On the TOWN

Either the Crawlers are a bunch of L-7's (squares) masquerading as cats.

The thought occurred following a cruise to Carr's Beach and a close-up look at the operation of new head man Algernon Prestwidge.

Until Sunday, we were of the opinion that most people go to the beach to make like fish.

To us this seems logical, particularly in view of the muggy and stifling weather which has latched on to the Big B the past deuce of sevens.

But not so the past Sabbath. While many of the 6,000 funseekers splashed in the browny deep, Crawlers were awed to see the majority of the throng not doing what comes naturally — swimming.

Instead they packed under the pavilion and lived it up while eating up the rock and roll offerings of rocking rollers.

Making up the show package were the Drifters, songbird Ruby Johnson, and Bobby Parker's orchestra.

At the height of festivities the pavilion shook as light on feet, gay stompers skimmied over the place.

• • •

ONE MATRON, obviously up in years but young at heart, gave 12 George Phelps, head of the 15-man beach police force, some anxious moments.

Swinging into action at the downbeat of every set, she was lathered with perspiration, but continued to dance like mad. George, fearing she would become a beat victim, rescued her from swelling knot of spectators who gathered to watch her perform.

As she was led through the packed crowd the lady, shimmied and shook as the lieutenant led her to more spacious surroundings.

Sunday, there'll probably be more of the same because The Jarnels, Maxine Brown and Joe Brown's big band will mount the podium. With such lineup, many will have little time for swimming.

• • •

AT MACEO'S, the house that's as clean as the health department, including the sidewalks (they're new ya know) a new face was welcomed this week. She's Norma Butler, who's joining Maceo's zip serving staff.

Swinging in action in fine style, Norma and friends, including Mr. Sam, dean of Crawlers, sipped pink champagne to mark her 21st birthday, Wednesday.

On Thursday, she became the lounge's "can I help you" girl of the day watch.

The Crawl next hit in at Kleeco for a chat with Walter, and his bevy of lovely lassies, Jerri, Greta, Shirlee and Alice.

The house where all the time is party time is getting a lot mileage out of its fine foods and drinks at real down prices — 85 cent lunches and four bit tastes. And they are saying something.

Morris Richmond and Carnival said Monday is the day the big surprise will be sprung. For many nights and darks they've promised the biggest name band in the Big B will move front and center. Make it there and see who it is.

• • •

THE SUNDAY 4-7 jazz sessions at Phil's are a smash.

Revolving around the Jazz Trio Plus One, and featuring leading exponents of the big cool sounds, you'll find a Sabbath afternoon stop there rewarding.

At Lucky Number it's still Cornell Muldrow and his Bim Bam Boo Boys. By the time for summertime ado to tell all groups needing a spacious and beautiful setting, for summertime affairs, to inquire about the Ifabulous Rose Room, it's air conditioned, ya know.

At present Sphinx is quiet, opened only on limited basis. However, C.P.T. and his man who gets the job done, Royal Weaver, are busier than a beaver at a broken dam.

Details on their present project, "Dimension," are limited, but keep check with the Crawlers, they'll know first.

• • •

TOMORROW (Saturday) is family day at Oakland Park Country Club in Randallstown. Pop invites all, big and small, to partake of the old fashioned family Bar-Be-Cue where Joe Allen and his Trio will dish out entertainment.

Our girl Ruby Glover and Jimmy Wells Continental Wizards continue to make Red Fox the place to go on your night out. While hearing the best jazz around, your every wish is taken care of by Big George, Vicki and Dolores.

Flink Johnson, Mickey Fields' orchestra and the barrage of twisters, standards at Chick's, have been spiced up (as if it's needed) by a new addition.

Baby Sealy, the drawling comic, will make you crack up with his variety of zany quips.

• • •

CASINO AND Charlie Burns continues to make like immigration. This week they brought in the Three Sounds, keeping alive the policy of offering the best entertainment, which blends well with the beautiful and fashionable house.

• • •

Hey, what night you like. Whatever it is, it's dime to dennts you'll find at the Millionaire's Club. A chat, with Mead Ball and Hattie, fountain girls, revealed the spot is really night conscious.

