Surgeon could be 'first' at hospital

CHARLOTTE, N.C. (ANP) —If Dr. Charles Warren Williams successfully completes a year of surgical residency training, he may become the first colored surgeon at Charlotte's city - operated Memorial hospital.

The completion of the surgical training will permit Dr. Williams, a native of Charlotte, to apply for certification as a member of the presently all-white staff at Memorial.

John Rankin, Memorial administrator, said last week that Dr. Williams, serving a year's residency training, presently assigned to Good Samaritan Hospital, a colored institution, applied for membership at Memorial last year. He was the first Charlotte non-white to do so.

SCLC asks Va. governor to protect Harris' rights

ATLANTA — The Southern Christian Leadership Conference, with headquarters in Atlanta, sent a telegram to Virginia's Governor, asking him to intervene.

Signed by Dr. Martin Luther King Jr., SCLC president, and the Rev. Wyatt Tee Walker, SCLC director, the telegram said:

"Dear Governor, (We) have learned, much to our distress, of the needless persecution and harassment of the Rev. Curtis Harris, leader of our Hopewell chapter, for his unrelenting struggle for the citizenship and human dignity. (We) respectfully request that you use the influence of your office to thwart any abridgement of Mr. Harris' civil liberties and rights for peaceful protest guaranteed under the First Amendment.

"We trust also that the Commonwealth of Virginia will not regress and pass pending legislation, supported by the Boatwright Committee, to stifle the traditional American form of peaceful protest used so effectively by the constituents of the Virginia State Unit of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference."

Say citizens would not obey edict

NORFOLK, Va. — "Jordan, Dawley and Holt accept as an honor the condemnation of the Committee on the Offenses Against the Administration of Justice and that of any like-minded legislator or judge consumed by feelings of white supremacy."

This was the reaction of the three local attorneys who, last week, figured in the report by a state racial investigating committee to outgoing Gov. J. Lindsay Almond Jr.

The committee recommended enactment of a law to make it a crime for citizens to participate in boycotts aimed at breaking down racial discrimination.

The seven-man state unit headed by Sen. Joseph E. Hutcheson of Lawrenceville, is the same agency which is seeking the NAACP to reveal its membership and donors lists.

IT IS A CONTINUATION of the old Boatwright Committee which was created by the anti-NAACP package of laws enacted in 1956, most of which have been adjudged unconstitutional by Federal courts.

The Hutcheson Committee would have the state fine boycotters up to $1,000 and/or send them to prison for terms ranging up to 12 months.

The attorneys, Leonard W. Holt, Edward Dawley and Ed.Jordan, in a signed statement declared they joined in the "effort to oppose passage of any law prohibiting picketing and deny the right not to spend money where one cannot work."

They also expressed the legal opinion that any such law would be "clearly unconstitutional."

THE LAWYERS predicted that if the legislature enacts an anti-boycott law over the protests of citizens, the law not only would be ignored "but would increase boycotting, not decrease it."

Also in connection with their participation in civil rights cases in Hopewell, Va., Dawley and Holt have been charged with contempt of court by State Circuit Judge Carlton Holloday.

Accused on a similar charge is the Rev. Curtis Harris, Hopewell civil rights leader.

Dawley's contempt charges resulted from his defense of a group of Hopewell citizens who were sued by a Virginia paper for $45,000 because of a boycott. The citizens won the suit.

DAWLEY'S TRIAL was set for Jan. 8 but was postponed to Jan. 30 when Commonwealth Attorney Ligon Jones told the court: "I'm not ready. I haven't studied the motions filed."

The contempt charges against the Rev. Harris resulted from his alleged defiance, last fall, of the Committee on Offenses Against Justice. He is also to be tried before Judge Holloday.

The State and Commonwealth Attorney Jones also are involved in disbarment proceedings in Federal court against Samuel W. Tucker of Emporia, NAACP attorney.

Jordan was accused of contempt of court by Judge Holloday during his defense of Dawley. The judge has indicated that he will take up the charges against Jordan after he finishes with Dawley, Jan. 30.

N.C. Mutual's '61 record lists 14.9 million premium income

DURHAM, N.C. — The 63rd annual policy holders meeting of the North Carolina Mutual Life Insurance Company was held in the Home Office auditorium last Monday (Jan. 8.) with the president, A. T. Spaulding reporting considerable activity and progress in 1961. Spaulding cited the firm not only as a significant business institution, but also as a symbol of potentialities for colored Americans and what can happen in America.

The 1961 assets are expected to exceed $70 million with more than $290 million insurance in force and premium income of over $14.9 million.

• • •

TWO NORTH CAROLINA MUTUAL salesmen emerged as one million-dollar producers at the close of the year - the first time in history that individual efforts have reached this peak in a colored-owned company.

• • •

AMONG NOTEWORTHY events of the previous year, the company expanded to the West Coast with the June opening of a branch in Los Angeles. New quarters were occupied by existing offices in Albany, Georgia; Nashville, Tennessee; and Norfolk, Virginia. North Carolina Mutual also established its first European agency.

Through stock purchase, the company has gained control of Bankers Fire and Casualty Insurance Company enabling it to do multiple - line business.

During the year, North Carolina Mutual became the first colored member of two exclusive trade organizations The American Life Convention and Life Insurance Association of America.

DR. JAMES N. NABRIT JR. On N.C. Mutual Board

THE PRESIDENT pointed out further in his report that the 1961 payments to policyholders will exceed the 1960 payments by more than a half million dollars.

Mr. Spaulding concluded with a note of appreciation for the support and confidence evidenced by policyholders and co-workers. Another highlight of this meeting was the election of Dr. James M. Nabrit, president of Howard University, to the board of directors.

In commenting on this selection, Spaulding stated, "We are delighted to have President Nabrit as a member of the board of directors of our company. He is a man of proven abilities as a s
