TRUMAN'S EXECUTIVE ORDER NO. 9981

So There's Racial Discrimination In Armed Services, But It's Worse in Agriculture Department

ARTICLE III

(EDITOR'S NOTE—This is the last of a series of three articles based on a report submitted to President Kennedy by the Leadership Conference on Civil Rights in support of proposals for executive action to end Federally supported segregation and other forms of racial discrimination.)

Despite Executive Order No. 9981, issued July 26, 1948, by President Harry Truman, which abolishes racial segregation and discrimination in the armed services, the practice still persists in many areas of military affairs.

The report submitted to the White House by Roy Wilkins of the NAACP and Arnold Aronson of the National Community Relations Advisory Council shows that today, 13 years later, the Navy Stewards' Service continues to be an essentially non - white service.

It also shows there are segregated units in the Military Reserve.

The Department of Defense explains this segregation in the following manner:

• • •

IN A NUMBER of instances, we have seen units in certain sections of the country evolve into essentially segregated units through the natural consequence of allowing men to voluntarily affiliate with the units of their choice.

The report points out that, in effect, this attitude is nothing less that "official stamp of approval" for a program of "voluntary" segregation, though doubt was expressed as to its "voluntary" aspect.

Pointing to segregated Army Reserve units in Mississippi, the report noted: "That this segregation is truly voluntary is dubious; that it should be allowed to continue, even if so, is untenable."

• • •

CONFLICT BETWEEN Executive Order 9981 which bars racial discrimination in the armed forces and state law requiring segregation of the National Guard and Air National Guard is noted in the report.

For example, North Carolina law requires "The white and colored militia shall be separately enrolled and shall never be compelled to serve in the same organization.

"No organization of colored troops shall be permitted where white troops are available, and while permitted to be organized, colored troops shall be under the command of white officers."

The most recent survey of National Guard policies, conducted by the American Veterans Committee, shows discriminatory policies practiced in the following states:

Alabama, Arkansas, Florida, Georgia, Idaho, Louisiana, Mississippi, Missouri, North Carolina, Oklahoma, South Carolina, Tennessee, Texas, Virginia, West Virginia, Wyoming and the District of Columbia.

• • •

THE REPORT POINTS out that under a provision of the Selective Service Act, service in the National Guard and Air National Guard is an acceptable substitute for Federal service.

In states conducting the Guard as a racially exclusive operation, young colored citizens cannot attain this advantage.

They must be subjected to the draft, required to leave the community and suffer interruptions in their education and economic growth.

The report states that "These disadvantages, required by state policy and permitted by Federal policy, violate basic concepts of equal protection and due process."

• • •

THE REPORT further observes that this violation is, to all practical purposes, financed by the Federal Government which contributed over 95 per cent of all Guard operating funds.

For fiscal year 1960, the Federal budget for 1960 exceeded $600,000,000.

• • •

THE PROGRAM of the Reserve Officers Training Corps also is discriminatory, according to the U.S. Civil Rights Commission.

The Commission reports that in the States of Alabama, Mississippi and Georgia, because of state segregation policy, colored are completely barred from participation in ROTC land grant colleges, including even the segregated land grant colleges.

In other southern states, opportunity for colored student participation in these programs is extremely limited.

In addition to the ROTC program, the chief sources of officers for military services are the military academies.

• • •

TODAY, COLORED constitute only 0.1 per cent of Navy and Marine officers, 1.4 per cent of Air Force officers and 3 per cent of officers in the Army.

As of 1960, there was only 21 colored cadets in the three military academies in an enrollment of over 7,000.

One of the limitations on colored attendance is that large numbers of colored citizens live in areas where they are consistently denied Congressional appointments which are the chief source of admission to the academies.

Over 1,300 Congressional appointments come from areas of high colored population and lily-white selection.

• • •

THE U.S. DEPARTMENT of Agriculture remains one of the most segregated divisions of the Federal Government.

The Department has over 80,000 employees, not counting cooperatively - paid personnel; yet, it contains a number of agencies which virtually are lily-white.

The report points out that of approximately 30,000 employees of the Department in grades GS-1 to GS-5, about 1,600 are colored.

• • •

IN GRADES GS-9 through GS-13, the highest grades in which colored serve, only 150 of 24,000 are colored.

The ratio rises from about 1 in 20 in the lower grades to 1 in 160 in the higher grades.

There are only four colored employees among the Department's 1,279 employees of GS-13 rank. Grades GS-14 through GS-18 have no colored employees in USDA.

The Farm Home Administration is a USDA agency which makes supervised credit available where it cannot otherwise be obtained at reasonable terms and for the following purposes:

(1) Farm-ownership loans to tenants, laborers, sharecroppers; operating loans to farmers and stockmen; (3) soil and water conservation loans for construction or improvement of dwellings and other buildings.

This agency had loan authorization in 1960 totaling $272,400,000 and employed 4,749 persons. Only 82 were colored.

THIS AGENCY, in effect, is a government bank with agents throughout the nation's farming areas. However, as a matter of policy it is controlled by three-man County FHA Committees.

So far as can be determined, none of these committees anywhere in the United States has colored members. In some southern states, members of the County FHA Committees are also were members of the White Citizens Council.

The denial or withdrawal of credit has been one of the important weapons used in the South in the campaign of economic pressure against advocates of civil rights.

