Matt Henson approved for new school name

The Board of School Commissioners voted Thursday to name the new elementary school to be built at Payson and Baker Sts., for Matthew A. Henson.

Mr. Henson was co - discoverer with Admiral Robert E. Peary of the North Pole in 1909. Today, April 6, marks the 53rd anniversary of the discovery.

With the approval of Governor Tawes, a plaque in tribute to Mr. Henson was placed in the old wing of the State capitol building in Annapolis this year.

Ready in 1964, the new school will cost $1,800,000, and will relieve overcrowding at Elementary School No. 142, Walbrook Ave. and Smallwood St.

• • •

IN OTHER action, the board approved the name of Mary E. Rodman Elementary School for the new school to be built at Mulberry, Grantley, Franklin and Allendale Sts.

The name will be transferred from the school located at Poplar Grove St., between Lanvale and Lafayete Aves.

• • •

Mrs. Mary Taylor Rodman was one of the first women teachers in Baltimore schools.

Known affectionately as "Miss Molly", Mrs. Rodman was a member of the first class to finish what was then called the Colored High School in 1889. She began teaching the same year.

At her retirement in 1933, she had served a total of 44 years as teacher and principal, a first, at the Druid Hill Ave., Carrollton and Riggs, and Carey St. Schools.

Mrs. Rodman was known as an outstanding administrator and executive, who was held in high esteem by her colleagues and fellow principals.

She was also active in numerous civic groups.

She was poet and author. She wrote a book of 50 poems, and published stories for children.

Born April 3, 1873, she died Nov. 15, 1937. Her only close relative is State Senator J. Alvin Jones, a nephew.

Potatoes, a man's dish, styled to suit each member of family

"Potatoes at a men's luncheon?" echoed the banquet manager of one of New York's very largest hotels.

"Men are very disappointed if the plate put before them doesn't show potatoes in some form!" At a second famous hotel the director of foods and beverages stated firmly: "The healthy American man who eats at he likes is sure to ask for potatoes."

"We have a hundred different ways of doing potatoes," explained a third. "Not all these potato dishes are suitable for service at very large luncheons because they are a bit too complicated or must be prepared the last minute, but in general the potato is very important in the menu of the hotel dining room."

• • •

THE POTATO is a good mixer. Its mealy blandness contrasts appetizingly with browned meats and other vegetables from Asparagus to Zucchini.

Potatoes have a wealth of nutrients and it is possible to stay healthy for months on potatoes alone plus a small amount of fat. But because it has a negligible amount of fat — one part in a thousand — it isn't "rich."

This is why its caloric value is surprisingly low, only 97 per medium baked potato. This is why, also, it teams so wonderfully with lots of butter or a well of good brothy gravy . . . for those who don't watch calories.

There is almost no end to the savory concoctions which can be made, starting with a potato. Following are some new recipes for potato main dishes. They are flavorful and they are thrifty. All are calculated to appeal to the man of the family.

• • •

POTATOES A L'ECHIRLETE requires — one and three - fourths lb. (about 16) one and one - half inch potatoes, one cup boiling chicken or beef stock or one chicken or beef bouillon cube and one cup boiling water, one clove garlic, one and one-half teaspoon salt, two tablespoons chicken, duck, goose or pork fat, one - eighth teaspoon ground black pepper, and chopped fresh parsley.

Peel potatoes and place in a saucepan with stock or bouillon cube, water, garlic and salt. Cover and cook 25 minutes or until potatoes are tender. If all liquid is not absorbed, remove cover and cook until potatoes are dry. Add fat and black pepper.

Cook slowly until potatoes have lightly browned. Garnish with chopped fresh parsley. Serve with roast pork, beef, veal or lamb.

Yied: eight servings.

FOR SLICED POTATO and Cheese Casserole use six medium potatoes, boiling water to cover potatoes, one cup diced green pepper, one cup grated sharp Cheddar cheese, one and one - half teaspoon salt, one - fourth teaspoon ground black pepper, three tablespoons bacon drippings, and six slices crisp bacon.

Wash potatoes and place, unpeeled, in saucepan with boiling water to cover them. Cook, covered, until about half done, 20 minutes. Peel them while still hot and slice as thinly as possible without breaking.

Fill a buttered one and one-half quart casserole with alternate layers of potato slices, green pepper and cheese, sprinkling each layer of potatoes with salt and black pepper. Pour bacon drippings over the top.

Bake in a preheated moderate oven (350 degrees F.) 35 minutes or until potatoes are tender and cheese has browned. Serve as a main dish for lunch or supper with crisp bacon.

Yield: Six servings.

• • •

MAKE POTATO AND Meat Ball Oven Stew with 12 oz. can corned beef, one lb. ground beef, one - fourth cup fine dry bread crumbs, two tablespoons cold water, one - fourth cup finely chopped onion, one - half teaspoon salt, one - fourth teaspoon ground black pepper, one - fourth teaspoon garlic powder, four medium potatoes, two cups onion rings, one cup boiling water, one teaspoon salt, one - fourth teaspoon ground black pepper, three tablespoons flour, and two tablespoons cold water.

Shred corned beef with a fork and mix with ground beef, bread crumbs, two tablespoons water, onion, the one - half teaspoon salt, one-fourth teaspoon black pepper and garlic powder. Shape into two - inch balls and brown on all sides in shortening or beef suet.

Place in a two - quart casserole. Peel and cut potatoes in eights and add along with onion rings, the one cup water and remaining seasonings. Blend flour with cold water and mix with the meat and potato mixture.

Cover and bake in a preheated moderate oven (350 degrees F.) one and one-half hours.

