Town Choir does benefit concert on behalf of Provident Hospital

By ADAH K. JENKINS

A large and highly appreciative audience was on hand to greet the Community Men's Chorus of Emmanuel Christian Community Church at the debut concert in the church auditorium.

Under the experienced direction of Charles Parker, who conducted at the piano, the 20 - voice ensemble afforded an evening of genuine pleasure.

Soloists were James Campbor, with a very pleasing tenor; Elmer Wise; Samuel Butler, John Queen, Elvin Savage, Donald Penn, William W. Cann and Richard Ashby.

Well - trained males choruses are traditionally popular in this country and the Community Men's Chorus, with continued study, should become one of the top notch groups of its kind in the city.

As an important aside, one could not forget the "black tie", tuxedo uniforms that made an imposing appearance.

Following the concert Rev. Sidney Daniels, pastor, and J. R. Wise, chairman of the chorus, greeted the audience at an informal reception.

Capable solo roles were filled by Edna Kess Mitchell, Ann Wallace, Rita Mitchell, Thelma and Richard Gamby.

The mother - daughter duet in "Star of the East" was sung by Evelyn King, contralto, and Wanda Queen, soprano.

More than 400 children from Public School 104 and St. Peter Claver's Parochial School attended the pre - holiday concert by the Baltimore Symphony String Quartet, given under the auspices of Young Musicians Series.

Seasonal greetings were extended by Mrs. Gladys Darry, principal of School No. 104 and by the Rev. Mother Honorata, principal of St. Peter Claver's. Mrs. William Marburg, president of YMS, Mrs. D. MacLaughlin, and your reviewer were present from the executive board.
