House of Prayer election on Sat.

By MARY STRATFORD

Masonic Temple has been selected as the site of the House of Prayer election for bishop which is scheduled to begin at 10 a.m., Saturday at 1000 U. St., NW.

The election will be presided over by William Bryant, attorney, who was appointed church receiver by the U.S. District Court after the court ruled that the election of Elder Walter McCollough as bishop in 1960 was illegal.

Nominations will be made and seconded from the floor. Mr. Bryant said no limitations will be placed on the number of nominees. However, no more than three or four nominations are expected to be made.

• • •

EACH CANDIDATE will be permitted 45 minutes to address the general assembly before voting by secret ballots begins.

In what has been seen as an attempt to block the election of Elder McCollough as bishop, Paul Kelley, former real estate broker, filed a petition in U.S. District Court this week which was called "outrageous" Thursday by District Court Judge George Hart.

Mr Kelley said the allegations in the affidavit were the result of an investigation he made into House of Prayer affairs while in the employ of the group who originally sued and won a challenge of the legality of McCollough's election.

• • •

AT THURSDAY'S court hearing, James Hogan, attorney, who is one of the attorneys representing the group, denied that they had anything to do with the filing of Mr. Kelley's affidavit.

The document, which purportedly was filed by Mr. Kelley to show services rendered preliminary to a demand for payment was struck from the court's files by Judge Hart.

Judge Hart stated, that in his opinion, the petition was filed to give it the stature of a court paper and to make it privileged for publication if the charges were libelous.

FRANK REEVES, attorney for the General Council of Elders was granted a request permitting Elder McCollough to travel and campaign in New York and Philadelphia prior to the election.

Judge Hart, who had previously restricted Elder McCollough's activities to the District, said he was removing the limitations because of "vicious" nature of some of the attacks against Elder McCollough.

However, he warned that the Elder could not appear in various churches in any fashion which might give the impression that he is bishop of the church.

• • •

OTHER CANDIDATES who are expected to oppose McCollough for election are Elder Henry Price, said to be the chief rival; Elder William Revis, Los Angeles, Calif.; and Elder Robert Stephen.

Others whose names have been mentioned are Elders W M. Morrison of Raleigh, N.C. and P. W. Lawson of Savannah, Ga.

Municipal workers up CICHA funds

The Municipal Employees Group of the 1962 Commerce and Industry Combined Health Appeal has reported results of slightly over $41,000.00.

This represented a 71 per cent increase over the $23,940.00 raised in 1961 for the national health agencies in a combined effort.

One major point of difference here is that last year the funds were cleared individually to the eleven agencies involved. This year the drive among city employees was timed, patterned and conducted in coordination with the regular CICHA campaign for ten national health agencies.

Co-Chairman Hunt, who has 41 years of service with the City, credited three factors for the 71 per cent gain. The first of these was a tremendous job by Dr. Lloyd and a most effective hard - working committee." Next was the payroll deduction plan just authorized this year and finally a better knowledge and fuller acceptance of the Combined Health Appeal among city employees. He also said the campaign by Mayor Grady, Comptroller Graham and Council President Goodman "greatly aided our efforts."

HIS HONOR LISTENS — In the seat is Baltimore's Mayor J. Harold Grady who was serenaded on Tuesday by members of the Merristown Junior College Choir of Morristown, Tenn. The young people were in town for a week of engagements in Baltimore and Washington. They were welcomed to the city by the mayor and then sang three songs, here in the City Council chambers. The choir is directed by David Dobson, son of the Rev. and Mrs. Spencer Dobson of St. Mark's Institutional Baptist Church. The church served as host for the group during its stay. The choir sings in Washington tonight (Friday) at Hughes Memorial Methodist Church, 53rd and Ames St., 8 p.m. Other concerts on Sunday will be at Asbury Methodist Church at 11 a.m. and John Stewart Methodist Church at 5 p.m.

She told the AFRO: "This is a fine class of seniors who do good work in English. They wanted to do the play.

ANNAPOLIS DOINGS

By ELOISE RICHARDSON

"Racial discrimination will surely come to an end when colored people are able to do two things:

"First, colored people must stop thinking of themselves as members of a race, and start thinking of themselves as human beings with dignity and self - respect, and second, they will have to stop thinking of themselves as prejudiced whites think of them—as not quite human and only good for certain kinds of jobs," stated the Rev. Carlyle Meacham, Unitarian minister.

The Rev. Meacham, minister of the Unitarian Church of Anne Arundel County, was speaking to a large group of members and friends of the Maryland Congress of Parent - Teacher Associations at its 34th annual dinner meeting held at the Havre de Grace Consolidated School on Friday night. He said if the road ever opens up for our children, it will be because parents and teachers responsible adults, have resolved within their own lives that our children shall become real persons.

The speaker was introduced by William H. Richardson, representative of the Maryland Council on Education.
