Founder Arizona Stemons honored at Zeta celebration

With Founder Arizona C. Stemons as honoree, and Sgt. Violet H. Whyte, Zeta Woman of the Year (1956), as speaker, Zeta Phi Betas celebrated the 42nd anniversary of the sorority, here, Saturday evening.

The banquet, held in the Madison Ave. branch YWCA was attended by 60 sorors and 78 guests, and presided over by Mrs. Emma D. Dudley.

The program, under the theme of "New Frontiers for Women in the Sixties" began with the rendition of "Jesus Walked This Lonesome Valley" sung by the Zeta Trio which is composed of Sorors Mary Fields, Marian Garrett and Lenora Westry. The trio was accompanied on the piano by Eleanor Deleaver. Significance of the Day was presented by Soror Carrie P. Carter and greetings were extended from Brother Ernest W. Lee, president of Zeta Sigma Chapter, Phi Beta Sigma Fraternity.

"SOROR ISOLENE CROWNER introduced Sgt. Violet H. Whyte, a former teacher in Baltimore City, a member of the Baltimore Police Department and 1956 Zeta Woman of the Year. Sgt. Whyte in keeping with the theme enumerated the following things which the women of today must be: (1) a lady - well - groomed, well - mannered and respected; (2) a wife - companion to her husband, sharing the problems and offering solutions and confidence; (4) a helping hand - aiding neighbors, friends and relatives; and (5) civic minded - well - informed of the community activities and take part in the community decisions.

THE "YOUTH OF TODAY are tomorrow's citizens and need the guidance of a woman," said Sgt. Whyte. She concluded with saying "the women of today have a tremendous responsibility on their hands for her work is never done and it is her job to live up to her responsibilities.

Vocal presentations were given by the Zeta Trio of "Somebody Bigger Than You and I" and "Clair DeLune". An award was presented by Soror Blanche Powell to the founder, Soror Arizona Cleaver Stemons.

Certificates of appreciation were presented to:

Sorors Mary C. Frazier, Beatrice H. Hall, Geraldine B. Powell, Ruth L. Russell, Katharine O. Johnson, Mary J. Taylor, Hazel Phillips, Carrie D. Scott, Beatrice Pitts, Beulah Cauldwell, Ethel J. Hodges, Ellen C. Johns;

Mrs. Welcome speaks to PTA

The PTA of School No. 116 sponsored a community meeting in the auditorium of the Lafayette Homes on Sunday.

More than 400 parents and friends heard Delegate Verda Welcome's challenge to parents in terms of the national objectives.

Following her remarks, the kindergarten gave a rhythm band solo under the direction of Miss Theresa Weaver. Mrs. Norma White's third grade dramatized Aesop's Fables. Mrs. Stone's group gave original talks on how boys and girls can improve community standards of living.

Miss Burton's fifth grade gave a presentation of choral speaking. Parents and teachers learned to sing the school song that had been composed by Mrs. Olivia Scott's fourth grade.

Present in the audience were Otho Pinkett, manager of the Lafayette Homes, and Charles Robinson, director of the center's athletic program.

Oswald Poulson is president of the PTA. Mrs. Gloria Douglass is vice president. Mrs. Rebecca Carroll is principal of the school.

Kappas, guests go theatre-ing follow with cocktail party-ing

with Lula Jones Garrett

'Twas a gala affair that evening when the Kappas held the second annual theatre party, which started at the Vagabond Theatre to view the players' January presentation "Rashomon" and woundup at the frat house where the brothers served a buffet spread of goodies and sweet meats.

And the wives and sweethearts did their part to lend glamour to the festivities, donned in stunning silks, satins and wool knits with all the sparkle and glitter to complete the picture.

Seen in the Frat club room betwixt the sipping and twisting were:

Aline Lyde in purple wool; Angela Howard in navy blue silk faille; Johnie Mae Brooks in gold knit; Cecelia Pinkney in beige and orange silk; Barbara McCoy in pink nylon and wool;

Julia Cambrell in gray knit; Carolyn Chissell in red wool maternity (May's the due month); Betty Mello in green nubby wool; and Bernice Watson in brown satin edged with a double tiered ruffle . . . a real conversation outfit.

