On the Town

Are some policemen the biggest stumbling block to night club integration in Baltimore?

If so, how come?

If not, why does every operator who dares to "cross the lost boundary" constantly complain about the conduct of the men in blue?

How can many of Baltimore's finest explain invading the better entertainment centers, hats and all, while searching for alleged violations, but manage to overlook many obvious sins in spots of lesser repute?

Why do so many of the guardians of law and order choose bars and taverns to shelter them from the elements, superiors or something?

Should they accept samples while doing so?

WOULD THE payola collected by some badge wearers dwarf that involved in the recent disc jokey blowups, as one man about town has charged?

Is the night club business locally feeling the pinch of transition, economics — or home entertainment, or is it a combination of all three?

If so, is it (or they) here to stay, or just a passing fad?

Why has television become the favorite past time in most of the late watch houses around town?

Is there any truth to the rumor that a woman night club owner figured prominently in the Windsor Hills slaying, so that anonymous letter writer insists she did?

IS IT a fact that Eddie (Mad Man) Morrison and lovely Pat will see the preacher man in a few brights and darks?

Didja hear about the swell elegant job Sammy Jaye and the dashing Evelyn are doing for American?

Will Bamboo's Ted Carver start a trend among joy spot owners by raiding college campuses for pourers?

Will Charlie Tilghman be able to get his one-time house of class back into orbit?

Is he really serious when he says "I'm going to give it one more try"?

If he doesn't succeed, will he really "take drastic action?"

DID COLIN (Ki-Yi) Johnson, Maceo's main man, tire of bachelorhood when he took unto himself a lovely bride, the former Miss Margaret Jones of the L.O.T.S.?

Is there any doubt that the backers of that bunny club aren't still in there punching?

Will all the behind-the-scenes string pulling to get a site for Lenny Moore's proposed burger house go for naught when neighbors win their fight against rezoning the residential area for commercial purposes?

And finally ... why are

BEST BUYS:

Watch size, quality for most egg money

By VIRGINIA L. McLUCKIE
Food Economist

March is National Egg month.

Now is a good time to use eggs liberally. During March, egg production usually reaches peak levels, quality is high and prices attractive says, Virginia McLuckie, Food Economist, Baltimore office, University of Maryland, Department of Markets.

Eggs are a natural convenience food. They come in individual packages, designed and created by the hen. Actually, eggs can be heated and served in a matter of minutes. While eggs are favored as a breakfast food they are equally good in luncheon and dinner menus.

IF YOU WANT to get the most for you egg money, the size and quality of the eggs are important factors. Under the Maryland Egg Law, all eggs sold to retailers or to consumers must be candled for quality, with the grade and size classification indicated on the top of the container.

Read the label or the carton carefully as this is your only way of knowing the interior and exterior quality and size of eggs as they are offered for sale.

ALL GRADES do not have the same quality. Only Grade AA and Grade A can be labeled and sold as Fresh Eggs. When you break open a high quality fresh egg, it has a small air-cell at the large end of the egg.

The yolk is well centered, rounded and up standing. The white is thick and covers only a small area. The shells must be clean, free from stains and not cracked. These eggs are most desirable for poaching, frying and hard cooking. They can also be used for any purpose where eggs are called for in cooking.

EGG SHELLS have minute pores through which evaporation takes place and air passes through. When eggs have been kept for some time or at temperatures that are too high, some of the water evaporates causing the air cell to enlarge.

The white becomes thin and watery, the yolk flattens and moves off center and breaks easily. These are Grade B and Grade C eggs, suitable for scrambling or cooking where the shape is not important.

SIZE REFERS to weight per dozen and uniformity of size and weight of individual eggs. A good rule of thumb to follow is the "Eight cent" spread. When there is eight cents or more difference between the larger and next smaller size, the smaller size gives you more value for the cost. If the difference is less than eight cents select the larger size.

At present prices Grade A Large Size eggs are the best buys.

Best news is that Charlie Tilghman is back on the scene after a month's illness. Not really strong enough to work, but still trying to tackle some of the problems that confront the Sphinx Club.

The foremost problem is trying to maintain the normal steady flow of business and atmosphere that has always prevailed in the Club which new plans of operation are under consideration.

The prevailing conditions must be investigated to determine where the fault lies and the best course of action.

There have been suggestions and comments from quite a few of our members and friends. These have been duly noted and will play an important part in future operations.

Years of experience have taught us that we can operate only with a well organized staff: efficient and competent help. The first step in our reorganizing will be the securing of same. We have openings for Bar Attendants Doorman, Floorman, waiters and waitresses. Also for a kitchen assistant to help with service in the dining room. Apply at the office. Highest qualifications will be required.

The SPHINX will speak next week of personalities and happenings around the club.

Note: By special arrangement, we are now able to offer copies of the 15th Anniversary Book, "The Sphinx Club Story" for one dollar. Copies available at the club.

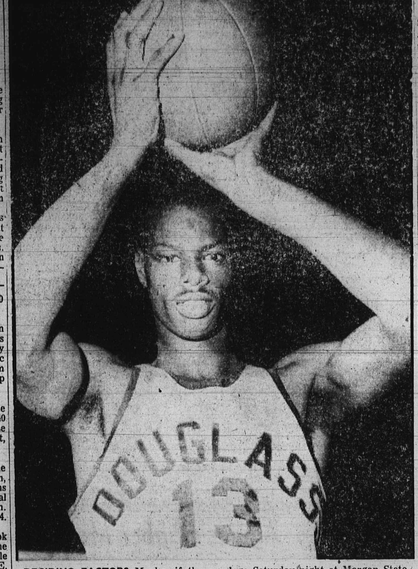
MEANWHILE, Cornish was tallying 28 points to pace City to a 50-40 triumph over Calvert Hall in the Division 1 playoff.

