—The fastest gun

after two hold-up men entered the bank posing as customers.

While the taller of the two walked into the manager's office on the pretense of applying for a loan, the second bandit stationed himself near the front door.

After telling the manager, William J. Shelley what he wanted, the tall bandit suddenly pulled out a small gun and declared, "This is a hold-up."

The gunman forced Mr. Shelley into the office of Mrs. Bernadine Ingle, an assistant manager who was in conference with a clerk, and then ordered all three out into the counter area.

Nine other employees (six women and three men) were ordered to stop work and were herded into a corner.

The tall bandit then proceeded to move along the counter scooping money into a laundry bag.

Unknown to either bandit, Mrs. Ingle set off a silent burglar alarm.

PATROLMAN TILGHMAN, who was nearby in a traffic cruiser, heard the hold-up alarm over his police car radio.

After having been warned by the customers, Tilghman spotted the short bandit and ordered him to surrender. The gunman dropped his weapon.

The young officer used the man as a shield and ordered the second bandit to come from behind the counter. Instead of surrendering the No. 1 bandit leaped across the counter Tilghman fired two shots (One went into the ceiling, the second through a window) before the gunman yelled 'OK, I give up," and threw his automatic behind the counter.

The officers had ordered the bandits to face the wall with their arms raised when Lt. Bernard J. Deinlein arrived to assist him.

The two men were taken to the Western District station for interrogation. There police learned that both resided within walking distance of the bank.

The tall bank bandit gave his name as Ulysses S. Grant, 22, 1900 block Division St.

The other man was identified as James Jackson, 24, 1700 block McCulloh St. Bail for Grant was set at $23,500, and for Jackson at $21,000.

AS A result of having foiled the year's biggest bank robbery attempt, commendations are coming at the young hero from all directions.

First he was congratulated by Capt. Wade H. Poole, commanding officer of the Western District.

This was followed by a commendation ceremony in the office of Police Commissioner Bernard J. Schmidt Tuesday morning.

The Commissioner told Patrolman Tilghman: "Your action at the bank hold-up was in the finest tradition of the Baltimore police force.

"Your act was done at great personal hazard and you rendered the maximum public service at the same time. I hope you keep up the good work."

Among those present at the special ceremony were Chief Inspector George J. Murphy, Inspector Thomas J. Keyes and Capt. James L. Lyston of the motorcycle patrol.

The bank announced that it was giving Tilghman a citation, and his family a color television set.

All the quiet officer would say about Tuesday, March 20, 1962 was: "It was some day."

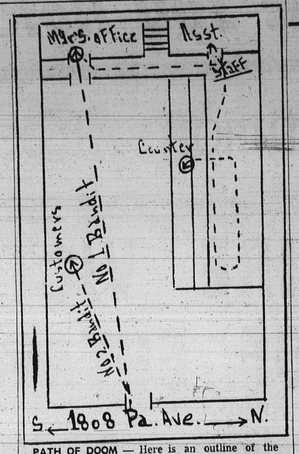
PATROLMAN TILGHMAN graduated from Carver High School in February 1953.

He has been a member of the Police Department for five years, and was appointed to the motorcycle duty nine months ago.

He resides at 851 N. Bentalou St. with his wife Mrs. Elaine Tilghman and their two daughters, ages five and six.



PATH OF DOOM — Here is an outline of the Maryland National Bank and the path taken by two bandits. Through the Pennsylvania Ave. entrance, bandit No. 2 entered and mingled with the customers at left. Bandit No. 1 forced the manager and an assistant from their offices, herded all employees into the area marked staff, and then proceeded to ransack cash drawers at counter. When Patrolman Tilghman entered bandit No. 1 mounted the counter

REGISTRATION AT these locations will be conducted from 4 p.m. to 9 p.m.

On April 5, supplemental registration will be held at the Chick Webb Center, 623 N. Eden St.

On April 10, the mobile unit will move to the Cherry Hill Community Hall, 27 Spelman Rd.

Another mobile registration will also be held at School No. 22, Hamburg and Scott Sts. on that date.

Hours for registration at these three places will be from 4 p.m. to 9 p.m.

THE NAACP, in telegrams this week to Mayor J. Harold Grady and Thomas D'Alesandro 3rd., president, Board of Supervisors of Elections, expressed appreciation for the scheduled mobile registration in Cherry Hill and at the Chick Webb Center.

Dr. Lillie M. Jackson, NAACP president asked however, that mobile registration be set up either at the Lafayette Market on Pennsylvania Ave., or at School No. 120, Pennsylvania Ave. and Robert St.

The 112,381 colored citizens now registered represent an increase of 4,026 over the 108,355 registered as of last May 31.

This all-time high registration is an increase of 6,075 new colored voters in the city since the Nov. 1960 general election, when 106,306 were eligible to vote.

The NAACP's request for a mobile registration date at Lafayette Market recalls kins, president of Morgan State College, Baltimore; Dr. Frank M. Snowden, Jr., dean of liberal arts at Howard University, and a dozen Congressmen.

that a one-day registration at that location in Sept. 1960 brought 816 new voters on the books.

