YOUR CHRISTMAS GIFT LIST

Include in your Christmas giving, a little something for each of the following projects which will not only add joy to your own holiday, but also bring cheer to those less fortunate:

* * *

THE AFRO'S Mrs. Santa Project, the Festival of Music, Sunday, Nov. 26, 5:30 p.m. at Poly. Tickets are $1.25 for adults, .75 for children.

* * *

All funds from the concert will be used to provide needy families with food, clothing, toys for Christmas.

Each year the AFRO'S Mrs. Santa works until late Christmas Eve. Last year she performed such tasks as buying shoes, paying light bills, rent, providing wheel chairs, crutches, glasses, layettes, fuel oil in addition to coats, raincoats, and even a piano for a music student.

* * *

SANTA CLAUS ANONYMOUS, sponsored annually by the Baltimore Junior Chamber of Commerce and the Junior League of Baltimore, gives $3 gift certificates to children who would not otherwise have Christmas.

The children, 15,000 of them 12 years old and under, men of Welfare rolls. Some 50 per cent of them are colored children.

The DPW funds which go to parents in need do not allow "extras" such as toys, books, small things that give joy to children.

Harold Holmes, director of the Red Shield Boys Club, is a member of the Junior Chamber of Commerce committee soliciting funds. He may be reached at WI. 5-5557 and will be happy to receive your donation, no matter how small.

* * *

THE ANNA MAE HUNTER HOME FOR THE BLIND appeal began Nov. 15, extend through Jan. 1.

A total of 21 blind persons makes the residence at 1321 Eutaw Place a haven and a home. Here family-style living is provided for those who otherwise may beg on street corners, sleep "just anywhere they could lay their heads."

Mrs. Anna Mae Hunter, director, blind for 25 years, received the AFRO's highest award for her courage in establishing this home. Money is needed to maintain it.

* * *

THE NAACP MEMBERSHIP campaign, now in progress, provides funds for the defense of student demonstrators who sacrifice beyond the call of duty in the picket lines.

When they are arrested the NAACP is on the spot with bail money, money for food, cigarettes and other necessities.

Freedom costs money. Your membership may be mailed to the Baltimore Branch NAACP, 1234 Druid Hill Ave. or call LA. 3-8503.

* * *

THIS CHRISTMAS should be a serious one. We have much soul-searching to do.

HERE ARE SOME QUESTIONS THAT CONFRONT US:

1. Are we registered to vote?

2. Are we not the ones who are responsible if we do not take an active part in those who are committed to the welfare of the community?

3. Have we looked at our residential areas lately?

4. Aren't there too many people crowded in inadequate apartments?

5. Isn't the number of barrooms to a block appalling?

6. Have we joined in any way to support the student demonstrators who are fighting for "Freedom For All? Many will be in jail Christmas.

7. What about our school children? The number of drop-outs is rising here in this age when a person must at least have a high school education to get any kind of a job.

8. What are we doing to re-educate our people for the highly competitive era of integration? In the short space of 10 years, will we be able to find work or qualify for jobs?

With all this facing us, Christmas will hardly find us concerned with frivolity this year.

Fleming School forms Homeroom Mothers Club

By DORIS B. ADAMS

Fleming Elementary School parents and teachers are proud of their new Homeroom Mothers Club. Schoolmarm Helen Whittaker sent out the most unique invitations to a coffee sip.

The ladies were greeted by Miss Merry A. Harris, principal of Fleming.

These officers were elected: Mrs. Annabell Russell, president; Bertha Eppes, vice president, secretary, Doris Tyler, Evelyn Prink, financial secretary, Helen James, news reporter. Appointed to the telephone committee were Mrs. R. Cromwell, E. Robinson, V. Ferguson, L. Watson, E. Johnson and Mrs. E. Eppes.

An exciting program was mapped out by the group.

In December the children will sing Christmas carols in the Children's ward at Provident Hospital and there will be a birthday party. May I suggest another worthwhile activity mothers? The AFRO-AMERICAN's help Mrs. Santa Christmas concert at Polytech Sunday, Nov. 26 at 5:30 p.m. Children's tickets are only .75 cents.

Mothers in charge of the Dec. meeting will be Mrs. Bertha Eppes, Virginia Ferguson, and Evelyn Frink.

LOVELY WAS the wedding of Mrs. Maggie May Campbell to Dewey Watkins of Baltimore City. The new Mrs. Watkins was radiant in her wedding dress of lace rose-beige and matching veil. Up from Moorehead N. C. for the quiet ceremony was the bride's mother, Mrs. Charles Holland. The Rev. Edward Lyles administered the marriage vows. Matron of honor was Mrs. Leola Branch. Best man was Freddie Jones.

Guests included Mr. and Mrs. Freddie Jones, David Tillman, Floyd Hayes, Thomas Branch, Mrs. Evelyn Scott and Miss Mattie Williams. Also Ronald Vincent Hackett, Nilton Reed, Ronald Street and Thomas Campbell Jr.

Mr. and Mrs. Dewey Watkins are now at home to friends in their 3092 Annellen Rd. home.

Dynamic personality met while attending the Washington Champagne sip of that city's Theta chapter LKM. B. Clarence Mayfield, Savanah, Ga. militant young attorney, who was in D. C. attending the NNACP's attorney's conference. The purpose of the conference, planning strategy for future civil rights cases.

Atty. (Bob) Mayfield is married to the former Johnnie L. Bryson of Greenville, S.C. and they have three children, Bernadette, Chauncey and Antionette. Forty lawyers from throughout the U.S. attended the conference.

CHAIRMAN OF the 100th anniversary banquet, Mrs. Sylvia Adams introduced the lovely mistress of ceremony, Mrs. Dorothy McManus of the pastor.

On the program were Joseph James, Miss Iona Smith, Banneker teacher; Mrs. Catherine Madden, principal of the now Banneker Elementary, Mrs. Alberta Fisher, Johnny Brewington, Loyise Bell and Daisy Gwynn.

Also Howard Bedford, William Glascoe, the Rev. J. A. McManus, Mr. Knats, the guest speaker; the Rev. Lewis Ramson, the Rev. William C. Roberts, rector of Trinity Church, Towson and your columnist.

Immediately after the anniversary program, the banquet was held in the newly remodel dining hall of the church.

Hostesses were Mrs. Ella Marie Burke, Evelyn Carter, Gertrude Williams, Elizabeth Johns on and Arabella Hoss.
