Commie challenges Strom to debate

NEW YORK — The editor of the "Worker," official organ of the Communist party in America, has challenged Sen. Strom Thurmond of South Carolina "to discuss democracy."

James Jackson challenged the segregationist several days after it had been revealed that investigators associated with the Democrat had been asked to give their opinion of the Worker.

Thurmond, who has denounced the paper on the Senate floor on several occasions, also has been insisting that the Department of Justice investigate the weekly.

* * *

THE TEXT of Jackson's telegram to Thurmond follows:

"You have caused a group of U.S. Marines to be asked a series of questions about communism. Among the questions was one about the Worker which you have attacked consistently since last July.

"I think the questions should be answered, but leave the Marines out of it. I propose that you and I answer before the National Press Club the 30 questions which the Marines were asked, and 30 more questions about democracy.

"You have taken a lot of time in the Senate, and a lot of space in the Congressional Record to put your views on record. It is about time that the views of the Worker be given an equal hearing."

* * *

THE EDITOR also challenged Robert F. Kennedy, attorney general, to discuss before the American people the issue of free press.

He asked that his telegram to the attorney general be forwarded to Mr. Kennedy in Indonesia.

Jackson accused the attorney general of attempting to silence the Worker under the McCarran Act.

Jackson, like in the challenge to Thurmond, suggested that the National Press Club was a suitable forum to discuss the freedom of the press and the attacks that have been made against the Worker.

L. Angeles nine inks fan scout

LOS ANGELES (ANP) — Veteran scout Willie Harris, 51, and father of Cleo Harris; Chicago White Sox bonus baby, become the Los Angeles 'Angels' first colored scout last week.

The hiring of Harris, who previously scouted the Southern California area for the New York Mets and the Cincinnati Reds, was announced by Roland Hemond, the Angels' farm and scouting director.

Harris, the father of three, will work the Southern California area under the direction of chief scout Rosey Gilhousen.

Harris is now the second colored on the Angels' pay roll in a non-playing position. The other one is Brad Pye Jr., a member of the club's public relations staff.

Ga. women's pin tourney integrated first time

ATLANTA — (ANP) —Two bowling teams from this city have been accepted for the Georgia state women's tournament. Up to now the tournament had not been integrated.

More than 1,100 women on 220 teams will compete. The colored teams have a total of 12 entries.

Miss Alice Scheaffer of Columbus, Ga., tournament secretary, said:

"WE ARE not going to have any trouble. Some of the players don't like it, but they will accept it."

She said the question of an integrated tourney had not come up before because there had never been any colored entries.

Tournament directors were bound by the rules of the Women's International Bowling Congress and could not refuse any entries on the basis of race, she explained.

JUMP AND JET — Hurdler Hayes Jones completed another noteworthy double last week. After winning 50 - yard hurdles title in Philadelphia Friday night, he leaped on jet and scurried to Los Angeles where he captured the 60 - yard race on Saturday. Victories were Jones' 24th and 25th in a row since 1959.

Carver edged for mat title

Previously unbeaten Carver narrowly missed nailing down her first Maryland Scholastic Association wrestling championship Thursday afternoon.

The Trainers, winners of the Division 2 title, dropped a one-point decision to Division 1 champion Mervo before a crowd that over-ran their 800-capacity gym. The final score was 17-16.

It was inevitable that not only one undefeated record would be marred, but two, and possibly three, were destined to end as the young rivals took to the mats.

* * *

BOTH CARVER and Mervo were unbeaten for the season going into the match. So were Carver's Milt Brown and Ron Nash, and Mervo's Phil Loverde, captain Joe Shanken and Willie Stone.

Brown and Stone were slated to meet in the 175-pound class and Nash and Shanken were listed as likely opponents in the 127-pound class bracket.

* * *

MERVO coaches shrewdly avoided the run-in with the classy Milt Brown by dropping Stone to the 165-pound division and forfeiting the 175-pound title.

Stone won, but Captain Shanken lost to Nash, with the former's win streak halted.

Summaries showed Mervo coming 5 matches to Carver's 3, and getting 2 draws.

Stars await Miss. meeting

He joins comedian Dick Gregory, light heavyweight champion Archie Moore, New York Yankee catcher Elston Howard and world heavyweight champion Floyd Patterson.

Patterson serves as co-chairman of the NAACP's Fight for Freedom Fund campaign, along with Robinson.

The Mississippi conference will be made up of NAACP delegates from Florida, Georgia, North and South Carolina and Tennessee.

McCollough says: 'I only served when they asked'

By CHUCK STONE

Elder Walter McCollough of the United House of Prayer for All People on the Rock of the Apostolic Faith told the Washington AFRO in a second exclusive interview this week he had only agreed to serve as Bishop of the church because "the people had insisted."