Yield: Six to eight servings.

• • •

STUFFED BAKED Potatoes are made with six medium - large baking potatoes, two tablespoons butter or margarine, one and one-half teaspoon salt, one-fourth teaspoon ground black pepper, one cup diced cooked ham, lamb, beef, tongue, fish, shrimp or crab meat, two tablespoons butter or margarine, and six tablespoons grated sharp Cheddar cheese.

Wash potatoes. Prick skin at each end with a fork. Place in a shallow baking pan. Bake in a preheated hot oven (400 degrees F) one hour 15 minutes or until potatoes are tender. Cut a slice from the top of each. Scoop out insides and mash until fluffy.

Add butter or margarine, salt, black pepper and ham, lamb, beef, tongue, fish, shrimp or crab meat. Spoon into potato shells.

Sprinkle with cheese. Bake in a hot (400 degrees F.) oven until cheese has melted and is flecked with brown.

Yield: Six servings.

Feature Avocado Craters on special menu during Lent

Crab meat diced avocado and green pepper in a creamy sauce served hot in toasted bread cups make "Avocado Craters" an unusual treat that you're likely to serve often, especially during Lent.

Serve one to a guest at luncheon, or double the recipe and serve two to each person for the main dish at dinner.

• • •

THE CRAB meat and avocado complement one another ideally, just as avocado with its subtle flavor blends so easily with numerous other foods you serve regularly. Winter avocados from California are plentiful in our markets now.

Buy the firm fruit and it'll become eating - ripe at room temperature. How to tell when it's ready to eat? Cup an avocado in your hands; if it yields to gentle pressure, it's ready to be served.

• • •

FOR AVOCADO Craters use one avocado, lemon juice, six slices bread, four to six tablespoons butter or margarine, one - fourth cup finely - diced green pepper, one tablespoon flour, one teaspoon salt, dash of pepper, three - fourths cup milk, one can (7½ oz.) crab meat, and minced parsley (optional).

Cut avocado lengthwise into halves; remove seed and skin. Dice fruit and sprinkle with lemon juice. Remove crusts from bread; butter bread on both sides and press lightly into - muffin cups. Bake in 375 - degree (moderately hot) oven about 10 minutes or until lightly browned.

In a saucepan, cook green pepper slowly in two tablespoons butter until tender. Blend in flour, salt, pepper and milk. Cook and stir until thickened. Add crab meat and avocado. Fill toast cups with hot mixture and sprinkle with parsley.

Makes six servings.

WEEK'S BEST BUY

Fish can be economic base for family meal

By VIRGINIA L. McLUCKIE

Fish can be an economical and different dish for family meals.

In spring fish supplies start to build up and shoppers usually profit from attractive prices says, Virginia McLuckie, Food Economist, Baltimore Office, University of Maryland, Department of Markets.

The market offers good buys in some species of whole fish, particularly rock or striped bass and shad. The Chesapeake Bay area is the center of abundance for the commercial catch of Rockfish. This is also a fish well known to anglers.

The usual market sizes for striped bass runs from two to fifteen pounds and usually sold as a whole fish.

• • •

PAN SIZE ROCK are the best buy. The supply of rock at present is very heavy. It seems the recent storm has pushed rock in closer to shore and the catch is heavy. Rock is a lean fish.

Shad is a spring time treat to many families. The shad on the market is from the Carolinas and Georgia, however catch is being made in Virginia Waters. In the near future shad from the Chesapeake can be expected. Shad belongs to the herring family as evidenced by the multitude of fine bones. Long slow baking does help soften the bones but will not completely dissolve all of them. Shad is considered a fat fish.

When purchasing any whole fish look for bright eyes that are clear, full and bulging. The flesh should be firm and elastic with tightly adhering scales. The odor should be fresh.

SCALLOPS ARE attractively priced. Because scallops are marketed in the form of dressed meat, it is hard to recall that they are actually a shell fish, a mollusk possessing two shells, similar to oysters and clams.

Scallops swim freely on the ocean or bay floor actively snapping its shell together. This develops an over sized muscle called the adductor muscle. This is the only portion of the scallop eaten by Americans. Europeans eat the entire scallop. There are two varieties of scallops the large sea scallop and a small bay scallop.

Most of the scallops on the retail markets today are frozen. Scallops should be creamy white, firm and have a sweetish odor and a sweet flavor. Scallops may be served in appetizers, soups, salads, broiled, fried or in combination dishes.

CRAB MEAT PRICES are moderate for this time of the year. Oyster supplies are fairly light and prices very firm. Remember when you buy a pound of scallops, crab meat or oysters, you get a pound of edible meat with no waste.

At the produce counter Florida produce offers the best buys. Sweet corn, green peppers and tomatoes are recommended. Cooling of produce like corn, right in the fields then refrigerated shipping and handling in the retail store means top quality corn. Use the same guides for quality that you do in peak local season.

Cooking greens are also on the list of best buys. Kale from Virginia and collards from North Carolina.

STUFFED STRIPED BASS, with rice olive - stuffing, requires ¼ cup butter, ¾ cup chopped onion, 1 cup diced celery, 1 1/3 cup cooked rice, salt and pepper, ¼ teaspoon dried sage, ⅓ teas. sage, ¼ teas. thyme, ½ cup chopped stuffed olives, Rockfish.

Melt butter, add onion and celery. Saute until tender. Add rice and rest of ingredients; toss. Use to stuff 3-4lb. fish. Stuff fish. Place on bed of celery leaves. (this prevents fish from sticking to pan and adds flavor) Bake 400 degrees F. 25-35 min. until fork tender.
