Good neighbors of the week are Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Young, 1003 W. 42nd St., who have gathered children of the neighborhood for Bible classes and art work for the past two weeks.

Tonight, Friday, marks the closing exercises when the proud little fellows show off their work and thank the Youngs for the kindness and patience.

Mr. Young is a postal worker.

THE TOWN is agog about the Zetas cruise to Bermuda. They leave from Pier 5, at the foot of Marine Ave., S.W., Wahington on Saturday, will sail on a luxury liner to the paradise islands.

On Tuesday, Catherine Jordan entertained the Rollers, the Tuckers, Mrs. Saunders and Frank Turner White at dinner at 6.

AT HOME, for a change is one of Baltimore's greatest travelers, the Rev. William N. Edwards, pastor of Randallstown AME Church circuit.

For the first time in years, he has missed several meetings of the AME Bishops Council and other activities which usually take him by jet plane throughout the land.

Physicians advised him to cut down and to stop driving his car in March.

With news reporting as a hobby, the Rev. Mr. Edwards used to arrive at the AFRO two and three times a week with notes on who's doing what about town, gathered his news as he visited the sick and shuttins.

On Wednesday, the Rev. Mr. Edwards reports that William H. Clark, 7120 Walsut Ave., Howardsville, Md. is in Sinai Hospital, doing nicely.

He also says that Edward Bell, 7121 Walnut Ave., at the same hospital, was operated on on Tuesday.

CLARENCE LOGAN, chairman of the Civic Interest Group, left Wednesday night to see about the Tennessee affair down there in Nashville. Parents of the two Baltimore CIGers, Carol Johnson and Norma Collins, were worried about their daughters who were pelted with eggs and tomatoes in the picket lines.

ON SUNDAY, Aug. 20, Mrs. Anna Mae Hunter, blind for 12 years, and director of the home for the blind, is having a gala party for all the blind people of Baltimore. The event is scheduled to be held in the lovely gardens of the home.

Special guests are persons who are employed at the Workshop for the Blind. Food for the occasion is being donated by L. Manuel Hendler, president of the Hendler Ice Cream Co. and other merchants.

And another thing . . blind people may not be able to read the AFRO but they keep up with all events by having friends and relatives do the job for them. They also listen to radio regularly for the news and follow TV stories and programs religiously.

Making miraculous adjustment to their handicap, they can sense if a person is good and kind by the tone of voice, if they are tall or short by the sound of the voice and just how many feet away a persons is standing, all by sound waves.

LAST SATURDAY, Mrs. Verda Welcome took three of the residents of the Anna Mae Hunter Home for the Blind downtown to shop for shoes . . . a very fine deed since Mrs. Welcome is a busy lady.

Bernice Hollaman (Mrs. Pochonet) and husband, Gerard Pochonet, the French musician, held reunion Tuesday night after six weeks apart. He was doing night spots in Denver and New York with Roy Eldridge's Band as a drummer.

When he arrived at their North Ave. residence, Bernice was entertaining about 25 ladies at a smart cocktail affair.

Attracting quite a bit of attention were her perruques straight from Paris, which transform nutsdy from a mouse to a glamorous movie star in seconds.

What is a perrupus?

Ask Mme. Pochonet. At this moment, the whole town is buzzing. This latest item is said to be the talk among all women of the "free world", in fact.

A TRULY magnificent affair was the Wednesday night banquet at the Alcazar, the highlight of the M. W. Zerubbabel Grand Lodge convention.

Mrs. Eleanor Anderson was the representative sent by Delegate Verda Welcome on Sunday to the welcome program.

As the lodge continued a week of stellar events, the banquet turned out to be a social gathering of members from all parts of the United States.

like structure which houses the station, a barber shop, and a shoe repairing shop, said:

"I thought somebody had dropped an atomic bomb."

Harry Mannes, who operates a shoe repair shop next door to the station said the blow "knocked me off the chair."

Working in the shop at the time, Walter Covington, 1408 Ashland Ave., said "there was no warning. I was standing at the work bench and was almost knocked down."

James C. Evans, 1238 Ashland Ave., alone in the barbershop at the time, said the blast "shook the whole building."

At another barber shop across the street, Edward Montague, 1004 Aisquith St., described the blast in more bomb talk:

"I had just finished working on a customer, and had sat down. I was knocked off my stool. I never heard anything like it before. I thought it was a bomb."

JOSEPH LAWSON, 814 N. Spring St., owner of a shop which suffered heavy damage, said he was sitting on the steps at home when he heard a bomb-like noise.

"I looked up and saw dust rolling over the buildings I thought it was the real thing (bomb)."

Mrs. Mary Nelson, who operates a restaurant at 851 N. Gay St., said she thought "a bomb had fell" when she saw and heard glass raining against the pavement followed by a earth-shaking roar seconds later.

Also registering a "bomb-sound" was Mrs. Ruth Jackson, 849 N. Gay, who had just left her second-floor window just before her panes toppled earthward. "It sounded just like those bombs you hear in war pictures," she said.

FRANK J. KARLE 3022 Mayfield Ave., who operates a glassware store at 845-47 Gay St., described the roaring sound as "awful."

"I was stunned when the show windows and displays all collapsed in a shattered heap," he said, adding he was unable to determine the extent of damage due to the large collection of glassware.

Mrs. Hazel Montgomery, manager of a bakery across the street from the blast site, said she couldn't believe her eyes when she saw the "shower of glass."

"I froze in my track when the soda machine fell over and glass collapsed all over pastries in the window."

FLOYD BURGESS operator of an ice cream store at 1400 Ashland Ave., thought it was a "clap of thunder."

"But when I saw the sun shining, I didn't know what to think," he added.

A painter, Robert Ashe, 45, 1502 Madison Ave., was in a precarious position when the blast went off. He was on a ladder painting the second floor front of 1400 Ashland Ave.

"I got a terrific shock, but managed to hang on. But I lost no time in getting down when I recovered."

William Elliott, Ashland Ave., barber, who rode out the Chase St., explosion and fire last year, said Tuesday's blow out sounded just like that one which was described as a "thousand jets."
