are harmless, have white marks on the sides.

They make inconspicuous webs in dark corners, protected from the weather. The eggs are laid in brown sacks about 1/3 inch across.

Fortunately people are not often bitten by black widows, as our medical records attest because like all spiders they are usually timid and avoid larger creatures. However, one student of spiders has said the widow is particularly vicious during the breeding season and quite prone to bite.

• • •

GLOVES SHOULD be worn when handling flower pots, stakes or other items around the flower beds. Children's play pens should be checked frequently for spiders.

Where spiders occur in sheds or rock piles, they may be killed by spraying with 1 cup of 50 per cent wettable DDT or 2/3 cup of 45 per cent liquid chlordane to 1 gallon of water.

STYLE NOTE — This zipper skirt was styled especially for active sports such as bowling. A full-length zipper which goes from belt to hemline is hidden under a fly-front pleat. Unzipped the skirt offers plenty of room for action. Try cotton Sanforized sailcloth for this skirt.

Beverly Valdes breaks barrier in New York's modeling field

NEW YORK — Twenty-three - year - old Beverly Valdes broke a barrier, last week, as she became a house model for a high - fashion Seventh Avenue designer, Pauline Trigere.

She was selected from 40 applicants who answered a newspaper advertisement and was hired, according to Miss Trigere because "she has lovely features, a long waist, good shoulders and a good neck."

Miss Valdes is five feet eight inches tall, wears size eight and 10, and has measurements of 33-22-34. She studied modeling at the Ophelia DeVore School of Charm, and has previously modeled in fashion shows.

• • •

EMPLOYMENT OF Miss Valdes follows the new trend in modeling field which has used only white models in the upper bracket jobs.

Recently opening wedges in New York field have been two Eurasian models, who first attained recognition by Givenchy in Paris. A Chinese and a Portuguese model are also among those being employed in New York at this time.

• • •

THE MOVE is not new with Miss Trigere. In 1958 a colored model wore one of Miss Trigere's designs in a spread by a picture magazine.

Miss DeVore is largely responsible for the break through of colored models. Models she has taken abroad have consistently scored high, modeled for top French designers, and have brought back to America fashion titles, as did LaJeune Hundley of Washington.

• • •

ANOTHER OF Miss DeVore's models, Helen Williams, is generally thought of as the top model in his country.

Colored models earn the same as others. Miss Williams received $65 an hour. Among high-fashion photographic models, $60 an hour is the current highest fee. Top fashion - show models receive $40 an hour.

CHICKEN-COOKING WHIZ — Mrs. Evelyn Whitlock of 1710 Roane St., Richmond, took 10th-place honors as 25 awards were made in the national chicken cooking contest conducted in Seaford, Del. last week. The contest was under sponsorship of the Poultry and Egg National Board and the Delmarva Poultry Industry. Her preparation before the jury of Cheese Whiz Chicken won a silver bowl trophy.

WOMAN'S WORLD

Salaries in wide range for men, women social workers

Salaries of those entering or returning to social work after receiving a master's degree from a school of social work averaged $4,715 for men and $4,565 for women in 1959.

The highest salaries were reported by graduates engaged in public assistance and community organization work and the lowest salaries by those in family service work.

These differences may be partly due to the fact that public welfare agencies frequently pay more than private agencies in the same area.

• • •

BESIDES TYPE of job and agency, other factors which affect wage variations include regional location, city size, and amount of education and previous experience an applicant has had.

In the Federal Civil Service in 1958, the entrance rate for a person with a master's degree from an accredited school of social work was $4,980 for those without work experience, and $5,985 for those with two years' experience.

There was no federal hiring in 1958 of college graduates who had undergraduate training in introductory social work courses but no subsequent social work training.

• • •

CONSIDERABLE variation existed in the salary ranges established by each state for its health and welfare employees.

The median minimum salary set for public assistance caseworkers with only a bachelor's degree was $3,360 and the median maximum salary was $4,320.

For those with graduate education in social work, the comparable medians were $3,960 and $4,980 for public assistance workers; $4,008 and $5,124 for child welfare workers, and $4,560 and $5,700 for psychiatric social workers.

Casework supervisors, usually required to have a master's degree in social work and casework experience, received comparable median salaries of $4,140 and $5,274 as public assistance supervisors and $4,560 and $5,760 as child welfare supervisors.

Mondays urged for Independence Day

WASHINGTON

The National Association of Travel Organizations Monday pointed out that all Americans would be enjoying a long Fourth of July week end if its "Monday Holiday Bill" — long urged by all segments of the U.S. travel industry — should become law.

James L. Bossemeyer, executive director, said the bill provides that independence Day always be observed on the first Monday in July, Memorial Day on the last Monday in May and that Washington's Birthday be observed on the third Monday in February.
