ferent posts withdrew from one or the other.

Results: 1.) Senator Paul A. Dorf, Pollack candidate, is now unopposed in the Democratic primary. 2) Candidates of both factions have been united on a common slate for the House of Delegates.

This means that any independent Democratic candidates remaining in the race for the House of Delegates will have to battle the combined resources of both factions, to win.

MRS. Victorine Q. Adams, long a leader of political women's groups, and Earl K. Koger Sr., insurance executive, are two such candidates.

Mr. Koger has informed the AFRO that his intention was to withdraw from the race on Monday, but that he was unable to get downtown by the deadline.

He also is urging all his supporters to back Mrs. Adams who is remaining in the race.

Mrs. Adams, it had been revealed previously, was strongly considered at one time for a place on the Goodman-Kovens Ticket.

ALMOST 30 percent of the registered voters in the Fifth District are colored.

A colored candidate on this ticket was being considered to draw this colored vote in the fight against the Pollack faction.

Now, the marriage of convenience between these two factions, leaves no vulnerable opposition, the reasoning now is they don't need the colored vote in this district, to the extent of carrying a colored candidate.

If Mrs. Adams or any other Independent Democratic candidate for a House seat is to get the Democratic nomination, it will come through just what independent support they can muster.

There again is a picture of two political factions banding together for their own interests, rather, than those of the district.

UP IN THE Fourth District the political situation is even more distasteful.

Readers of the past Tuesday's AFRO, will recall an exclusive expose of the make - shift slate of candidates filed to block any effective Republican opposition in the November General election.

The Fourth District is the political stronghold of the Democratic Pollack faction.

Here again, briefly, is what has occurred in this district.

A full slate of Republican candidates was reportedly filed at 11:48 p.m. March 5 at the Supervisors of Elections Office.

This means that the Republican City Committee which might have appointed a formidable candidates for these posts, is now blocked from doing so.

With unknown candidate on the opposing GOP slate, the Democrats are in free at the November General election.

With the Fifth District situation now in hand, the Pollack faction can turn whatever guns it needs on behalf of its candidates in the Fourth District Democratic primary.

In the Fourth district two independent state senate candidates have remained in the primary race fighting each other, rather than combining forces to fight the Pollack faction senatorial incumbent.

Result is that the chances for primary victory for either is almost nil.

So the questions arise of what to do.

WHAT IF anything can be done to offset this factional maneuvering? Unshackled clear-thinking people of the Fifth District now faced with little choice of their own candidates should file a state senate candidate of their own.

This can be done by petition of 1,500 signatures of such registered voters in the district and filed at the Supervisors of Elections Office 15 days before the May 15 Primary.

They should then band together behind a slate of independent candidates such as Mrs. Adams.

IN THE Fourth District, there is still that pesky situation of the two independent organizations fighting each other.

What to do here is simple.

One of the state senate candidates should have the fortitude and bigness of interest for the welfare of the district to throw support behind the other.

Although the withdrawal date is past, one candidate still may shift his support and campaign for the other.

The whole point here is that politics is big business, operated quite often by devious methods.

Political know - how is something may of us must learn fast.

And with it must come a willingness to take the initiative in political operations and not sit back and wait for the opposition's blows.

Sometimes, as of now, such strikes can be hurting things.

candidate with a score of 85 or above.

Heading the list of eligible colored officers is Sgt. Mello, who scored 92.203 on the February examination.

He ranked 47th among the 171 sergeants taking the test. Sgt. Butler's 88.244 was good enough for 112th place.

They are followed by St. Rudolph C. R. Wilkins who scored 87.237 and ranked 121st.

Since the list of eligibles was cut to 151, each of the three moved up 20 notches on the roster.

a city public accommodations bill.

It said it favored a statewide bill but was against any measure of a local nature.

The Fourth District councilman reaffirmed an earlier statement that he would vote against his own bill if Councilman Henry R. Hergenroeder (D., 3rd) succeeds in an amendment exempting all places with liquor licenses.

COMMENTING on the proposed Hergenroeder amendment to the bill now before the City Council that would exempt places with liquor, Councilman Dixon declared:

"I am very much dissatisfied with it, very disappointed with his thinking.

"I would rather hope the council would turn down his amendment if he enters it.

"I thought I had gone the other mile in concessions; I have no other cheek to turn."

Mr. Dixon said he felt certain at this time of eight votes for the measure.

These would be himself, City Council President Phil Goodman, Maxwell Alpert and Maurice J. Sopher of the Fourth District; Jacob J. Edelman, Solomon Lass, Leon A. Rubenstein, William D. Schaefer of the Fifth.

This leaves three needed and Mr. Dixon said he is hopeful of votes from Anthony F. DiDomenico, Clement J. Prucha and C. Lyman Schueler of the Second.

of $2,000. She tried to discourage him and nearly succeeded but Pegues finally withdrew $1,000 after telling her that his brother had died down South, at the prompting of the stranger.

THE TWO MEN went to an automobile where another man waited. There the second stranger offered to place Pegues' money, along with the $3,000 held by the Jamaican, in a handkerchief to be re-deposit in the bank, Eldridge said.

Pegues took the handkerchief and was returning to the bank to re-deposit the money but upon opening the handkerchief, he found it contained paper.

Detectives Eldridge and Kent said the suspects were part of an operation extending through Baltimore, Newark and New York.

happened walked calmly to the door.

