Write James Meredith

(AN EDITORIAL)

All of us—white and black—in America have marvelled at the amazing courage of the slim, shy, 29-year-old Air Force veteran with the "nervous stomach and a mission."

James Meredith has undergone more punishment and mental turmoil in two weeks than most people discover in a lifetime.

To say he has guts is like saying there will be daylight tomorrow morning.

Why not let James Meredith know how you feel?

He's indeed a lonely young man down there on that campus by himself.

Sit down tonight and write him just a few words of encouragement. He'll appreciate it.

Write to:

Mr. James Meredith
University of Mississippi
Oxford, Miss.

If it were your husband, father, brother, or son, you'd appreciate this small act of kindness, wouldn't you? Don't forget—write to this wonderfully brave man tonight.

Air Force open now

Lawyers and graduating law school students can once again apply for commissions with the U.S. Air Force Judge Advocate General's Department, according to Sgt. Franz C. Mitchell, USAF recruiter. The program has been closed since November, 1961.

Air Force recruiting offices located in most communities throughout the nation will accept applications.

Selected individuals will be commissioned after July 1, 1963. Appointment will normally be in grade of first lieutenant and will call for entry on active duty for three years.

Law students may apply 90 days prior to graduation date.

Final rites set for Rev. Mrs. Hattie White

Funeral services for the Rev. Mrs. Hattie White, former pastor of Central Union Baptist Church, 714 N. Fremont Ave., will be held at the church, 1 p.m. Saturday.

The Rev. O. E. Hardin, pastor, First Baptist, Essex, will officiate.

The Rev. Mrs. White died Tuesday at home. She had been ill for nine months.

Burial will be in Mt. Calvary Cemetery.

The family will receive friends 7:30 to 9:30 p.m. Friday at a funeral home in the 1000 Brantley Ave.

Survivors include four sons, James, Waiters, Roscoe, and Willard; one daughter, Mrs. Beatrice Robinson.

Also five daughters - in-law and ten grandchildren, and eight great - grandchildren.

The Rev. Mrs. White was a native of South Carolina and lived in Baltimore most of her life. She was the widow of the Rev. William White, founder of Central Union Baptist Church.

The Rev. Mrs. White pastored the church for more than 30 years, relatives said.

MSgt. USA E. Richert

He retired after 30 years of active service with the 10th Calvary, USA, making his home for 22 years in Halls Hill, Va. During World War II he was air raid warden for Halls Hill and a member of the civil defense.

James Harvey Smith, 91, oldest D.H. Ave. resident

One of the oldest residents of Druid Hill Ave., James Harvey Smith, 91, died Tuesday evening of a kidney ailment. He had been living at the same address, 1929 Druid Hill Ave., for 56 years.

City grad drowns on maneuvers

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Gordon, 140 Reedbird Ave., Cherry Hill, were notified last week by Army officials that their son, Charles Jr., 19, drowned during maneuvers in South Carolina in July.

His mother, Mrs. Bernice Gordon, said they were notified of her son being missing, but Army officials didn't confirm his death until last Thursday. His body has not been recovered.

Young Gordon, graduate of City College in 1959, had been in the service for two years and was stationed at Ft. Benning, Ga., before his outfit, the 69th Armored Battalion, went on maneuvers in the area of Society Hill, S.C., Mrs. Gordon said.

• • •

SHE QUOTED Army officials as saying he drowned when a boat which he and five other soldiers were rowing during maneuvers capsized.

Two swam to safety, two clung to the boat and two drowned, the housewife told the AFRO.

In addition to his parents the young service man is survived by a brother and sister, Larry, 11, and Shelley, 9.

Memorial services will be held at the Cherry Hill Methodist Church 8 p.m. Wednesday.

Mrs. Gordon said her son was active in the church before entering the service and worked with the chaplain while in the army.

Citizens hit plan to abolish Morgan State College board

Against Curlett Report

Dear AFRO:

The Community Participation Committee herein cites its opposition to certain features of the Report of the Committee for the expansion of Public Higher Education in Maryland, John D. Curlett, chairman.

We oppose the recommendation that the Board of Trustees of Morgan State College be abolished and supplanted by a single Board of Trustees governing some several institutions of higher learning in the state.

We believe that such a board, divorced from the school by a lack of community and historic ties, cannot fully and sympathetically serve the school.

We believe that a "supra - board," because of the inevitable cumbersome procedures associated with such boards, can not act with the swiftness and effectiveness so often required for the resolving of problems confronted by an institution of higher education.

• • •

WE FURTHER believe that a "supra - board" cannot effectively serve a liberal arts college and a teacher's college simultaneously.

The objectives and needs of these two types of institutions vary significantly.

This historic separation between the liberal arts college and the teachers college is, we emphasize, a bulwark of our system of education and should not be destroyed.

A single board of trustees, it is feared, would do violence to this necessary separation.

• • •

ONLY INSOFAR as timing is concerned does this committee differ with the dissent of Dr. Jenkins vis-a-vis the future of Coppin State Teachers College and Bowie State Teachers College.

Dr. Jenkins seeks an immediate clarification on the future of these schools.

Both institutions present knotty problems which, it appears, do indeed require further careful deliberation.

It is the concensus of this committee that neither of the schools should be abandoned.

When consideration is given the burgeoning student population of the state and the need for qualified public school instructors, to abandon either of these two institutions would indeed be a reckless, capricious move.