POT POURRI: They begin early, these days, to execute their social affairs with finesse. When those sixth graders (Marcia Knox, Terry Hicks, Joann Curtis and Hazel Brian) of School No. 116 wanted to entertain their beloved teacher, Mrs. Frances Gardner, they went straight to the head for help. And Mrs. Rebecca Carroll, principal, took time out of her very heavy schedule to arrange a delightful surprise party for them. Those are the sort of school days that happy memories are made of.

The Maryland League of Women's Clubs put finishing touches on plans for their February 11th fashion show, this week. Designer Clarice Lay Brooks and Ruth Murray are co - chairmen of the show, and they are drawing models from both the Eastern and Western Shores. The show at Carver Vocational High School will begin at six in the evening. Angel of the show is Naomi Camper.

When the lady of the Evening," Verda Welcome, of the Maryland Legislature and now running for the Senate, arrives at the Emerson Hotel on Sunday, she will be wearing sequin - trimmed white satin, with gold shoes and bag. Mrs. Welcome is being honored at an appreciation dinner by a citizens' committee.

Dr. Alfred Fentress of Norfolk, Va. Eastern regional vice president of Alpha Phi Alpha fraternity, will be in the city Sunday to discuss plans for the forthcoming regional convention in Baltimore.

Dr. Fentress will meet at 4 o'clock with Convention Chairman Frank Ellis and committee members at the Stafford Hotel on Charles St., which will be the scene of the convention April 6, 7 and 8.

The sessions are elected to attract Alphas from the New England area, New York, Delaware, Maryland, the District of Columbia and Virginia.

Girl Friends, Baltimore chapter, dined with Laura Jonas, Saturday, ran carefully through their past cotillion performance and dipped into plans for the 1962 presentation, Saturday.

The session was in the Woodbrook Avenue establishment of the Bennett caterers, and the dinner featured delicious shrimp and rice, etc.

Most of the contingent was about, including Agnes Patterson, Anna Wheatley, Catherine Law, Irma Rose, Elizabeth Williams, Frances Vessells, Olga Parker, Georgeanna Chester, Mae Parrott, Catherine Wilson, Bernice Chatman, Mae Williams, Lula Patterson and Laura, of course.

"IT MAKES ME ALMOST WISH I weren't leaving," said Mrs. Marcella Compton at the lovely farewell party given for her by the Lawyers' Wives, Saturday afternoon.

Mrs. Compton, widow of the attorney, James R. Compton, has decided to pull up stakes in Baltimore and start living anew in Princeton, N.J.

She had been invited to the home of her next door neighbor, Mrs. Vernon Greene, for a final chat, and was quite surprised by the group awaiting her there with gifts, cards, refreshments and fond farewells.

She looked charming in a black crepe dress simply designed at the bodice with black beaded flowers. Mrs. John Hargrove, wife of the newly appointed People's Court judge, wore strawberry red crepe with black fox fur cuffing her short sleeves, and matched with a big black fox hat.

Mrs. Robert Watts, wife of the Municipal Court judge, topped her gold embroidered white wool sheath with a small flowered hat.

Other lawyers' wives wishing Godspeed and happiness to Mrs. Compton included Mesdames Robsol Pinkett, president; George Rosedom, George Parish, Donald Koger Jr., Christopher Foreman, A. B. Koger, Archie Williams, Donald Murray and James Bundy.

Although she cherished the sterling pin and other gifts presented to her, Mrs. Compton says her most precious mementos will be the pictures made of the members, and the discs of their recorded farewells.

ALSO ON the receiving end of a delightful bon voyage party were Dr. and Mrs. Maurice Lee, given in the beautiful Sequoia Avenue home of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Maiden.

Hosting the affair were members of the Bridgettes Club, who include Dr. Thelma P. Bando, Dr. Theresa K. Brown, Mrs. Mae Campbell, Mrs. Althea Cornish.

Also Miss Beulah Davis, Mesdames Beautine DeCosta, Floss E. Dedmond, Marie Frazer, Frances Hill, Beatrice Hurt, Normà Maiden, Gaynelle Spaulding and Doly Walker.

Mrs. Lee is also a member of the club.

THE HOME of Dr. and Mrs. Walter Davidson was the setting for the first of this year's meeting of the Auxiliary to the Dental Association, Saturday.

