DR. AND MRS. Raymond (Elise) Hunt killed two birds with one stone, Tuesday . . . celebrating the Fourth at a gay party on their spacious lawn and marking her birthday.

Bids to her party said nothing of the birthday . . . but her friends snooped out the information, showered her with gifts.

Another birthday celebrant, and a guest at the party was Dr. A. A. Smith. About to share the fun that ran off into the night were:

Dr. and Mrs. M. L. Barksdale, Dr. and Mrs. A. A. Smith, Dr. and Mrs. George Lee, Dr. and Mrs. Thomas Fraser Sr., Dr. and Mrs. Fred West.

THAT WAS a gay and fun-packed party that the Calvin Ashes (Letitia) had on their patio and spacious grounds, Tuesday.

They placed a long and food - filled table between towering trees on the back terrace . . . and when the showers came, simply moved tables and grills into the garage and went on broiling steaks, hot dogs, etc.

Sharing the good food and equally good conversation with them were Mr. and Mrs. Donald Porter, Mrs. Nancy Smith and Harry Watkins from Washington; Mrs. Zelma Brown, Mr. and Mrs. William Gosnell, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Hall, Mr. and Mrs. William Hutchins, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Thomas and Mr. and Mrs. John White of this city.

POT POURRI — You can cancel out that July 29 wedding date for the Rev. Thomas Fraser Jr. of Walbrook Presbyterian Church, and post-deb Sheila Chatman. With the wedding dresses ordered (six bridesmaids and all) and the honeymoon reservations made, she decided that she'd rather complete work on her college degree, and he agreed that would be a good thing.

But the former Florence Maulsby, cosmetologist, and Charles Albert Taylor, postal employee, this week announced their marriage of a year ago. They tipped off to Elkton, Md. on July 10, 1960 and were wed in a double-ring ceremony by the Rev. Joseph J. Webster of Providence Methodist Church. They will celebrate their first anniversary in New York City, and upon their return will be at home on Longwood St.

All last week long friends were showering and feting Ruth Davis, Lemmel Junior High School faculty member.

Edmonia Townes Yates held forth for her in her Columbus Drive place. Mary and Charles Robinson entertained their Dennyn Road home. Vera and Bob Williams were hosts at dinner.

Reason ? Mrs. Davis will soon be off to East Africa on a teaching mission. She is recipient of a fellowship from the International Cooperative Association, and will be on leave for two years.

At present, she is at Columbia University, New York, for briefing. She's a graduate of Morgan and of Columbia, and an AKA sorror. There are 159 teachers in the group who will be on these assignments, seven of whom are colored, and three, with Mrs. Davis, from Baltimore. The other Baltimoreans are Miss Yvonne Powell and Clarence Hunter.

Now here's a friend for you: Dr. R. Hayes Strider (Morgan State College) drove 1,500 miles to play 15 minutes of organ music for the wedding of Dr. Irene D. Quick of Denver, Col. and Effie Kaye Adams, whose wedding took place in Longview, Texas, last week. Mrs. Strider went along.

A line or two from Dr. Madge B. Hibler (formerly of Morgan) who says she is enjoying the work in her post at Prairie View A. and M. College in Texas immensely. Was en route to Galveston for the Fourth holiday.

Another line from Gladys S. Wallace to say that the National Sorority of Phi Delta Kappa will convene in Cleveland, Ohio, Aug. 7-11.

And the nicest bit of news coming from Newark, N.J. that Anne Fitzgerald Sims was inducted into Delta Sigma Theta Sorority during the Eastern Regional Conference last week . . . was pinned by her Delta Godmother, Soror Mary J. Spellman, assistant dean of women at Morgan State College. Miss Sims, daughter of Delta Gladys Fitzgerald Sims, was one of two non-white young women to graduate from Towson Teachers College this year.