• • •

MORGAN STATE COLLEGE has achieved recognition in the field of education because of, among many other things, the phenomenal raising of academic standards achieved under Dr. Jenkins and a dedicated, able Board of Trustees.

We insist that the college is best served not by a drastic reorganization such as is proposed in the Commission Report but rather by meeting the budget and capital outlay requests required for its growth and expansion.

The Community Participation Committee strongly urges that the members of the Commission reconsider the position taken against the autonomy of Morgan State College:

The college must retain its individual board of control.

This Committee urges that the Legislative Council of the General Assembly work with all possible vigor toward guaranteeing the present autonomy of Morgan State College.

Eastern Ave., up Washington St., then out North Ave. to Howard St. and down to the Armory — a solid mass of citizens turned out to form a human corridor and to enthusiastically cheer the President.

They were packed along this route anywhere from two and three deep to solid crowds jamming the sidewalks.

Outside the Armory itself another crowd estimated at 12,000 or more greeted the President.

They were to hear his address shortly afterwards over loudspeakers.

The President was officially greeted as he landed by Gov. J. Millard Tawes, Mayor J. Harold Grady, Thomas B. Finan, attorney general and Louis L. Goldstein, comptroller.

• • •

MRS. VERDA F. WELCOME was among the platform guests at the Fifth Regiment Armory rally.

The President appeared in excellent health and high spirits. In walking to and from his car, he did so slowly to speak and shake hands with as many persons as possible.

In urging the election of the Democratic ticket, he said:

"I believe it vitally important for the interests of this state, for somebody to speak for it in Congress, that you elect Democrats.

"On every key vote — on the Trade Expansion Bill, the Peace Corps, the Disarmament Agency, on helping under-developed countries and building public works in areas of heavy unemployment — not a single voice from Maryland was raised in the Senate to vote with us.

"Your two Republican Senators voted 'No' to scholarships for students, 'No' to better housing and urban renewal, 'No' to extending the minimum wage, 'No' to federal help for building better schools and paying higher teacher salaries.

"The Republican party opposed these measures, and they followed the party line.

"They voted 'No' to giving those who live in urban areas a voice in Cabinet decisions.

"And they even voted 'No' to giving our older citizens, who have less income and more illness than any other elem an opportunity to finance their hospitalization insurance through the Social Security system."

• • •

THE PRESIDENT then went on to point out that the 87th Congress had made many, many beneficial gains, despite Republican opposition.

He said the country by 1970 will be ahead in the space race.

"It took the 87th Congress," the President said, "to provide assistance to the children of unemployed workers. Before, aid had been extended only to fatherless children, or where the parent was disabled.

"For the first time since 1935, minimum wage has been extended to cover millions of workers.

"We couldn't extend this to cover laundry workers, who in many major cities are paid 75 cents an hour, because the Republicans blocked it.

"We want a strong country in these times, and it calls for men who believe in progress.

"That is the function and promise of the Democratic party."

• • •

THE PRESIDENT appealed for the election of the state-wide Democratic ticket, calling each of the candidates by name - Gov. Tawes, Mr. Finan, Mr. Goldstein, Daniel B. Brewster for U. S. Senate, Carlton R. Sickles for congressman - at - large and then referred to the congressmen in the districts.

Mayor Grady welcomed the President to the city officially, following his address.

The President left immediately afterwards for Patterson Park, and his helicopter took off at 9:53 p.m.

A crowd of enthusiastic well-wishers was still out there when he departed.

TULIPS CLUB

Mrs. Mildred Brown, 2801 Riggs Ave., was hostess to the Tulips Club. The club is making plans for the holidays and will meet next at the home of Mrs. Elizabeth Knight on Wildwood Parkway. Mrs. Brown is president.

Okey of birth control information under fire

A drive to force the State Board of Public Welfare to reverse its approval of giving parents birth control information, appears to be gathering strength.

In a letter to the board members of the Planned Parenthood Association of Baltimore, Inc., Randall C. Coleman, president of the Association, urged "that there be a show of support for the Board action."

The board will meet next week and the birth control decision is expected to be reviewed.

In its original action, the board voted that case workers may refer married couples to Planned Parenthood clinics or to physicians for birth control advice.

The board also agreed that in the cases of widowed, divorced, separated, or unmarried mothers, child-spacing would be referred only to the family physician.

It is the last agreement, which most opposition objects to.

• • •

AS ONE complainant states: "On the one hand we seem to be trying to educate these people against the practice of extra - marital relationships while on the other hand, instructing them in the methods by which it might be more easily practiced."

The agreement is also declared an "unwarranted invasion of the privacies" of people, especially those on welfare.

The most vocal opposition stems from Catholic leadership which is represented most prominently by the Rt. Rev. David I. Dorsch, director of Catholic Charities for the Archdiocese of Baltimore.

He is in opposition to the dissemination by the Welfare Department of any birth control information.

He stated that the department should remain in a "neutral position" on the matter.

Mr. Coleman fears that if the questioned sentence is revised, the entire matter of disseminating birth control information could be opened with a possible reversal of the board's decision.

UN Youth Day

"The United Nations: Peace-Keeper, Nation-Builder" will be the subject of a UN Youth Day long conference at Levering Hall, Johns Hopkins University on Saturday.

Approximately 150 junior and senior high school students are expected to participate in the meeting which will begin at 10 a.m. with a panel of five speakers.
