stine, director, Department of Legislative Reference, to determine whether a city charter amendment would be necessary to change the district boundaries.

He said he was told this could be done by Council action.

Mr. Dixon wants the existing boundaries of the city's six councilmanic districts changed so each councilman would represent a similar number of people.

The Dixon redistricting proposal would kill the present majority colored vote strength in the Fourth District, close observers point out.

Meanwhile, Mayor J. Harold Grady has given his endorsement to the Dixon councilmanic redistricting proposal.

In supporting his resolution, Mr. Dixon cited these figures which he said demonstrated the discrepancies in representation by councilmen in the city's six districts.

1ST D. — (3 councilmen) population, 94,761; registered voters, 40,588; population represented by each councilman, 31,587; voters represented by each councilman, 13,529.

2nd D — (3 councilmen) population, 94,213; registered voters, 30,584; population represented by each councilman, 28,471, voters represented by each councilman, 10,195.

3rd D — (4 councilmen) population, 278,759; registered voters, 126,953; population represented by each councilman, 69,690; voters represented by each councilman, 31,741.

4th D — (4 councilmen) population, 118,539; registered voters, 48,918; population represented by each councilman, 39,446; registered voters represented by each councilman, 16,329.

5th D — (4 councilmen) population, 223,417; registered voters, 105,119; population represented by each councilman, 55,854; registered voters represented by each councilman, 26,279.

6th D — (3 councilmen) population, 139,533; registered voters, 49,[illegible]; population represented by each councilman, 46,513; voters represented by each councilman, 15,807.