Mrs. Davidson was joined by Barbara Davis in hostessing. Secret pals were disclosed and gifts were exchanged.

MRS. MARGARET A. HAYWOOD, attorney, of Washington, former national basileus and currently national parliamentarian of Lambda Kappa Mu Sorority, was speaker at the celebration marking the 25th anniversary of the sorority, in Baltimore, Sunday.

At the session were:

Wilnfred Ashby, Mabel Alleyne, Jeanette Christmas, Vashti Christmas, Bernice McDaniels, Elise Hunt, Seretha Green;

Josephine Kimbers, Joan Phillips, Eula Mae Watts, Janie Tribble, Olga Rodney and Mary Taylor, the newly elected president of the auxiliary.

SATURDAY evening past, at the beautiful Sequoia Avenue home of Roberta Briscoe, the Meridians added three new members to their fold, making the club 11 strong.

Against the cozy background of the hostess' open fire, the induction ceremony was held. The club colors of ebony and pink were carried out in the decor of pink carnations, pink candles, pink and black scroll - tied copies of the club's constitution, pink and black place cards, and Meridian stamped napkin's and match book.

After the candlelight ritual the senior members welcomed the newcomers with the pinning of pink corsages and a pink champagne toast. After this the hostess served dinner.

When the group retired to the fabulous flagstone club room for what new members thought was an evening of cards, they were greeted by their husbands, who had also enjoyed a repast and awaited the continued celebration with their wives.

Throughout the evening members, their guests and husbands munched on hors d'oeuvres, twisted, and sipped champagne until wee hours.

New members and their husbands are Vendetta and Howard Wagner, Catherine and Lewis Richardson, and Cora and William Porter.

Other members and husbands are Loretta and Clyde Bryant, June and Wellington Ross, Ernestine and Joe Press, Dorothy and Irvin Greene, Louise and Walthal Berry;

Gloria McDaniels, Dorothy Booze, Arnold Scott and Roberta and Herman Briscoe.

WHEN ESTHER HARRIS entertained the Martiniques at their first '62, Saturday night, she had the cutest gold change purses as gifts for each member. All of the members exchanged gifts.

They also presented a check to the Anna Mae Hunter Home for the Blind, and each member pledged $120 to the Woman Power drive for Provident Hospital.

Attending the session were Mesdames Beatrice Smith, Victorine Adams, Susie Moore, Alma Perry, Dorothea Foster, Irene Harris, Ruth Paysour, Myrtle Thompson, Esther Harris, Vestina Chandler, Hester Greenway and Mamie Widgon.

MRS. PAULINE HARRIS decided that the holiday schedule was so crowded that she'd defer her party until the January lull.

So, on Sunday, assisted by Sadie Milbourne and Lewis Pennington, she entertained at an elegant dinner party. From the beautiful table setting to the first sip of Sherry through the last crumb of fruit cake, guests raved.

Those she summoned to this, an annual affair, included Blanche Day, Georgia Smith, Rita and Russell Brown, Carrie D. Scott, Alma Williams, William and Bernice Parker, Bessie Simms, Algernon Jackson Jr., Richard Thomas and George Gwens.

YOU CAN GUESS how disappointed I was at missing Theodore and Charlotte Johnson's wedding anniversary, the other evening . . . for it was that day, 19 years ago, that I was helping Charlotte into her wedding dress. But William and Peggy Carter carried on . . . preparing all that delicious food that lasted throughout the evening and into the morning.

Thereabouts were:

Norbert and Eleanora Lee (he was an usher at the wedding) Cora and Leroy Gibson, Natalie and James Phillips, Zelma and Raymond Parker;

Ruth Paysour, Geneva Dyson, Jessie Peaker, William and Alberta Lee, Susie and James Graham, Helen Williams, Lindsay Hopkins, Viola Randolph and Mr. Randolph;

Joe and Leona Felton, Mary Stokes, Ada Smith, Count and Georgia Thomas, Ethel and James Wrigat, John and Mamie Widgcon, Florence and Daniel Ringgold; Eddie and Mae Myler, Roxie Brown, Doris Woodford, George and Anne Fitzgerald, James and Alberia Dixon, Sarah and Rudolph Johnson, William and Peggy Carter, Gertrude Nicholson and Mr. Nicholson.

The Johnsons were flooded with gifts.