Douglass and City met once this season, and the Collegians took the decision by three points. This, however, was a non - conference



DECIDING FACTOR? Maybe, if the city's top schoolboy performer on the basketball court works out as usual in the opener of the best-of-three series between Douglass High and City College Saturday night at Morgan State College, at 8:30. Frank James, an all-around man on the courts, is Douglass's ace-in-the-hole.

IF THE Ducks can turn back the Black Knights, it will mark their first outright crown since they joined the MSA in 1957. A wrestling championship annexed last week, is shared between Douglass and Carver.

Douglass had one previous shot at the cage title. That occurred in 1950, when she met Dunbar in the playoffs. The Poets took the decision in two straight games — SAM LACY.

Time for study grows short for Korean vets

Many of the 140,000 Korean veterans, in night school or part-time training under the Korean GI Bill, should accelerate their training if they wish to complete all their courses before their GI benefits terminate, says F. E. Quinn, manager of the Veterans Administration Regional Office in Baltimore.

Under the law, a Korean veteran's termination date is eight years from the date of his discharge or release from active duty. In no event may he take GI training beyond Jan. 31, 1965.

'Foot-dragging' seen in civil rights fight

Jack Greenberg, chief legal counsel for the NAACP, labeled the present - day "foot - dragging, fraud and deception" to avoid desegregation "a white - collar crime."

This he compared to ten years ago when the fight for civil rights was a question of principals. Those principles are well understood, he said, "and no one with honor and pride today will say that segregation is right."

Mr. Greenberg addressed a gathering of Morgan State College students in the Student Union as part of the program built around the reading of "Goals for Americans".

He said the NAACP goals for the year will be to bring closer equal rights for all citizens, but warned against accepting "token" concessions, which might be thought sufficient.

PRAISING THE Freedom Riders, sit - ins, and other demonstrations of dissatisfaction with the status quo, the counseler said, "I think we have reached the point where students the legal activity to win equal rights may have been too successful, leading some people to believe that the law can do it all.

Community action is needed to push on and go into places where the law cannot enter, he said.

white - collar crime has got the youngsters fed up."

Mr. Greenberg told the

Focus on good living

In the expectation that a full understanding by owners and tenants of their respective responsibilities for rental property will result in better neighborhoods with higher standards of sanitation and maintenance, the AFRO presents a series of questions and answers under the title of Focus on Good Living.

QUESTION: A new neighbor has moved into a single family dwelling on your block. You have never been inside her house. Why would you say: "Mrs. A is a good housekeeper?"

ANSWER: The pavement in front of her house is freshly swept. The front steps are scrubbed. The slats of her Venetian blinds are unbroken and even. Her back yard is free of trash and litter. Her garbage can is covered with a tight - fitting lid, and no garbage has been spilled around it. The alley in back of the house looks as clean as the pavement in front. There is no sign of peeling paint.

QUESTION: Being a good neighbor, you call on Mrs. A. What would strengthen your impression that she is a good housekeeper?

ANSWER: The vestibule shows signs of regular washing and cleaning. The wallpaper is clean — there are no smudges, grease spots, or kindergarten art. The plaster is firm and free of cracks. The dishers are washed and put away. The only pot on the stove is the coffee pot.

The stove itself, is free of grease and food stains. All porcelain surfaces are white. The pattern of the linoleum floor covering is bright with cleanliness. The bathroom is neat and orderly, although there is a dripping snigot. A fleeting glance into the bedroom shows that all of the beds are made.

QUESTION: As Mrs. A rents, the condition of her house is the joint responsibility of her and the owner, Mr. X. O What makes her say: "Mr. X is a good landlord."

ANSWER: When he rented her the house it was in good condition, although it lacked the freshness of a new house and had developed certain defects over the years. He was frank in telling her just what these defects were, and made no false claims about the perfections of his property.

At the same time, he was able to assure her that the house was in safe and sanitary condition, as he had complied with the City's housing laws. He visits his property from time to time in order to check on the necessity of repairs. He discovered a minor leak in the roof on one of these visits and had it fixed before it became a major expense. He responds promptly to reasonable request for repairs.

QUESTION: Are the housing laws binding on tenant and owner?

ANSWER: Yes. The Mayor and City Council have made certain laws relating to the conditions under which people live. The purpose of these laws is to guard the people of Baltimore against sickness, accident, and fire and to create pleasant, healthy neighborhoods. These laws apply to Mrs. A, the tenant, and to Mr. X, the owner. The person who breaks these laws can be brought before the Housing Court, which has the power to impose fines and sentences.

QUESTION: Why does Mrs. A care so much about being a good housekeeper?

ANSWER: Because she knows that she is strengthening family ties by giving her husband and children the kind of home in which they can take pride and pleasure.

Ford upgrades 2 at Georgia plant

ATLANTA — Two employees were upgraded last week at the Ford Motor assembly plant in Hapeville in a move by United Auto Workers Union Local 882 to secure more and better positions for colored workers.

Upgraded were Isaiah McIver and Ben Moore. Also desegregated were eating facilities and rest rooms. The men were promoted from cleaning jobs to the assembly line.