"So long as Federally appointed county committeemen come from the ranks of those who support segregation, the United States will be a partner to this program of suppression of civil rights," the report submitted to the White House declares.

• • •

THE REPORT added: "Whenever in the South local control is built into a program of dispensing any benefit, discrimination against colored is likely.

In the FHA program this is likely for two reasons: (1) the county committees are empowered by law to say who is to receive loans, and (2) the amount of money available for loans runs out before all applicants have been served in a given year.

ANOTHER SEGREGATED program sponsored by the U.S. Department of Agriculture is the 4 - H Clubs.

Through the Federal Extension Service, the clubs receive funds that are used for educational material's and for payment of salaries and staff members.

Membership in the clubs for 1960 was reported to the 2,236,735, of whom 1,269,425 were in Southern States.

These 4-H Clubs are segregated throughout the South. They have a national convention which attracts farm youth from the 50 states, but includes from the South only whites.

The Southern colored 4 H members hold a convention of their own, with representatives coming from their segregated clubs.

THE MOST RECENT convention of this segregated unit of 4 - H Clubs was held at Howard University, a Federally - operated institution.

The report concludes with this observation:

"In his message to the Congress on the development and conservation of the nation's natural resources, President Kennedy pointed out that existing policies 'overlapped and often conflicted,' that funds were wasted on competing efforts' and that 'attention devoted to annual appropriations or immediate pressures diverted energies from long-range planning.'

"It was essential,' he declared that the 'widely scattered policies' of the Federal Government be brought together into a 'coordinated framework.'

"Nowhere do these observations apply with greater force than in the area of civil rights."

Guinea diplomat in New York brawl returns to U.N. post

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. — (ANP) — The Guinean diplomat involved in a Harlem street brawl with a New York policeman and taxi driver last month was returned to the United States.

Michel Collet flew back last week to resume his duties as the second highest ranking man in Guinea's delegation to the United Nations. He was accompanied by five other diplomats from West African countries, including the republic's Foreign Minister, Louis Lasana Beauvogui.

Mr. Collet was reported to have been recalled by his Government because of the street fight. A source, close to the Guinean delegation said, "As you can see he was not recalled."

• • •

THIS SOURCE said Collet had flown home Sept. 5, for congratulations and to give a direct report on the fight to Guinea's President, Sekou Toure.

The fight, according to reports, started with a minor automobile accident. However, it quickly developed into a diplomatic angle involving Guinean charges of police brutality and racial discrimination.

Adlai E. Stevenson, U.S. Ambassador to the UN, called for a complete report of the incident.

Last week, however, the Guineans were understood to consider the case closed and to hope that there would be no further controversy.

It is believed that the representatives of the Guinea Government suspected racial discrimination on the basis of previous incidents in which African dignitaries have suffered humiliation as a result of segregation in this country.

• • •

AFRICANS, WELL aware of the U.S. race problem, are often accorded "special privileges" when it is known that they have diplomatic status and are not colored Americans.

Several African leaders have told ANP that they resent this approach to the matter, knowing that American of African decent are not given the same respect in some restaurants and other public places.

Regarding the incident involving the Guinean diplomat, the New York police said Collet attacked Patrolman James O'Grady and Detective Richard Dillion as they tried to question him after his car allegedly ran into the back of a taxicab.

The Guineans made the counter-charge that Collet had been "brutally beaten."

It was reported that Collet's injuries were so serious that he was not able to make any questions about what he proposed to do about civil rights.

LOOKING at the RECORD

By LOUIS L. LAUTIER
(Special Assistant to Chairman Republican National Committee)

WASHINGTON — Favoritism among reporters is apparent to television viewers who watch "the President's press conference on television. Week after week the same reporters are recognized to ask questions.

Now and then a non-regular gets in a question. I, myself, have not been able to ask Mr. Kennedy a question since, last August. At that time he was a candidate.

• • •

AT A PRESS conference he held in the Caucus Room of the Old Senate Office Build he had brought in Senator Joseph A. Clark, Pannsylvan Democrat, and introduc him as his spokesman on civil rights.

I stood. Senator Ken recognized me. I asked how was Senator Clark goi to speak for him on civil rights when Senator Clar had killed civil rights legisl tion designed to carry out the civil rights pledges of the Democratic platform by mov ing to send it back to Com mittee.

At first several press conferences President Kennedy held I jumped up and down and shouted, "Mr. President!! But I went unrecognized. Finally, it dawned on me that I was not a member of the Kennedy press club and he did not want me to ask him any questions about what he proposed to do about civil rights.

"Nice' Mississippi policeman may get coffee invitation

WASHINGTON

The Rev. Quinland Gordon, one of the 15 ministers arrested in Jackson, Miss., last month, says he was impressed with the behaviour of one of the police officials he met.

"After things change in Mississippi, I am going to write and ask if he will have a cup of coffee with me," says Father Quinland, rector of the Church of the Atonement, 5073 E. Capitol St.

The minister said the policeman, a detective, apparently was embarrassed when he fingerprinted and photographed the arrested clergymen.

LOVING WIFE,
SADIE MILLER.

RICHARDSON — In loving memory of our dear husband and father, JAMES RICHARDSON who passed away October 8, 1946:

Gone, dear one, gone forever, Left us to mourn your loss. But you left us to remember Each one of many ways you take your place.

Happy home we once enjoyed, Now sweet the memory still. But one has left a void in our home, The world can never fill.