HOWEVER, THE highest registration on a single day was during the same month prior to the close of registration for the general election, when 3,922 new voters, 1,695 of them colored, were added to the books.

Registration was conducted then at the downtown War Memorial Building.

It was during this same year that the NAACP's registration campaign topped its goal of 105,000 colored voters in the city.

The campaign began on July 8, 1960, when there were 85,999 colored citizens registered.

The final tally given at the close of registration on Sept. 26 was 109,245 eligible voters.

Supervisors of Elections officials however later came up with a figure of 106,306 citizens registered.

She said that the conference will be held in the Statler - Hilton in Washington.

—The newest lieutenant

Butler used the word "absolutely" when asked was he happy with his new appointment.

The story of the new lieutenant really began some 24 years ago when, he, Milton Gardner, Harry Scott, and Mrs. Violet Hill Whyte, were appointed to the force.

They were the first colored persons on the force, and the mere fact that they were hired was big news at that time.

Two of those first police officers, Mrs. Whyte and Scott, are now sergeants.

A TALL erect man, with sharp piercing eyes, and hair mixed well with gray, the 53 - year-old officer, has received 17 commendations during this career.

"I guess the gang that we caught that was responsible for $60 - 70,000 of auto thefts and burglaries in Northwest Baltimore, was my most memorable experience," he said.

"It happened in 1942 when a gang of ten boys, 18-23 years old, ran roughshod, looting taverns of liquor, and vanishing before the police got there in "nothing but the best of cars," he said.

Lt. Butler admits he knew them all, and they knew him, too.

They flouted him with the knowledge of the robberies, but said he would never catch them.

The tip that broke the case came while Butler was attending a football game. He was told by a "person" he met there, where the gang was making its headquarters.

After observing them going in and out for several nights, Butler and another patrolmen moved in and caught them napping.

I took but two days to round up the entire gang.

They were tried and sentenced to 12 years each in the state penitentiary.

All are out now, and Lieutenant Butler says they are some of his best friends.

Butler was promoted to sergeant in 1947.

Never admitting discouragement, or defeat, even though he saw others promoted over him, he continued to do his job, believing someday his day would come.

He gives credit for his appointment to Commissioner Schmidt who took office last fall.

Lieutenant Butler pointed to the recent appointment of a colored policeman to the traffic division "as just a beginning."

He was as equally generous with his praise of Chief Inspector George J. Murphy.

Thanks also went to the NAACP and to the AFRO-AMERICAN Newspapers, who Lt. Butler said fought for him in every way possible.

A GRADUATE of Morgan State College, Mr. Butler also studied at Temple University.

He worked his way through school as a successful interior and exterior home decorator.

His wife, Beatrice, is head of the commerce department at Douglass High School. They live at 3413 Ellamont St.

DET. SGT. Dennis P. Mello, a veteran of 18 years service with the force, is also eligible for promotion to lieutenant.

The crack investigator of the state's attorney's investigative bureau, Sgt. Mello issued this statement on learning of the promotion:

"I'm am delighted to hear of Jim's good fortune on being promoted to Lieutenant.

"This unprecedented action on the part of Commissioner Schmidt should encourage all of us in our efforts to become better police officers and increase our value to the community."

Sergeant Mello, standing 27th on the list of 151 officers eligible to be upgraded to lieutenant, has gained wide recognition for cracking real estate and home improvement rackets, in addition to lottery conspiracies referred to the office for special investigation.

Others promoted to lieutenant this week were: Sgt. David T. Ralston, Sgt. Joseph E. Judd, Sgt. Leo F. Duffy.

Promoted from patrolmen to sargeant were: Raymond Brill, Raymond Radcliffe, Henry A. Becker, Joseph S. Wagner, Joseph Hopkins, Daniel L. Peterson, Carroll R. Lowman, and Francis A. Earhardt.

Scull out GOP governor race; ask rights law

"I withdrew from the gubernatorial campaign, as a result of a poll of our State leaders.

"The poll, which was a State Convention in miniature, convinced me that I did not have the necessary support to win under our unit-vote system."

David Scull, of Silver Spring, gave this reason this week for withdrawing from the Republican race for the governorship nomination.

And along with the withdrawal statement, Mr. Scull issued this advice to members of his party:

"LET IT never be said that the party of Lincoln failed the colored citizen in his struggle for social justice.

"Let us remember that more than property rights are at issue in public accommodations legislation, and that to close the door on a man because of his color rather than because of his behavior is to deny him the right to be respected, and the ability to retain his self respect.

"This is an injustice that cries for relief, and it certainly seems to me that Lincoln's party should lend a helping hand.

"If we move in this direction, I believe that we will fire the enthusiasm of Maryland voters, and that our party will enter into a new and vital phase that could have national significance."

'I feel satisfied,' says retired postal employer

"I feel satisfied."