* * *

"Three times I was chosen," he declared. "Three times I tried to step down to give the church a chance to choose somebody else if they wished. Each time, they insisted I remain."

* * *

WITH A trace of sadness in his baritone voice, Elder McCollough said: "I only did what I thought God would want me to do. I was only obeying what I honestly believed were the wishes of Daddy Grace."

At the mention of Daddy Grace's name, Elder McCollough began to recall those 24 hours following Daddy's death on January 12, 1960.

* * *

"Daddy had summoned me to Los Angeles to discuss important business," said Elder McCollough. "But he passed before I arrived.

* * *

"EVERYBODY WAS upset, people were crying. Nobody seemed to know what to do. His sister asked me to take charge of funeral arrangements.

"I chose the casket, one of the most beautiful and most expensive ever made. I talked with the undertakers and made arrangements to ship Daddy's body to Charlotte, N.C. I had to check with the state laws, most of which said the casket had to be sealed.

"Then, I made the arrangements for Daddy's body to be accompanied by his nephew. Even when Daddy's body arrived at Charlotte, N.C. nobody did anything until I arrived," he said.

The confidence which Daddy Grace's relatives placed in Elder McCollough as temporary head of the Church was apparently shared by elders in Washington, D.C. who met immediately Tuesday evening, Jan. 12 when they learned of Daddy Grace's death and elected Elder McCollough temporary chairman of the Council of Bishops.

After the several state funeral was over, Elder McCollough sought to step down and give the church an opportunity to elect somebody else.

But the ruling council was adamant and elected Elder McCollough again as head of the church at a meeting in New Bedford, Mass., giving him the power of attorney to administer church affairs.

"There were many complications arising from the way in which Daddy's finances had been handled in the past few years and the U.S. government was trying to collect what they said were back taxes. It was a very difficult period," Elder McCollough observed.

* * *

ON FEBURARY 6, 1961, the General Assembly was convened and elected Elder McCollough Bishop of the United Church House of Prayer for All People. It is this particular election which has been challenged by a faction in the church claiming the election was not "constitutional" and that all of the churches were allegedly not notified in the constitutionally prescribed number of days.

Despite the uncertainty of the circumstances governing his election, Elder McCollough went right to work as the then "Bishop" of the church.

* * *

A new churr as built in Macon, Ga. A new building, The Marshall Heights Mission, in the District received physical improvements. New property was purchased in High Point, N.C. to renovate the church building in that city. Property was purchased in Greenville, S.C. to build a new church.

Hartford, Conn.'s church will soon be built on land bought for this purpose.

* * *

"THE CHURCH has a vast rebuilding job to do," says Elder McCollough, "but it can be done. People need God and want to do God's work. This church can help many hundreds of thousands of people do that," said the Elder.

Asked if he were worried about the outcome of the election which is expected to be held soon, Elder McCollough smiled and gently shrugged his shoulders: "It's in God's hands. Whatever His will is, it will be done. My faith will remain the same no matter what happens."

* * *

ARTICLE V of the Constitution and By-laws of the United House of Prayer for All People published in 1929 by C.M. Grace, Bishop, has two crucial sections which will govern the election soon to be held as ordered by the U.S. District Court.

"Section 1. There shall be held annually a General Assembly of this organization, which shall be composed of the Bishop, Ministers, and Representatives of not less than three, including ministers from each congregation of which General Assembly the Bishop shall be the chief presiding and executive officer.

0

"Section 3. Whenever a vacancy occurs in the office of Bishop, the General Assembly shall have power and authority to fill this vacancy from among the regular ministers of this organization of the same faith and order."

These are the two sections which determine who shall run one of America's most important religious institutions.

Few people are more concerned about the future of the United House of Prayer for All People than Elder Walter McCollough.

Medical secretary positions open at Johns Hopkins

Medical secretaries are now desperately needed at Johns Hopkins Hospital and other hospitals in the city, an assistant personnel manager of the Hopkins Hospital recently told a group of teenagers.

The manager, L. C. Detmer, said these and other positions are open for qualified high school and college - trained persons.

Mr. Detmer and other company representatives spoke at the monthly meeting of City - Wide Youth Forum held at the Madison Ave., YWCA.

* * *

THE OTHERS were George Fulton, Westinghouse Corp., and William Schwade, personnal manager of Johns Hopkins Hospital.

The representatives stressed the importance of teenagers continuing their education and getting as much of it as is possible.

As the population increases they said, more jobs will be created, and to fill them, qualified people will be needed.

Then as now, it was stressed, there will be no place for the person who says he can do anything.

Relatives wept to the Bentalou St. home where he lived alone and found Mr. Reddish in a coma on Thursday. He died the next day at University Hospital.
