MOMENTS MUSICAL

Miss Grant wins first place in Omega talent show

By ADAH F. JENKINS

Attracting one of the largest audiences in the history of the Talent Hunt, Pi Omega Chapter of Omega Psi Phi Fraternity held its ninth contest at Carver Veational High School.

To this listener there is something rare in a program by talented youth of today. They seem to know a "new day is dawning" and they are rising to meet it with high courage and confidence.

Almost without exception the 15 young musicians exhibited careful and studious preparation. There was a decided improvement in the type of music as well as the performance as compared with those heard in previous Talent Hunts.

The participation of three wind players made a welcome addition to what has been largely a program of vocal and piano music.

• • •

TOP PLACE was won by Edwina Grant, soprano, who gave a moving interpretation of "All That Gold," the Mother's aria from the opera "Amahl and the Night Visitors."

Ronald Phillips, flutist, placed second with a beautifully phrased "Dance of the Blessed Spirit" (Gluck). Third honors were awarded Julius Tighman, who played with outstanding technique Katchaturian's "Toccata" for the piano.

The honor soloists received handsome trophies and each awards of $100 and $50 bonds. Miss Grant will represent Pi Omega at the fraternity's regional contest in Jamaica, N.Y. Expenses for the soloist and her chaperone are furnished by the chapter.

The top awards and certificates for each contestant were awarded on the stage by Martin Roberts Jr., chairman of the Talent Hunt Committee. All of the entrees were of high school or freshman college standing.

• • •

VERA ROBERTS, a teenage soprano with the queenly bearing of a young adult and a remarkable natural voice, was impressive in the difficult art song, "Mountains." Having had no training other than coaching by her accompanist, Mrs. Georgamma Chester, she offers a splendid opportunity for some member - group of the Hellenic Council to offer scholarship assistance.

A high degree of dramatic ability was displayed by Alvin Richardson, baritone, in "I've Got Plenty of Nothin'" from the opera "Porgy and Bess." He has an expansive voice, which, with continued training, should develop the necessary contrasts and shading.

In the instrumental area Wallace Hayes exhibited highly promising technique on the trumpet and Cortez Jones on the cornet. Personality appeal was Angalee Claton's forte, altho her lyric soprano is pleasing. One might have reservations about the too obvious tremulo in the tones.

William Harris, bass - baritone and Joseph Lane Jr., were well - received in two well known songs from popular musicals.

Further experience in projecting a song, vocally and emotionally, will add to the gifts of Carol Tilghmann, who opened the contest with a Puccini aria as well as to those of Naomi Henson and Carol Winstead.

• • •

ASSISTING skillfully as accompanist for those performers who did not supply their own pianist, was William Grieggsby, of the local public scrool music department.

Witty Earl Hagen, basileus of the Pi Omega Chapter, kept the program moving briskly as emcee. Judges for the contest were Earl Anderson, chairman of the department of music at City College; Spencer Hammond, minister of music at Douglass Memorial Community Church, and your writer.

During the intermissions Coppin State Teachers College Dancers with Jerlyn Manual as choreographer, entertained with two modern offerings.

• • •

TO HEAR a top - notch ensemble like the New York Brass Quintet is a revelation.

For the concert at the Museum which was sponsored by the Baltimore Chamber Music Society, the New Yorkers gave the first local performance of Malcolm Arnold's Quintet, Opus 70.

Like many contemporary composers he shows the influence of jazz harmonies and rhythms. The trumpet duet in the first movement was particularly rewarding. An arresting contrast was furnished by the slow and somber tread of the second movement, played mostly in unison.

Like the Sonatine for Brasses, by Eugene Bozza, another contemporary writer the modern works made heavy technical demands upon the players, which the ensemble met with brilliance.

Randolph Rothschild, president of the Society, announced the final concert for April 8 with the Claremont String Quartet.

• • •

TUESDAY and Wednesday April 3 and 4 at 8:30 p.m. at the Lyric, the Morgan State Collge Choir with the Baltimore Symphony, conducted by Peter Adler in Beethoven's opera "Fidello."

• • •

CALENDAR: Sunday, April 8 at 4 p.m. in the auditorium of the Baltimore Museum of Arc, the Claremont String Quartet, in the final concert of the current season sponsored by the Chamber Music Society of Baltimore. The program will include quartets by Haydn von Webern, Me Powell and Schumann.

Sunday, April 8 at 8 p.m. at Mt. Pisgah CME Church, Fulton and Riggs Aves. Delaware State College Choir will be the guests of the Spiritual Revival Gospel Singers of the church.

Tuesday, April 10 at 8:30 p.m. "Pro Musica Rara," featuring a consort of recorders, will be the closing concert of the current series presened by Mt. Vernon Place Methodist Church.

Palm Sunday, April 15 at 5 p.m. in the sanctuary of Knox Presbyterian Church, Broadway and Gay St., The church choir will sing "Saint Cecelia Mass" by Gounod, with the Rev. Julius Carroll and his choir of Randall Memorial Methodist Church, Washington, D.C. Mercedes Douglas, minister of music at Knox will conduct, with Elizabeth Day, organist, and Audrey Cyrus McCallum, pianist. There is no admission charge.

Sunday, April 29 at 4 p.m. at the Gospel Tabernacle, Rosedale and Walbrook Ave., the Piano Teachers Activity Group will sponsor a piano workshop.

CORRECTION — In last week's column, a headline gave the impression that pupils from School No. 139 attended a concert by the Baltimore Sympathy Orchestra, with Arthur Rubinstein, piano soloist. Actually, not pupils but faculty members attended. The AFRO regrets the error.