This was the reaction of Leigh A. Allen, 64, on his retirement from the Catonsville Post Office after "31 years, 10 months and two days" service.

Mr. Allen, who lives at 122 Winters Ave. in Catonsville, was given a Hamilton wrist watch by his co-workers Saturday. The watch was presented by Elmer Young, former superintendent of the Catonsville Post Office, who himself came off retirement to make the presentation.

Mr. Allen was employd as a fireman at the postal station.

Looking back over his working years, he indicated that he has few regrets.

"I set the standards, the goal I wanted to achieve, and I thank the Lord that I was able to meet them," he said.

HE HAS been able to raise his 11 children "and educate them to meet the requirements of the day," buy a home, and retire on a comfortable pension, he

Mr. Allen's gratification is partly because of the fact that he has actually retired from two jobs. For 18 years he had also been employed —until November of 1961 — by a cotton mill near Catonsville. Explaining that he had retired because of failing health, he said "If it wasn't my health, I guess I would still be working."

"But I guess I've done about as much as a man can do. I think I'll just take it easy now," he added.

In addition to giving closer attention to his favorite sport, baseball, doing a few things around the house that his wife, Agnes, wants done, Mr. Allen said he also will enjoy having more time to play his tuba.

He used to play with the Elks Band, Post 355, he said. But now he plays merely for personal pleasure.

HE IS also looking forward to visiting his children, seven sons and three daughters, all except one who live in Baltimore City and Baltimore County.

The Rev. George R. Allen, a Methodist Episcopal minister, pastors a church near Frederick and the Rev. Donald Allen, an AME minister, is pastor of a church in Conowingo, Md.

Mrs. Elvir Gosnell, of Catonsville is a teacher in Baltimore County and Mrs. Eleanor, also of Catonsville, is a substitute teacher in the Baltimore County School system.

Another son, Thurman, is a city transit bus driver in Detroit, Mich.

Other of Mr. Allen's children who will be receiving visits from him in the near future are Mrs. Agnes Carrington, of 2522 Harlem Ave., Mrs. Mary Lopez of Catonsville; Charles and Leigh Jr., also of Catonsville.

Mr. and Mrs. Allen are members of the Mt. Olive Methodist Church in Catonsville.

Agreement reached on Dixon bill

An agreement limiting the public accommodations bill to hotels and restaurants was reached early this week.

Following a conference in the Mayor's office Councilman Walter T. Dixon (D.-Fourth) announced that he is willing to exclude amusement parks, bowling alleys and barber shops from his bill.

In its original form, the Dixon bill called for full public accommodations in the places mentioned above.

The bill in its new form is similar to the one defeated in the General Assembly earlier this month.

THE ANNOUNCEMENT limiting the bill was made following a conference between Councilman Dixon, Mayor Grady and Councilman Leon A. Rubenstein (D., Fourth).

The City Council's Judiciary Committee will hold a public hearing on the bill on March 27 at 2 p.m.

The Dixon bill has the support of the Mayor, but is opposed by the Maryland Restaurant Association.

Randall estate includes car, property, cash

William R. Randall, who lost his life when his liquor store was held up on March 3 left an estate of $12,060.75, according to an inventory filed in Orphans Court, Saturday.

The inventory was filed by Nathan R. Johnson named executor by Mr. Randall in a will.

The document listed an automobile, appraised at $200; property at 1631 N. Payson St., $5000; cash in the house, $2,239.52; and cash in a bank, $4,621.23.

Under his will the estate will go jointly to his wife, Mrs. Jeanette Randall of 4705 Midwood St.; his daughter, Miss Jeanne Randall of the same address, and his son, William H. Randall Jr. of Woodbine, Md.

Banda raps reports of school maneuver

ZOMBA, Nyasaland — Dr. Hastings Banda, Minister of Local Government has denied a report that he plans to take over all mission schools in Nyasaland.

He explained: "I said we were going to control education through district councils. There is a difference between control and taking over."

Morristown Choir plans full week of concerts

The choir of Morristown College, Morristown, Tenn., David Dobson, director, has planned a one-week schedule of concerts in the churches of Baltimore and Washington the week of April 1.

On Sunday, April 1, the group will appear at Sharp Street Methodist Church, at 11 a.m., and will give a concert at the St. Marks Institutional Baptist Church at 5 p.m.

The choir plans a visit at Fort Meade on Monday, April 2.

Tuesday, April 3, a concert will be given at the Emmanuel Christian Community Church; Wednesday, at the Douglas Memorial Community Church; Thursday evening, they will be guests of Baltimore's Great Hymns Choir at dinner and at the latter choir's rehearsal at the Sharp Street Methodist Church.

The tour will end with four Washington engagements.

Special features of the tour will be visits at the AFRO-AMERICAN Newspapers plant on Thursday, April 5, and a tour of the campus of Morgan State College.

Mayor J. Harold Grady will welcome the group to the city of Baltimore in his office during their stay in the Maryland metropolis.