Mrs. Greene said her son had been moody for several weeks.

James Wade, manager of a nightclub and tavern located at the intersection of the streets, said he has known the suspect all his life.

He was once employed at the club, Mr. Wade said, and was scheduled to return soon. Mr. Wade continued:

"It was the most shocking thing I have ever witnessed in all my life. He came to the back of the place and called me. I'm going back to the house and wait for the police and ambulance," Mr. Wade quoted Green as saying.

Mr. Wade said he also knew Mrs. Dorsey and had no indication that the couple was having difficulty.

RELATIVES OF the suspect were permitted to talk to him several hours after he was taken into custody. After the meeting, two sisters, Mesdames Irene Goins and Mae Hall, made a tearful exit from the police station.

A reporter asked them if their brother had given them any idea as to what triggered the tragedy.

"He said he doesn't remember anything," Mrs. Goins replied. "The only thing he says he remembers is giving the pistol to police."

The suspect has lived with his mother since he and his wife separated, relatives told the AFRO.

No trial date has been set and funeral arrangements were incomplete at press time.

Brenda Satterfield, 2812 Ullman Ave.

To date, Miss Satterfield has been the only candidate to issue a campaign statement, to invite publicity and to reveal her platform.

Miss Satterfield, who has disassociated herself from the other candidates, said she decided to file because no other Republican had entered the race in the fourth.

She said she did not know the other candidates, but had sent each of them a letter.

There had been no answers up until late Thursday.

THE OTHER candidates are listed as:

Raleigh Jones, 2309 Orem Ave., for the State Senate. Mrs. Dorothy Austin, 1423 Druid Hill Ave.; Joseph Drumwright, 1711 Gwynns Falls Parkway; Mrs. Prodgell Green, 3510 Woodbrook Ave.; Glenn W. Hilbert, 2024 Ridgehill Ave.; King Ross, 3454 Reisterstown Rd., and Thomas Jackson, 1423 Druid Hill Ave.

The petitions of Mr. Jones, Mrs. Austin, Mr. Drumwright, Mrs. Green, and Mrs. Ross, were notarized by an Ernest Young, according to the records of the Board of Election Supervisors.

Of these candidates, the AFRO has been able to reach five.

THE LATEST two persons contacted were Mr. Drumwright and Mr. Ross.

Mr. Drumwright, who identified himself as a drydock worker, did not enunciate any platform but told the reporter "You will find my papers downtown".

He said he has sought a City Council seat some four years ago and asked the reporter, "why didn't you try to reach me then?"

Mr. Ross listed his occupation as a porter and said he was employed at a downtown dress shop.

He too had not platform to reveal, and said he had not worked out any campaign plans.

Of the other candidates interviewed earlier, Mrs. Green is a widow with six children. Mr. Hilbert is an engineer at a dairy, and Mr. Jefferson is a drydock worker.

None of them offered any platform or gave any indication of the type of race they intend to run.

AFRO VISITORS — Fourth graders from School 100, Mount and Saratoga Sts., recently toured the AFRO plant at 628 N. Eutaw St. Members of the class were escorted by their teacher, Mrs. Carol M. Taylor. Next to teacher, rear right, is AFRO's Mrs. Mary Page. Pupils making the trip were Jasmin Wilkins, Gladys Pleasant, Rosa Jackson, Karen Bryant, Janet Wilson, Brenda Mack, Linda Johnson, Mercy Hall, Stephanie Green, Lilly Elton, Margaret Campbell, Delores Shuron, Claudette Goods, Sheryl Langley, Margaret White, Anne McCaffety, Mary Henry, Terry Baker, Larry Burrus, Leon Coleman, Pharon Bullock, Guy Cager, William Jackson, John Gerring, Carroll Sorrell, Louis Worrell, Joseph McFadden, Albert Moseley, Melton Kelly, Richard Bowen, Tyronie Burrell, James Brown, John Johnson and Rodney Harris.

Interfaith group asks for equal rights bill

The clergymen's Interfaith Committee for Human Rights issued a statement this week expressing regret at the failure of equal accommodations legislation and calling for the Baltimore City and County Councils to speed the passage of such legislation.

The ministers applauded the suggestion of Mayor Grady to make such a move, and stated its successful passage "would tend to allay the fears which recently led to the defeat of state - wide legislation."

The statement follows:

"THE CLERGYMEN'S Interfaith Committee for Human Rights, representing some 200 protestant ministers, Catholic priest and Jewish Rabbis of the greater Baltimore area, deeply regrets the failure of the Maryland Legislature to pass any equal accommodations legislation. We feel that a magnificent opportunity to remove a spiritual blight from our total community has been lost as we have failed to establish the legitimate rights of all citizens under the majesty of the law.

"Failing the passage of state - wide legislation we earnestly hope that effective equal accommodations laws in the greater metropolitan area comprising the City of Baltimore, and its suburban districts will now be favorably considered by the Baltimore City and County.

"We applaud the suggestion by Mayor Grady that Baltimore County undertake concurrent legislation to this end with the Baltimore City and County Councils.

"Such legislation would be a step toward the elimination of discrimination throughout the state. The successful exercise of equal accommodation practices within this limited portion of the state would tend to allay the fears which recently led to the defeat of state - wide legislation.

"Since no greater moral issue stands before our community and the world we ask legislators to act with courage and statesmanship as they accord the rights which under God we must all claim."