Champagne, shrimp, and crazy pants are a few of the nights beckoning nitelifers.

The clock and deadlines brought a halt to ramblings of the Crawlers at this point, but there'll be more come another seven. CURTAIN TIME!

MISS CARR'S BEACH — Miss Melva Mitchell, Miss Carr's Beach for 1960, is nearing the end of her reign. A new Miss Carr will be picked to reign as queen of the beach on Labor Day.

Jewelry needs regular baths

Glittering jewelry is the perfect complement to attire —provided its luster is not dull or tarnished.

To be sure that your jewelry is at its shining best, polish the metal and "launder" the stones.

• • •

DIAMONDS should be waxed — even brush scrubbed — in hot soap or detergent suds, perhaps with a dash of ammonia added. Rinse in hot water, and drain dry.

To avoid loosening cemented settings, don't immerse costume jewelry in water.

Instead, rub it gently with a soft brush dipped in warm soap or detergent suds. Wash and rinse quickly and dry with a soft towel.

Sweltering heat wave a boonfor the snowball business

The sweltering heat wave that devastated Baltimoreans was a boon for the snowball business.

That's the opinion of an expert in the field, Mrs. Ella Brown, who has been making and selling snowballs for 25 years.

Her business is located under a red and white umbrella in front of her home at 31 N. Central Ave.

• • • • •

WEARING a crisp, white summer dress, Mrs. Brown is a familiar figure in the neighborhood. She is affectionately known as "Momma Brown" by her customers.

Mrs. Brown said her customers grow up and lose a taste for snowballs, which, of course, is bad for business.

"The youngsters still like snowballs though," she said, "they usually ask for strawberry flavor. They like something red."

• • • • • •

INFLATION has hit the snowball industry. A few years ago, snowballs were three cents each. King-sized ones were five cents. Now they are seven or ten cents each.

The old hand shaver is a thing of the past. The city health department decided that such methods are unsanitary and today the ice is shaved by machines.

"I paid $75 for that," Mrs. Brown said as she pointed to the compact electric ice shaver used in her business.

She stores blocks of ice in a cooler under the machine. The cooler is left partially open.

"They won't let us cover the ice," Mrs. Brown explained.

• • • • •

LIKE THE big businessman, the snow ball stand operator has to deal with city hall.

"I have to pay three dollars for a license to operate," she said.

Meanwhile, it was business as usual at the stand.

Despite the giant strides in automation, the snowball stand is here to stay. It seems that in hot weather, the young child turns to snowballs.

This happens thousands of times every day in Baltimore.

CHERRY HILL NOTES

Youths to hear six on job opportunities

By ELMA OGLESBY
EL 5-8413

The Youth Council of the Cherry Hill Community Church (Presbyterian) is sponsoring a Youth Convocation, entitled "New Frontiers: Vacations for Youth" on Sunday, July 30, from 5 to 7 p.m.

On the program will be six panel members in fields of industry and business, that are not common vocations in our group.

Persons scheduled to appear are Walter Cook, accounting; E. W. Taylor, architecture, W. E. Brown, banking; Joseph Thomas, brokerage; Frank Carter, court reporter, and the Rev. Rudolph Obey, ministry.

The panelist will talk along the lines (1) why they entered their particular field (2) what training was required (3) how they sought work in their chosen profession.

• • •

MARVIN JONES, from the Urban League, will have pamphlets available and will describe jobs that would require college training or development of some particular unique skill — a talent that would be in demand.

This program will be of interest and help to the twelve to twenty age group as well as their parents.

This program is free and open to the community.

Belated birthday wishes to Thomas F. "Pop" Noel who celebrated on July 25.

Rights unit extended

WASHINGTON

Subjected to later action by the full committee, the House Judiciary Subcommittee has recommended that the U.S. Civil Rights Commission be extended for another two years. Without legislation, the commission would die on Sept. 9.

The bill to extend the life of the committee, created by the Civil Rights Act of 1957, was appointed by the subcommittee Wednesday.
